Thomasburg — Mrs. Edward Carter entertained the ladies of Christ Church Woman's Auxiliary on Friday evening at her home for the regular monthly meeting, with a good attendance. The president, Miss Emma Porter was in charge and a very enjoyable program was given with the different members contributing something of interest regarding the Elkorn Indian Residential School in Manitoba where the bales from the local Auxiliary are sent. Mrs. Clarence Mouck gave a short story of its origin, the work done there, and the benefit derived by the pupils who pass through the school, thus showing that the efforts performed by even small branches are reaping a reward. Mrs. Beazer and Miss Porter brought items of interest from the annual Deanery meeting recently held at Madoc before the meeting.

At the conclusion of the meeting a short time was spent in contests after which the hostess served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Carter for her kind hospitality, which the members look forward to annually.

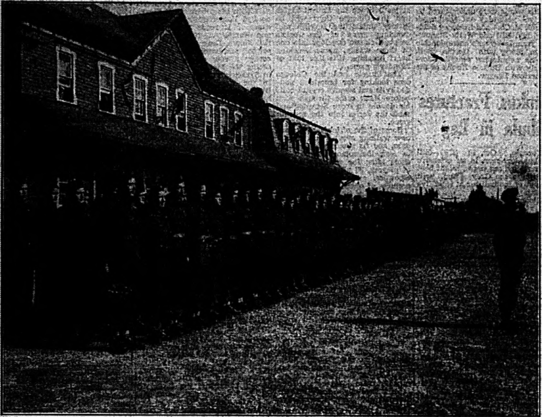
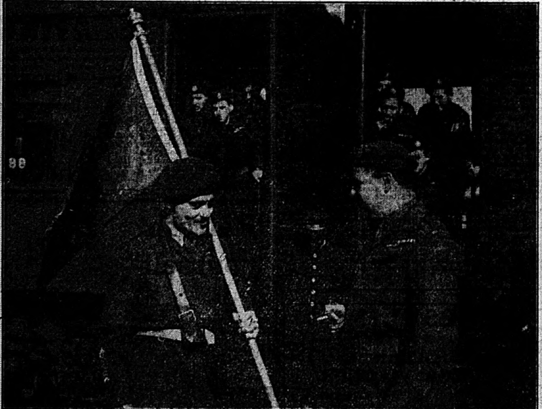
Just after the long-looked for reunion had occurred at the Canadian National Railways Station last Thursday, Major Allen Ross, D.S.O., and his charming wife posed for this picture. Major Ross was the acting commanding officer of the First Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment which was given a tremendous ovation by thousands of city and district residents on its arrival here and last parade last week.—(Canadian Army Photo.)



The last parade of a gallant fighting regiment. Pictured above drawn up in battalion line, is the First Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment just before it moved off through city streets on its last parade to receive the homage and admiration of thousands of city and district residents. Soldiers to the last, and despite the fact they had just arrived from a tiring trip on troopship and train, the men of the Hasty Pees look as trim and immaculate as if they had just stepped out of their barrack rooms. The above picture was taken at the Canadian National Railways Station here after the men had detrained for the first glimpse of home.—(Canadian Army Photo.)



Proudest man in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment upon its arrival here as a unit last Thursday was Company Sergeant Major C. P. Ponsford pictured above with the famous battle flag of his regiment over his shoulder. He is seen chatting with Major Allen Ross, D.S.O., prior to leading the unit downtown on its last parade. C.S.M. Ponsford was one of the most popular N.C.O.'s in the regiment and was noted for his dislike for socks. He never wore the pedal coverings during his entire army career and went through the hell of Sicily and Italy with his bare feet encased in boots only.—(Canadian Army Photo.)

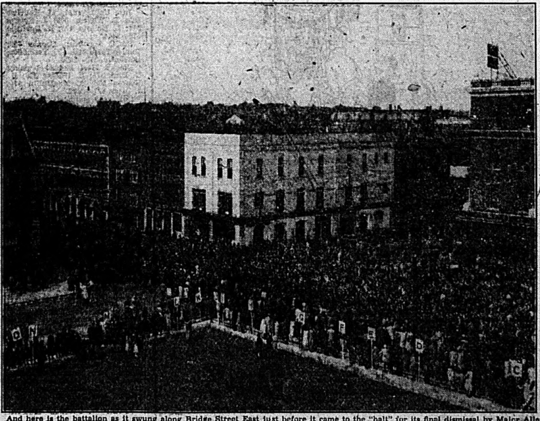
The famous traditional ceremony of handing over the regimental colors is shown above as the Second Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment hands over the famous colors of the regiment to the First Battalion. In the foreground Major William Davern, acting commanding officer of the "Second" is seen standing at the salute with Major Allen Ross, D.S.O., of the gallant "First." The color bearer of the Second Battalion is seen in the centre handing over the flag to the color bearer of the First Battalion. Troops stand rigidly at "attention" in the background during this last ceremonial activity of the regiment.—(Canadian Army Photo.)



And here is the battalion as it swung along Bridge Street East just before it came to the "halt" for its final dismissal by Major Allen Ross, D.S.O. Part of the dense crowd of spectators who were in the city from all parts of Ontario to welcome home a gallant band of heroes is seen jamming the battalion as it marched along. The above picture was taken from the roof of the Armouries and gives some idea of the general reception accorded the "Hasty Pees" on its final appearance as a unit.—(Canadian Army Photo.)

Newhouser and Borowy Will Be Hurlers in Seventh Game Of Richest World Series to Date

Betting Odds Favor Tigers to Win but Borowy Can Make History by Winning

By SID FEDER

Chicago, Oct. 10 — (AP)—The richest of all World Series will conclude today for better or for worse when Chicago Cubs meet Detroit Tigers in the payoff game for a $70,400 jackpot at 1:30 p.m. E.S.T.

Thanks to the Hanks both clubs are still around to tangle for that jackpot — the difference between the winners' $211,200 and the losers' $140,800 made up from the fanciest players' pool of all time, a gaudy $502,857 including the radio "cut." Of that total, the two clubs will get 70 per cent, the remainder going to major league clubs which finished in the first division.

The Hanks in question are outfielder Greenberg, the Detroit crusher, and pitcher Borowy of the Cubs. And while the first six scrambles of this silliest of series have brought about some hilarious goings on, neither of the Hanks can be blamed for them.

If Greenberg hadn't been on hand with his big bat, the Tigers might have bowed out of this one in four straight. If Borowy hadn't been on deck to serve them up for the Cubs three times in the first half-dozen scuffles, the Chicago champs might be back on the farm right now.

Only Eight Win Three

And today, Borowy, the castoff from New York Yankees, again warms up his overworked right wing and takes a crack at the toughest iron-man trick ever tried in a series — pitching in three consecutive games. Only eight elbowers ever have won as many as three games in one of these post-season classics.

Christy Mathewson, Babe Adams, Jack Coombs and Stanley Coveleskie each won three games without a setback. If Borowy wins today, he will equal the series performance of three wins and one defeat held by Joe Wood, Urban (Red) Faber and Bill Deneen. Charles Phillippe of the 1903 Pittsburgh Pirates hung up three victories against two losses in an eight-game set.

Greenberg Stands in Way

Going to the post, the price is 3-2 against Borowy winning. It's not because his opposite is Hal Newhouser, the fancy Detroit lefty who lost the opener to heaving Hank and then beat him in the 5th game, but simply because the bookmakers don't believe Borowy can pitch his way past Greenberg, the crusher.

Lefty Hal comes back with two days rest and in case he staggers, there's southpaw Stub Overmire, fresh and fit, ready to jump in and save Detroit's first World championship in a decade. And with the "take" set to rocket well over the $1,500,000 mark for the first time, the chances are today's get-together will also see a new all-time high in the number of customers sitting in on the party.

Association to Resume Competition for The Junior Championship

Vancouver, Oct. 10 —(CP)—Delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Lacrosse Association here yesterday decided to grant the Pacific Coast Lacrosse Association of Los Angeles the same membership in the Canadian body as that granted provincial bodies.

It was decided to allow the California League to use Canadian players providing the Southern League does not interfere with the Canadian playing season.

The C. L. A. granted the P. C. L. A. affiliation with the Dominion body following a request by Frank Sweeney, of Los Angeles, president, who said his association plans to import between 50 and 60 players from eastern and western Canada to play in a Winter League.

The meeting decided also that competition for the Junior Canadian championship and the Minto Cup, discontinued in 1940 because of the war, will be resumed in 1947 when the western champions will travel east.

The C. L. A. voted to spend $1,000 next year in the promotion of lacrosse in the three prairie provinces. British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec will receive equal percentages from the profits of the Mann Cup finals, now being played here, for minor lacrosse promotion.

World Series Notes

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Oct. 10 — (AP)—The wise boys are picking Detroit Tigers to stagger out today the winner of the comedy of errors that is the 1945 World Series, but baseball history favors Chicago Cubs.

In the 42-year history of the classic, the decision went to the National Leaguers six times out of the eight times the series went seven games.

Not since 1924, when Washington Senators took four from New York Giants, has lucky seven rolled up for the American League. Only other junior circuit triumph in seven games was Cleveland's 1920 victory over Brooklyn Dodgers.

St. Louis Cardinals have excelled in making the American League bite the dust in a seven-game session, winning three times — in 1926, 1931 and 1934. Pittsburgh Pirates copped two, in 1909 and 1925, and Cincinnati Reds in 1940.

What should make the Cubs strut with confidence and smirk at the betting fellows, who rate Detroit a 2-3 favorite, is that the Tigers have been on the short end of the three seven-game series, succumbing to the Reds in 1940, the Cardinals in 1934 and the Pirates in 1909.

Stan Hack, whose tricky 12th inning belt Monday squared the series, says the series will end his baseball career. The 35-year-old Cub third sacker said he returned to the club this year only as a favor to manager Charlie Grimm. "If Grimm hadn't returned, I wouldn't have either," candidly asserted the cigar-smoking infielder who has been a Cub for 14 years.

The biggest Tiger IF in the riotous sixth game rested on shortstop Joe Hoover. If he hadn't tried to steal second in the 12th, Cub shortstop Len Merullo wouldn't have been spiked. If Merullo had not been spiked, pinch-hitter Frank Secory wouldn't have appeared in the Cub 12th. And if Secory hadn't appeared, his single wouldn't have put the winning run on first.

Although the Tigers are getting the most ribbing in the press box on their defensive work, the Cubs have the most errors, 6-4. What's more the Bengals have no chance of equalling their amazing record of 19 errors in the 1908 series against those same Cubs, unless the Tiger outfielders take rocking chairs out in the finale.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Oct. 10 — (CP) — Recent legislation of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association whereby all hockey players in the armed forces become free agents on discharge may prove a troublemaker around play-off time, in view of Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith who otherwise approves the move.

Under the ruling, discharged players become eligible to play anywhere in Canada without a transfer from their last C.A.H.A. club. All very well, says Smith, but "we wonder if the C.A.H.A. officials stopped to consider.... what quite conceivably can happen."

"Just for the sake of example it might be that Saskatoon and Winnipeg are playing off for the Western Canada junior championship. During the series, it so happens three oustanding junior hockey stars are given their discharge.

"Under the C.A.H.A. ruling there is nothing to stop the Winnipeg or Saskatoon teams from signing those three players and using them in the series."

The only remedy, concludes the Free Press writer, is for the C. A. H. A. to set a deadline when all free agent discharged players can join amateur clubs—and make sure the deadline is well before Provincial playdowns start.

It was just a headline on a routine report of a Peterborough Ont., city league soccer game, but it was certainly eye-filling:

"King George defeats Queen Mary in soccer."

Around the circuit: Montreal reports say Syl Apps may be stationed in Ottawa shortly, with possibility further army duties may prevent him from returning immediately to his centre ice post with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League ....Gee (Halifax Herald) Ahern reports Halifax hockey men are receiving discouraging replies on queries to Central Canada about potential ice material. A typical answer to Halifax feelers is that any good unsigned players are staying that way, waiting for the best offer from the United States or overseas.... Prosperity note: The lineups at the $5 mutuel wickets at Dufferin Park in Toronto are longer now than the $2 queues... Lieut. N. J. (Nick) Paithouski, formerly with Queen's University and Sarnia 26th Battery football teams, has been mentioned in despatches.

TORONTO LEAFS READY TO HOLD 'VICTORY DINNER'

Will Celebrate Winning of Stanley Cup and Then Hike Off to Training Quarters

Toronto, Oct. 10 — (CP) — Six months after Walter (Babe) Pratt fired the five-foot shot which climaxed an uphill drive to the Stanley Cup for Toronto Maple Leafs, directors of the 1944-45 championship team prepared for a deferred "victory dinner" tonight to which 140 guests have been invited.

The celebration was postponed last spring at direction of manager Maj. Conny Smythe, who said unnecessary rejoicing did not fit the wartime mood.

The array of guests is to include Brig. - Gen. J. L. Kilpatrick, president of New York's Madison Square Gardens; Bill Tobin, Chicago Black Hawks; Senator Donat Raymond, Montreal Canadiens; Frank Ryan, Boston Bruins, Jack Adams, Detroit Red Wings; Premier Drew of Ontario and National League president Mervyn (Red) Dutton.

Former Leaf players, sports writers and visitors will meet in team matches at Royal York Golf Club as a preliminary to the dinner which in turn serves as a prelude to the opening of Toronto's training camp campaign at Owen Sound starting Thursday.

Maj. Smythe, who returned from overseas service a year ago and will be chief speaker at the dinner, has announced he anticipates one of the largest rosters of candidates ever to attend a Toronto camp.

His words were underscored by arrival yesterday of goalkeeper Frank McCool and Sweeney Schriner, Mel Hill and Wally Stanowski from last year's championship team, along with Gordie Bell, rookie netminding sensation formerly with Buffalo Bisons of the American League.

Stukus Fractures Fibula in Leg

Toronto, Oct. 10 (CP)—Bill Stukus, key man in an offensive Toronto Indians hoped might beat a path to the Grey Cup, will be out of football for at least five weeks.

Gloom descended on the dressing room of the Ontario Rugby Football union's Co-operative last night when it was learned the 29-year-old quarterback has a fractured fibula in his right leg.

X-rays disclosed the injury, suffered last week in the second quarter of a game against Ottawa Trojans.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER

A HECTIC SERIES

By the time this edition is off the presses the current world series between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs will be history unless the seventh and deciding game of the world's baseball classic develops into one of those wacky, nerve-wrecking heart breaking tilts like that of Monday's game.

That tussle had the Chicago fans looking for bromides, padded cells and swami's crystal balls before Hack came through with his double to score Schuster, and send the series into the seventh game.

Some of the official scorers are now walking around in a mental daze, and tis rumored a few had to seek the solace of strait jackets after the fantastic parade of players, 38 all told, plus nine elbowers, and the gentlemanly gestures of outfielders in politely standing aside to let the ball drop between them to go for hits, not to mention a nasty pebble that stuck its snout up in the outfield a few feet ahead of Hank Greenberg to see what was going on, and hoisted the ball over Hankus Pankus shoulder to go for what was eventually scored a double to end the wild nightmare of pill-chasing.

Sidelights of The Series

The current series has been colorful off the diamond as well as on it, and the working press has had little trouble in cuff-writing many interesting anecdotes.

It appears the Cubs were assigned rooms on excursion steamers in the Detroit River during the early games of the series due to the lack of accommodation in uptown hotels. They dubbed themselves the "Yacht Club Boys" and irrepressible Peanuts Lowery, cracked, "I walked into the state room, and found a tiny berth tucked away in a tiny corner of a tiny cabin. All my life I wanted to get into a world series but I never thought that once I got there they'd try to pigeonhole me."

Stubby Overmire is such a baby-faced apple-cheeked mite that the incorrigible Red Smith, Cub coach, chuckled at the sight of him and Rudy York standing arm-in-arm. "Who's that with you, Rudy," he called over, "Your little son?"

They called Steve O'Neill's pitching triumvirate, Trout, Newhouser and Trucks, the Detroit "secret weapon" or "T.N.T." and this far it has detonated with a telling three-game effect. At the time of going to press today it was reported that the "N" part of the pitching concoction was due for mound duty, and if the slim right hander comes through with another of those 1945 seasonal performances then its crepe for the Cubs and diamonds for Detroit. The Tigers had the pitching edge on the Cubs for the seventh game, but why go on—the tussle is likely over by this time.

In the fifth game of this strangest of strange world series, cuffs a N'Yawk scribe, was the uncommon sight of an outfielder losing a ball in the underbrush. Cullenbine had belted one to the centrefield fence and it disappeared in the lovely ivy that Phil Wrigley has festooned the brick wall of his very pretty ball orchard. Andy Pafko groped so frantically for it that no one would have been surprised if he had emerged with a rabbit in his hand.

Splinters:

Niftiest catchline of the current world series pictures is that above a shot of Virgil "Fire" Trucks and Hank Greenberg taken while in a victorious embrace after Trucks had stopped the Tigers with his pitching and Hankus had homered for the Bengal cause... It reads "Poetic-Virgil and Homer"... Neat, wot? ... Bill Moore, Deacon's most ardent softball and baseball fan told this corner a few weeks ago after seeing the Montreal Royals play in Syracuse that all was not well in the Royals camp... Seems Bill knows some of the boys and he got the "Open Sesame" to the dressing room... Now it is reported that the Montreal manager Bruna Betzel who piloted the club to the International League pennant will not be with the Montreal Club next season on account of salary difference... According to Bill, it is deeper than that, but he's not talking... Just ten years ago Tommy Bridges, Tiger hurler, defeated the Cubs in a world series game with a six-hitter... Only survivors of the Bengals of that season are Bridges and Hankus-Pankus Greenberg... Cub remnants still playing are Phil Cavaretta, Stan Hack and Lon Warneke, then one of the topnotchers of the National League... Pete Gray, one-armed St. Louis Browns outfielder walked in a barber shop the other day... The tonsorial artists probably suffering from a hangover nicked Pete's chin about four times... "Let's see" he remarked near the close of the four-ply operation, "Haven't I shaved you before sometime?"... Pete looked up at the barber shop surgeon, "No," he said, "I lost my arm in a railway accident."... Hec Kilrea, noted Ottawa hockey player, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre for heroic action with the U. S. 7th Army...

Now that the thrills, frills and furbelows of championship play are over, for this season at least, the baseballers of the City and District Loop can go back to the little question of settling just who will be the champions... As matters stand now, Bata is in, for the titular series and Juniors and SWACOS have at least one game to play... These squads now stand at one win for Juniors and one tie... If Juniors win, naturally they're in and then they will take on the Shoemakers in a best three-of-five series for the city title... And just in case some fans are wondering what M'Sier Garton will do to the Juniors, they needn't worry, for the clever southpaw is ineligible to play in the city series, so league officials tell us... He is still in the service and some rule or regulation bars him... Of course, if he is discharged before play-off time, that might make some difference, but it is doubtful if the Shoemakers would use him then, if only for sportsmanship sake... Mayfair Lanes, Oshawan conquerors of Point Anne, were eliminated by the Stratford Kroehlers... Stratford now meets Sault Ste. Marie in the titular series... Oshawa fans registered disgust at what they termed "mis-matching" in the recent boxing bouts in their city when L'il Arthur King knocked Bud Runion, Campbellford kicking in the first round and Francetti disposed of George Polmanter in an equally short time. "A gross example of mis-matching" quoth the Oshawa sports writer who covered the semi farce... Incidentally while on the boxing topic, George De Vuyst, proprietor of the Barbecue "Olde Tavern" here has donated a handsome silver trophy to the winner of a 135 pound tournament to be staged in the near future by the Gardens A. C.... George, an ardent sports enthusiast, appreciates the best in athletics and his gesture is a generous one... More about that later.

LESSON NO. 802

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

My partner sees a fly upon my shoulder far away. He fails to see a bear upon his own. He liberally points out every error in my play. And praises only acts where he has shone.

In a duplicate contest, all the tables play the same hands. In such a match, south became the declarer at a contract of four hearts in this deal:

NORTH
♦7 5
♣Q 6 5 4 3

WEST
♥Q J 9
♦J 8 6
♣10 9 7

EAST
♠9 8 7 5 2
♥4 2
♦K 9 3
♣A 8 2

♠6
♥A K 10 6 5
♦A Q 10 4 2
♣K J

At one table, west took the first trick with the spade king and switched to a club. East went up with the ace and the south jack fell on it.

Declarer was now unable to enter dummy for a diamond finesse. So he lost the second round of that suit and trumped the third. He also lost a trump trick and was defeated by one trick.

His partner said sarcastically: "You blockhead. You should have unblocked. Throw the club king on the east club ace and enter dummy with the club queen for a diamond finesse. Then you would have made it."

It was so. And at another table the same contract got the same two first leads. When east played the ace, south did sluff the club king and made the contract.

At that table west sneered at east: "You ninny. Why take the first club lead with your ace and let south unblock his king. If you had played small, you could have saved a diamond trick."

Generally, if you fail to play third hand high, partner is likely to tear your head off and trample on it. But you see how it is here. This is a case where third hand should play low.

Skillful players who can read the cards know when to play third hand low instead of high. They determine it from the opening lead, what they see in dummy, and what they have in their own hand.

Unless you know when, don't.

BOSTON BRUINS READY FOR GRIND

Quebec, Oct. 10 — (CP)—Some 45 strong, the 1945-46 edition of Boston Bruins hockey club arrived yesterday to begin training for their National Hockey League opening against Chicago in Boston Oct. 24.

Heading the cavalcade of puck-chasers was veteran manager Art Ross and Dit Clapper, who will coach the squad and perhaps perform on the blue line. Also with the Bruins was Arthur Ross, Jr., recently discharged from the Royal Canadian Air Force and who will act as assistant manager.

Practices begin today at the Quebec Coliseum, with most of last year's team and many new faces from the services and junior ranks scrambling for berths. Among them will be the famous Kraut line of Woody Dumart, Milt Schmidt and Bobby Bauer, all fresh from active service in the Canadian forces.

FIGHTER DIES AFTER BOUT

Los Angeles, Oct. 10 —(AP)— Alberto Silva, 22, Los Angeles featherweight boxer, died in hospital last night less than 24 hours after he was defeated by a technical knockout in the fourth round of a fight here with Felix Miramontes, Los Angeles.

Silva was still on his feet in the bout when referee Jimmy Wallace stopped the fight, holding that he had taken too many blows to the head. Friends said Silva collected his pay and left the arena without assistance.

SPORTS EDITOR DIES

Boston, Oct. 10 —(AP)— Ed Earle, 55-year-old Boston Herald sports writer, known affectionately to thousands of yachtsmen as "skipper," was found dead yesterday in his rooms. Doctors said he had died of a heart attack during the night after leaving his office in apparent good health.

SPORT SHORTS FROM BRITAIN

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Leeming, Yorkshire, England, Oct. 10—(CP)— R. C. A. F. Station, Linton, which was one of the No 6 (R. C. A. F.) Bomber Group units, won the R. C. A. F. Overseas Softball Championship of 1945 by defeating Station Skipton (Yorkshire) by five runs to four in a final exciting game.

Eight Air Force teams competed for the championship, others being Topcliffe, Torquay, London, Basingbourne, 126 Wing (Continent) and 8402 Wing (Continent).

Scorers for the two final teams were:-

Linton: LAC N. McEvoy, Montreal; LAC H. James, Windsor, Ont.; LAC B. Goodfellow, Tichborne, Ont.; and Cpl. B. Taylor, Toronto.

John Mecoq sailed for Montreal after an eight-year absence during which he became a French soccer star, landed unofficially in England and almost signed as a professional for Bournemouth and Boscombe.

Lecoq went to France in 1937 to live with his mother and during the occupation became inside left with the Paris club. After the war he tried to get to England to find his brother in the R C. A. F. but permission to travel was unobtainable. Finally Lecoq paid some fisherman 3,000 francs to take him across the Channel and was fined £1 ($4.50) for smuggling himself into England.

E. R. Mercer, director of Bournemouth and Boscombe soccer team, offered to take him on as a professional and Manager Harry Kinghorn said Mecoq looked a likely footballer.

Lecoq agreed to take the job but after visiting Canadian authorities decided to return home instead.

R. C. A. F. headquarters all-star softball team proved too strong for the young ladies of No. 6 (R. C. A. F.) Bomber Group at R. C. A. F. Station Topcliffe in Yorkshire and returned to London the victors in the Women's Division R. C. A. F. Overseas Softball Championship. The score was seven runs to two.

In the second inning, LAW Pat Hogue, Vancouver, made a homerun, which brought in two others and the London team took a 3-0 lead.

The Yorkshire girls fought back in the third and fourth innings scoring one run in each, but three more tallies by the Londoners in the fifth and another in the sixth settled the matter for the H. Q. girls.

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press.)

Senator A. N. (Happy) Chandler moved to clear up another situation yesterday at a joint meeting in Chicago of the Major League clubs when he announced his early retirement from the United States Senate to devote full time to his $50,000-a-year job as baseball commissioner. His Senate resignation was believed set for Nov. 1.

Chandler said he knew of no misunderstanding with club owners over his proposal to boost the pay of World Series umpires. The commissioner said he would establish his baseball office at Cincinnati. The club owners meet again Nov. 1 in Chicago to deal with player drafts.

Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside, N.J., received his discharge yesterday from the United States coast guard and immediately announced at New York he wanted a bout with heavyweight champion Joe Louis or Billy Conn. His record stands at 62 wins in 68 fights.

With Hal Newhouser pitching, the Detroit Tigers were made 7-to-10 favorites to win the World Series against Cubs today by James J. Carroll, betting commissioner at St. Louis.

Catcher Sherman Lollar of Baltimore Orioles, recently sold to Cleveland Indians for $10,000, yesterday was named the most valuable player of the year in the International League by the Sporting News.

Boston Olympics have been accepted as a club member in the Quebec Provincial Hockey League along with five other Quebec teams, it was announced last night at Montreal. It was stated, however, that Boston would not be able to compete in the circuit this season because of its affiliation with the Eastern U. S. Association.

Jimmy Callura of Hamilton, Ont. returned to the ring last night at White Plains, N.Y., and outpointed Joey Dell of New Haven, Conn., in a four-round go. Phil Palmer of Vancouver defeated Lew Maxwell of Newark, N.J., in the eighth-round feature.

Mohawk Reserve, Oct. 10 (Special) — Life in this locality about half a century ago, was far from dull. Here are some items culled from the Deseronto Tribune, in the issue of Friday, Feb, 1898. On the Deseronto market, apples sold for 50 cents and 60 cents per bag; pork, 6c. and 7c. lb., beef, 2½c. to 5c. lb., mutton, 5c. and 6c. lb., lard, 9c. and 10c. lb., tallow, 2c. and 3c. lb., butter 14c. to 18c. lb., eggs, 18c. and 20c. dozen; chickens, 30c. and 40c. pair; cabbage, 20c. dozen; turnips, 7c. and 10c. peck; parsnips, 10c. peck; potatoes 40c. to 60c. bag.

"There seems to be a roudy element amongst the children who attend the school room at the Town Hall. The other day one dear little boy struck a companion across the face with a stick, inflicting an ugly wound. This matter should be looked into."

"A good deal of complaint has been made, lately about boys and girls making a noise in the public library reading room. It is hoped that they will stop this; otherwise the Board will have to take stringent measures to prevent its recurrence. The names of those who have been raising these disturbances have been taken."

This bon mot is also found among the local items, "Bishops get from $3,000 to $5,000 a year for being good; ministers get from $600 to $3,000; but most folks are expected to be good for nothing. A great many people are, as a fact."

J. Buchanan, a merchant located on St. George St., advertises 60" table linen for 25c. yd. 38" white cotton, 5c. yd., 32" print, extra heavy, fast colors, 10c. 40" all-wool dress goods, 25c. yd., all wool serge dress goods, various colors, 20c. yd.

This issue also chronicles the death of Mrs. Wm. J. Hill, mother-in-law of Dr. Oronhyateka, at the age of 83 years. She was the granddaughter of Capt. Joseph Brant, (Thayendanegea). The funeral was held in Christ Church, and was conducted by the Rector, A. Grassett Smith, Rev. J. R. Fraser, and Rev. J. H. H. Coleman, the music was rendered by the local choir, augmented by members of St. Mark's choir, Deseronto; St. Mark's organist, Miss McGauhey, officiating at the organ.

The Tyendinaga Reserve correspondent of long ago writes that Frank Brant has moved his house from a lot on his father's premises to the land he purchased from Jacob Moses, north of the Roman Catholic Church, and reports the serious illness of Johnson Leween, Francis Claus, Jr., and Mrs. Josiah Brant. (Mrs. Brant passed away in August, this year.)

AT THE BELLE — William Prince and Ida Lupino make an engaging new film pair in Warner Bros. riotous comedy, "Pillow to Post," now at the Belle. The film, a giddy tale about a travelling saleslady, and an army-packed town, also co-stars Sydney (The Fat Man) Greenstreet.

Unions Should Start a Factory

(An Editorial in The Financial Post, Toronto)

We suggest that some of our well-to-do and many-membered labor unions start and operate factories of their own.

During recent weeks a blizzard of protests and demands has descended on Ottawa — and the daily press. The protests have been at the stoppage of war work. The demands have been that Ottawa provide jobs or "severance pay"; that Ottawa force factory managers to retain workers; force factory managers to take over war plants and continue to employ present staffs for peacetime production.

Why shouldn't one or more of our labor unions take the direct method of getting what they want?

War plants are assuredly available for peacetime use. Ottawa is literally begging people to take them over. Ottawa's policy is to turn over these properties at favorable rates to whatever interest promises to provide the most employment.

Most of the unions have substantial funds. And they can get a lot more. Most of their members will have some money saved up in the bank. Most, or certainly a great many, will have life insurance on which they can borrow. Many will have homes on which they get some money on a mortgage.

The legalities involved in forming a company are not great and are not expensive. If by its charter a labor union could not legally participate as an entity in the undertaking, its executive and leaders can readily form a joint stock company distributing shares among the members.

Even a modest-sized union will in its own funds and in the savings of its membership, have a very substantial amount of savings or capital wherewith to buy or lease a plant, equip it with machinery, buy some raw materials, mobilize a staff of workers, organize a sales force. These pooled savings will be vastly greater than the amount of money available for the starting of 90 per cent of firms doing business in Canada today.

The labour union factory would certainly find no difficulty in buying plant, machinery, supplies or raw materials. Everybody would be very ready to sell to it and on the same basis as to a factory run by anybody else. In the same way, everybody would be ready to buy its products on exactly the same basis as the products of any other factory are bought.

With their own factory, and their own people in charge, labor unions will then be able to go ahead and do what they are demanding others do; go on working at war wages — making war materials if they wish. The experiment has interesting and instructive possibilities.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma finished the last page of her new lyberry book, saying to pop, That's a lovely bewtiful inspiring book, William. Any author who can write a book like that should be a happy man, she said.

That's probably just what he'd be if he inspired you to write and tell him how much you enjoyed it, pop said, and ma said, That's exactly what I'm thinking seriously of doing.

That wont do the author any good, pop said. According to a well known law of fizzicks, a thousand people thinking seriously displace less water than just one person actually giving way to an impulse. As a matter of fact authors are the unhappiest people in the world. They have longer faces than undertakers and shorter temper than traffic officers, and although their hair is long it is prematurely gray and pitifully thin. All because their readers never give way to impulses, he said, and ma said, Well that's just where you're totally wrong, because I gave way to an impulse and wrote to an author only last week.

Please accept my apology, what author was all that, for Peet sake? pop said, and ma said, It was Sigmund Solways the man who writes the daily bridge collum in the paper. He made the bare face assertion that men are better bridge players than women, because 9 out of 10 women would rather chat than play bridge, so if left to their own devices they keep chatting merrily away and let the cards fall when they may, while on the other hand when men play bridge, they are every bit as serious as if they were playing poker. I didn't lose a minute in sitting down and obeying my impulse to write to that author, believe me. I pointed out to him that if women chat while they play bridge it's a proof that they're past masters of the game and can afford to relax, while men have to be as serious as boiled owls or else they'll lose the thread of the game. So you see, William, people do write to authors, so you can just admit you're wrong, ma said.

HUNTER SHOOTS WOLF

Windsor, Oct. 10 — (CP) — Provincial Police said a district farmer last night shot one wolf from a pack of three near a radio station transmitter in suburban South Windsor. The other two wolves escaped.

CANADIAN ARMY BALLOON UNIT TO HELP IN LOAN

Every Member Has Long Service From the Paratroops to Medical Corps

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—(CP) — Sixty-four Canadian veterans came back from the wars Tuesday—their khaki battle dress almost lost among thousands of American army uniforms around them on the Queen Elizabeth.

The Dominion soldiers—one officer and 63 other ranks—represented every Province but Prince Edward Island and came from almost every Canadian army combat unit.

As the first Canadian army balloon unit, the 64 Canadians will take part in the ninth victory loan campaign which opens late in October. They were formed into the new unit recently after long service in everything from the paratroops to the medical corps.

The Canadians were disappointed to discover they would be held on board ship until tonight, when they entrain for Canada. They expect to reach Montreal at 8 a.m. E.S.T. Wednesday. There they will be split into units which will be sent to all military districts in the Dominion for the victory loan.

Trained at Thursley

After being posted to the balloon unit, the Canadians were trained at Thursley, England, by veteran Royal Navy and Royal Air Force convoy balloon experts. They learned to handle balloons such as used to protect ships in the channel and vital land areas.

A slight hitch in the disembarkation came when the strike of New York longshoremen spread to pier 91. Stevedores at the dock walked off their jobs in a dispute over the weight of "sling loads" of mail and baggage being lowered to the pier from the liner.

An American army labor battalion was assigned to take their places but the Canadians were worried about the precious balloons they carry with them. The unit has six tons of equipment with which to illustrate convoy balloon technique.

In command of the unit was Lieut. J. W. Wheal, of Hamilton, Ont., formerly of the Royal Canadian Signal Corps. Wheal is a graduate in chemical engineering of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and expects to take a refresher course as soon as he is discharged from the army. He saw service in Italy and Northwest Europe.

British Seek Nazi Secrets

LONDON, Oct. 10—(CP)— A widespread plan of concealing most secret and essential equipment was operated in Germany before the capitulation and now British experts have a long-term job of ferreting out the missing parts.

The disarmament staff of the British air force of occupation has found that the task of uncovering the hideouts almost means a house-to-house search in Germany. The latest list of "targets" includes country houses, inns, farm houses, windmills, abandoned mines and even pigpens.

Besides expected underground factories, disarmament units discovered factories inside the dignified interiors of town halls and other municipal buildings. In Detmold they discovered essential waterworks parts missing and found the parts distributed among the townspeople.

The Nazis dismantled parts of airplanes, machinery and even one of their pocket battleships and hid them over wide areas. The trained staffs of the disarmament branch are confident they can unearth them all—but it will take a long time.

Canadians Face Another Winter With Housing Problem Unsolved

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 10 —(CP)— The war was fading reluctantly into the past, but today, as Canadians felt an ominous chill in the autumn air, they faced their first winter of peace with the most pressing reconversion problem—housing—still unsolved.

By unnumbered tens of thousands, there weren't enough homes.

In unnumbered millions of dollars, unnumbered thousands of blueprints, the greatest building splurge in Canadian history was being held back by twin bottlenecks of men and materials.

From sea to sea, the veterans were flooding back, inevitably surprised at what they found, inevitably swallowed by the hosts of people seeking homes or shelter, inevitably taking what they could get.

35 Per Cent Higher.

From sea to sea, homes still sold somewhere near 35 per cent higher than in 1939 and nobody who knew housing was ready to predict a drop within a year, often a lot longer.

Owners were selling because they were moving elsewhere, because they didn't like the neighborhood, because they wanted a new home themselves, not infrequently because they saw what might become a slowly fading chance to make money.

The universities were jammed as never before, their classes packed with veterans. Cities that anticipated a wartime influx from the countryside would become a post-war exodus, often found their calculations going wide. In thousands of cases, newcomers were taking new jobs and staying where they were.

Few Evictions.

Largely because of rigid Federal laws, few evictions were reported imminent. And, despite omnipresent shortages, nothing to compare with England's house-grabbing vigilantes had appeared on the horizon.

In thousands of communities houses were going up. The government predicted 50,000 units would be up or started this year, a record only 1928 could hope to match. But no facts, no figures could obscure the jarring reality that there just weren't enough homes, that for months to come there still wouldn't be enough.

That was invariably the dominant note of reports produced from every corner of the country in a survey by The Canadian Press. Briefly, these were some of the salient facts:

Salient Facts.

Halifax—For normal replacements alone, between 1,000 and 4,000 new homes were needed.

Montreal — Canada's greatest city needed 50,000 new houses or apartments.

Toronto—Almost every type of house being sold with about 1-3 of price asked as down payment.

Ottawa—Shelter officials said the outlook was bleaker than October, 1944, mainly because of veterans, "but we can keep them off the street."

Said Canadian Legion—"Wartime Housing is the only agency doing anything to provide houses for veterans."

Said Private Enterprise—Trying to build 400-500 houses of 4-5 rooms at $5,300-$8,000: "Government regulations only make the situation worse."

Three services headquarters have returned some buildings but nuo general exodus of wartime government staff noted yet.

London—One in three homes overcrowded. Construction program worth $8,000,000 awaited green light, parts of it may wait years.

Vancouver — Five-six room houses sold for $4,000-$6,000, prices $1,000-odd above 1939.

Britain's Autos At High Prices

LONDON, Oct. 10 — (CP) — Second hand car prices here are rising steadily, despite the basic gasoline curb on travel, and some prices are reported nearly double the amount first asked.

At one garage a car originally priced at £98 ($440) had its price changed five times and now is tagged at £257 5s. Another, advertised for sale at £200, now is marked £383 5s.

"Motorists have kept their cars in garages until recently and now demand exhorbitant prices for them," a salesman said. "In turn we have to charge fantastic figures to make any profit at all."

Meanwhile, the Ministry of War Transport announced that until the supply increases, it is issuing permits to buy reconditioned cars only to nurses, midwives and disabled ex-servicemen (no less than 25 per cent disability) who need a car for their jobs.

COAL NEEDED AT HOME

CARDIFF, Wales—(CP)— Because of the British coal shortage, the South Wales export trade is virtually at a standstill despite big orders from many European countries.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Keith Park Thanks R.C.A.F.

London, Oct. 10 —(CP)— Men of the R. C. A. F. who served under him in Southeast Asia received the thanks of Air Chief Marshal Sir Keith Park, Allied Air Commander-in-Chief in Southeast Asia, in a farewell broadcast to Canadians from his headquarters at No. 11 group, fighter command.

"As the Canadians leave my command, I want to say a word of thanks to them—and also to Canada which sent them to this theatre so many thousands of miles from their homes," said the Air Chief Marshal, who once commanded the men who fought the battle of Britain and later won a defensive battle against heavy Axis odds during attacks on the George Cross Island of Malta.

"During the battle of Britain I got to know the Canadians well. After the battle of Britain I knew still more about them. So it was no surprise to me to find that R. C. A. F. men had built up a fine reputation in Southeast Asia, as in Britain, over Western Europe, in Africa, in Italy and again in the Middle East."

During the retreat from Burma Canadians flew with the R. A. F. and the job which they and their squadrons did was, in the words of the Air Chief Marshal, "quite first class."

One of the Best.

Air Chief Marshal Park recalled how in 1942 an All-Canadian squadron arrived in Southeast Asia to strengthen the Allied anti-submarine patrols over the wide oceans which had to be defended in this theatre.

"With detachments in South Africa, in East Africa and in the Persian Gulf and also on tiny islands far out on the Indian Ocean, No. 413 R. C. A. F. squadron became known—and quite rightly so—as the most widely dispersed squadron in all the empire air forces, and it was one of the best squadrons."

He recalled that it was a crew from this squadron which sighted the Japanese fleet as it approached Ceylon at Easter in 1942 "thwarting a possible surprise move to invade the island colony."

The contribution made by Canadians of the squadron towards keeping the sea lanes safe during the 2 1-2 years it was based in Ceylon "was invaluable and deserving of the highest praise."

London, Oct. 10 —(CP)— The Canadian army newspaper, The Maple Leaf, paid editorial tribute yesterday to its American counterpart, Stars And Stripes, which will suspend its London edition next week.

Identity Cards Still Required

LONDON, Oct. 10—(CP)— Sir Sylvanus P. Vivian, registrar-general, said that United Kingdom residents probably will continue to carry their identity cards as long as food is rationed and "you can guess how long that will be."

Registration had three main purposes—to provide a basis for rationing, support the enforcement of compulsory service and provide the population figures needed for mortality rates and other statistics.

The central national registration office dealt with 9,000,000 changes of address from one area to another in 1940 alone.

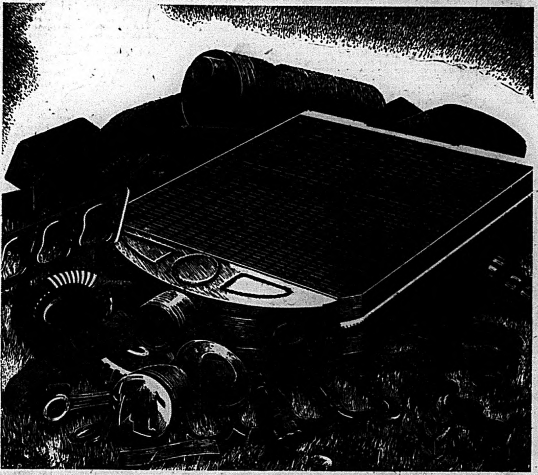
Did we Save Your Radiator from This?



PERHAPS SHELL RESEARCH did save your car radiator from rust damage. During the war years, only alcohol anti-freezes were available to the public—and the best ones contained a "rust inhibitor" to protect the radiator and cooling system against serious rust damage.

But suddenly some of the rust inhibitor ingredients became unobtainable. Then, in Canada, Shell Research came to the rescue—developed a new rust inhibitor from available ingredients so that without a break, you have been able to get the best of alcohol anti-freezes.

Look to this Research Leadership for Better Gasoline and Lubricants

You will be interested in the fine qualities of the post-war anti-freezes, especially Shellzone. You will be even more interested in what Shell's research experience and skill will do for your own post-war motoring through finer fuels and lubricants for your car.

Floodlights to be Available At Fairgrounds Next Year, Council to Guarantee Funds

Money Will be Paid Back Out of Appropriation Given to Parks Board by Council

Floodlights will be available at the Belleville fairgrounds next year so that the youths may enjoy their recreation under favorable conditions and patrons of sport, who are busy in factories and stores all day, will be able to view their favorite games, according to action taken by the city council at their regular meeting on Tuesday evening. The council approved the guaranteeing of $8,500, the cost of installation of the lights, the same to be taken from the appropriation of the council to the Parks Board. The members were almost unanimous in their decision, some members not opposing the lights but rather the expenditure at this particular time.

Ald. Allin stated he was opposed to the council absorbing the cost of the lights but it was explained that the money would be taken from the Parks Board eventually and the Board had a right to spend the money as they saw fit as the Parks Board was a corporate body. Mayor Follwell explained that the cost was mainly for installation and poles but Ald. Allin was insistent that the Parks Board had only interviewed one firm and there was a possibility that the lights could be purchased cheaper than the price given. Ald. Follwell asked "Why should Belleville be the last place to adopt the lights?" He stated that one city in western Ontario had put them in and he wanted Belleville to be the first one in Eastern Ontario to have them. Ald. Clapp stated that the Parks Board was entitled to a mill of the tax rate for park purposes and for many years they rave been only getting a half mill. They can afford to put in the lights and I think it is good business for the council to guarantee the money "Everyone raised their hands in horror when the teen-aged dances were instituted but they have been an excellent medium for the younger set and the crowds that attend show that the workers are doing a fine job" said Ald. Clapp. "I am all for having the lights installed."

Opposed Removal.

Ald. Woodley opposed the removal of the trailer residents from the Tourist Camp but the motion to close the camp on October 27 and ask for the removal of the residents thereon carried with the one dissenting voice. The Assessors Association, which will meet in Belleville next Tuesday will be the guests of the city council. The Comptroller was asked to make arrangements for the luncheon. Hon. G. H. Dunbar, minister of Municipal Affairs will be the chief speaker. The City council will take a full page ad in the coming Victory Loan campaign. Ald. Woodley was sure that the loan got enough advertising from the National advertising that was put out but Ald. Trudeau, who is general chairman of the committee disagreed, believing that much good came from the local advertising which was given the loan. The inside market will be used for the housing of the British Empire Cheese exhibit to be run in connection with the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' convention to be held in December in this city. The Collacutt Bus Lines will be informed by the City Clerk that Front Street cannot be used for a parking space and the Mayor was instructed to inform the Police Commission of the council's action. Ald. Hyde, chairman of Market and City property will interview Mr. Collacutt some time this week in an effort to find a suitable bus depot.

Rinks to be Prepared Early.

The council was informed that Mimico Town council sold to the Branch of the Canadian Legion in that town a piece of land for the price of $1 and that the sale had been approved by the Department of Municipal Affairs in Toronto. The City Engineer was called into council respecting the sites of the skating rinks for the coming winter and was told by the members that they wanted the sites prepared and levelled ready for the first frost. He was asked to arrange with the Hydro for lights and also for hockey nets for the two rinks that are not now supplied. A committee of Aldermen Clapp, Follwell and the City Engineer was appointed to meet the Board of Education respecting dressing rooms at two of the sites and if these were not available the committee had power to act in securing the same. Ald. Clapp informed the council that the Riverside Project was not dead but that the committee of Regional Planning was working hard to have it before the people before long. The City Solicitor informed the council that a report on the options secured on the property necessary would be before the council at their next meeting and the members granted the Solicitor extra legal help in order that this work could be cleaned up as quickly as possible.

Snow Equipment Coming.

Ald. Follwell inquired as to how the snow equipment was coming along and was informed that the tractor had gone to Toronto to have some equipment mounted and all would be in readiness to take care of the streets this winter with the new equipment.

The women's organizations which had arranged for feeding of the H. & P. E. Regiment on its arrival home last Thursday will be sent a letter of thanks by the City Council. The members spoke favorably of the excellent arrangements and food that was provided. The Mayor personally thanked the military authorities for the splendid show that was put on and welcomed the boys back to their own firesides. The police, both provincial and local were thanked for their help in the reception of the regiment.

The Columbian Squires softball team was congratulated on winning a Provincial championship and the hardball team was also congratulated for the excellent showing made. The council will take up the matter of something tangible for the members of the winning team at the next council meeting. Mayor Follwell gave an extensive repodt on the Mayors' convention at Kirkland Lake and distributed a quantity of literature for the members' persual. A number of by-laws was passed.

Mass of Correspondence.

The council went through a mass of correspondence during the session, one being from R. A. Pringle, chairman of the Industrial Commission in answer to an article in a Trade paper a few nights ago. The letter is as follows:

October 6, 1945

Mr. Ron Herman, Esq.,
Editor, The Belleville Beason,
324 Front Street,
Belleville, Ont.
Dear Sir:

The reference to Belleville industrial development contained in your issue of September 1945, has been brought to the writer's attention.

You were perhaps not aware that the industrial development activities of the City Council was by By-law passed in 1938, vested in the Belleville Industrial Commission, an independent body entrusted with the encouragement of industrial expansion in Belleville, subject to the limitations imposed on all municipalities by various Provincial Statutes.

The Commission has always received the full support of the City Council by providing the necessary funds to allow it to carry on its work with the greatest efficiency and has provided funds to permit it to launch an extensive campaign in the post war period, pointing out the advantages of Belleville as an Industrial centre, and the program is now well under way. The Public Utilities Commission have cooperated fully and Belleville Utility rates compare favorably with any in the Province.

The personnel of the Commission has also been carefully selected to avoid having among its members representatives of presently established industries in order to avoid just the kind of criticism published in your paper. The writer is not personally aware of any industries that have been driven from Belleville in the manner you have indicated and would certainly be grateful to receive the names and full details of the industries and also the parties responsible for driving them away.

The actual designation of industrial sites in the City is not the work of the Commission but is a matter of policy for the City Council. This is under consideration by them at the present time and in the Industrial Booklet shortly to be published by the Commission, the available sites will be clearly set forth.

The Commission has on file several hundred post-war prospects and is leaving no stone unturned to try and attract them to Belleville. We, however, are always anxious to receive suggestions and I have been requested to extend a cordial invitation to the executives of your organizations to attend our monthly meeting on Friday, Oct. 12th next.

The writer would be pleased if you would contact him as to the number that will be present, and I could then give you further details as to the time and place.

Yours very truly,
R. A. Pringle,
Chairman Belleville Industrial Commission.

Report Given.

The city solicitor gave a report on the Trakas swimming pool as follows:

October 5th, 1945

J. Wilfred Holmes, Esq.,
City Clerk,
City Hall, City.
Re: Trakas Swimming Pool
Dear Sir:

This is in reply to your letter of the 28th ultimo.

The report made by the City Engineer, dated September 18th, 1945, appears quite complete.

Members of the Council will recall that when the closing of a roadway over the hill was under discussion, some two or more years ago, the City Engineer reported that the road was not shown upon any of the registered city plans, and that the city records disclosed no evidence that the roadway had been officially designated as Mount Pleasant Road. The Registrar of Deeds confirmed the City Engineer's report in so far as it pertained to the registered records.

In as much as there was no record of the roadway, and apparently no objection to the enclosing thereof with the Trakas property, to which it was adjacent, the Council permitted Mr. Trakas to enclose a portion of the roadway and to use it as part of his own holding.

Please intimate if further information is required.

Yours very truly,
A. B. Collins,
City Solicitor.

Mr. J. Wilfred Holmes,

Dear Sir:

We wish to thank you for your letter of September 28th, drawing our attention to a resolution passed by the City Council September 24th, regarding blasting operations at Point Anne.

Yours truly,
J. H. Legate, Superintendent

City Police Thanked.

Group Captain Bell-Irving former commander of the R.C.A.F. Station at Trenton sent a letter to the council thanking all for past favors. The letter is as follows:

Dear Mr. Follwell:

On leaving Trenton, I write to express to you my keen appreciation of your interest in the development of a splendid co-operative spirit between the residents of the City of Belleville, and the personnel of this Station.

I shall be glad if you will convey my greetings and good wishes to the Chief of Police, and make it known to him how much the good feeling of the various heads of departments of the City of Belleville has contributed to the well being and happiness of the personnel of this Station.

Makes Request.

W. C. Mikel appeared before the council seeking the co-operation of the Federal government in erecting a monument to the memory of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, former Prime Minister of Canada and a native of this city. The letters exchanged between Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Mr. Mikel follow:

3rd October, 1945

His Worship
Mayor Frank Follwell,
343 Front Street,
Belleville.
Dear Mr. Mayor,
Re BOWELL MONUMENT

Enclosed herewith I send you a copy of a letter which I sent to the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, M.P., Premier, in the above matter, and a copy of Mr. King's reply thereto.

You will see that Mr. King considered the matter of sufficient importance to have it brought before his colleagues of the Cabinet for consideration. If you would follow this up by a letter from yourself to Mr. King, as Mayor, and also a resolution of the City Council, it may result in a monument being erected in Belleville. This would be not only a worthy tribute to a prominent deceased citizen, but it would be something to show tourists by which they would remember Belleville.

Yours sincerely,
W. C. Mikel, B.CL., K.C.

14th September, 1945

The Rt. Hon.
W. L. Mackenzie King, M.P.,
Premier,
Parliament Buildings,
Ottawa, Ontario.
Dear Mr. King,

The late The Honourable Mackenzie Bowell was one of the eleven men in Canada who have attained the position of Premier. He died a comparatively poor man. The home of his late daughter, Mrs. McCarthy, also his old home was sold for taxes and bought in by the city and Mrs. McCarthy was allowed to live in the place until her death. He started life a very poor boy and ended up a comparatively poor man, and had sounded many of the depths and shores of honor. His parents lived in the Township of Hungerford on a rather poor place, and, on the death of his late mother, he, a brother and sister survived, and when a young lad of about 10 years of age he made his way to Belleville, where he had the good fortune to meet George Benjamin, a school teacher, who, it is said, took him to his home to do chores and receive a little education. When Benjamin started the Intelligencer newspaper, he took young Bowell to work in the office and deliver the newspapers. Benjamin became member of the Legislature of Upper Canada for North Hastings and on his death, Bowell, who had reached young manhood, took over the newspaper. After suffering one defeat he succeeded in being elected Member for North Hastings in the House of Commons. Later he became Minister of Customs in the MacDonald Government. Later a Senator, Government Leader in the Senate, Premier and received the Order of Knighthood.

I would take the liberty of suggesting that the Parliament of Canada provide a fund sufficient to erect a monument to this self-educated man, who rose from a humble chore boy without wealth or family influence, to his exalted position. It shows to young people what can be done in this country with industry. He never used tobacco in his life, he never used liquor until he was 50 years of age, and then, under the advice of a physician, he took one drink of liquor a day, and he lived to be about 94 years of age. With his opportunities he could no doubt have been a wealthy man. It is said that on one occasion, when the accounts of his department were submitted to the House, the late The Honourable Edward Blake complimented him on his care and efficiency in the administration of his department. Although he was a staunch Protestant he held no bitterness towards Roman Catholics.

Some years ago he supplied me with a Statutory Declaration for the purpose of helping the two daughters of the late John O'Carrol to obtain compensation for injuries and loss sustained to his goods during the troublesome times of 1837. He kept a small store at Belleville. He sent out a lot of notices to Roman Catholics through the Village Post Office, asking his coreligionists to contribute towards the erection of a Roman Catholic Church, and this was mistaken for an aid to the rebellion. Soldiers on the streets one night, perhaps under the influence of liquor, went into John O'Carrol's little store, threw some of his goods out into the street and kicked them around. O'Carrol endeavoured to get compensation from the Government of Upper Canada but failed. After Confederation he sought to get it from the Ontario Government but failed. Attempted to get it from the Dominion Government but failed. John O'Carrol and his wife died and his two elderly daughters came to me for assistance. As a result I applied to the Ontario Government for compensation, although 70 years had passed since the act complained of took place. Bowell, a young lad playing in the streets saw what took place and he readily gave me a Statutory Declaration showing the facts and also expressing the opinion that John O'Carrol was a good, loyal citizen. I obtained compensation from the Ontario Givernment for these two old ladies, long since gone to their rest. Sir Mackenzie Bowell has been dead long enough to soften political animosities.

I trust you will see your way clear to have your Government place in the estimates a sum sufficient to erect a monument at Belleville as suggested. The Historic Sites and Monuments Commission could of course take charge of the erection and the selection of the type of monument.

Yours very truly,
W. C. Mikel, K.C.

Ottawa, 21st September, 1945

W. C. Mikel, Esq., K. C.
Local Master,
Court House,
Supreme Court of Ontario,
Belleville, Ontario.
Dear Mr. Mikel,

I have your letter of the 14th of September, suggesting the inclusion in the estimates for the erection at Belleville of a monument to the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

I shall be glad to bring your suggestion to the attention of my colleagues for consideration by the government.

Yours sincerely,
W. L. Mackenzie King.

PREVENTED ATTACK

The keen observation and photo-interpretation of Flight Officer Constance Babington-Smith, 32, of the British Women's Auxiliary Air Force, is revealed to have prevented the Nazis from launching their V-bomb attack on New York. It also made certain that the invasion of Europe was not hampered by the robot bombs. An air raid resulted which set the Germans back in their work by at least six months and killed 800 of their leading scientists. She is pictured here looking at the airviews at the British information office in New York.

89th Anniversary Of St. Andrew's Church Celebrated

Stirling — Anniversary services were well attended at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday with the Rev. W. A. Cameron, D.D., Toronto, guest speaker at the morning service and Rev. Donald McKay, Burnbrae, speaker for the evening worship. This was the 89th Anniversary and Dr. Cameron, Secretary of the Home Missions Board of Canada, gave an inspired Thanksgiving Message to those present. "In everything give thanks. We can give thanks in any experience we have, feeling that God knows best. How thankful we should be for living in Canada, thankful for the harvest, that we have plenty to eat and plenty to wear." Dr. Cameron gave an appeal at this time on behalf of the clothing drive being conducted across Canada this month. We should be thankful for peace. This should be the greatest weekend of Thanksgiving that there has been for a good many years. What can we do to show our gratitude? Are we trying to work for the things that make for peace — in the home or in the Church or are we troublemakers? So many problems are before us which we must be prepared to meet."

Feel You Are Needed

In his message at the evening worship, Rev. Donald McKay of Burnbrae, gave an appeal to the young people that they are the boys and girls who are growing up to take our places in the Church. What will the future be if they do not? I appeal to you to feel that you are needed. Show your thankfulness to God by meeting the opportunity that is yours today to carry on as your parents have. For his text Rev. McKay took the parallel of the prodigal son emphasizing that it was sin that took the prodigal son away from his home — thinking only of himself and a good time rather than the spiritual side of life.

The father kept his eyes on the hills hoping for his son's return, then one morning he said "There is my son whom he greeted with the kiss of recognition and the fatted calf."

Special music by the choir at both services with Mrs. R. H. Williams supplying at the organ and Miss Muriel Thompson of West Huntingdon at the piano during musical duets. Mrs. Charlie Fargey and Mrs. Roy Eggleton rendered a duet at the evening service. The girls of the choir sang a special number at the morning service and an anthem by the full choir at both Services.

85th Anniversary

St. John's Anglican Church celebrated their 85th Anniversary on Sunday October 7th with a special re-dedication service of the newly decorated Church. The Rt. Rev. John Lyons, M.A., D.D., Bishop of the Diocese taking the morning service and celebration of Holy Communion assisted by the Rector Rev. C. C. Brazill.

The Bishop honored the members of the A.Y.P.A. especially, in their wonderful achievement, due to their concentrated efforts in connection with the Church redecoration.

For his message to the congregation and visitors present, the Bishop took the First Chapter of Joshua, verse nine, "Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee withersoever thou goest." Giving inspired thoughts for the many present and pointing out the need for spiritual advancement in the Post War World. Although the war had been won it is up to the individual to make possible permanent peace. Special music by the choir included the Anthem "Oh! How Amiable Are Thy Dwellings".

The evening service was taken by the Rev. N. R. Stout, Rural Dean of Leeds and Rector of Gananoque. His subject was the Church and the World Today. How the Church people must cooperate with the Church in every way. There is today a great challenge to all Christian people. His text was taken from the 90th Psalm "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." The choir favored the congregation with the anthem "Saviour When Night Involved the Skies."

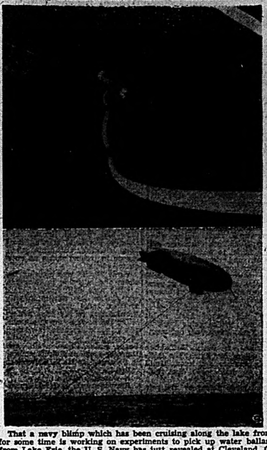
ONLY FEW APPLY

Hamilton, Oct. 10 —(CP)— Of the 2,455 men listed as eligible for unemployment insurance benefits, only 620 have applied, A. E. Boyle, manager of the Hamilton office of the National Employment Service, said yesterday. He added that since VE-day, 3,655 male and 1,511 female workers have been laid off by Hamilton firms.

MANY SIGNS

Winslow, Wash., Oct. 10—(AP)—The opening of the deer reason brought scores of "no hunting signs." One painted by Ed Stenbeck, read "trespassers will be persecuted to the full extent of two mongrol dogs which never was over sochible to strangers and one duble brl wich ain't loaded with sofa pillers. Darn if I ain't gitten tired of this hell raisin on my place."

BALLAST RECOVERY OPERATION



That a navy blimp which has been cruising along the lake front for some time is working on experiments to pick up water ballast from Lake Erie, the U. S. Navy has just revealed at Cleveland, O. Any lighter-than-air ship grows lighter as it consumes fuel and various devices have been resorted to to counterbalance this. The present experiments are designed to pump water from the ocean while the airship is in flight, thereby recovering enough weight in ballast to balance the weight of the gasoline consumed. A small electric pump was installed inside a "fish" which is towed by the airship, the towing line serving also as a hose line and a conduit for the electrical connection. Upper photo: Attached to the cable is the hose through which the water is pumped to be used as ballast. Lower photos: At extreme bottom, left, water is seen being churned up by the "fish" as it is towed along by a K-airship.

Annual Bay of Quinte Conference Of U.C. Will be Held in Napanee

Plans were made at a meeting of the Executive held yesterday at Bridge Street Church for the holding of the 22nd annual Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada. Rev. H. B. Neal, President, Renfrew, was in the chair and Rev. J. E. Beckel, Elgin as Secretary.

Billeting of 350-400 lay and ministerial delegates for the greater part of a week has proved a difficult task under war conditions, which this year still prevent the Conference meeting at Brockville which would have been the normal place. Depending on the surrounding villages and countryside to help out, a delegation from Napanee churches: Rev. C. D. McLellan and Mr. Burton Elliott of Grace Church and Rev. Noble Hatton. Harry Vanluven and George Switzer of Trinity Church conveyed the invitation, which was gladly accepted and thanks sent to the congregations concerned.

To Open May 28th.

It was decided to open the Conference at 10 a.m., Tuesday, May 28th and to organize immediately to permit an extra day's work at Committees in view of it being General Council year. The Communion service and Memorial to deceased ministers will begin at 3 p.m. the opening day. Meetings will continue till Friday night. The Lay Association of Conference, of which Inspector R. F. Downey, B. Paed, of Peterborough and Mr. H. S. Johnston of Lindsay are President and Secretary respectively, reported that the devotional speaker, who this year will be from the United States, will be Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, President of Colgate Divinity School, Rochester, N. Y. He will give an address each morning, address a separate ministerial session and be the speaker at the Laymen's banquet which is always an outstanding event with an attendance up to 600.

Rev. J. R. Trumpour of Cannifton, who is secretary of the Belleville Presbytery, will be chairman of the Business Committee of the Conference along with Rev. Alfred Poulter of Madoc, who is chairman of Belleville Presbytery. With them will be associated a layman to be appointed from Napanee.

Nominations Requested.

Presbyteries of the Conference, of which there are seven, are asked to make nominations for the office of president for next year. So far Cobourg has nominated Rev. J. W. Gordon of Port Hope and Kingston, Rev. J. E. Beckel of Elgin. They will also nominate a minister and laymen to the Conference for appointment as commissioners to the ensuing General Council of 1946 to meet at a place still undecided.

One of the most important offices in the United Church will be open before the General Council of 1948 because the Rev. Dr. C. A. Myers, brother of Dr. A. J. W. Myers recently of Belleville will have reached the age limit. The gathering yesterday placed in nomination as his successor, Rev. D. T. I. Forsyth, B.A., B.D., who before going to his present pastorate in Waterloo was a well known Field Secretary for Religious Education in the Bay of Quinte and Montreal Conferences.

To Hold Ordination Service.

At the conference next year at Napanee there will be an Ordination service held on the Wednesday evening. Last year there was none because of earlier expediting the graduation of ministers to meet war-time shortages. Prospects are that the candidates will be E. Donavan Jones, B.A., of Emmanuel College, Toronto, who belongs to Oshawa Presbytery and is student minister at Albert Street Church, Oshawa, and Frank J. Whitely, B.A., of Queen's Theological College, Kingston, of Presbytery Rev. G. C. Mcdent minister at Parnam.

Rev. H. J. Latimer, of Seely's Bay, was permitted to retire from the active ministry as from October first, because of ill-health.

Because of his removal from Tweed to Millbrook, and on the recommendation of Peterborough Presbytery of Rev. G. C. McQuade was appointed representative on the Settlement Committee of the Conference; Rev. C. D. McLellan,, B.A., B.D., of Napanee, on the recommendation of Belleville Presbytery became its member on the same body of which Rev. Dr. J. Semple of Peterborough is chairman and Rev. L. S. Throop, B.A., of Delta, secretary.

Four ministers have died since the conference met at Oshawa in June, and messages of sympathy were sent to their families. They are, Revs.: A. F. Shorten of Harrowsmith, father of Rev. A. Lloyd Shorten, minister of Foxboro; M. W. Leigh, B.A., Kingston; J. R. L. Gourlay, Carp and J. D. P. Knox, Belleville.

CHAPTER 11

The exploitation department building was across from the laboratories on a quiet street of the studio. She crossed the lawn from the administration building and started down the street, specking to a lot of people who were actors and actresses and writers and directors ,feeling the cool freshness that comes with the rain, and perhaps sorry that she was leaving for New York.

When she pulled open the door of the exploitation building and entered the long L-shaped hall, she stopped and slipped a coin in a little box near the door.

She remembered the day she had asked Paul about it.

"That is a fund," he had said seriously. "It is for all publicity writers at International. It is for the day when Hollywood no longer wants them."

"Are you serious?" she had asked.

She could remember the twinkle in Paul's eyes when he answered: "It sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? But I am serious. I got the idea the day I became head of the department. The fellow I replaced borrowed twenty bucks from me so he could eat until he got another job. Hollywood is a wonderful place—until it doesn't need you. Then it stinks."

And so every time she walked into the building she dropped a coin in the little box and thought that her fullback was certainly a nice guy.

Paul's office was at the end of the L. It was big, overwhelming. It had floors carpeted in pale blue and rose-wood paneled walls, on which hung autographed pictures of Hollywood's mast important stars. There were several cream leather and chrome chairs in the reception room, and there was always the soft-looking girl called Susie at the receptionist's desk, busily typing letters.

Elaine had a fond affection for Susie, and once when she looked deep into Susie's blue eyes she could read the long wait of trying to get a screen test. She couldn't act, she knew that, but still she waited, silently and without much hope and with never a complaint.

Susie, Elaine knew, would make some man a very wonderful and sweet wife. She only hoped it wouldn't be Paul.

Paul's office was even grander than the reception room. The light, ivory walls were dotted with small rich paintings. His desk wide and gleaming. The deep leather chairs were capped by a long wide davenport. The room's fixtures were bright with their chrome.

Elaine hac asked him the first time she'd seen the office: "Do ou wyork here, os is it just for show and visiting firemen?"

He looked up glumly when she pushed open his office door. He was staring at a group of stills and his desk was cluttered with copy paper and press books and letters.

"What's the matter with you?" she asked "Feeling unimportant today?"

He shoved aside the stills. "The Chicago exhibitors are barking dow nmy throat. They don't like these pictures of Williams. Chalmers is hopping mad because we didn't give him enough play on his productions in the year-end press book, and Julian wired from New York that our man there failed to meet hi mat the station and there weren't any reporters or photographers to take pictures of him. Michael his mind about the kind of press has called four times to change releases he wants on your pic- chair. "And Sam just called to ture." He leaned back in his tell me you're going back to New York. I feel very unimportportant today."

Elaine sat down, fluffed the rain out of her hair. "The California weather, you know. I still have to hold onto that raincheck."

Paul made a face at the rain and then smiled at Elaine. "I guess you did a neat job on that picture. Sam said he didn't need Eaton and Stewart behind you."

There was a silence and they both examined the room's furniture unobjectively.

"I'm supposed to take you over to photographic and have some press stills made of you." Paul said.

Elaine only grunted.

"Annie needs me. He wants a new play this winter. And I need to get back there and have the smell of a dusty stage inside me again."

Paul nodded silently. "I wonder if you ever thought I might need you."

She was standing by him. "I've thought about that, lots of times, Paul. But don't need me too much—not yet."

Her hand strayed to the clipping of a Broadway reporter's column, crumpled in a pocket of her raincoat. She wished she'd never seen the column; never known Lee Collins, nor had left him stranded in New York with a bad play and an equally bad hangover.

She tried to shut out the printed words about Karen breaking her engagement to Lee; about his being Broadway's latest and most successful failure.

She wished with all her soul that Lee didn't need her—that only Paul had the right to claim her and possess her forever.

Paul wet his lips and stared at her for a long moment. "So long, ankle. I love you."

Elaine was at the door, opening it and watching Susie walk out of the office. She looked at Susie's neatly cut dress that molded to her form, the high heels and the trim ankles.

"With Susie just outside," Elaine grinned, "how can I believe you?"

She closed the door and walked out into the rain, glad that nobody could tell whether it was rain or tears on her cheeks.

Elaine was glad to feel the cool air, the snappishness it had that meant fall in New York. She liked to walk through the park and see the brown and golden leaves threading their way through silent and half-empty tree branches. She gloried in the sun that was warm yet tinged with the fall.

It seemed a different world to her. It was not like the lazy sunshine of California or the sudden rainstorms that made everything bright and green. It was not like the width of Sunset Boulevard or the wide stretches of the beach to be in New York. But it seemed like home.

She hurried through the park and across the busy street toward Ricardo's where Brann and Minnie were waiting for her. She could see the huge marquee sign telling about Benny Goodman, the King of Swing, and the long and twisting lines of youths the papers were calling jitterbugs waiting to get inside the theater to hear the sweet and shrill sounds of a clarinet playing "A-Tisket, A-Tasket."

Across the street in another theater a show called "Hellzapoppin" was making some sort of history.

The summer now seemed a little distant; the lively events such as Joe Louis knocking out Max Schmeling at Yankee Stadium in one round, and Howard Hughes flying around the world in three days and 19-odd hours, and Douglas Corrigan, starting from Long Island for California, winding up in Ireland flying an antiquated plane.

While Elaine was crossing the street and hurrying to Ricardo's, a little man with a round face and glasses was staring intently at press radio copy and then broadcasting in his crisp articulation the news of the Czechoslovak crisis, interpreting the doings of such men as Hitler, Henlein, Benes, Hodza, Chamberlain, and Daladier—men and circumstances in "Yirrup," as H. V. Kaltenborn called it.

Ricardo's was, as usual, crowded with theatrical personages when Elaine entered. She waved to many of her old friends and headed for the table the Branns occupied.

She had been back from Hollywood nearly a week but it had seemed like she'd never left New York when she was with the Branns. They made her feel happy, they quieted the restlessness in her.

"Look, Anthony, how the wind makes her cheeks like natural rouge," Minnie was saying, pressing Elaine's hand as she sat down.

Brann slowly put down the afternoon paper he was reading and smiled at Elaine. "How's my movie star?"

Elaine blushed. "If you're both nice to me, I'll take you to the New York premier of my picture."

"Pooh!" Brann said with mock seriousness. "I shall be busy reading a good play by a Miss Elaine Grayson. Ever hear of her? She's going to have a play ready for me soon, isn't that right?"

"Anthony," Minnie admonished. "Stop rushing the girl. The New York dress shops haven't seen her for months, so let her go visit them without plays for you on her mind."

"Good," Brann said. He glanced down at the folded paper. "The way things are going in Europe, you can't tell what it will do to the show business."

Elaine watched the waiter place their food on the table. She did not see Lee walk into Ricardo's did not see him until he was silently looking down at her.

He nodded to the Branns, spoke quietly to Elaine. "Hello, Elaine."

She tried to keep the restless feeling down, tried to bite back the emotion that flooded her throat when she saw Lee. He was haggard looking, his face lined and tired, his clothes a little seedy.

"Lee," she whispered. "Lee, dear."

He seemed uncomfortable, looking as if he were a little sorry he had stopped at the table. "Well, how is Hollywood?"

Brann was pulling back a chair motioning Lee to it.

Lee shook his head. "No, thanks a lot. I've—I've got to meet a fellow here. He's interested in a new play of mine." He looked again at Elaine, his eyes searching her face, then moved away.

Elaine absently moved her fork back and forth across the tablecloth. Slowly she said: "He's slipped a lot, hasn't he?"

"On just one play, too," Brann said. "Most writers keep at it, usually click again. But Collins won't. He's weak."

"Please, Annie," Elaine said.

"He didn't mean that, Elaine baby," Minnie said, pressing her hand.

Brann shoved his plate away from him, leaned across the table. "I know why you came back to New York, Elaine. It was because of Lee Collins. Don't be a fool. Leave him alone. Get him out of your life."

Brann was thoughtful for a moment. "I don't know. I think it is. I can't stand by and see Elaine mess up her own life over somebody like Lee Collins."

Elaine stood up. "I'm sorry I had to spoil our dinner. I'll be all right some day, Annie. Just let me work it out myself."

Brann was standing, smiling at Elaine. "I know you will. I just hate to see you not take a nice fellow like Paul."

"Stop being a cupid and let the girl alone," Minnie said,

Elaine smiled. "You Branns are wonderful people." She walked rapidly out of Ricardo's.

She had not intended to follow Lee. She only wanted to look at him again. That was why she stood in the drug store across the street from Ricardo's and waited for him to leave. It was not long after she had left that Lee walked out, slowly started up the street like a man who has nothing to do and is in no hurry to do it.

She walked a half-block behind him for several minutes, then stopped, realizing how foolish she was. But when Lee turned and casually glanced down the street before crossing to the other side, he saw her.

Critical Housing Shortage In Canada Hinges on Bitter Race Between Supply, Demand

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 10 (CP)—Canada's critical housing shortage hinges today on a bitter race between demand and supply with the demands of perhaps the greatest building boom in history persistently outstripping efforts to find enough labor and materials to meet them so far.

Born of five years of war-shifted populations and diverted manpower and building materials, it is a situation which has no magic answer.

Harassed by a clamor from every corner of the country, the government can only lay emphasis upon the dasic factor that "there is a straight physical limitation—every man available, every bit of material available, is being used.'

From the varied departments concerned in this capital, itself still drastically short of homes, come these statements on a shortage that pinches as much the towns of New Brunswick as the cities of Montreal and Toronto:

1. Bluntely, in all probability, there still will be a housing shortage a year hence.

2. In these incipient stages of reconversion, home construction, particularly for returning veterans, has top priority. Rid of all restrictions, now getting every possible governmental help, the labor and supply markets are lifting themselves from the barren levels of wartime but the terrific building backlog rooted in the depression and in the war, consistently outstrips them both.

Big Year Expected

3. That backlog demand, linked with steadily dwindling shortage, will undoubtedly make 1946 a construction year without parallel.

4. The pressure inherent in that backlog will last a "long time" — nobody here will flirt with even rough estimates on the time factor—but, said Reconstruction Minister Howe recently: "I am confident that within the next few months the difficulties builders are meeting will be largely overcome."

5. Certain building materials, particularly hardwood flooring and finishing lumber will "remain scarce for some time" but the "key to increased probolition rests in the flow of labor." Said Mr. Howe: "The construction industry, normally our largest employer of labor, now has only a small fraction of its usual complement." But its payrolls, swelling with discharged servicemen and transferred war workers, are growing weekly.

With all these obstacles, however, only 1928 can compare with the pace of building now proceeding in Canada. Government predictions, after toying with various qualifications and figures, have boiled down to Mr. Howe's statement that "it now appears we shall come close to (building or beginning) 50,000 housing units in 1945 and we may even surpass that."

3,700 Short of Objective

But the labor department, harking back to shortages, estiabout 13,000 housing projects were under way, some 3,700 short of the target total.

Of the 48,000 units either built in 1945 or being built on Sept. 1, 38,000 were for private builders, many of them under the National Housing Act. The Veterans' Land Act was gunning for 3,000 and Wartime Housing Limited for 7,000.

Considered first in importance in alloting men and materials—now costing 35 per cent, over-all, more than in 1939—are low cost, low rental homes especially for veterans and "until private capital can undertake their construction" Wartime Housing Limited will try to do so.

Behind them come "reasonably priced homes for sale to veterans" under Finance Minister Ilsley's plan of integrated housing developments.

Only small houses and "industrial expansion promising substantial continuing employment" are being granted building permits freely.

How You Can Get Quick Relief From Sore, Painful Piles

Most people seem to think the only way to get relief from their sore, painful piles is by local treatment. Local treatment may give temporary relief from the itching but you can easily see why such treatment will not correct the cause of your piles.

No lasting freedom from pile misery can be had unless the cause of the trouble is corrected. Piles are due to internal causes so the best way to get lasting relief is to treat them internally with a medicine like Hem-Roid.

Hem-Roid is a formula that has been used for over 40 years by thousands of pile sufferers. It is a small, highly concentrated tablet, easy and pleasant to use. This cleverly compounded tablet formula directs its medical action to relief of the congestion that is the real cause of your piles. Hem-Roid promotes free, easy and comfortable bowel movements, quickly relieves itching irritation and soreness and stimulates better blood circulation in the lower bowel. With good blood circulation in the lower bowel the painful pile tumors soon heal over leaving the sensitive rectal membranes clean and healthy.

We invite you to try Hem-Roid and let it prove itself. You can make your test, in the privacy of your own home. NO COST if you are not convinced that this is an amazingly easy and surprisingly effective method of treating your sore, painful piles.

Get a package of Hem-Roid today from any drug store and use it as directed for JUST FIVE DAYS. At the end of that time if you are not absolutely sure Hem-Roid is the nicest, cleanest and most effective pile treatment you ever tried, return the unused portion of the package to your druggist and he will promptly refund your money.

NOTE: This generous offer is backed by a reliable firm doing business in Canada for a good many years. Hem-Roid must help your pile condition quickly, easily and pleasantly or this simple, easy test costs you nothing. Try it today.

WINDSOR STRIKE

Mr. Abbott told the House that Canada's permanent peacetime navy would consist of a strength of 10,000 men with a backlog of 18,000 men in a single reserve force. This latter force would be known as the Reserve Royal Canadian Navy.

Earlier Justice Minister St. Laurent, acting Secretary of State for External Affairs, said the government had no intimation that an Imperial Conference might be held while Prime Minister Mackenzie King was in Britain. He also disclosed that suggestions the United Nations headquarters be located in Canada and other countries had been considered before the executive committee of the preparatory commission meeting in London had decided to recommend a site in the United States.

The verbal exchange in the strike debate came when Agriculture Minister Gardiner, former premier of Saskatchewan, asked M. J. Coldwell if he was in favor of a closed shop. The C. C. F. leader said he did favor a closed shop and wished to recall that a Liberal government of Saskatchewan, whether in the time of Mr. Gardiner or his successor, had given a closed shop to teachers, doctors and lawyers.

Flurry Through House

A flurry went through the House where many of the members are lawyers.

Capt. Walter Tucker (L — Rosthern), himself a Saskatchewan lawyer, said lawyers did not have a closed shop in that province. They could be admitted to the bar on passing an examination.

Mr. Coldwell said as well as passing an examination, they had to pay a fee of $1,500 if admitted to the bar and that was equivalent to a closed shop.

Mr. Coldwell said the strike was not a political issue and the C.C.F. was not raising it as such. But the party would raise every similar issue when it occurred because it believed the welfare of the people depended on the welfare of the worker and farmer.

It was not to be forgotten, he said, that Ford and General Motors were among the companies in Germany which contributed to Hitler's fund.

C.C.F. Makes Charge

"The people who fattened under Hitler were the employers who tried to destroy the trade unions," the C.C.F. leader charged.

It was in the interest of Canada that the Ford strike be settled quickly. Premier George Drew of Ontario had said the responsibility for settlement was mainly that of the Federal government. The C.C.F. leader believed it was time a controller was appointed to take charge of the plant.

Mr. Mitchell told the House that labor contracts could not be negotiated in the Commons. They had to come as a result of give and take and mutual confidence and he appealed to all concerned to avoid statements which would make a settlement difficult.

"In this period of reconversion with our free economy and under democratic institutions," he said, "I believe the unions and the employers have to sit down and size up the economics of their industry and, if I may use crude language, see how much the traffic will bear, both sides having in mind the well being of the nation as a whole.

Done Great Deal.

"I believe that with the development of industrial councils we have done a great deal in the last few years. I am free to admit that this is a matter of slow and steady growth but we can move out of this difficult period and build a nation of which all of us will be proud."

Mr. Mitchell warned that no one could stop the growth of the trade union movement in Canada. Mr. Martin followed this up by saying there had been indications in the Ford strike of an attempt to "break the union." They could be seen in "public pronouncements of certain important individuals in the particular plant involved."

"Any company that tries to break the union will find that it cannot succeed in ultimate terms," said Mr. Martin. "They may succeed for the moment but if they do they will bring tremendous discredit upon themselves and they cannot and will not succeed."

Leadership Required.

Lt.-Col. David Croll (L—Toronto-Spadina) former mayor of Windsor who left the post of Ontario Minister of Labor because he sided with the union and disagreed with government policy on another automobile strike at Oshawa in 1937, said animosities in the Ford strike had become so deep that new faces would have to appear at any conference table before there could be a chance of success.

Leadership was required. The Minister of Labor had power to summon either Wallace Campbell, Ford president or the union leaders. If he did so the responsibility would be on those who did not answer the summons.

"All we can ask is that they be called together, that they be put into a room," said Col. Croll. "Let them decide. Let them talk it out."

In the Senate Senator G. G. McGeer (L—British Columbia) urged that the upper chamber undertake a study of Dominion-Provincial relations. Senator Peter Campbell (L—Ontario) said Canada's income tax act had got beyond the possibility of interpretation even by experts.

MACARTHUR ORDERS SOCIAL, POLITICAL REFORMS

NO "SHARE THE BOMB" PLAN FOR U. S.

President Harry S. Truman tells reporters that the United States has no intention of giving any other nation the secret of "the industrial know-how" of building an atomic bomb. He said that every nation has access to the scientific knowledge regarding it. He told this to reporters at a front-porch conference at the cottage in Tiptonville, Tenn.

Britain and Hungary Said To Have Had Secret Pact

London, Oct. 11. (CP)—The Exchange Telegraph reported today the existence of a secret agreement between the Allies and Hungary during the war whereby Allied aircraft enjoyed the freedom of the air over Hungary and refuge there if forced down, in return for not bombing Hungarian cities.

The agreement, the Agency said in a dispatch from Budapest, was kept until March, 1944, when the expansion of German military establishments in Hungary made it no longer possible.

The dispatch said both British and American planes flew over Hungary en route to targets in Germany without being fired upon and that many Allied pilots landed damaged planes in Hungary where the crews were secretly cared for in hospitals.

Principal Crown Witness Heard

Sudbury, Oct. 11 (CP)—Olavi Salminen, principal Crown witness in the murder trial of Toivi Nurmi, Finnish-Canadian farmer charged with the July 26 shooting of neighbor Kalle Saari, yesterday quoted Mrs. Nurmi as shouting to him shortly after the shooting, "Nurmi shot Kalle."

Salminen, who said he had been a friend of 55-year-old Saari for 10 years, testified he was returning from haying operations when he saw Mrs. Nurmi standing on a dock near the scene of the shooting at Beaver Lake, isolated settlement 35 miles west of here.

Salminen also quoted Mrs. Nurmi as saying:

"Kalle came at me. I yelled and Toivi shot. Then we went to the body and he appeared dead to me."

Shortly afterward, Salminen said, Nurmi showed him the tree from where he fired a shot.

The trial opened with the Crown calling witnesses in an attempt to determine time and origin of the shot which killed Saari at his Beaver Lake home.

Nurse Warned Not to Leave

Wiesbaden, Oct. 11 — (AP) — Irmgard Huber, 44-year-old head female nurse at the Nazi murder factory at Hadamar, today told a United States Military Tribunal before which she and six other attendants are on trial for their lives, that she "felt terrible" about the uncounted number of persons who were killed there.

The nurse, thin and pale, asserted, however, that she was warned "something terrible" would happen to her if she attempted to leave her post or refuse to work.

With other attendants, she said, she was forced to take an oath of silence when Hitler's "communal foundation for institutional care" began gassing thousands of incurable lunatics at Hadamar and later began killing by means of injections.

The witness denied she had ever given any injections or had any direct hand in the killings. When she attempted to resign, she was told that "during the war there is no release and you must stay at your post like a soldier."

BIG STICK POLICY WARMLY GREETED IN CONGRESS

Would Withhold Loans To Britain and Russia Until Both Change Their Attitude

By CLAIR JOHNSON

Washington, Oct. 11 (AP)—Congress reacted warmly today to a House of Representatives committee's proposal that the United States withhold loans to Russia and Britain until both countries make certain policy changes.

But several key officials said they wished the committee had not been so blunt. They expressed fear that what they termed "undiplomatic language" would place added strains on relations between the United States and its wartime Allies.

Suggestions concerning lending policy came from the postwar economic policy committee headed by Rep. W. M. Colmer (Dem., Miss.).

Just returned from a two-month tour of Europe the group urged specifically that before any loans are made:

1. Russia be required to adopt an "open door" attitude toward United States technicians and the press.

2. Britain unlock trade barriers "inimical" to United States interests.

Congressmen questioned were unanimous in approving the committee's views.

However, Chairman Sol Bloom (Dem., N.Y.) of the House Foreign Affairs committee told a reporter:

"They said what most congressmen probably believe, but that's not the way to promote good relations. You can't fight your way through this world. You have to sit down and talk things over with your neighbors."

A high administration official, asking that his name not be used, said in an interview:

"I can't say this for attribution, but the feeling is almost unanimous in Congress for cracking down on Britain and Russia. It's too bad, but that's the way it is.

"However, I think we would be better off to reflect these views to the two nations privately, instead of using a big stick on them in public. Naturally, they will resent a report such as this one".

State department officials said that actually the current negotiations with Britain are being conducted on the basis suggested by the committee, at least so far as economic policy is concerned. Britain is seeking a $5,000,000,000 loan. Russia has asked tentatively for $6,000,000,000 but discussions have not yet begun.

Members of the Colmer group said they expect to see President Truman soon to relay their recommendations to him.

They called for "a stiffening" of the United States attitude and said they believe the State department should negotiate for "at lease partial payment", of lend-lease in the form of tangible assets.

10 R.C.N. Ships Now Headed For Scrap Heap

Montreal, Oct. 11. (CP)—Eight destroyers, one minesweeper and one frigate, all of which saw service with the Canadian navy during the war, are headed for the scrap heap. War Assets Corporation announced today that the ten craft are offered for sale for scrapping purposes.

The destroyers include two old four-stacked craft obtained from the United States during the war—H.M.C.S. Niagara and Columbia—and six river class destroyers, all of which are at Sydney, N.S., or will be in a few days. The river class craft include H.M.C.S. Saguenay, badly damaged with some forty feet of her stern missing, Kootenay, Ottawa, Restigouche, St. Lambert and Saskatchewan.

The minesweeper is H.M.C.S. Stratford, which lies in a damaged condition at Halifax, and the frigate, now at Quebec, is the badly damaged H.M.C.S. Magog, which has a large portion of her stern gone.

Hitler's Supermen in Prison Camps Lost Arrogance After VE-Day

By GEORGE A. YACKULIC
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Lethbridge, Alta., Oct. 11 (CP)—Great changes in the attitude and outlook of German prisoners of war have marked their years of captivity in Canada.

When they started pouring into the Dominion early in July, 1940, the majority showed arrogance in every move and lost no opportunity to display and shout their Nazism.

Captured early in the war, they were the cream of Germany's crop of warriors. They were Hitler's "supermen," cock-sure of Germany winning the war.

Scoffing at their enemies as idiots and holding them in contempt, the captives poured into Canada believing Hitler would shortly destroy his enemies and they would be the vanguards of Germans coming here to rule Canada.

They never stopped shouting "Heil Hitler!" They goose-stepped.

Such were the majority of the 13,246 Germans I watched go into the large prisoner of war camp here nearly three years ago.

Most of them marched into the camp ridiculing the small group of Canadians who watched them as "you damn fools" and "swine."

One Nazi airman I remembered particularly well after he thumbed his nose and shouted: "We'll do to you what we did to the Canadians at Dieppe and then chase you into the camp, you damn fools."

I saw him again the other day. He was meek and mild and humble.

Remembering the show of Nazism when the captives marched into the camp, I especially looked for Nazi signs when inspecting the camp the other day. I found not a single one there or at the work hostels.

The only time Hitler's name was mentioned was when I asked captives about him. Generally speaking, most of the interviewed captives stated they believed Hitler to be dead.

Wing Cmdr. Birchall Tells Story of Torture And Violence by Japs

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 11 — (CP) — A man who came back from the dead to name brutal Japanese murderers told a story of torture and violence here Wednesday night.

Wing Cmdr. Len Birchall, 30, of St. Catharines, Ont., looked lean and pinched as he sat in the press gallery lounge of the House of Commons. In a voice, pitched only slightly louder than a whisper, he condemned his captors in a cold recitation of experiences from April, 1942, when he fell into Japanese hands until his liberation last August.

In Serious Mood

He was in serious mood and smiled only when he disclosed that he had placed documents in the hands of the Allied War Crimes Commission furnishing evidence against enemy officials who had physically and mentally tortured him and other prisoners.

Birchall arrived in Ottawa late Wednesday night after a long air journey which began in Japan with his liberation two months ago. Since then he had time to buy a new R.C.A.F. uniform which replaced a nondescript outfit — made up of both United States, and British equipment — he wore on arrival.

Disclosing some hitherto unpublished facts about his capture, he said his first beatings came as a result of a message from his own base asking a repeat of his famous warning to Ceylon. It was only on his release two months ago that he learned he had won the D.F.C. for this exploit.

Corporatism is Another Way Of Preaching Disunity In Canada Says Sen. Bouchard

Ottawa, Oct. 11 — (CP) — The advocating of corporatism "is another way of preaching disunity in Canada," Senator T. D. Bouchard (L — Quebec) told the Senate yesterday. He suggested the government counteract attacks on the present economic system by correcting past abuses.

Senator Bouchard criticized a move to substitute a "form of revolutionary socialism on Fascist corporation" for free enterprise and said its strongest supporters were those who had publicly declared themselves willing to make Quebec a "Catholic and French state."

(In June, 1944, Senator Bouchard made a widely-discussed speech in the Senate, in which he charged a secret order of Jacques Cartier, supported by some of the Catholic clergy, was trying to make Quebec a separate French-Catholic state.)

Dismissing as a "negligible quantity" Socialist efforts to gain power, he warned that corporatism was being advanced openly in Quebec, "and because it is patronized by high personages its adversaries dare not oppose it thru public denunciation."

He said he felt it his "duty" to speak, "before corporatism becomes a religious dogma that cannot be discussed in my province . . in order to protect freedom of labor and individual enterprise."

Correct Past Abuses

It would be "absurd" to submit Quebec industries to a corporatism regime and leave those of other provinces under private enterprise. This aromaly disappears to advocates of corporatism because Quebec would be autonomous.

WILL ASK LOCALS TO ENDORSE STAND OF POLICY COM.

Purposed Strike Would Involve 20,000 Workers in 33 Windsor Plants

Windsor, Oct. 11 —(CP)—Members of Local 195, United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.), will be asked at a general mass meeting tonight to endorse the unannounced stand of the point policy committee of the three Windsor locals. The stand was reached last night at a closed meeting of the committee.

The committee was believed to have discussed the possibility of a general strike in sympathy with the month-old one at the Ford Motor Car Company of Canada, Ltd., plant here. The proposed strike of Local 195 would involve more than 20,000 workers in 33 Windsor area plants.

The 10,000 Ford workers have been on strike over terms of a collective bargaining contract.

Votes favoring strike action and committees to handle any possible strikes already have been completed in a dozen of the plants employing Local 195 members.

Approval of the general membership meeting would be necessary before a strike could be called by Local 195. In event of such action, union officials said the strike probably would not be called before Monday. The Ford strike was called by U.A.W. Local 200.

Meanwhile C. H. Millard, National Director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) said yesterday there is a possibility of a sympathy strike among Canadian steel workers unless the Ford strike is settled soon. Labor, he said, "undoubtedly would give serious consideration" to the possibility of a sympathy strike "rather than see the Ford workers let down in the struggle for their legitimate aspirations."

FARM PROBLEMS HEARD IN HOUSE FOR SECOND DAY

Bill to Provide For Canada Participation In Food Organization Gets Second Reading

(By FRANK FLAHERTY)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 11. (CP)—Problems of the farmer came before the Commons today for the second day in succession.

Second reading of Agriculture Minister Gardiner's Bill to provide for Canadian participation in the United Nations Food and Agriculture organization today was expected to bring members from rural seats to their feet with views on the effect of long-range international planning on the interests of Canadian food producers.

The Bill is expected to get speedy passage since the organization is holding its first conference at Quebec next week and Canada and the host country has not yet formally approved the set-up of the agency designed to improve nutrition standards of countries which have food deficiencies and provide more stable returns for producers in exporting countries such as Canada.

Yesterday, private members day, the Commons debated, without reaching a vote, a resolution calling for creation of a Board of Livestock Commissioners. It was sponsored by William Bryce, (CCF-Selkirk) and sponsored by other CCF and some Progressive Conservative members.

Claims Bill Ultra Vires

Mr. Gardiner, who has the floor at adjournment, said creation of the proposed board, one which would control marketing of livestock and livestock products, would be ultra vires of the Federal parliament and in any case he did not think the proposals sound.

Mr. Bryce and other sponsors of the resolution cited the Board of Grain Commissioners as a precedent and said they wanted a similar agency for livestock.

Mr. Gardiner said lawyers were of the opinion the Board of Grain Commissioners Act was unconstitutional but no one had taken it to the courts because it worked to the satisfaction of all.

Campbellford, Oct. 11 — (CP) —Tests were made yesterday with indicator floats but searchers found no trace of six-year-old Barbara Radford, missing since last Thursday. The work of two professional divers has supplemented dragging operations.

Vital Fabrications for Atomic Bomb Project Shipped in Special Cars

(By HOWARD BLAKESLEE)
Associated Press Science Editor)

Oak Ridge Tenn., Oct. 11—(AP)—A meter about the size of a small radio rode on the freight cars that brought strange and hitherto unheard of parts to the vast atomic bomb plants here.

Sock-'em-Sam, as the meter was known, registered how hard every bump was, whether the trip was 100 or 1,000 miles. He was concealed in the car. The railroad men didn't know where or when, but it gave them incentive to be extra careful in switching the cars.

Many of these rare fabrications were shipped on cars equipped with special springs. In one of the plants here, there was no item of equipment of major importance that was not both new and different.

Although this plant alone carried thousands of different types of spare parts, there were fabrications so unusual and difficult that only one could be made in time to meet the rush requirements. Some other parts were made in numbers of only a few hundred each.

Safe transportation by freight, where the parts were bulky, became a major need. The railroads did a perfect job under the department of procurement and delivery.

The United States Army went to manufacturers and asked them to make things they had never heard of and many of which had never before been made at all. The manufacturer had to take on faith the promise that his contribution would be worth while. He could not be told what it was for.

Most of them took the attitude that, if it can be done, we will do it. The head of one great company signed a contract to do one of the seemingly-impossible jobs before he was told even what was to be made.

Time was always a big handicap. The industrialists would give the quickest time they figured to produce the part or parts, only to be told that was not fast enough. Many means were adopted to secure the necessary speed-up. Manhattan, the camouflaged name for the atomic-bomb project got to mean green light in industry.

Will Send Home 1,250,000 Troops In Next Six Months

Premier Shidehara Calls On MacArthur for Instructions

Tokyo, Oct. 11 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today gave orders for sweeping social and political reforms in Japan and announced plans for sending home 1,250,000 American soldiers for the Pacific theatre in the next six months.

The troops will return to the United States at the rate of approximately 250,000 a month, leaving by the end of March only 400,000 occupation and garrison troops in the entire far-flung Pacific theatre.

The announcement further reduced the number of troops which the Allied commander expects to keep in Japan. Previously he estimated 200,000 troops would be sufficient, but today's announcement disclosed that 200,000 would do the job both for Japan and Korea. The total would include four combat divisions on Japan and two on Korea. The balance would be air service and occupation force specialists.

Gen MacArthur met Premier Shidehara for an hour late today, telling the new Japanese government head that the five major reforms needed in Japan would necessitate revision of the constitution and that:

"I expect you to institute them as rapidly as they can be assimilated."

Put up to Premier.

Gen. MacArthur likewise put it squarely up to Shidehara to take prompt and "vigorous" action to see that the Japanese people are clothed, fed and housed during the coming winter.

The meeting at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters was initiated by Shidehara shortly after he had completed his cabinet and called on the Emperor. It came shortly after the Allied supreme commander had directed the Japanese government to report within 90 days all foreign exchange assets, including private holdings and foreign properties of the Imperial household.

Allied headquarters also announced revocation of permission to the Japanese to operate an air courier and liaison transport service. The job will be taken over by United States airmen.

Cost of the war to Japan from July, 1937, to its end was indicated by the commercial daily paper, Nippon Dangyo, which said the Japanese funded borrowings at the end of July, 1945, amounted to 114,289,000,000 yen $6,619,253,665).

Includes Votes For Women.

The reforms which Gen. MacArthur told Shidehara must be made in carrying out surrender terms included votes for women, labor unionization, liberalization of education, abolition of all secret governmental police and revision of industrial monopolies.

Crown Witnesses Heard in Court

Cornwall, Oct. 11 — (CP)—Six crown witnesses gave evidence yesterday at the opening of the trial of Clarence Hutt, 33, Williamsburg Township farmhand, charged with the murder of his uncle, George McFadden of Cardinal, Ont., on Aug. 14, 1943.

Arthur Bell, Brinston, Ont., farmer who employed Hutt, said he gave Hutt the afternoon off Aug. 14 after Hutt said he was going to take his "Uncle George" to Ottawa from where McFadden would leave for Western Canada. "That night," he said, "Hutt returned, wearing a new suit of clothes and driving an automobile."

Mrs. Jessie Crowder of Carthage, N.Y., whose parents occupy a farm next to the Bell farm, said she was visiting her parents during August, 1943, and went to Morrisburg, Ont., the evening of Aug. 14. He bought a new suit in Morrisburg. Later, she said, she drove to Cornwall with Hutt and drank beer with him. He bought her a wrist watch for $7, she said, and "seemed to have money in every pocket." She saw him count out $100, she added.

Mrs. Nelda Steele of Cardinal said she had known McFadden 17 years and had assisted him in business transactions. She said McFadden had invited her to accompany him to Morrisburg the afternoon of Aug. 14 but she had declined. McFadden assured her then that he would return that night, she said. On May 25, 1944, she told police of McFadden's disappearance.

Mike Bates, official mayor of the community and veteran guide, hunter and Wild Life conservationist, says with authority that Anne ranks with the best guides when it comes to leading hunters to wild game.

POLICE COURT

Youths Charged With Raiding Melon Patches

Eight Sidney township youths and young men appeared in county police court Thursday morning, on charges of raiding melon patches in the Marsh Hill district and following pleas of guilty were given six months suspended sentence and ordered to make restitution and pay costs of the court.

Charles Smith, 6th Concession of Sidney township, told the court that he had chased "hundreds" of people from his melon patch and he had in some instances been forced to remain up all night guarding his melons. September 22, four of the young men had been in his patch and were later apprehended, they admitted to taking 20 melons.

Four other youths were charged with attempted theft of melons from Percy DeMille, also of Marsh Hill. Licence number of their auto had been ascertained with the boys later being approached by Provincial Constable James Driscoll.

Many Traffic Cases.

Traffic cases comprised the balance of the morning's proceedings with four motorists pleading guilty in writing to their respective charges and paying fines and costs. One motorist was assessed $25 and costs for speeding at 80 miles per hour, while two others accused of driving without proper lights paid $4.50, including costs.

Although pleading not guilty to the charge Ernest Chesher was found guilty by Magistrate T. Y. Wills, of careless driving and assessed the minimum fine of $5 plus costs of $2.50.

A charge of careless driving against Dennis Callahan, of Shannonville, was enlarged for one week when the accused failed to put in his appearance in court. Mr. Callahan had appeared at the court house last Thursday, when court was called off on account of the return of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

"This man already has appeared according to his summons" commented Magistrate Wills. "It was not his fault that last week's court was called off. The case is enlarged until the accused can appear conveniently."

Bruce Bankey, city, pleaded not guilty to a charge of careless driving arising out of a fatal motor car crash in Corbyville, two weeks ago, when William Blackburn, of this city, suffered injuries to die later in hospital. His case was enlarged for one week as witnesses for the Crown were not in court.

A charge of dangerous driving against John Huffman, was also enlarged when witnesses for the Crown were not produced. The charge arose out of an accident in Cannifton on Sept. 29, when the Huffman driven auto, crashed into a hydro pole, injuring a passenger. E. E. Follwell acted as counsel for the accused.

Model T Ford Cost Only $11 But Still Going

"She's just as good as the day she was made, and I would not trade her for one of your fancy million dollar cars", and Henry Nelson, Gardenville farmer pointed with pride at an ancient Model T Ford car that has its wheels turned inward to enable it to remain upright.

"I got that durned thing for eleven dollars, I don't know how many years ago", he reminisced. "I remember it was commandeered by the police when some people were caught stealing gas and I got the chance to buy her. I did, and I've had plenty of years of service from her".

He calls the old model "Jenny" and even as he spoke there came strange creaks and groans from the "innards" of the jalopy as a neighbor marketer laid tender hands on her body.

"I found out later" Henry went on, "that Jenny came originally from up around St. Thomas way. That's where Mitch Hepburn lives, so I'm told. Well, like Mitch, Jenny here make a lot of noise but she's a d.... good job".

Eddie Lee, Home From Wars, Saw Plenty of Service In France, Belgium and Germany

Hard as nails, fit as a fiddle, looking like the proverbial million bucks and with his proud mother in his arms, Battery Sergeant Major Eddie Lee arrived home from the wars the other day.

The proudest pup in the city was "Paddy," the Lees' dog. He is just that, with no fancy strains of aristocratic pupdom in his veins. "Paddy" is just plain dog with a memory as long as his master's arm.

He took one look at the stalwart sergeant major as he stepped from a car outside his home on John Street. One ear cocked forward quizzically. The dog looked at Miss Pat Lee and the tail wagged. Then the sergeant major spoke,—"Paddy" he said. The dog looked again.

Then it happened. A flying streak of fur swept through the air as the two friends, man and dog, were re-united after four years of separation. "Paddy" nearly went mad with joy. He jumped and barked, tore at his master's clothes with all four paws. He was delirious with joy. "Paddy" hadn't forgotten.

Battery Sergt.-Major Eddie Lee

In Perfect Condition.

Always an athlete and a former professional boxer, Eddie has kept himself in perfect condition during his long years of war service despite the rigors of hard campaigning in the hell of France, Belgium and Germany. Enlisting as a gunner in a field artillery battery here early in the war he soon adapted himself to military life, with its strange discipline and rules and regulations.

Promotion came quickly to the new soldier and it wasn't long before he had his bombardier's stripes. Attention to training and the more or less difficult mathematical phases of artillery training brought him the three stripes of a "Number One" and later in action he was given the crown of a battery sergeant major.

Saw Plenty of Service.

Eddie saw plenty of action while overseas. He flirted with the Grim Reaper on several occasions and one of his most cherished momentoes of a brush with death is a wallet that is punctured by a piece of shrapnel. He was carrying the wallet in the right breast pocket of his battle dress when the shrapnel struck him. He was untouched but now jokingly remarks that it "wounded" one of his best friends whose picture was in the wallet.

Eddie was but a few yards away from one of the guns when a German 88-millimetre shell scored a near direct hit on the piece killing four of the crew and wounding five. Included was the late Gunner "Pop" Robinson of this city who died of wounds received when the shell exploded. The wounded included Bombardier "Pat" Boyle of this city who returned home a few months ago.

Spends Furlough at Home.

Eddie took time out from his artillery duties to follow his favorite sport. He got together a stable of army fighters and his efforts were crowned with success when he saw one of his proteges fight for the divisional championship. "The kid had two strikes on him before he entered the ring in the final bout," Eddie remarked, "for he was a Japanese-Canadian."

At present he is spending a thirty-day furlough with his mother and sisters and expects to get his discharge from the army at the expiration of his leave.

West Huntingdon

West Huntingdon — West Huntingdon citizens observed Thanksgiving holiday over the weekend. The churches in the district heard special messages on Thanksgiving and on Monday the rain assisted in giving some a holiday.

Reverting back to standard time did not make any difference to the usual farmers routine of farm work, for they have to work from daylight until dark. Eight hour day has always been observed eight in forenoon and eight in afternoon.

The one sure thing about farming is that there is nothing sure about it, and although many organizations are staging strikes, the farmers here instead of sulking and complaining have in this most perplexing year worked harder than ever and are most grateful that we are as fortunate as we are.

The Young People's Union met at the parsonage on Friday evening with the president Russell Sills presiding. Arthur Hassall read the lesson and Mr. Clifford Elliott gave the special topic. WILL ASK LOCALS

In Toronto today, a municipal delegation which left Windsor last night headed by Ald. Ernest Davenport expressed hope of seeing Attorney General Leslie Blackwell of Ontario, who is acting Labor Minister, in efforts to find some solution for the strike. The committee is to visit Ottawa later.

May Extend Relief.

Mayor Arthur Reaume of Windsor said city council will meet in six days and will be asked to extend for another week seven-day relief payments to idle Ford workers.

His announcement came amid expressions of support for the strikers. In Toronto, members of the Toronto Jewelry Workers Union (A.F.L.), on strike in 25 Toronto jewelry firms since last Thursday, donated unspecified sums to be forwarded to Local 200. In London the labor council voted $100 toward a fund to be raised by a special committee of the council.

In Montreal, 400 representatives of 4,000 Montreal clothing workers pledged their organizations to raise $6,000 for Ford strike relief. The action was taken at a meeting of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers (C.I.O.)

The order for the reports of foreign exchange assets was the sixth step the Allied command has taken in bringing about tight control of Nipponese finances.

Obviously Allied investigators are on the search for war loot and for the tieups of Japan's big industrialists with the military and Imperialism.

Previous directives had:

1. Forbidden import and export of foreign exchange.
2. Forbidden foreign exchange transactions within Japan.
3. Closed wartime Imperialistic banks and ordered seizure of assets.
4. Forbidden commercial communications from Japan to the outside world.
5. Ordered seizure of government, army and navy precious metals.

Assets Located Abroad

Today's announcement pointed out that many big families in Japan have extensive foreign holdings and "in several cases 35 per cent of their assets are located abroad."

The stated purpose of the financial directives is to assure that all Japanese-owned foreign holdings and gold, silver and platinum reserves "would be available for such purposes as the Allies might direct."

The new directive gave the government, its agencies and the Imperial Household 33 days to file reports. All banks, trust companies, security brokers and other financial institutions were given 43 days. These were believed to cover major holders of foreign assets.

Reports from all sources must be completed within 90 days.

Four of Japan's big industrialists held a press conference today at which they expressed fears "Japanese Communists are waiting for the proper time to rise." Yesterday, in celebrating the Allied-ordered release of political prisoners, 600 Communists, waving red banners, paraded to a point in front of occupation headquarters. On their way, they deliberately turned their backs on—instead of bowing toward — the Emperor's Palace.

Boys Appreciate Kinsmen Fags

"Just a few lines to let you know that it is sure nice to have people think of us boys still held over here in this country. Thanks to all for the smokes I received this month."

Thus reads the note of appreciation received by the local Kinsmen Club from a former Bellevillian, Ted Wessells for smokes which have been sent overseas through the Kinsmen Fag Fund. And dozens of others received indicate that the boys still overseas really appreciate the gesture in providing them with smokes.

And the local Kinsmen club have pledged themselves through their fag fund to continue sending cigarettes overseas just as long as Belleville boys are away from home. Remember, a donation to the fund will help keep those smokes going overseas!

The following Belleville boys last week were each shipped three hundred cigarettes by the Belleville Kinsmen Fag Fund:

BOX FACTORY MAKES HOMES FOR REGINA

Two-Room Cabins Cost $741 and Come in Three Colors. Sixty Ordered by City for Homeless Expected to be Ready Soon

Regina, Oct. 11 —(CP)—The housing shortage in Regina has become so serious that a box factory now is producing homes — two-roomed cabins which cost $741. They come in three colors, white, cream and grey, and roofs are covered with red building paper.

"They all look enough alike without painting them the same colors too," says E. A. Sundberg, manager of the box factory which produces the cabins.

The city of Regina recently placed an order with the factory for 60. A little more than a month later 10 of the houses were up and 40 others were well on the way to completion.

The factory doesn't quite prefabricate the cabins. First the rough lumber is finished as siding, upright lining or whatever is needed. Window sash and doors are obtained ready-made. Then the material is taken to an open lot and hammered into shape as houses.

The lot is covered with cabins, some nearly completed, some at the floor and frame stage. All over the lot carpenters and helpers are laying floors, erecting frames and finishing interiors, and painters are busy.

When a cabin is finished it is hauled away to its location. All 60 are going up in the same area, at Pasqua, Edward and Alexandra Streets. The cabins are not quite completed when moved. Chimneys and storm doors remain to be put on. The city has undertaken to see that they are equipped with stoves.

As soon as possible 10 three-roomed cabins costing $995 apiece will be started, and by the time winter is really here Mr. Sundberg hopes to have them completed—provided the cold weather doesn't arrive too fast. Even now, working on the houses in the open air is a chilly business.

No matter what the weather, the cabins will be as warm as any other houses. "Why shouldn't they be? asked Mr. Sundberg. "They're insulated with shavings and well built." Because they are being built for temporary use, they will not be equipped with plumbing facilities — but they should last a considerable time.

It's not expected that the factory will produce any more cabins after the 60 on contract are completed. The factory will go back to producing boxes.

Dear Sir:

I have been keeping poultry for the last eighteen years with more or less success and have used all the well known brands of feeds, and some not so well known. For the past two years, I have been feeding Miracle feeds almost exclusively with excellent results. Mortality in my flock has been less than one percent since I started using your feeds and my egg production has been wonderful.

Yours sincerely,

True Bill On Murder Charge

Cornwall, Ont., Oct. 11 (CP)—A true bill was returned Wednesday by the Grand Jury against Clarence Hutt, 33-year-old Williamsburg township farmhand charged with the murder of his uncle, George McFadden, 58, of Cardinal.

After the Grand Jury had reported its findings, the remainder of the morning court session was taken up with selection of the petit jury and summation of the case by special Crown Prosecutor Cecil Snyder.

Defence Counsel J. S. Latchford, of Cornwall, challenged 19 members of the petit jury panel before the jury was finally selected.

McFadden was reported missing from his Cardinal home on August 12, 1943. The murder charge was laid last March 23 following the recovery of a badly decomposed body, said to be that of McFadden, from a backwoods swamp land.

The trial is expected to last well into next week, as more than 30 witnesses are expected to testify. Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier is presiding.

Human Minesweepers Used to Clear Harbors

New York, Oct. 11 (CP) — "Human minesweepers" of the Royal Navy in specially-designed diving suits since D-Day have cleared major harbors in northern Europe from Brest to Bremen of mines which could not be removed by ordinary methods, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Groups of these mine disposal experts speeded the liberation of Europe by enabling Allied forces to use the ports in short order, the British information services reported.

Bremen harbor presented one of the most difficult problems. Some 60 mines had been laid by the Germans before the surrender. Their location was unknown and opening of this key port depended on the skill of the mine clearance experts.

Lieut. George Gosse of Adelaide, Australia, in the Royal Australian naval volunteer reserve, was the first to render safe the little-known enemy "oyster" mine in Bremen's harbor.

"The mine was resting on a body—there were plenty of bodies in the harbor" he said. "It was very dark and I had to work by my sense of touch in about two feet of mud. I took off the primer and brought the mine up to the surface. It was like taking the spark plug out of a car—you can do it in the dark if you know what you are looking for."

French Referendum Creating Interest

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Oct. 11 — (CP Cable) — The constitutional referendum in France is creating as keen an interest in the closing stages of the current election campaign as the actual struggle among the political parties.

The chief parties have taken definite stands on how they will urge their supporters to reply to the two questions in the referendum on which the electorate votes Oct. 21, the same as the election for a new national assembly.

The result will determine whether France will have a new constitution or stick by the old one of 1875 and also, if there is to be a new one, the powers of the assembly while the constitution is being framed.

The two questions in the referendum will be answered simply by "yes" or "no" and the election has been dubbed the "yes, yes" and "no, no" contest. This tickled the French sense of humor and colorful women's silk scarves are being sold, woven with the words "qui, quiz" and "non, non."

The first question asks the voters if they want a constituent assembly and if the answer is "Yes", the assembly elected, the same day will have as its principal task the preparation of the new constitution.

If the answer is "no," then the elected assembly becomes the new Chamber of Deputies such as the one which existed until 1940 under the old constitution. A new Senate would be elected within 2 months.

Mayor Gets Kisses Also Cold in Head

Tenby, Pembrokeshire, England, Oct. 11 (CP)—If you spend the afternoon kissing girls, prepare for a cold, Mayor Percy Howell says. He knows.

It all started when his worship attended a carnival to raise £1,000 ($4,500) for the Meyrick Voluntary Hospital and got kissed by a little girl who presented him with a flower.

"I thought it a good idea, so decided to carry on. The audience of 2,000 thought it good too. Money came rolling in—sixpences for short ones, shillings for long ones We did a roaring business."

But the next day Mayor Howell was laid up with a head cold.

Armed Jews Raid Training Depot

Jerusalem, Oct. 11 —(AP)— Palestine military headquarters announced today that a large number of armed Jews raided the Palestine training depot early this morning, overpowered the guard and fled with a quantity of weapons and ammunition.

The raid resulted in a sudden increase in tension which had been reported lessening last night following the arrival of several thousand British reinforcements and the withdrawal of police cordons around the villages of Beth Oren and Yagur.

Police had encircled the towns in an effort to capture 200 Jews who killed one British constable and injured an Arab and a Jewish policeman as they fled from the clearance camp where they had been detained for illegal entry into Palestine.

Meanwhile, in Tel Aviv, a police communique said police were stoned by "a large mob" when they sought to carry on "a routine search."

C.C.F. Policies Are Criticized

Vancouver, Oct. 11 (CP)—Criticism of policies of the C. C. F. party continue to dominate speeches of coalition candidates in the Oct. 25 British Columbia general elections.

Coalitionists, conceding the fact that the C.C.F. is the strongest opposition in their bid for election, at various centres throughout the Province last night urged electors to return the government that piloted the Province through the war years.

Even while meetings were being held, Provincial Secretary George S. Pearson and Attorney-General R. L. Maitland, K.C., sprang a surprise announcement in answer to C.C.F. criticism.

A joint statement issued in Victoria said that all service personnel who have returned to British Columbia since the voters list closed Sept. 17 will be allowed to vote Oct. 25.

The joint announcement said:

"As there has been some question as to whether under existing regulations returning members of the armed forces who are not on the voters' list will be entitled to vote at the forthcoming election, the government has taken action to insure that they shall have the right to vote.

"Regulations have today been passed under which our men and women of the armed forces who have come back home will be able to vote."

OPEN NEW STREETS

More Funds Needed

It has been necessary to extend the Community Chest campaign another week as no more than half of the objective has been subscribed. Now that peace has come the public is not so easily moved by appeals to contribute to charitable causes, probably failing to realize that the funds raised for the different organizations concerned during the war are needed as urgently now as during wartime. To continue the invaluable work money is still required in large volume, and the only source of income is what is contributed by the public.

The Salvation Army, Victorian Order of Nurses, Children's Aid and the Y.M.C.A. all have their special fields of service none of which overlap. We believe everyone is familiar with the type of work which each organization performs, and when they had our confidence in the past they are certainly deserving of it now.

Belleville has contributed $7,500 of the $15,000 needed but we know that a considerable number of people has not given this the consideration the cause merits. All donations will be gratefully received whether they are large or small but the important thing is for everyone to give his or her share. If you have not already done so, won't you help now?

More Meat Available

The decision of the Prices Board to increase the coupon value of cooked and some uncooked meats should react favorably on the public. The protests of those who consume considerable prepared meats, and of the butchers who said the cheaper cuts of meat were not being purchased were it seemed justified for the Board has seen fit to make the changes as reported yesterday. These along with the temporary removal from the ration list of the so-called fancy meats (we wonder how that name ever came to be applied) should enable almost everyone to get by on the ration without any hardship.

The Prices Board and the Government have probably gone as far as they intend to in compromise, and further protests we believe will be unavailing and unjustified. If we are to contribute food to Britain and other of our Allies in sufficient volume to even only partly fill their needs then we should be willing to make the small division from the plenty which is available to us.

Street Signs and House Numbers

A number of complaints are being heard that the present system of placing street names on the sides of houses is not as satisfactory as expected. While this works out fairly well in daytime, and if your eye sight is fairly good the names can be made out, but at night they can be seen only if the traveller uses a flashlight. As might be imagined this sort of procedure causes a lot of annoyance particularly to those who are strangers here or others who are in a hurry.

A couple of suggestions have been offered which might be considered and that is to paint the names of streets on both sides of all "Stop" signs. Where there are no signs then a light metal standard could be placed on all streets leading off a main street and the standard would bear the names of the two streets.

During the war it was not possible to get metal but now with restrictions removed on the use of iron and steel we believe the above plan or another which would serve the same purpose would be of great convenience to those who must find their way around the city after dark.

This brings up the thought of house numbers. A lot of homes here either have no numbers or they are placed in such a location on the fronts of the houses that it takes much searching to find them. Most of us take for granted that all our friends know where we live but give no thought to others from out of the city who must look us up. Anyone can tack up the necessary numbers and if the head of the house is too busy reading the paper or listening to the radio then, perhaps, the hand that rocks the cradle can grab a hammer and some nails and do the job herself. These are, maybe, small matters but they are important in themselves, and help to create a better impression on those who visit our city.

Fourteen Canadian daily newspapers were founded before confederation in 1867.

Forced Dates

California growers are applying to their date crop much the same factory methods that have proved profitable to them in other lines, says The Cleveland Plain Dealer. While shipments from the Near East were cut off by the war they had opportunity to cultivate the market as diligently as they cultivate the fruit, with the result that they consider themselves fairly well entrenched. They know that when trade communications are re-established they will be facing a struggle against low prices, but they hope their superior packing methods will enable them to win, as the standardized packers have in other such struggles.

One of the encouraging things they have learned is that no one knows the productive limit of the date palm when it is properly attended. Fertilizer, water and labor appear superficially to explain sharp increases, but they are not alone. A few details of treatment have helped markedly.

One of their better tricks is covering every cluster of growing dates with a paper bag to keep off the hungry birds and, incidentally, the dust. So far as appears, there is no problem of spraying, but if the date palm has no insect enemy, it is not to be hoped that it can long escape. Another profitable trick is artificial pollenization which the gardeners—the magazine Business Week so labels them—carry out by cutting and drying the male blossoms, then dusting the female blossoms with their pollen.

That seems to be putting bees out of work, but it has helped increase the crop four-fold in a decade.

October

With October now upon the scene, it is becoming more and more apparent that the outstanding month of the year of 1945 was August. That month saw the end of World War II and the beginning of the Atomic Age. It was a far more important month than May when the world got rid of half the Axis, says The Buffalo Courier-Express. But let no one say that August thereby becomes the outstanding month in American history. Let us not forget that it was in October that Christopher Columbus discovered America.

Besides it is in October that the school children of this country, the conservators of the world of tomorrow, really get down to study that they may become the geniuses of the future. You recall that genius has been defined as an infinite capacity for taking pains. September is still too close to vacation time to mean much; it serves mostly as a period of orientation. It is in October that the little minds and the more robust brains, for that matter, begin to absorb knowledge rapidly and prepare the cerebral setting for the gigantic ideas of the future.

The Old Commons

(U. K. Information Office)

Every charred stone of the great arch that leads into the old blitzed House of Commons Chamber is being taken down and numbered carefully, to be re-erected and incorporated in the new Chamber. Scarred and scorched as it is, the arch will be a memorial of the night of May 10, 1941, when the House of Commons was burned, and in some measure to the courage of all the members of the House who stayed and carried on the government of Britain in defiance of German bombings.

Contrast

If you are a small man you may be able to make use of the speech in one sentence spoken by Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, relates Your Life Magazine. At a meeting he attended there were many tall men. Someone said to the doctor, "You must feel rather small among these big fellows."

"I do," replied the doctor, who always thought well of himself. "I feel like a dime among a lot of pennies."

AUTUMN'S PROMISE

When the trees turn red and gold
And the humblest bush appears
Something lovely to behold
As the end of autumn nears,
So I think it certain we,
After all, may fairer be.

When our purpose is fulfilled
And we're done with pain and care,
When whatever God has willed
We have done our best to bear,
With the glory of the fall,
God may grace the souls of all.

Since in autumn naught is seen
Of the spring and summer strife,
So beneath a charm serene
God may hide the scars of life,
And in victory's red and gold
Make us fairer to behold.

Europeans On Bali Tell Of Jap Occupation

By VERN HAUGLAND

Koeta Beach, Sanoer, Bali, Oct. 11. (AP)—Bali's two best-known beach hotels and American-owned residences, once the show place of this island, have disappeared.

Looters who started making off with the furnishings the day the Japanese landed in 1942, within a week had dismantled buildings, even torn up foundations, removed flower-beds and filled in wells.

Europeans who remained on Bali told their first white visitors in four years, however, that they had been well treated by both the natives and the Japanese.

Two Swiss

The Strassers said the only other Europeans on Bali to their knowledge were two Swiss at Selat—a man named Meyer and a Dr. Slager who gave up medicine in Switzerland to study Balinese music. They said Meyer now had a Balinese wife and two children.

Missing is Bali's famed eccentric owner of one of the vanished Koeta Beach hotels. She was believed by some to be American, but she claimed to be from the Isle of Man. She had several names but she was known to her American friends as Vannen Manx.

Le Mayeur said she worked for the Japanese as an interpreter for some months. She came by his house one day weeping hysterically and said she must leave at once.

Later the Japanese came searching for her and said she had run away. Still later an officer told him she had been recaptured in Java and placed in barracks where if bombed she would be the first person to die. The Japanese now at Bali profess ignorance of her fate.

Accused By Japs

Le Mayeur, whom the Japanese once accused of directing Allied planes to their targets, said "the Japanese made their landings right along Koeta Beach here. My wife and I packed my paintings and went into the hills to hide, but after a week the Japanese cycle shop owner, a friend of ours, sent word it was safe to return.

"When we got back we found that the Balinese had torn down places just down the beach and had started taking out my window supports. If I had stayed a few days longer my home would have been gone, too.

"Destruction was the work of a few bad Balinese. As long as there was a likelihood that the owners would return they didn't dare touch anything, but the moment the Japanese landed they knew it was safe to go ahead."

Rubber Situation Better in Malaya

London, Oct. 11 —(CP)— The Exchange Telegraph said yesterday in a despatch from Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, that the overall picture of the rubber situation in Malaya is much brighter than was expected and stories of destruction over vast areas now are being discounted.

British Military Headquarters spokesmen were quoted as estimating that of the 3,500,000 acres of Malaya rubber plantations not more than 5 per cent was destroyed by Japanese to make room for increased food production.

Official figures disclose that 33,000 tons of rubber in bulk and approximately 350,000 gallons of latex have been found so far in North and South Johore. All of this is ready for export.

The Japanese estimate that in Malaya, excluding Johore, there should be 42,000 tons of rubber ready for export.

Nazi Files Reveal British Gallantry

London, Oct 11. (CP)—A picture, taken from the files of the Germans, illustrates how the Victoria Cross was won by the captain of the destroyer Glowworm, nearly five years ago. It shows the gallant but hopeless fight against a ship immensely superior in arms, the German heavy cruiser Hipper.

The photograph, taken from the bridge of the Hipper just before the destroyer sank, reveals the Glowworm laying a smoke screen 400 yards ahead of the bow of the German cruiser, and in the process of firing two torpedoes. Both missed, passing down each side of the Hipper.

The captain of the Glowworm, Lt.-Cmdr. Gerald Roope, died in the action. There were only 31 survivors from the destroyer.

Soviet Collection Of Jewels Safe

Moscow, Oct. 11 —(AP)— The Soviet Union's fabulous treasure of diamonds, rubies, sapphires and other precious stones, unheard of since the war started, is safe, with the most important jewels now back in Moscow.

The Moscow Bolshevik, a bimonthly publication, made the first public mention of the closely guarded collection, explaining it contains literally thousands of rare gems, including seven priceless ones with legendary histories.

The gems include a 136-carat emerald, the famed blue Ceylon sapphire, the world's largest and clearest green chrysolite, the famed Kanhi ruby and the Orlov and Shah diamonds.

Conservative Press Attacks Bill For Nationalizing Bank

London, Oct. 11 —(AP)— The Conservative press attacked the new Labor government's first legislation — a bill for public ownership of the Bank of England — by demanding today to know how the government would employ the power it would thus obtain to issue directives to other banks.

One clause of the bill, which was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday, would continue the Bank of England's traditional method of making recommendations to other banks but specifies that under treasury authorization it may "issue directions to any banker" to back up its requests.

"That is bigger in its applications than nationalizing the Bank of England," commented Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express. "This single sentence in the bill may provide the government with powerful control of the whole of industry. One group of industries may find itself starved of credit while another enjoys the full confidence of the government."

Lord Rothermere's London Daily Mail said the clause was "the big surprise" of the bill.

The London Times questioned how far the power of direction would be exercised "by a policy of persuasion and incentive or by the coercive resources of direct control exercised by the bank."

Bank of England stock yesterday climbed another 4½ points to 393 ($418)—highest in history.

Mauretania's Record Has Been Challenged

London, Oct. 11 — (Reuters) — The Mauretania's record in completing a round-the-world voyage of 28,662 miles in 81 days and 16 hours has been challenged by the Royal Mail liner Andes.

The owners said the Andes, 26,000 tons, left Liverpool on June 29, called at Cristobal, Wellington, Sydney, Australia, Fremantle, Suez, Port Said, Naples and Gibraltar and berthed at Southampton Sept. 10 after anchoring in Cowes Roads on the previous night.

They claimed that Andes thus made the voyage round the world in 72 days eight hours and 55 minutes. Her steaming distance was 26,012 miles and her average daily steaming distance 361.3 miles compared with the Mauretania's 349.5.

JOURNALIST SHOT

Paris, Oct. 11 (AP)—Jean Herold Paquis, one-time boy wonder of French journalism who served the Nazis as a radio propagandist, today was executed by a firing squad at Fort De Chatillon. Three collaborationists who served as Gestapo agents were shot with him on the same grounds where Joseph Darnand, former Vichy militia chief, was executed 24 hours earlier.

Los Angeles, Oct. 11 — (AP) — Elisabeth Kern Shaw daughter of composer Jerome Kern, received her final divorce decree from bandleader Artie Shaw yesterday. A property settlement executed in August, 1944, granted Mrs. Shaw alimony and support for the couple's two-year-old son. The Shaws were married at Yuma, Ariz., in 1942 and separated last year.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

NOT A BRUSH IN THE BOOK

In the five hundred pages of "Nutrition and Physical Degeneration," the third printing of which has just been issued by the author, Weston A. Price, D. D. S. and the reading of which I'd say, is a must before any dentist or physician can even discuss intelligently the conservation of the teeth—in the 527 pages of the new edition one word is conspicuously missing, at least in any significant association—the word toothbrush.

Now I hope you will not suspect there is some collusion here or that I had anything to do with the findings Dr. Price sets forth in this "profoundly significant book"—I quote the quotation from Prof. Earnest A. Hooton's foreword. Dr. Price probably never had heard of me when he was gathering the data and writing the book. No, Dr. Price didn't discover me. I discovered Dr. Price, his book, and I tell the world I now feel much more sanguine about the fate of the nation. What Dr. Price does NOT say about the five-and-ten-cent-store gesture of Wiseacre Yankee customers gives me new hope that Americans of the future may have some teeth.

Doctors and dentists reading this squib will, I imagine, understand what I mean when I say that four-fifths of the new books I buy (that is, books in the field of medicine, hygiene, dentistry, nutrition, health) are hardly worth shelf-space. Every professional man or woman must get stung by most of the textbooks that are so industriously promoted by the textbook publishers nowadays.

Well, this $5.50 volume of Dr. Price's serves to sweeten up the sour taste I get every time I run my eye over the yards and yards of publishers' excelsior I have been sold these last few years.

Any one who can enjoy reading other than the headlines and the so-called comic stripteases will enjoy "Nutrition and Physical Degeneration"—it is as interesting as an article about some strange place or people in the National Geographic Magazine. If your public library hasn't the book, surely the investment would be of inestimable benefit to the community.

To give you an idea—if you just won't read the book for yourself—Dr. Price tells of the people in the Loetschental in valley in Switzerland hemmed in and almost exclusively isolated by snow-capped Alps from the outer world. Examination of the school children (six to sixteen years old) there revealed that only one out of three children had a cavity or a defective temporary or permanent tooth. The nutrition of the people there consists largely of whole rye bread, cheese fresh milk of goats or cows, some meat perhaps once a week, and a limited amount of green garden stuff grown in the short summer. It is clear why they have healthy bodies and sound teeth, remarks Dr. Price. There, I think, you have a book in a sentence.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Odd House

What ever became of that booklet about "Odd House" you were preparing?

(M. S.)

Answer—C'est la guerre. Perhaps we may revive Odd House when the Blah artists get through describing the wonderful new gadgets in preparation and get one or two of them into production. At present it is like pants—no new pants for me till I can get just what I want without having a friend who is a friend of the fellow who sells pants.

Pulse

Is hearing your pulse a symptom of something? Sometimes I hear it loudly and sometimes not at all. (Mrs. J. W. D.)

Answer—It doesn't signify you have bats in your belfry—I began to hear my own pulse loudly sometimes here two or three years ago, but I've been nutty so much longer than that. . . Hearing your own pulse or heartbeat suggests presence of a plug of hardened cerumen (wax) in ear canal, obstruction of Eustachian tube cavity, more rarely other causes. Give yourself the benefit of a thorough medical examination.

YOU'D BE SURPRISED

By GEORGE W. STIMPSON

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

All paper currency issued by the United States government contains a small seal bearing the inscription "Thesaur. Amer. Septent. Sigil."

These words on the official seal of the U. S. Treasury Department are an abbreviation of the Latin phrase "Thesauri Omericae Septentrionalis Sigillum," meaning literally "Seal of the Treasury of North America."

Why "North America" rather than "United States of America?"

On September 26, 1778, the Continental Congress appointed a committee to provide a seal for the "currency department" of the United States. This was more than two years after the adoption of the Declaration of Independence and the appointment of a committee to design a great seal for the new republic.

Who designed this seal and why "North America" was used in the inscription is somewhat of a mystery.

At that time the thirteen former British Colonies were still a group of more or less independent states loosely governed by the Continental Congress, which was little more than a committee of ambassadors.

It may be that the designers of the Treasury seal still hoped that Canada would join the confederation and therefore used "North America" instead of the United States of America. The Articles of Confederation, which did not become effective until 1781, provided for the admission of Canada on the same terms as the thirteen states.

At any rate, this seal has never been changed and it is still the official seal of the Treasury Department.

All paper money for the United States government is made by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, and the placing of the Treasury seal on bills is the last stage in the process of manufacture.

Therefore this seal may be regarded as the signature of the government and the token that gives validity to paper currency.

Both the obverse and reverse of the great seal of the United States appear on the back of the current one-dollar bill.

CHECKERS BEAT WET MASH "HANDS DOWN"

More and more good poultrymen are feeding Purina Laying Checkers as a "top feed" in place of wet mash, because Checkers have so many advantages. They are handy to feed—no mixing, no messing, no pail washing . . . feed them in your Sunday clothes if you feel like it! And they can't spoil or mould or freeze if there are any left over, because they are dry.

Try Purina Laying Checkers as a noon top feed for your layers, this season. Just dump 3 to 5 lbs. per 100 hens in the hoppers every day at noon. You will find they make a real egg-producing addition to your ration, no matter what else you are feeding.

How to make your MEAT SUPPLY
go further

A bulletin on
"Meat-Extenders"

The necessity for Meat Conservation has been made abundantly clear by Government announcements. World production of meat has decreased, due to war disorganization, droughts, man-power shortages and many other causes. At the same time the call for help in feeding the undernourished peoples of Europe cannot be ignored.

Canada has accepted Meat Conservation as it did before, as a humane measure aimed at helping millions less fortunate than ourselves.

With a little ingenuity the average housewife can overcome the meat scarcity by many nourishing substitutes, but it is also important that in times of shortage every scrap of meat should be utilized . . . none should be wasted.

The problem of serving up left-overs in a palatable fashion, which is one of the best means of extending your meat supply, has been dealt with scientifically . . . from the standpoint of dietetics, with an eye also on flavour . . . by H. J. Heinz Company in a booklet: "57 Ways to Use Heinz Condensed Soups."

Two recipes from this book are quoted below as examples of how Heinz Condensed Vegetable Soups will help you meet the meat shortage. Use of soups in this manner not only help to extend your left-over meat, they also add variety, nourishment and flavour to your meals.

MEAT PIE

Brown 1 cup diced left-over meat in 2 tbs. fat. Add a 10-oz. tin Heinz Condensed Vegetable Soup, 1 cup water, ½ tsp. salt and dash of cayenne pepper. Combine thoroughly. Pour into well-greased casserole. Prepare half of standard recipe for baking powder biscuits. Pat dough to quarter-inch thickness and cut with 2-inch biscuit cutter. Arrange 8 biscuits on top of meat. Bake 20 min. in hot oven (400 degrees F.).

BEEF STEW

Sauté a small onion, diced, and 2 tbs. chopped green pepper in 2 tbs. fat. Add 1 cup diced left-over meat. Brown. Add a 10-oz. tin Heinz Condensed Vegetable Soup, 1 cup water, ½ tsp. salt, dash of cayenne pepper. Simmer until heated thoroughly. Serves 3.

There are 55 other recipes in the 40-page booklet recently published under the title: "57 Ways to use Heinz Condensed Soups." Write for a free copy to this company at 420 Dupont Street, Toronto.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Consideration Shown in Prompt Note of Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When should a note of sympathy be mailed, before or after the funeral? T. S.

There is no rule about this. But for those bereaved, the hours between the death and the funeral are long, long hours, sad and heavy-laden, and a note of assurance of warm-hearted sympathy and understanding mailed (or delivered by hand) to arrive during these hours will bring a deep comfort and will show a kind and considerate spirit.

Wish is "No Presents, Please"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I will soon have our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, and to celebrate it we are planning a small dinner-party in a restaurant, inviting our close relatives and a few intimate friends. When writing the guests to invite them, we shall, of course, have to tell them the reason for the party. However, we don't want the guests to bring any present whatever. Would it be proper for us to ask them not to bring gifts? And if so, how can we express this to them? G. N.

Why is it necessary for you to tell your guests the reason for the party? If you could avoid doing this, your problem would probably be solved gracefully, without the awkward request for "no presents". Since you are inviting so few guests, your invitations may properly be either verbally or by telephone, and you might give as the reason for the party that you and your husband "want to give a party now that everyone is back from vacation and we think it would be a pleasant way to have a reunion to start the new season." However, if you find that some of your relatives or friends "remember" the anniversary date, the only recourse you have, if you insist on asking for no presents, is to make this clear to your guests: "Bill and I want so much to have you with us on this occasion so important to us, but we hope you don't mind if we ask you please not to bring us a present".

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion we are having, will you please answer this question: at the wedding reception do the best man and ushers stand in the receiving-line. A. C. T.

No. The best man stands within signaling distance of the bridegroom, so that he may carry out any duty that arises. And the ushers act as co-hosts at the reception, seeing that the reception-line is kept moving, that guests are directed to the room in which the refreshments are served, and that no guest is neglected.

Reconditioning Your Skin

Toning lotion helps bring the skin back to normal

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHAT about the golden-honey skin that looked so grand in midsummer? Is the tan softly stealing away, or is it going off in patches? We do know that women are tearing into beauty shops, asking if they may—for a certain compensation— exchange a gypsy-brown skin for one of gardenia creaminess.

Bleaching treatments are going on full pace. Not the old-time skin-flaying, but bleaching by sensible methods. To tell the honest truth, nothing really changes the color. What treatments do accomplish is to help the skin rid itself of discolored cells, reveal new ones of the natural shade.

Daily Steamings

We would suggest that, if you are tired of being a nutty-brown maid, you give the facial premises daily rousing steamings to produce a speedier shedding. Dip a heavy wash cloth in hot water, press close to the flesh, repeating several times.

Dash on cold water, dry, apply a lotion made by combining equal portions of peroxide and lemon juice. Let the lotion dry on. In the morning use tepid water—the soapy scouring should be at night—and apply cold cream.

Skin Toughened

Tanning toughens the skin, thickens it, and that is why the flesh should be well-lubricated. Frequent creamings will condition it, keep the surface soft and smooth. Unless creams are used, powder is not likely to spread evenly. Also, creams are the ammunition with which you fight old enemy Time.

Sing praises and anthems for the cosmetic chemists who have done so much to help us on the march to the good looks goal. Let us rejoice that we live in an age of beauty privileges.

The beauty industry has advanced steadily during the last few decades. Methods in all departments are based on safety and good sense. Let us not cease to be grateful for pulchritude blessings.

The Experts Say

By HELEN HANNERMAN

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 5. (CP)—Soup of the evening, beautiful soup. . . The soup pot which simmered constantly on the back of the stove and had scraps of meat, bones and left-over vegetables added day by day, disappeared with the coming of the gas and electric stoves, but these days economy in the use of meat demands that every bit of its goodness be utilized. . . .so make soup before the bones are finally discarded.

Soup stock spoils quickly and, since there is often more soup than can be used at one meal, it is essential to keep it from spoiling. Laura Pepper, Agriculture Department, Consumer Section chief, suggests:

"If the stock is not to be used immediately, allow it to cool slightly, then place it in covered sealers in the ice box. The stock will keep for a week or longer if it is heated to the boiling point every other day, then partly cooled and returned to the ice box. The alternate heating and refrigeration prevent spoilage".

A cream soup that is unusual and delicious in flavor uses ripe cucumber, obtainable now on the markets. The recipe comes from the Agriculture Department testing kitchen.

Ripe Cucumber Soup: Brown two tablespoons of chopped onion in two tablespoons of hot fat. Add three cups of peeled, diced ripe cucumber, 1 1-2 cups chopped ripe tomatoes and 1-2 teaspoon of salt. Cook gently until tomatoes and cucumbers are soft. Meanwhile make a 2 1-2 cups of thin cream sauce. Rub the vegetables through a sieve, adding the pulp to the hot cream sauce. Serve very hot with toasted croutons. This makes six servings.

ONION SOUP—This gourmet's delight is not at all hard to prepare and is guaranteed to become a family favorite. You will require six medium onions, sliced; two tablespoons of mild-flavored fat, two tablespoons of floor, 2-3 cup of milk, one quart of well-seasoned bouillon, six slices of toast and 1-2 cup of grated cheese.

Cook the onions in boiling water to cover for 30 minutes, then rub through a sieve. Melt fat, blend in flour and gradually add the milk, stirring until thickened. Add sieved onions and bouillon, blending well. Simmer 30 minutes. Place a slice of toast in each soup plate, add soup and springle with grated cheese. This makes about a quart of soup, sufficient for six servings.

It's time to take the awnings down and care at this time will add years to their life. Before storing them, brush the canvas to remove loose dust. Avoid sharp creases when folding them . . .a roll of old newspapers inside the folds is helpful here? Protect the canvas from dust and light which weaken and fade the fabric. And even if they are already a bit faded, store them carefully, for new flexible paints can be used to renew them next spring.

The old stitch-in-time idea still holds and in the long run it's time-saving to look over new clothes before they're worn. Mend the ripped seam or the hems you might catch your heel in and tear. Make sure buttons are on tightly and in their proper positions. . .it's easier than having to replace the set.

TO BLOW UP SUB PENS

Hamburg, Germany, Oct. 10 —(AP)—British engineers will blow up the huge concrete submarine pens at Hamburg, Oct. 21. The pens were Germany's largest and their destruction will represent the largest demolition job of the occupation.

Tips on Conserving Fats

1. Collect every bit of fat and render it down for cooking purposes. Cut away the excess fat from roasts, steaks or chops. Take home the meat trimmings and suet you pay for at your butcher's, they can all be put to good use.

2. Save all meat drippings. In roasting meats and poultry pour off excess fat during cooking, leaving only sufficient fat in pan for basting and later for making gravy. In this way the fat is not darkened to the same extent it would be if left in pan for full roasting time.

3. Save scraps of butter, lard or shortening adhering to their wrappings by using these papers for greasing pans.

4. In measuring accurately you can save. The best method of measuring, say ½ cup of solid fat, is to fill your measuring cup ½ full with cold water, then add fat until the water measures 1 full cup, Pour off the liquid and the remaining fat is the exact amount needed. Be sure all the fat is completely submerged in the water while measuring.

Osaka, Oct. 10 — (AP) — Domei said today a Japanese passenger ship with 6,00 Japanese aboard struck a mine and sank off Kobe Sunday. Only 180 passengers had been picked up by yesterday, Domei added. All the remainder were feared missing and lost.

ELIMINATE INFLUENCE

Berlin, Oct. 10 —(AP)— Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters said last night that elimination of Nazi influence in the American occupation zone of Germany had progressed so far that military government detachments might be withdrawn by Nov. 15 from county and city subdivisions.

Child is Struck By Passing Truck

Trenton, Oct. 11.— Mildred Brunton, age 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Brunton, Dundas Street East narrowly escaped death about noon on Wednesday when she was struck by a truck owned by Bescoby's Transport, Toronto. The child allegedly darted from the south side of Dundas Street East, at the corner of Dundas and Byron, directly into the path of the truck which was being driven east on Byron Street by the driver, Lawrence Caulfield of Toronto.

Immediately applying his brakes the driver of the truck jumped from the cab to the assistance of the child, who was rushed to the office of Dr. V. J. Byrne where it was found she suffered a badly bruised forehead and left leg, but fortunately no bones were broken.

The truck, however, failed to come to a complete stop, and without its driver, rolled a short distance down the highway striking a parked car, owned by Don R. Coutts, Trenton, and driven by Lois Coutts.

Considerable damage was done to both the car and the truck but, though the car had several passengers, none was injured.

A small drawing which the little girl was apparently taking home from school, no doubt part of her morning's work, was completely crushed into the grill of the truck.

Government Discloses Plans for Nationalizing Bank of England

London, Oct. 11 (CP)—The Labor Government disclosed its plans for nationalizing the Bank of England—the first of major measures in its broad program of social legislation for Great Britain.

Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, presented to Commons a measure which would bring the stock of the "old lady of Threadneedle Street" into public control.

The bill also provides establishment of future relations between the Bank of England, the treasury and other banks.

Pilotless Bombers Nearing Reality

Burbank, Calif., Oct. 11 (AP)—California airplane manufacturers have uncovered some of the secrets of so-called "uninhabited guided missiles" that threaten to make any future war extremely unsafe for both combatants and non-combatants.

Just as Generals George Marshall and H. H. Arnold reported in Washington on a number of "terrifying" new weapons, Robert E. Gross, President of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., claimed here that bombers piloted by human inhabitants would be obsolete as a military striking force within 10 years.

Almost simultaneously, Ferris Smith, an engineer executive for the Menaco Corp. exhibited a small radio-controlled target plane now capable of carrying 50 pounds of atomic or other explosives. He claimed it was capable of development into a 400-mile-an-hour jet-propelled craft that could be guided by television directly on to targets thousands of miles away.

Prime Minister Attends Dinner

London, Oct. 11 (CP Cable) — Although suffering from a cold, Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night attended a private dinner here as the guest of Foreign Secretary Bevin, Canada House announced today.

Viscount Addison, Dominions Secretary, and Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, were also present at the dinner, giving Mr. King the opportunity to continue the informal discussions which he has said are the main purpose of his visit to the United Kingdom.

Mr. King's cold forced him to cancel a number of engagements yesterday and prevented him from attending a reception by the National Book League for a group of Canadian book publishers.

Canadian Soldiers Resent Attacks

Amsterdam, Holland, Oct. 11—(CP Cable)—Canadian soldiers deeply resent "scurrilous" attacks on their moral standards which have been made by portions of the Dutch press, Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, commander of the Canadian forces in the Netherlands, told a Dutch newspaper gathering here today.

Gen. Simonds urged a mutually helpful approach to problems imposed on both the army and the people of the Netherlands by the presence of a large body of foreign troops in the country.

Reporters countered with the statement that a majority of the press comment was directed against the lack of morality among Dutch girls and women rather than among the soldiers.

Gen. Symonds was willing to conce this point, but he said it did not detract from the danger to amicable relations between the two countries arising out of such articles as he cited.

Intercepted Sea Power

Two days after arrival at Ceylon and on his first flight, he intercepted a great mass of Japanese seapower striking toward the island. He flashed an uncoded warning of the approach of the armada giving position, course and speed. No sooner had the message been sent than Japanese fighters shot him down.

They strafed the nine members of the crew in the water. "Unfortunately some of them had their Mae Wests on and couldn't duck under water — so they were badly shot up and three died," recalled the flier.

A destroyer picked them out of the sea and to the first questions they denied they had radioed word of the fleet's approach to Ceylon — 300 miles away.

Beaten and Kicked.

At this moment the Japanese picked up a message from the R.A.F. base asking for a repeat of the danger signal.

"This was a signal for the Japs to really lay it on," Birchall continued. "They beat us and kicked us and used the fact we had lied as an excuse."

The airmen were thrown into a forepeak cell and the wounded were offered no treatment.

From time to time they were dragged out, interrogated and beaten again. Each period of questioning was accompanied by beatings with staves and wooden shoes. The Japs aimed at their heads and shoulders.

They stuck to a story they had improvised in their dark prison. This included a fiction story of how Canadians in the squadron had come out to India in a giant convoy all the way from Halifax.

"We did this to impress them—we figured our numbers were up and we might as well make it as tough for them as possible.'

The three crew members who had survived the strafing aided in picking up wounded comrades and "somehow the survivors lived through the ordeal—in fact they lived through other ordeals just as bad."

Common Practice Claimed.

He told of reaching shore, more interrogation and more beatings. A Japanese named Onani, who had been in the salmon packing industry at Vancouver, acted as interpreter at one camp and explained that beating was the common disciplinary action in the Japanese armed forces.

Later they saw it administered to Japanese troops and sailors by their superiors, officers were not excluded and Birchall saw junior officers beaten into insensibility by seniors.

At the interrogation a constant attempt was made to break down their will. Sick men would be lined up in zero weather and officers told that if they didn't break down and conform with Japanese wishes in regard to furnishing information or consenting to being used on propaganda broadcasts, the sick would be left to die.

At other times one man would be singled out and made to watch his fellow Allies—British, Canadian, American and Netherland servicemen—beaten and tortured. The man was told that if he gave in to Japanese demands his fellow Allies would obtain relief.

"We used to try to get this word to them: "For God's sake don't give in because we can hold out," Birchall said. He added quietly:: "But it was a tough choice for some men and they just couldn't stand seeing us beaten." In other cases men died and he has documented proof and evidence from witnesses.

Withal, there was little collaboration but there were many cases of false propaganda being made in the names of men who had not consented to participate. He had heard of messages in which his name had been used but he had been careful to keep a transcript of his remarks so he might compare the authenticity of the message as received here.

The messages were doctored and worked into broadcasts by collaborators—usually men whose nerve had broken under the terrible strain of torture and mental anguish.

Forced to Work in Gangs.

He and his companions were forced to work in coolie gangs under threat that their wounded and sick companions would be left in the cold to die. But the questioning continued and after they were warned not to communicate with each other they were forced to resort to all manner of means to keep informed as to the line the general interrogation was taking.

Cell walls snapped to the tap of air force code telling the prisoners what changes to make in their stories if changes were needed.

Their conscript to labor gangs, however, gave them an opportunity to steal food and medical materials. Some of the 230 prisoners at the camp at which he was confined became adept at picking pockets.

"How these guys are going to settle back to civilized life is a problem," he said. Then smiling, he looked at reporters and added: "You needn't be afraid of your belongings, I'm getting civilized already."

The concentrated bombings of Tokyo saw a great change in the demeanor of the Japanese civilians. They plainly gave up and admitted slyly that things were going badly.

Japs Scared to Death

Then came the atomic bomb. Its effects were suppressed in the press and the word of mouth reports that followed "scared the Japs to death." They were afraid there would be no invasion and that the Allies would finish them off by systematically destroying their whole country.

When word of surrender infiltrated to the camps and the supply transports appeared overhead the camp organized battle formations. The guards tried to prevent them going to the spots where the provisions were dropped but "we just clipped them and threw them into a nearby pig pen."

Then final liberation. The band of emaciated, tattered and bruised prisoners formed themselves for a brave parade when they reached Yokohama and the Red Cross reception depot. At the head was a color party which carried an improvised Canadian flag.

The work of a Corporal Guadin, a New Brunswicker in the Quebec Royal Rifles, captured at Hong Kong, the flag had a Union Jack background on which was a big green maple leaf and the word Canada.

FARM PROBLEMS

Cases Not Parallel

The cases were not parallel. The grain board had been established when farmers had no recourse from the grades placed on their meat at local elevators. Most of the meat was produced in three provinces and moved out into international markets.

Much of the livestock was consumed in the provinces where it was produced. Local interests could be expected to challenge the jurisdiction of a federal livestock board where that of the federal grain board had been accepted.

In any case, he said, Board of Grain Commissioners' functions were limited. It had nothing to do with production or marketing. It spotted cars on railways, gave directions to Railways about movement of wheat, carried on a grading and inspection service and established the price spreads between different grades of wheat.

Has More Possibilities

In the department of agriculture as now set up, he said. there were boards handling livestock products for export, composed of permanent civil servants who were the best agricultural authorities in the country. These boards were assisted by advisory committees consisting of men nominated by farm organizations and Provincial governments which assured provincial and producer consultation.

"Our present set-up," he said, "has greater possibilities of doing all the things suggested and doing them better than any single board."

Expresses Alarm.

Mr. Bryce said a livestock board would consist of three full-time salaried men and six others representative of the producers, the consumers, the government service and the packing industry.

Mark Senn (PC—Haldimand) who supported the resolution said the board should see to it that the farmer got a fair share of the consumer's dollar, keep up efficiency of production, see that the consumer got a fair deal and check price spreads.

Mr. Senn expressed alarm at the prospect of a strike in the packing industry which would create a serious situation for livestock industry. He suggested that the War Measures Act was still in effect and, if necessary, the government use its emergency powers to deal with the situation.

Robert McCubbin (L—Middlesex West) said he was against the proposal because there were enough boards already. He did not believe Ontario farmers favored a board of livestock commissioners.

"What we want today, more than boards, is markets," he said "If I did not believe this government will do all it can to secure markets I would not be supporting it."

U.K. Encouraging Watch Manufacturing

London, Oct. 11—(CP)— The British government is encouraging development of watch and clock manufacturing to make the United Kingdom as far as possible independent of foreign manufacturers.

War experience, with the demand for precision instruments for the armed forces and armament plants, demonstrated the need for maintaining the watch and clock industry.

England once was the greatest timepiece manufacturing country, but the trade passed to other countries like Switzerland. Before the war, the United Kingdom imported 8,000,000 watches and 5,000,000 clocks a year. Firms which have been making aviation and other precision instruments now are turning to production of popular-priced clocks and watches. One firm said it would work up to production of 2,000,000 popular grade watches each year.

CORPORATISM,

The Senator said the other provinces would never accept Catholic Labor Union, "which are the greatest promoters of corporatism", nor Labor corporations dominated by those Unions'.

Such attacks on the economic system could be met by government action in correcting past abuses which might recurr when wartime restrictions were lifted. An "excess of liberty" had permitted excessive profits to be made by private enterprise.

"We will hear much about provincial autonomy especially from those who endeavor to create a crisis in order to break up the Confederation pact".

There was nothing wrong with strengthening federal government powers if such a move would help the citizens of Quebec and the other provinces. The rights of minorities, recognized in the British North America Act, had to be respected, but he believed French-Canadians had the honesty, ability and energy to attain first rank in any economic or social sphere "without assuming an attitude of martyrdom".

He compared the present union Nationale government in Quebec with that in Portugal bearing the same name and said it was "inspired by the same principles," but lack of similar prudence in public finances had "ruined provincial credit within three short years, and resulted in the decline of our own dictator".

WARNS UNION WON'T ALLOW PARTY ARMY

Justice Minister Acts After South African Nationalists Threaten to Form Combat Teams Against 'Communists' Who Oppose Them

Cape Town, Oct. 11 (CP)—A warning that the South African government will not tolerate formation of private armies or "combat teams", was delivered by Dr. Colin Steyn, minister of justice, following announcement by the Nationalist party that such teams would be formed to protect meetings.

The Nationalist announcement followed disturbances at Johannesburg when they organized a "victory" parade through the city and clashed outside the city hall with a huge crowd of soldiers and civilians. Police were forced to use batons to protect delegates to the Nationalist congress being held in the city hall.

The Nationalists said the combat teams would be recruited from youths in the party and would be used only against "Communistic rabble." A deputation of party leaders called on Premier Smuts demanding an inquiry into the disturbances.

Dr. Steyn said it would be the height of folly to tolerate Nazi or other activities which would ultimately bring ruin on South Africa as they had on Germany. Steps would be taken to deal with many attempts to create such an organization.

An air service between the Union and Britain will start about the middle of November, Claude Sturock, minister of transport, announced at a meeting of the South African air transport council. One York aircraft will operate each way.

Mr. Sturock told the council civil aviation in this part of the world could not achieve its full promise until all nations in South Africa were brought into the picture fully. Only interim replies had been received from the governments of Belgium, France and Portugal to invitations to be represented on the council.

Discussion on a United States proposal to operate a service to South Africa at low fares had taken place at the international conference on civil aviation at Chicago last year. But, Mr. Sturock told the council, no commitments had yet been made although the Union had not been idle and was endeavoring to cultivate a realistic as well as comprehensive approach to the complicated problems of international aviation.

There may be a maize crisis in the Union soon as it is difficult to obtain imports to make up for a short local production of 4,500,000 bags, Dr. C. H. Neveling, secretary of agriculture, announced. He promised Africans their supplies would not be cut further but if necessary quotas set for stock and poultry would be cut further.

A comprehensive scheme of supplying food to the drought-stricken native areas is now being undertaken. Mobile and central markets are being set up.

All production of war equipment in South Africa has ceased, according to a government announcement. The ordnance factory at Johannesburg is closing down next month after having turned out 5,700 armored cars and other war equipment, including three floating docks, 100 barges, and 900 aircraft hangars.

Japanese Political Prisoners Emerge From Prison to Plaudits Of Communist Crowds

Tokyo, Oct. 11 (AP)—Liberated political prisoners emerged from four Japanese prisons Wednesday to the acclaim of welcoming Communist crowds shouting opposition to imperial rule — while a newly-formed national federation of toilers arose to defend the Imperial House and assail the Reds.

The Japanese navy's chief paymaster, Vice Admiral Ushinosuke Yamamoto, meanwhile disclosed that the navy's impounded fortune of several million dollars was acquired from conquered countries and from the Japanese people themselves, and was paid for abroad in now-worthless military curency and at home in promissory notes which never were redeemed.

Promoters of the newly-created federation resolved to "wage a determined fight against Communism which aims at extermination of our unique national policy under the Emperor."

The federation and another group favoring a drastic overhauling of the Japanese Diet rose suddenly in uneasy Japan today as the new Liberal Premier, Baron Kijuro Shidehara, told his people in a broadcast:

Hold is Broken

"The hold of the military clique and bureaucrats on political power has been broken and all politics and economics will be determined by the will of the majority."

Sixteen liberated prisoners walked through the big wooden gate in Fuchu prison's massive stone wall today to be hoisted immediately to the shoulders of a cheering crowd of 300 Japanese Communists and Koreans.

Shouting "Banzai for the release of fighters of the people's front the crowd waved red flags and Korean independence flags—then listened quietly while Communist Kyuichi Tokuda urged overthrow of the Imperial system.

Root of All Evils

"The imperial system is the root of all evils," he asserted. Tokuda spent 18 years in prison for voicing such thoughts— before Allied directives and Shidehara's new Liberal policy gave him immunity.

Three other prisons, Kosuge, Toyotama and Tokyo Kochisao, also were opened on the Oct. 10 deadline set by Gen. MacArthur. Many of their political prisoners had been held without charge for 10 to 20 years, after they had advocated Communism or spoken against the Japanese government.

Woman Slaps Frau Kramer

Lueneburg, Oct. 11 (Reuters)—Frau Rosina Kramer was slapped in the face by an angry woman outside the Lueneburg court house Wednesday shortly after testifying on behalf of her husband, Joseph Kramer, at the Belsen War Crimes trial.

One woman who shouted, "your husband killed my husband and children in Auschwitz," stepped up to Frau Kramer as she left the court and slapped her before military policemen could protect her.

10,000 Germans Mentally Sick Gassed to Death

Weisbaden, Germany, Oct. 11—(AP)—Alfons Klein, former supervisor of the Hadamar "murder factory" told the American military court trying him and six other Germans Wednesday that some 10,000 Germans with mental ailments were gassed to death there in 1941.

Klein said the extermination of mentally unfit was ordered by Hitler's office in Berlin. Late in 1941 protests halted the executions, he said, and, after they were resumed in August, 1942, 3,000 to 3,500 more persons, including Russians and Poles, were "helped along to death" by injections of chemicals.

Klein and six others are specifically accused of the murder of at least 400 Poles and Russians at Hadamar, the court having ruled that they are not on trial for the killing of Germans.

The first defence witness after the prosecution closed its case today, Klein indicated that the accused would contend they were only carrying out orders from higher up.

U.S. Officials Inspect Tokyo Mint

Tokyo, Oct. 11 (AP)—Tramping over and around $1,000,000 in gold and silver, Maj.-Gen. William Chase and his staff inspected the bomb-shattered Tokyo mint Wednesday.

Impounded by the Allies, a huge stock of bullion was piled helter-skelter in yards filled with the debris of what once were buildings of the second largest mint in Japan.

Within the few buildings still standing, other heaps of gold, silver and platinum, in bars, were stored. Silver waiting to be melted down included beautifully wrought goblets, spoons and decorative pieces of all kinds, brought in by Japanesee civilians under orders of their wartime government.

CHESS SIMPLE AS IT'S MADE EXPERT SAYS

Game Rising in Popularity as Public Realizes Players Don't Have to be Mental Giants to Enjoy It.

New York—(CP)—The popular notion that only properly calcified brains are capable of playing chess is going by the boards, says Kenneth Harkness, managing editor of the magazine Chess Review and the man who set up the American end of the recent U.S.-Soviet Union chess tournament.

Among the hard facts that nourish his conviction is the brisk sale of a book, "Invitation to Chess", which Harkness wrote in collaboration with Irving Chernev, associate editor of the Review. Published three months ago, 28,000 copies have been printed.

Also in defence of his belief he points to Russia, where a government official, the Chief Chess Inspector, sees to it that all good Communists mind their pawns and queens—and to America, "where the game is taught in the public schools of Milwaukee, and they have civic chess centres."

Something like 13,000 volumes on chess are at hand in the Cleveland public library, Harkness says. A Chicago manufacturer — "one of many"—wrote him asking for a promotion pamphlet on his book to include in the 50,000 chess sets he planned to make between now and the first of the year. Harkness says the combined output of U.S. manufacturers in that same period will probably amount to 400,000 or 500,000 sets.

Chess Review itself, the oldest of America's three leading magazines devoted to the game, suggests the rise in chess's popularity. When Harkness became managing editor in 1941 the circulation was about 1,000. Now it is up to 11,000 and struggling hard against paper restrictions.

The game's infinite possibilities account for the fact that intellectuals held it as their special property for thousands of years, Harkness says. In the middle ages it was patronized like art, a noble jealously clothing, feeding and pampering the chess genius who might reflect some glory on his title.

Will Never Be Fad

"But the mistake the average person has always made," Harkness says, "is to assume that because chess really is a game with problems incapable of solution, everyone had to play it on the abstract level that the doddering old men and child prodigies have always played it.

As a matter of fact chess is as simple as you make it. The average player who takes it up just for the fun of it never thinks ahead more than two moves. You don't have to." The difference between amateur chess and amateur checkers, says Harkness, is mainly "in the way you win."

"In checkers you're out to get all your opponent's pieces. In chess you're only after one piece —the king. You've won when you can capture the other fellow's king and he can't keep you from doing it."

Despite its apparent growth in popularity, he doesn't think it will become a mere fad.

"Chess isn't like that," he says. "Once you take it up you've taken it up for life."

Seek Wives' Aid In Birthrate Problem

London, Oct. 11 —(CP)— One wife in every 20 throughout Britain is to be asked questions concerning her married life.

Hundreds of enumerators, most of them women, are to call on 500,000 wives seeking answers to a set of questions. A few of the questions are:—

When were you married? When did you have your first, second, third child? What are your motives for not having children?

The purpose of this quiz is to enable the royal commission on population to complete its inquiries into the birthrate of Great Britain.

The enumerators, travelling under authority of the commission, will be given at least a month to complete their task. The women to be quizzed have been selected at random from the latest voting lists.

But they are not obliged to answer the questions.

The royal commission was set up by Winston Churchill in March, 1944. Its 16 members, including seven women, are helping to solve a problem which Mr. Churchill has described as "one of the most vital to the future of Britain."

United Nations Charter Britain's First Line Of Defence Says Attlee

London, Oct. 11—(Reuters) —The United Nations charter is Britain's first line of defence and the British government will make the success of the United Nations organization the primary objective of its foreign policy, Prime Minister Attlee said Wednesday night.

Addresing a national demonstration of the United Nations Association at the Albert Hall, the Prime Minister said the League of Nations Union had done great work in the past. "Would that it had been listened to more," he said.

Mr. Attlee emphasized the intention of his government to make a success of the United Nations Organization, set up at San Francisco last spring. He said:

"The reason is obvious. We have to come to a period in history when mankind must either set up an institution of this kind —and not only set it up but make it work—or face consequences so appalling that the mind shrinks even from contemplating them."

Form of Suicide

Liberation of atomic energy had made war merely a form of suicide for mankind. There were still other weapons of war of which Europe still bore the marks.

"If war is to be avoided there must be something to do in the future what war has often done in the past—to make the great decisions between the nations. And in order that it may not become impossible to make these decisions, there must also be a means by which different countries can learn to work together for the benefit of all.

"That is what the charter has been made for—to maintain international peace and security and to promote the welfare of all peoples by international co-operation."

The security of the British Empire and the Commonwealth was bound up with the success of the United Nations, and in acceptance of this fact British policy must be based on it and outworn conceptions wiped out.

Charter Not Perfect

"The charter is our first line of defence. This country helped to lay its foundations and there is as much in it of our thinking and our traditions as of those of any other country in the world.

"It is not perfect. Nothing made by human beings ever is; but there is only one way of improving it—to use it, use it to the full. That is how we shall— to work to remove its imperfections and develop its great possibilities."

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., United States delegate to the preparatory commission of the United Nations Organization, told the meeting that after the last war the United States failed to join the League of Nations and other countries that who did join failed to use the League as it should have been used.

Now a new beginning had been made in the charter of the United Nations, "and this time the United States is in it—all the way in it—and in it to stay."

Helps Song-Writers With Night Service

New Orleans, Oct. 11 (CP) — Sometimes the telephone rings at midnight, or 5 a.m. in the home of Wessie Breau Farrell, and an excited voice says to Mrs. Farrell: "Please take this tune down quickly before I forget it...." and then proceeds to tra-la la, hum-deedy-du, dum, dumpty-dum a phrase or two of melody over the telephone.

Not all fazed, sleepy Mrs. Farrell switches on her light and proceeds to take down the tune in musical symbols.

This sort of telephone transcribing (often during the daytime) has been going on for years, ever since Mrs. Farrell, a graduate of Loyola University School of Music first started writing music for song composers at a music store. Now married and the mother of a two-year-old son, she still arranges songs for amateur lyricists in spare time at home.

Because of the baby, she doesn't welcome middle-of-the-night calls, but her song-writing customers feel that if the muse strikes at 2 a.m. she should be willing to help.

People who do not know that Mrs. Farrell performs musical legerdemain on the phone, will go around for days singing or whistling the same tune over and over until they are able to pay her a visit.

"In my studio, composers usually warm up for me before delivering their masterpieces," Mrs. Farrell relates.

"In this business anything can happen. Sometimes a customer has a 'red-hot song hit' and I discover it to be almost identical with one of the current or recent jukebox favorites."

Detroit's Old Men, Youthful Hal Newhouser Bring Home First Series Title in Decade

Chicago Cubs Ran Out of Pitchers Against the Trigger-Men of Tigers and Lost Deciding Game 9-3

By SID FEDER

Chicago, Oct. 11—(AP)—Baseball's takeoff on the nine old men—eight old men and a boy, in this case — brought the world championship back to Detroit today for the first time in 10 years, all because Chicago Cubs ran out of pitchers against the Tiger triggerman in the deciding encounter.

That, plus some of the fanciest flinging of this fall frolics by Lefty Hal Newhouser, for a new Series strikeout record for seven games, meant the ball game and the set in the finale yesterday. Hal was the boy in the cast — he is 24 — and the boy turned out to be quite a man as he racked up his second victory of the scramble.

That was the story in yesterday's 9-4 payoff. Jolly Cholly Grimm was so desperate for pitchers, after using most of them Sunday and Monday, that he finally had to use Hank Borowy for his third consecutive game.

Good as Hank was in this series — he won twice and lost twice —the Tigers got to him early. They drove him from the hill after nine pitches which Tigers converted into singles and one run. Five other Cub pitchers followed him to the mound.

The Tigers' hitting power when it was needed, and tight pitching in the pinches, was what made the Cubs lose their seventh series opportunity in 37 years. The Tigers —all the regulars except the pitchers are over 30 — put on some great exhibitions of daffiness from time to time. But when the chips were down they picked them up with alacrity.

Hank Greenberg was in the forefront. The big guy is a slowed-up 35 now, but he was the glamor boy of the series in anybody's book. He hammered one homer that won a game, another that kept his ball club in it; thumped three doubles in one tilt; scored seven runs and knocked in seven. He wound up with a .304 batting mark, which, with his '34 and 1940 flailing, made him one of 13 men in all series history to go for .300 or better in three or more series.

Cavarretta Hit .423

Phil Cavarretta, the Cubs' first-sacker, went Hank one better in this department. He was the No. 1 ball-buster and came to the wire with a .423 mark, the second time he's run through a series at a snappy .400 or better.

Detroit's tall Paul Richards, the 37-year-old catcher, pounded out a pair of two-baggers to zip four runs across. The first of these whacks was a base-cleaner for 3 tallies in the first inning, in which the Tigers, after clubbing Borowy to the showers, continued to have fun against Paul Derringer until they'd chalked up five markers.

The game might just as well have ended there. Newhouser was hot in the clutches. He was never in real trouble and finished up fanning 10 Cubs to run his total for the series up to 22.

And besides Richards and Greenberg there was Doc Cramer, 40-year-old youngster, who was just about the entire Detroit outfield. He chipped in with three safe blows yesterday to end up with 11 for the series, tying Cavarretta and third baseman Stan Hack of the Cubs, in collecting hits.

Cubs Had Best Outfield

In the field it was strictly no contest. The Cub fly-chasing trio of Handy Andy Pafko, who's now ranked as the National League's best centre fielder — possibly the best in baseball pending Joe DiMaggio's return — Peanuts Lowrey and Bill Nicholson made the Bengal gardeners look slow in contrast. Nicholson, in addition, tied the seven-game Series record by knocking in eight runs.

The Bengals relied almost entirely on their clouting skill, with an occasional classy curving job, like Newhouser's yesterday and Dizzy Trout's five-hitter Saturday. Of course, the top throwing stunt of the set was the all-time one-hit, one-walk masterpiece Claude Passeau came up with in the third game.

BURRARDS TAKE LACROSSE TITLE IN 3 STRAIGHT

Defeat St. Catharines in Third Game 14-5 and Avenge Trouncing of 1940

By LORNE BRUCE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, Oct. 11. (CP) — Johnny Dale's Vancouver Burrards were satisfied today—they brought the Mann Cup back to Vancouver after an eight-year absence and avenged a trouncing absorbed in 1940.

The fleet, smooth-passing Burrards took the Canadian Senior men's box lacrosse championship by overwhelming St. Catharines Athletics 14-5 here last nihgt before more than 6,000 fans.

Vancouver took the three-of-five series with three straight victories—12-6, 18-7 and 14-5—to wipe out all the memories of a one-sided loss to St. Catharines in the 1940 finals. Athletics won that on three games to one.

Markedly Superior

Burrards, first Vancouver team to win the title since Richmonds were champions in 1937, were markedly superior to St. Catharines in all departments. They were faster, smoother passers, better checkers and in addition they were hungry for the title.

Athletics, defending champions, attempted last night to make the fleet Vancouver squad play a heavy-checking game.

There were three fist fights in the second half but the Burrards, apparently under orders to stay on the floor, offered only token resistance and persisted in playing a wide-open passing game.

Matched All Goals

Only in the second quarter did the Athletics put on a concerted drive and then the Vancouver team built up a close-checking defence and matched all three goals counted by St. Catharines.

Vancouver went ahead 3-0 in the first quarter and weathered the Athletics rally for a 6-3 margin at half time. Burrards increased their margin to 9-3 in the third and outscored the eastern champions 5-2 in the final 15 minutes.

Frank Lee, high-geared Vancouver forward, led his team to victory with four goals and two assists and was presented with the Mike Kelly Memorial trophy as the outstanding player in the series. Lee was high point-getter of the three games with six goals and five assists.

Walt Lee, no relation, also made a large contribution to the Burrard victory. Lee, a veteran netminder, held Athletics scoreless in the first and third quarters.

Whittaker Outstanding

In the St. Catharines' net Bill Whittaker was outstanding again, making 27 stops. Whittaker's sensational play saved Athletics from an even more lopsided trouncing.

Pat Theale, large Vancouver defenceman, got three goals and two assists for a series total of eight goals and two assists. Other Vancouver scorers last night were Roy (Fritz) Cavallin with two and Bill Harris, Harry Buchanan, John McDonald, John Cavallin and Ernie Smith with one each.

George Urquhart, rapid centre for Athletics, was the most effective man for St. Catharines getting two goals and sparking the attack most of the time he was on the floor. Bill Nelson, Stu Scott and Roy (Punk) Morton fired the other St. Catharines goals.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER

The Same Goes Here.

"Good wishes have been rolling into this office in generous quantity for the speedy recovery of Ken Colling, sports editor of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, who is taking an enforced rest at the Mountain San, and we might suggest that Colling's well-wishers could cheer up the ailing scribe much more satisfactorily by addressing their messages to him personally, at room 210, Wilcox Building.

"We were up to see Ken the other day, taking along the best wishes from the gang that attended the Ontario Sports Writers annual golf tournament here, and hereby pass along Colling's acknowledgments and thanks.

"Colling is a great baseball bug, having been for some time a member of the executive of the O.B.A.A. He will be tickled to see all sport fans, particularly "Lefty" Wilson, Cardinals' star, for whom he has a particular message."

* * *

Dan Daniel, veteran baseball expert of the Sporting News, recalls some interesting events in the history of the World Series. Here they are:

Red-Letter Days in Blue Ribbon Competition.

World's Series No. 42! Surely, it isn't 19 years since Grover Alexander fanned Tony Lazzeri with the bases full! But Time insists it is, and though Oliver Wendell Holmes many years ago said, "Time's a liar," the old bird with the hour-glass has the record book behind him on this one.

World's Series No. 42! Surely, it isn't 24 years since Johnny Rawlings sprawled in the dirt at the Polo Grounds and started perhaps the most dramatic play in the history of the classic! But the dope sheet says, "Yes, 1945 minus 1921 equals 24."

As we go into World's Series No. 24, memory flashes back across the span of years—years that are crowding, years that have seen baseball carry on through thick and thin, through boom days and the vicissitudes of war—back to the greatest thrills and the most vital plays.

I still believe that the Rawlings exploit, which ended the 1921 classic in favor of the Giants over the Yankees, five games to three, was the all-time pulse-quickener.

Came the ninth. One out, Aaron Ward on first base with the tying run, Home Run Baker at bat. Baker lashed what should have been a hit in the direction of right field. At second base for the Giants was smallish Johnny Rawlings, a man who was regarded as a stop-gap.

Rawlings dived for the ball. As Baker ran desperately toward first and Ward toward second, Johnny somehow got his hands on the leather. On one knee, he heaved the ball to George Kelly to get Baker.

So confident was Ward that the ball was going into the outfield that, head down, he kept right on toward third.

Kelly had about as great an arm as any first baseman in the history of the game. He rifled the leather to Frisch at third, and the 1921 World's Series was over.

Alexander Comes in to Fan Tony.

Among the super-thrills of Series history, none can compare with the fanning of Tony Lazzeri by the 39-year-old Alexander in the seventh inning—seventh, not ninth, as most fans believe—of the seventh and last game of the 1926 World's Series, won by the Cardinals.

In the 1926 World's Series, Alex won the second and sixth games. He was told he had done his bit and could relax. He did.

In the seventh battle, Rogers Hornsby called on Jess Haines to oppose Wait Hoyt. As it turned out, neither starter was around at the finish. Herb Pennock succeeded Waite in the seventh, and in that same session, Alex came in to relieve Haines, who was troubled with a sore finger.

Seventh inning. Haines in dire straits. Yankees on every base. Two out. Lazzeri up. Lazzeri, the man who, during the pennant season, had run second only to Babe Ruth in driving in runs.

Lazzeri electrified the crowd with a near homer, just foul a few feet. Then he proceeded to fan.

The Battle of the Vegetables.

One of the most ludicrous scenes in the annals of the classic gave non-partisan onlookers a tremendous kick in the finale of the seven-game series in which the Cardinals beat the Tigers in 1934.

The competition wound up in a fiasco. Starting with Schoolboy Rowe, Mickey Cochrane used no fewer than five pitchers in that last game, as the Cardinals piled up 17 hits for 26 bases and buried the Bengals, 11 to 0. Dizzy Dean was in rare form that afternoon.

The 1934 Cards were the Gas House Gang. They were supposed to be rough and tough. They rode high and they rode hard, and as the Series rushed toward its anti-climax, Detroit fans did not like it.

When, in the sixth inning of the last game, the Cards showed a 9 to 0 lead, sullen customers were looking for someone on whom to vent their chagrin and disappointment, and Joe Medwick turned out to be their man.

That was all the bleacherites needed. They threw everything that was handy in the direction of Medwick—tomatoes, apples, sandwiches, fruits of all sorts, vegetables of all varieties.

Serious trouble threatened and Judge Landis ordered Medwick to leave the game. For Detroit, it was tragic business. For me, in the press box, it was the biggest laugh any World's Series has afforded me.

When Ruth Called His Shot . . . Or Did He?

The 1932 World's Series was a Yankee parade. It was 12 to 6; 5 to 2; 7 to 5, and 13 to 6, as the Cubs were buried under the weight of New York power and Bomber hurling superiority.

Among the heroic performers for the spectacular Yankees was the one and only Babe Ruth. It was his tenth and final World's Series, and he marked it with two homers in one game. It is about the second of these, on Saturday, October 1, at Wrigley Field, that I am about to write. This is the story of the called shot—or, was it?

Going into the fifth, the Bombers were tied up, 4 to 4. Root got two strikes on the Babe, and then the grinning Ruth held up a couple of fingers. It appeared as if he were pointing to the distant score board in right centre.

"That's where the next one is going," the fans got Ruth pantomiming.

The Babe called his shot. He banged the next one out of the park precisely where he had pointed, and Lou Gehrig followed with another homer.

Down the classic years, from triumphant Bill Dinneen in 1903 to masterful Mort Cooper in 1944—Fred Snodgrass and his $100,000 muff for the Giants against the Red Sox in 1912, Matty's three shutouts against the 1905 Athletics, Ruth's 29 consecutive scoreless innings, the Deans ganging up on the 1934 Tigers, Mickey Owen's "passed ball" on Hugh Casey's wild spitter in 1941—classic thrills such as no other sport could offer.

POWER-PACKED TORONTO TEAM LEAVES FOR CAMP

Maple Leafs Given Sendoff by Conny Smythe, Who Says League Should Expand

Toronto, Oct. 11 — (CP) — A power-packed group of candidates for the 1945-46 edition of the Toronto Maple Leafs left today for Owen Sound, Ont., to embark on their annual pre-season training schedule in preparation for the National Hockey League campaign in which they hope to win the N.H.L. title and their second successive Stanley Cup championship.

The 40 players on the club roster received a sendoff last night at a victory dinner at which they celebrated their Stanley Cup triumph of last season and received praise from Toronto men and representatives of rival clubs.

Principal speaker at the dinner was Maj. Conn Smythe, managing director of Maple Leaf Gardens, who urged expansion of the N. H. L. saying that if it did not develop beyond its present six-team set up it would have to "admit there is something wrong with its leadership".

The return of former players from the services bolsters the team's prospects for the coming campaign. Among the former servicemen leaving for Owen Sound today were such stalwarts as defenceman Ernie Dickens Bob Goldham and Bingo Kampman and forwards, Billy Taylor, Shep Mayer, Gaye Stewart and Jackie Hamilton. Syl Apps is expected to receive his Canadian army discharge soon and join the team before the training session ends.

Players from last year's team seeking places again this year are: Goaltender Frank McCool; defenceman Walter (Babe) Pratt, Wally Stanowski, Elwin Morris, Pete Becker and Ross Johnstone; forwards Gus Bodnar, Sweeney Schriner, Lorne Carr, Ted (Teeter) Kennedy, Bob Davidson, Mel Hill, Nick and Don Metz. Carr has not yet arrived from his home at Calgary but is expected to reach the training camp by the first of next week.

Some of the more promising newcomers are: Gordie Dell, goaltending sensation from Portage la Prairie who made his pro debut with Buffalo in the American hockey league; Doug Baldwin from the Quebec Aces, a standout Winnipeg product; Joe Irvine, an outstanding player with the Winnipeg Rangers two seasons ago; Tommy Anderson, former defenceman with the New York Americans just out of the army.

Two players from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who recently were discharged from the navy are among the prospects—Horace Lamarche, goaltender, and Joe Klukey, a forward. Bruce Burdett from Stratford, Wally Wilson of Oshawa, and Doug McMurdy who played with St. Catharines last season also headed for training camp.

Six-Man Lacrosse Clause Turned Down

Vancouver, Oct. 11 (CP)—Delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Lacrosse Association here yesterday rejected a suggestion of the Quebec Association to play six-man lacrosse in place of the present seven-man game.

Quebec delegates said six-man lacrosse was played in that province last season and probably would still be played next season, reverting to a seven-man game in the Mann Cup playdowns.

The Ontario Association suggested placing goals 10 feet from end boards to allow play behind the nets and member associations said some games would be played under this regulation next season and a report made at the next annual meeting.

A grant of $80 by the C.L.A. to each of the Quebec, Ontario and B.C. Lacrosse Associations was voted for promotion of minor lacrosse among the Indians.

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP)— Short shots on sport:—

When Fred Doty came out of Toronto's Parkdale Collegiate where his football curriculum comprised a few senior games, he joined the R.C.A.F. and tried to apply his knowledge with service gridiron clubs.

Doty joined Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four this summer and Coach Ted Morris began whispering to reporters about a new quarterback who was "no bigger than a jack rabbit and twice as fast." Three games passed and Doty failed to show, the reporters were skeptical.

Finally, Doty appeared against Montreal Hornets Saturday and was a sensation for three quarters, though he didn't score. Morris won't say why Doty missed the first three games. He'll only tell you, if you care to listen, that the kid who wasn't good enough for the R.C.A.F. clubs is the best quarterback to his senior football since Bill and Annis Stukus.

Goody Rosen, the Toronto boy who has been shuttling around in minor and major league baseball for more than a decade, is back home with an explanation for his success this season with Brooklyn Dodgers.

Rosen, who batted head and head with the league leaders all summer and wound up with an average just under .330, says he wasn't figured as a Brooklyn regular in spring training so he had time to work on his batting stance.

"I found that when I closed the stance and kept all the weight on my left leg I got more power. I tried it, gradually got confidence in it, and it worked."

Around The Circuit: F. W. (Fred) Edwards concludes a quarter-century of sports coverage for the Fort William Daily Times-Journal this week when he leaves for a new post in the United States. Conductor of the column "One Foot on The Sports Rail" while in Fort William, Edwards recalls the 1927 Allan Cup finals between Toronto Varsity Grads and Fort William at Vancouver as one of the highlights of his 25 years with the Times-Journal.... Revival of college football also means revival of the University of Western Ontario Band and appearance of its new drum majorette, charming Carina Ronni, first year general science co-ed from Sudbury, Ont.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A hand may be a toss-up between an opening of one no-trump and one in a suit. Which of these you choose to start with will depend on how you have been brunged up. Or what your partner believes in.

If you have a biddable suit, you should prefer to show your suit first. Then, if partner follows rules and you finally belong in no-trump, you will get there in due time.

Meantime, however, your pair has learned about your suits. If you find it safer in a suit, you have a choice between that and no-trump. And if slam seems advisable, you will reach it more easily in a suit.

Step into this pair of hands:

SOUTH
♠A Q 7
♦J 6 3
♣J 7 3
NORTH
♠8 6 4
♥4 2
♦K Q 9 8 4
♣A 6 5

The bidding went like this:

SOUTH	NORTH
1 H	2 D
2 NT	3 NT

South has five no-trump tricks and a balanced hand; enough for an opening of one no-trump. If he had preferred to open with a bid of one no-trump, north would have responded with three no-trump.

In this particular case, the result would have been the same. But that does not detract from the fact that the showing of the suit is more desirable in the long run of deals.

If your partner insists on a no-trump opening with such a hand, you must cooperate with him for your common good. If he likes a suit opening, that is best. Let's not quarrel about it.

If you have been following my teachings, you know why I don't like a no-trump bid when there is a suit to show. My reason is that bids follow the order of choice in T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump.

A takeout comes first. If you do not bid a suit, you deny having one. Also, when you ignore the order in T-A-N, you need exceptions. And I hate unnecessary exceptions. Don't you?

Detroit Tigers Given Reception On Arrival Home

By FRANK KENESSON

Detroit, Oct. 11 — (AP) — Detroit Tigers, dog tired but hilarious after dragging down baseball's highest prize by beating Chicago Cubs in the World Series, arrived home today to find a milling mob of fully 10,000 fans — band and all — staging an impromptu victory celebration in and around the station here.

Although the Tigers' special train was more than an hour late the throng that jammed the depot and filled surrounding streets for a block each way continued to swell with pennant-waving, horn-tooting celebrants even as the players were hustled along a police-lined aisle to waiting taxicabs.

Manager Steve O'Neill, who has not had a team in a World Series since he caught for Cleveland Indians' championship outfit of 1920, couldn't believe his eyes.

"There's nothing in the world like it," O'Neill marvelled. "Now there's a reception."

Les Mueller, Tiger pitcher with a baby son born the day before the World Series opened, said,—"Don't ask me where that money's going. The kid had a piggy bank waiting for him when he came."

At least two of the players plan to marry soon on their series bank roll.

World Series Notes

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Oct. 11 — (AP)—The saddest man in town today is manager Charlie Grimm of Chicago Cubs who was completely crushed by Detroit Tigers' World Series triumph.

When a guy like Jolly Cholly, one of baseball's most beloved personalities, forgets to go to the dressing room to congratulate a winning rival, you know he's sick 'way down.

Grimm wasn't in the gang of back-slappers that rushed into the Tigers' lair after their clinching 9-3 victory yesterday. Charley was covering his sorrow with a grin in his own club-house, trying to cheer up his battered Bruins.

It was bitter gall for this affable manager, who once before had lost to those same Tigers in the 1935 series and whose 1932 Cubs were belted out of the lot by New York Yankees. He wanted to win this one more than he wanted anything in his life. It would have been a brilliant climax to a thorny managerial career.

For seven years — from 1932 to 1938 — Grimm's Cubs never finished in the second division, but he walked the plank in 1938 and tumbled into the American Association as boss of Milwaukee Brewers. Then, with the 1944 season scarcely underway, the Cubs called him back. Charley forgave and forgot. He had the Bruins on the upgrade last year and this season cajoled, joked and schemed them to the National League pennant.

The scalpers got scalped at the seventh game of the series. Scores of them met buses, elevated trains, streetcars and cabs as game time approached, demanding upwards of $25 for box seats. After the game started, their prices plummeted to established prices and some finally started giving them away to servicemen.

The record receipts of $1,592,454, including $100,000 for broadcasting rights, for the seven-game showdown raised the total take in the 42 world series thus far to almost $30,000,000.

That bobble pitcher Hal Newhouser made in the series finale on Peanuts Lowrey's dribbler was his first error of the 1945 season.

Katan Heaves the Strangler Out Of the Ring to Win Third Fall Of Main Bout at Hume Arena

Those two happy rasslin' scrappers John "Fingers" Katan and Bob the "Strangler" Wagner finally settled their differences if only for a few days at the Hume Arena last night after three falls of wrestling that included everything but the hangman's noose.

The Katan, a bit disgruntled at the rough methods of the Strangler, finally lost his temper or what was left of it and heaved the Strangler far out into the laps of the faithful where he reposed like a sleeping child just long enough for Referee Bert Maxwell to toll the fateful "ten" and that was that.

The Strangler after absorbing a lot of punishment from the "Fingers" in the first fall in which he was bobbed for the count while the Palermo pride strutted his hairy self around the ring, resorted to a neat but naughty strategy to win the second fall. The two had milled around for some minutes with both assuming an injured air of innocence after using methods that would make the vilest villain go red with shame, when the Strangler suddenly whipped his towel from the ring corner, adjusted it neatly around the Adam's apple of the Katan and proceeded to put on some pressure.

John's tonsils popped out on a horizontal level until they were nearly on a par with his eyes. Referee Maxwell tried to interrupt the friendly feud and was promptly cuffed down for his rude intrusion. The Strangler gave the Katan the works and a few minutes later had no difficulty in pinning the Krafty one to the mat.

Came the third fall and the Katan temper was by no means unruffled. He came into the ring with mayhem in his eyes, and without more ado tried to take the Strangler apart. He did a fairly good job at that and finally dissatisfied with his progress picked up the opposition, hoisted him high in the air and tossed him out of the ring as a souvenir for those who were yelling for his blood.

The semi final between Joe Jackson a newcomer to Belleville and Pat Flanagan nearly stole the show. The two, both fast and agile put on a performance that had the faithful standing on their seats. There was none of the customary good-boy-bad-boy antics that characterize wrestling bouts and both Flanagan and Jackson used the better known orthodox methods that immediately caught the fancy of the crowd.

Jack, as was said before made his first appearance before a Belleville crowd and the youngster with his fast aggressive method of wrestling caught the fancy of the faithful. He wrestled in the same fashion as does Flanagan and the outcome was one of the fastest, most colorful semi-final goes that has been seen here for some time. The management would do well to bring these boys back again and in fact the pair would combine to make a main bout that would compare with the best seen here and a lot better than some that have been paraded for the fans hereabouts.

John Hutzler and Joe Maich staged a fast-moving prelim with Maich getting the nod after 18 minutes of action. Hutzler knows a lot of the wrestling answers and while absorbing a lot of punishment from the Maichian method, gave Jumping Joe some anxious moments before he was pinned for the fall.

Manitoba Election Campaign Nearing Its Final Stages

Winnipeg, Oct. 11—(CP)—Supporters of the C.C.F. party from outside Manitoba now campaigning for the Provincial election Oct. 15 came in for criticism Tuesday night as the campaign neared its final stages.

In the constituency of Swan River bordering on the sister Prairie Province of Saskatchewan Premier Stuart Garson told a political rally he would have refrained from criticism but for the fact that the C.C.F. had invaded the province and everywhere "were trumpeting the Saskatchewan achievements" and telling Manitoba electors their own government was doing nothing.

In such important matters as farm electrification and public health, he said the C.C.F. had nothing to show as yet—"not even plans on paper."

The ground work of Manitoba's reconstruction program was not only carefully prepared in advance but the work itself had laid the groundwork for a greatly superior credit position.

"We have no intention of putting the Province into competition with co-operatives," he added. "We have no intentions of entering any field of business and thereby making it impossible for the co-operatives to come in."

There should be full opportunity for producers and consumers to help themselves through the method of free co-operation.

Must Be Extended

He declared that whatever the C.C.F. say to the contrary, genuine socialism, once embarked upon must be extended throughout the whole country. Thus socialism and co-operatives sooner or later come into conflict. "The more thoughtful C.C.F.'ers know that co-operatives can survive in a socialist state only under the open or concealed domination of those who control the state itself."

Ernest R. Draffin, C.C.F. candidate for Assiniboia, pledged that if elected he would fight for local improvements. He also urged higher old age pensions and equalization grants for education in the poorer school districts.

Frank Hanson, educational director for the C.C.F. in Saskatchewan, speaking in support of Mr. Draffin, outlined the differences between the Manitoba government and the socialist C.C.F. government in power in that province.

Independent member of the province's 55-member of assembly for Winnipeg, Lewis St. George Stubbs said that "no amount of pre-election talk" can make the labor record of the union government good.

BEAK CAN HOLD MORE THAN HIS BELLY CAN

The pelican (fabulous bird whose beak holds more than his belly can—according to the famed doggerel) is a sucker for fish. These two have formed a team at Clearwater, Fla., and make the rounds of the piers and fish houses. They do a good job of catching as the fishermen get rid of sea robins, pilot fish and other non-edible varieties.

White's District

White's District—Friends of Mrs. George Bilham who is a patient in Belleville General Hospital hope that she may soon return to her home.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bonisteel who were married on Saturday afternoon in White's Church by the Rev. A. C. McCallum.

The severe frost of Wednesday evening stopped most of the work in the canning factory tomato fields, though a few ripe tomatoes can still be picked. In some patches there were bushels of green tomatoes destroyed by the frost. Corn is still being hauled to the factories and pumpkins, although late, are flaunting their golden color for passersby to admire. The stately maples also show that Jack Frost has been very busy changing their coats of green to hues of many colors.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. F. Gardner in the loss of his wife who passed away on Friday at Belleville General Hospital. Friends gathered at Weaver's Funeral Home to pay their last respects to an old and respected citizen.

White's Church congregation joined Wesley Church congregation in a combined communion wide service on Sunday evening with the pastor, the Rev. A. C. McCallum taking the service.

Wing Commander Says Japs Most Savage in World

Ottawa, Oct. 11 —(CP)— Wing Cmdr. Leonard J. Birchall of St. Catharines, 30-year-old "saviour of Ceylon" returned to Canada Tuesday night after three years spent in Japanese prison camps, convinced the Japanese are "the most savage people in the world."

Arriving in an R. C. A. F. transport from Chicago shortly before midnight, he was greeted by his wife, Dorothy, after a separation of almost four years, and R. C. A. F. officials.

Wearing a makeshift uniform obtained from United States Army Air Corps officers, Wing Cmdr. Birchall, who spotted a Jap invasion fleet heading for Ceylon in 1942 and gave warning before being shot down, looked remarkably fit despite his treatment by the Japanese. This he described as "cruel to say the least."

"The Japanese are the most savage people in the world," he declared. "I wouldn't mind going back in the army of occupation to see that they get a little bit of what they deserve."

Stating that he hoped to remain in the R. C. A. F., he said "right now I just want to go home to St. Kitts and have a darned good rest."

Just when he would be able to return to his home was undetermined. He was scheduled to hold a press conference later today.

Put in Questioning Camp.

After giving warning of the approaching Japanese task force, his Catalina patrol plane was shot down by five zero fighters as it closed in to investigate and identify the fleet. He spent five months in a "questioning camp" before being listed as a prisoner of war and transferred to a camp near Tokyo.

It was more than a year before his fate became known to the outside world when a friend in another camp wrote to his wife that he was alive.

"One of the toughest things to take from the Japs was the fact they wouldn't let me have my letters," he said. "If a letter came they would tell me, check my name and burn it.

"The treatment of prisoners was cruel to say the least and I was knocked around plenty."

Among those at the airport were Air Commodore M. Costello, representing the Chief of the Air Staff; Group Capt. J. C. Scott, a former squadron mate and later commanding officer of the R. C. A. F.s 413th squadron; Wing Cmdr. Lawson Randall, another former commander of the Ceylon squadron; Group Capt. H. M. Carscallen, who accompanied him from Manila, and a chum from school days, Flt. Lt. Ron Gadsby of St. Catharines, a public relations officer who met him in Chicago.

Thomasburg

Thomasburg — The Thomasburg United Church congregation observed their anniversary services on Sunday, October 7th with large numbers in attendance. This was also the official re-opening of the church since the interior has been redecorated and looked very beautiful with the sunlight shining through the south windows on the soft green of the walls for the marking of the milestone in the life of the church in this village. Rev. George Patten of Queensboro was the guest speaker for the day and delivered two very inspiring addresses. Special music was rendered by the choir with Mrs. Heywood and Miss Marion Jones presiding at the organ for the morning service, while Mr. Fred Porter was at the organ in the evening. Mrs. Arnold Dilts and Miss Isobel Richardson of Belleville assisted the choir and were heard in two beautifully rendered duets during the day. The church was adorned with Autumn flowers among which was a basket of yellow chrysanthemums placed in the church by Mrs. A. A. Richardson and family in memory of the late Mr. Richardson who passed away two years ago. The late Mr. Richardson was a faithful worker of the church during his short time of residence here, being a member of the choir and taking a deep interest in the Sunday School, especially the young people of the community.

CHAPTER 12

It seemed to have taken them only an instant to reach the park together, to find a bench and sit quietly, watching the fading sunlight and listening to traffic noises beyond the trees.

"I'm sorry I didn't help you on the last play, Lee," she said. "If I'd stayed you wouldn't have — have ..."

"Flopped is the word," he said bitterly. "Listen, Elaine, it isn't your fault that I'm no good. That I've lost all faith in myself. If you had helped on the play, all this would have happened some time. I just don't have what it takes. I'm not big time."

"I don't know. I guess I pinned too much on Karen. When she walked out on me, everything seemed senseless, without reason. And I didn't care after that."

Elaine carefully thought of the words she was going to say. "If —if you did come back with a success without Karen, then it would prove you didn't need her so much, wouldn't it?"

Lee nodded, gazing at the grass before them. "I suppose, but who's going to produce a play I write? Who thinks I'll stay sober long enough to write a new play?"

Elaine turned his face around to her with her finger, smiled into his eyes, once so young and fresh and eager, but now tired and strained. "I think you will, Lee. We once wrote a good play together. We'll do it again. We'll write a great play together, Lee, dear ..."

The card table was loaded with papers, the typewriter, a few ash trays covered with burned out cigarets. A dictionary lay on the floor amidst crumpled paper. Lee las leaning back in the chair, yawning, shading his eyes from the burning lamp lights in the living room of Elaine's apartment.

Elaine was slowly pacing back and forth, holding the finished third act in her hand, reading it silently, making a mark occasionally with a pencil.

It was late, well past midnight. Her rose-colored slacks needed pressing, and her white blouse was wrinkled. She and Lee had been hard at work on the third act since early that morning.

The play was now finished. It was good, Elaine knew. True, her contribution had been the greatest, but Lee still could evolve a scene with perfect dramatic timing.

Finally she stopped her pacing and dropped wearily onto the davenport across from Lee. She handed the pages of the third act back to him and he glanced at it briefly. Then he juggled the pages evenly, slipped them into a script book with the first two acts.

"Well, that's that," he said, dumping the ashes from his cigaret.

Lee groaned and stood up. He crossed to the windows, flung them open, stood back a little while the cold air whirled into the room, twisting the drapery and blowing the papers on the table and floor across the room. Lee turned to her.

"That enough?"

"Plenty," she answered, shivering in the sudden change of room temperature. "There's some pie and milk in the kitchen. Help yourself." She leaned back and closed her eyes.

In a few moments Lee returned juggling two plates of pie and two glasses of milk. He splashed some of the milk on the davenport and hurriedly started brushing it up with his handkerchief. Elaine laughed, pulled him down.

Lee cut off a piece of the pie, then looked at Elaine. "You don't know the feeling I have inside me. Elaine, I don't think I'll ever be able to thank you."

She winked. "Don't let it bother you, Lee."

"But it does. It seems that I always owe you for something. I want to pay you back somehow."

"That's silly. Eat your pie. I made it."

Lee looked down at the pie. "Well—you will let me include your name on the script book?"

Elaine sighed. "Darling, we've been all over that. If it will make you happy, yes, you can put my name on the book. By Elaine Grayson and Lee Collins. There, doesn't that sound pretty?"

Lee turned to her once more, his eyes serious. "It sounds better than pretty, Elaine." He picked up her hand, pressed it tightly. "It sounds the way it should have been all this time."

Elaine studied his features. His eyes were clearer than they had been in weeks. She had kept him on a steady schedule; had kept him away from bars and liquor. She had above all kept his mind off Karen. She wondered if it were permanent.

Lee settled back on the davenport next to her. "Who shall we show the play to?"

"Why, Annie, of course," Elaine answered. "I have a contract with him."

Lee shook his head. "Brann's the best, of course. But he doesn't like me. He'll probably burn up when he finds you've written a play with me."

"Annie's not like that. He'll be delighted."

Lee shook his head again. "I doubt it, but go ahead and show it to him. I hope he'll produce it. I'm sort of low on cash."

Elaine put her empty plate and glass down. "If you need a loan?"

Lee looked at her. "You're tops, Elaine. I'll pay you back as soon as we get some royalties on the play."

Elaine lit a cigaret, removed a piece of tobacco from her lips and studied it. "What are you going to do now?"

Lee shrugged, picking up Elaine's free hand and examining the tips of her fingers idly. "I don't know. Hadn't given it much thought. Why?"

"Just wondered. If you think you'd like to try Hollywood I might be able to do you some good."

Lee's eyes grew thoughtful. "I'll think about that. Thanks again." He abruptly sat up, turned to her.

"Let's get married, Elaine."

The words stunned her. She sat quite still, hardly breathing. She had waited years to hear that from him, and now it had come so unexpectedly. His eyes were moving rapidly over her face; she could feel them touch her everywhere.

"Marry me, Elaine?"

"I don't know," she said, her voice hardly above a whisper. "I don't know. I don't know that you love me."

Lee's hands were on her arms, pulling her to him. She could see the glare of the lamp back of the davenport beneath her half-closed eyelids, then could hear the short snap and sense the complete darkness in the room that followed it.

His words kept ringing over and over in her mind, but there was still an emptiness, a shallow feeling of something lacking despite the power of his nearness, the pressure of his lips against hers.

Gently she pushed him back a little.

"You didn't answer me, Lee. You didn't tell me that you loved me."

She could feel him move away from her, stand up and light a cigaret. There was only stony and black silence in the room after that, complete silence that said more than all his words....

Elaine watched the silvery plane dip out of the sky, nestle onto the runway of the great airport. It seemed hours before it taxied to the administration building, deposited its passengers.

She turned nervously to Minnie and Brann, standing with her in the administration building. "You don't think they missed the plane, do you?"

Minnie smiled. "You got a telegram from Paul when they landed in Des Moines, didn't you? See, there they are."

Elaine followed her eyes, saw Paul and Sam Lewin step out of the plane. There was a sharp feeling of joy spreading through her. The premier of her picture was the next night; Paul had written that he thought he could make it to New York for that. She had been afraid to hope, wanting him more than ever since the night she and Lee had finished the play.

She turned to Lee, standing quietly at her side, looking out the huge window to the unloading dock. His face was tense, a little angry. Elaine was sorry for him, sorry that she'd repulsed him, but he had refused to fill the void that had come with his lovemaking. It wasn't enough to be asked to marry him. It needed something more. Something that was attached to a raincheck.

Karen's visit to her apartment the next afternoon had surprised Elaine. She was busy dressing for dinner with Paul and the premier afterward when Karen had buzzed at the door.

The girl, her blond hair carefully fixed, her clothes fitting her with more than a subtle effect, was sitting in a chair in Elaine's bedroom, watching her cream her face.

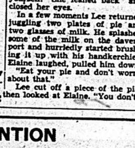
Felt Tired, Rundown; Stomach Out Of Order

Relates How Syntona Ended Gas, Cramps, Acidity, Nausea, Headaches and Dizzy Spells—Appetite Improves And He Sleeps Better.

All who suffer from disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys, or bowels or any of their long train of distressing symptoms will be interested in the experience of Mr. William Sanger, Glanford Station, Ont., as reported recently. Read his sincere statement:

"In the last four or five years I suffered terribly with stomach gas and indigestion. I felt so rundown and miserable that I often could not work at all. Food I ate just fermented and caused a burning feeling and sour liquids would rise right up into my throat. Often, I couldn't keep any food in my stomach at all. I would get dizzy, bilious spells accompanied by floating spots before my eyes and throbbing headaches.

"I had tried all kinds of medicines, but nothing was helping me. Then my boss' wife persuaded me to try Syntona, and I have found it excellent. It helped my stomach and bowels right from the first, and now, after a few weeks, I am feeling just fine again. I enjoy my meals, I sleep well and I have more energy. I don't get those awful headaches and dizzy spells any more and my whole system feels more healthy than it did in years."



MR. WILLIAM SANGER

If you, who read this, suffer like Mr. Sanger did, make up your mind to begin taking Syntona today. See how much better you, too, can be feeling in just a short time.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP) — The industrial and gold groups were moderately weak and other groups displayed firmness in the early session of the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Trading volume picked up in the second hour after prices began to tighten and the volume for the first three hours was 1,398,000 shares.

Eldona slipped to 1.90 before finding buying supply and in the subsequent recovery the price climbed to 2.45 for a net gain of 10 cents. Donalda also dipped and recovered. Lingman Lake, Senator, Lake Fortune, Little Long Lac, Goldcrest, Giant and Cochenour Willans recorded sizeable gains.

Utilities, senior oils and steels were down narrowly and the miscellaneous industrials gained. Abitibi preferred lost 1 1-2.

WALL STREET

New York, Oct. 11. (AP)—The Stock Market faltered today after five successive advances to new average highs for nearly nine years.

Profits were collected on the idea a substantial technical correction was a possibility.

While selective gainers were in evidence approaching the fourth hours, the losing column was crowded.

Exceptions on the retreat were Childs Co., and Armour which touched peaks for the year. Resistant were Western Union "A", in response to a pleasing earnings statement; Standard Gas $4 Preferred and Montgomery Ward.

Distillers Seagrams and McIntyre were up 1-4 each at midday while Lake Shore lost the same. Hiram Walker retired with a 1-2-point loss.

HOGS

Toronto, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Grade A, dressed, were up 10 cents at Stratford and down 10 cents cwt. at Brantford, prices were unchanged at London and Hull, in bacon-hog markets reporting early today; Stratford, to farmers $17.60, to truckers $17.75, delivered; Brantford $17.15 plus transportation; London $17.10 plus transportation; Hull $17.40 delivered.

LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Oct. 11 (CP)—Cattle moved slowly at prices generally 25 cents cwt. lower for the week, in trade to mid-session on the livestock market here today. Veal calves, hogs, lambs and sheep were steady. Unsold from yesterday were 3,300 head of cattle including 1,000 stockers and 5,000 lambs. Lambs moved slowly today.

Fresh receipts reported by the Dominion marketing service were Cattle 60, calves 30, hogs 220.

Plain to medium weighty steers were $9.50-$11.25, butcher steers and heifers $8-$10.50, boners downward to $6.50, butcher cows $7-$8.50, canners and cutters $5-$6.75, bulls $6.50-$8.40, fed yearlings $11-$13.75, a few stockers $7.50-$9.65.

Calves were $8-$14 for vealers.

Lambs were $13.50-$14 for good ewes and wethers, $12.50-$13 bucks, $9-$10 culls.

Sheep were $3-$7.

Attorney McGinnis supports her. Mrs. Irene Mansfeldt has been booked in connection with the slaying.

HOSPITAL BILL ON HOUSE

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11 —(AP) —Because her three boys were the first triplets born at St. John's Hospital in 21 years, the Sisters of St. Francis notified Mrs. Wayne Edwards her hospital bill will be "on the house."

MOTORIST WARNED OF ABUSIVE LANGUAGE

With the exception of the apprehension of one or two inebriates, police circles were rather quiet over the night. An officer was called to a Pinnacle Street garage late in the evening when a would-be gasoline purchaser used abusive language in speaking to the night operator. Police informed the motorist that sale of gasoline after hours was a matter to be decided by the operator.

Peterborough police notified the local department of the theft of two autos in that city. One was a 1940, dark green Dodge sedan, bearing licence No. 5 M 637, and the other a 1935 Ford coupe with black body and green wheels bearing licence No. 1 M 492.

CARS DAMAGED

Extensive body and fender damage resulted to two autos Wednesday evening when at the corner of Victoria Ave., and Pinnacle Street the two vehicles came into collision. Joseph Walsh of Marysville was driving west on Victoria when his car was in collision with that driven north on Pinnacle St. by Howard Fraser. According to the story told police the Fraser car failed to stop at the intersection.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was sewing on her sewing machine, saying, Benny, what are you doing at my dressing table?

Mam? Just looking, I said, and ma said, Then dont look with your hands.

Meening stop touching, and I said, Hay, ma, how about this Essence of Night perfume, is it any good?

Any good? ma said. It's just about the best perfume in the world. There hasn't been a bottle permitted out of France since the war. It's not only good, it's priceless, that's how good it is. Any good indeed, she said, and I said, Well if there was about 30 drops less in the bottle do you think you'd notice the difference? I said.

I think I'd notice the difference if somebody just took 30 sniffs out of it, ma said, and I said, Well then how about 20 drops? Twenty drops would be just enough to fill a teeny little bottle I've been saving. I know because I made the experiment, I said.

What, with my priceless Essence of Night? ma said, and I said, No mam, G, I mean with water. Mary Watkins's berthday is tomorrow and I bet she'd think it was swell if I gave her that teeny little bottle full of imported French perfume. Hay ma, I'll give you 5 cents for 20 small size drops, I said.

Thanks for the generous offer, but I think I prefer to donate 5 cents to your 5 and let you buy Mary a nice full size bottle at the 5 and 10 cent store, ma said, and I said, Well can I open it and add 5 drops of Essence least partly imported?

I'm afraid not, ma said, and I said, Well then 3 drops.

No number of drops, ma said, and I said, Well then one drop. One drop's no number of drops, it's just a drop, I said, and ma said, Oh all right for land sakes one drop, and I'll do the dropping.

Which she did, dropping it in a 10 cent bottle of Happy Daze with a eye dropper, and I wrote on the label Garanteed Partly Imported, Benny Potts.

Scotch Woollens Are Coming Back

London, Oct. 10 —(CP)— The Scots love for rich color inspired by the beauty of his country was reflected in a selection of Scottish woollen fabrics displayed recently in London by the International Wool Secretariat.

Scotland has an important place in the textile industry. Most of the spinning and weaving has been done in country districts and little towns and this has enabled designers to keep in touch with the natural beauties of their country and has encouraged individuality.

Some 240 samples contributed by about 40 leading Scottish firms were on show to the public for a week.

Checks predominated in materials suitable for suits and coats though herring-bone patterns made a good second.

Bevin Supports United States

London, Oct. 10 —(CP Cable)— Foreign Secretary Bevin in his Commons statement yesterday on the recent foreign ministers conference made it clear he supported the United States in urging that the dominions and the other countries which made a material contribution to the defeat of the Axis have an opportunity to express their views at the peace settlement.

Canada and Australia already have said they feel the dominions which made a major contribution to victory should be allowed a voice in the peace settlements.

In his references to the dominions Mr. Bevin said of the foreign ministers conference:

"Throughout these discussions I was concerned to urge a wider interpretation which would have given an opportunity for the dominions and other governments who had made a material contribution to the defeat of the Axis to express their views at the peace settlement."

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Safe Containing $4,000 In Cash is Found Intact

Toronto, Oct. 12 —(CP)— Five armed men, red handkerchiefs covering their faces, trussed up two men at Hall's Dairy on Christie Street early today but failed in an attempt to remove a safe containing $4,000.

Led by a six-foot man, the gang, one carrying a machine-gun and the other long-barrelled revolvers, were said by police to have been identified as the same gang that robbed the Roselawn Dairy and the West York and District Bus Company in the Toronto district during the past week. Police said they also believed the same men responsible for numerous other holdups in Toronto, Hamilton and London since last July.

Narrowly Escape Capture.

The gang escaped possible capture by only a few minutes after binding stableman James Morgan, 65, and Basil Kirkey, 35, who was taking shelter in the stable from the rain. Morgan wiggled from the ropes that bound him hand and foot and ran four blocks to Dupont Street to call police.

At the same time Kirkey, similarly bound, turned somersaults for 35 feet from the stable to the driveway attempting to get to Christie Street and call help.

The gang fled when one of their number who returned to the stable from the dairy office to make sure the men still were there, found them missing. As they fled they failed to notice Kirkey lying on the edge of a pool of water, just a few feet off Christie Street.

A soldier on a wheelchair, using a pay telephone in a restaurant, unwittingly held up Morgan's call to police and when squads of police "ready for a gunfight" rushed to the dairy the bandits had fled. Morgan said the soldier did not know the urgency of his call.

Safe Taken From Office.

At the door of the second-floor pasteurization room, where it had been trundled from the dairy office ready to drop to the ground, police found the safe intact. It contained pay envelopes made up the previous night.

"I had just cleaned up the stable and was preparing to feed the horses when the men came into the harness room," said Morgan. "The big fellow, who didn't have a gun, came up and struck me on the nose. He didn't say anything. Then he went over to where Kirkey was sitting on a milk case and punched him.

The men then tied the two with clothes-line wire. Morgan was laid at the rear hooves of a horse. Kirkey was thrown on the floor with a blanket over him.

"We were tied for about 25 minutes before I was able to get my hands free," said Morgan.

Hold Elections In April Next

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

Buenos Aires, Oct. 12 (AP)— Argentina's military government today designated April 7, 1946, as the date for presidential elections in a decree issued in what appeared to be an effort to retain power in the face of both military and civilian pressure.

The decree, announcing the first elections since the government was overthrown by the military revolt of 1943, was promulgated shortly after 120 army officers demanded the resignations of the entire cabinet of President Farrell and the arrest of Col. Juan Domingo Peron.

The group was not definitely connected with the army group of the Campo De Mayo garrison which had forced the ouster of "strong man" Peron as Vice President, War Minister and Minister of Labor. Some garrison officers, however, attended the meeting yesterday which preceded the demands.

There was no definite indication Peron would not be a candidate.

Ottawa, Oct. 12 (CP)—Veterans Minister Mackenzie, in a lengthy review of provisions for the re-establishment and care of war veterans, Thursday, told the Commons Committee on Veterans Affairs that legislation covering the Veterans Land Act had deliberately been left in "a very flexible form" to meet varying conditions in the different Provinces.

"This has been fully justified in the widely differing terms of the agreements which had already been entered into with Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, each of which is making its contribution to the prospective settler's success in a different way," he said in a statement prepared for delivery before the committee.

Each Province was making some other type of contribution over and above mere allocation of crown land in helping the joint Dominion-Provincial scheme for settlement on Provincial lands "which the Provincial Government might recommend as suitable."

Veterans pensions granted from the Second Great War carried an annual liability of $17,141,460 at July 31 and are increasing at the rate of about $1,000,000 a month, Mr. Mackenzie said.

In the First Great War the highest pension liability figure reached was $41,858,377 in 1932 —14 years after the end of the war. Present liability for First Great War pensions was $37,147,677.

Creamery Butter Storage Higher

Ottawa, Oct. 12 — (CP) — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics says in its monthly report on food stocks that creamery butter in Canada, as held in storage and in transit totalled 71,040,175 pounds at Oct. 1, against 67,975,263 pounds at Sept. 1, and 67,880,891 pounds at Oct. 1, 1944.

Total stocks of cheese, in storage and in transit, amounted to 63,024,192 pounds, a decrease from Oct. 1, 1944, when the stocks were 65,550,344 pounds, and a decline from last month's holdings of 64,721,717 pounds.

PAYS HIGH FINE

Cobourg, Oct. 12 —(CP)— For spearing fish and for using a jack light to attract fish, Glenville Dunnett of Alnwick Township yesterday was fined $100 and costs on each charge, or two consecutive jail terms of 30 days each. His wife was fined $15 and costs on each charge.

Game wardens seized 66 pounds of fish, a storage battery spotlight and a canoe.

Vast Raw Material Made Tiny For Atomic Guards to Handle

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Editor)

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 12 — (AP) — Millions of tons in construction and in raw materials went into the atomic bomb plants here, but what came out was measurable in handfuls.

carry out the products of what was probably the greatest construction job in history. Briefcases in the early days were regular vehicles for transporting things that promised to change the course of civilization.

Later on the products reached the stage of an occasional ton that was inconspicuously handled.

Early in the project chemists and physicists had to work with materials measured in millionths of a gram — far less than the weight of a human breath.

After a time they got up to thousandths of a gram, something like the weight of the moisture left on a thin dime after you lick one side with your tongue. Then grams were reached, and in 1944 amounts that might equal a few nickel coins.

In addition to other shipments there were consignments of radioactive materials. These are compounds, products of some phases of atomic bomb work, that are useful in medical treatment.

These ray materials had to travel fast, for they usually lose their rays in days or weeks, and some last only a few hours.

When brief cases carried important shipments, officers usually were the porters. Sometimes they were in uniform and sometimes not, still other shipments were carried by two-man teams, riding in a Pullman compartment

GENERAL DOSTLER SENTENCED TO DEATH BY COURT

German Convicted Of Ordering Summary Execution of 15 U.S. Captured Soldiers

Rome, Oct. 12 (AP)—Anton Dostler, first German general to be tried in western Europe as a war criminal, was convicted by a United States military tribunal today and sentenced to death for ordering the summary execution of 15 United States soldiers captured behind the German lines in Italy.

The verdict was announced shortly after 9 a.m. (3 a.m. E.S.T.). The five-man commission sitting in judgment on Dostler had taken the case under consideration at 4 p.m. yesterday.

The conviction must be reviewed by the commander of Allied forces in the Mediterranean theatre before the death sentence can be carried out.

The soldiers, with whose execution Dostler was charged, died before a German firing squad at La Spezia March 26, 1944. They had landed on the Italian coast from rubber boats on a mission to blow up a railway tunnel.

Dostler's defence was based on the contention he had acted under a blanket order from Hitler to execute all commandos and that he consulted with his superiors before the execution was carried out.

Dostler stood stiffly erect as sentence was passed.

At least three-fifths of the court had concurred in finding Dostler guilty and had decided on the death sentence by secret ballot, Maj.-Gen. L. C. Jaynes, commission president, said.

Armed Bandits Loot Box Cars

Campbellford, Oct. 12 —(CP)— Police throughout this section of Eastern Ontario were on the lookout today for a gang of armed bandits who have left a trail of looted box cars from Belleville to Kingston. Yesterday police here tried unsuccessfully to trap the gang, described by Toronto police as "desperate killers who will shoot it out."

The gang, believed to number 15 men, abandoned $1,000 worth of cigarets when they apparently discovered that police were watching the car. They tried to steal another car but it stalled.

Two members of the gang are believed to have reached the Lindsay area by freight car. A trainman reported that he saw 2 men jump off a car at the Lindsay station.

Drivers on No. 30 highway from Campbellford to Brighton were warned not to stop for any hitchhikers.

Toronto police said they believed the bandits are carrying sawed-off shotguns. Farmers have reported that strange men have slept in their haylofts, and police believe the strangers are members of the bandit gang.

22 Persons Injured When Two Street Cars Collide at Intersection

Toronto, Oct. 12 —(CP)— Twenty-two persons were injured, eight seriously enough to warrant hospital treatment, when two street cars crowded with men and women on their way to work collided today at the downtown intersection of Queen and Church streets.

A score or more received a shaking up in the accident, most serious trolley mishap in Toronto for months. Police and citizens formed rescue groups to assist the injured from the damaged trams.

Most seriously injured were Motorman F. Starr and a passenger, A. Sugden of Toronto. They were removed from one of the damaged trolleys on stretchers and taken by ambulance to hospital.

Police said the accident occurred when a westbound Queen St. car went through an open electric switch and curved south into an eastbound trolley, striking it just behind the operator's seat. Some passengers were showered with flying glass and hurled to the floor atop one another.

Some women started screaming but the motormen of both trolleys averted a panic by opening all exits.

All available ambulances and some police cruisers, as well as private automobiles, were pressed into service to take the injured to hospital.

Of those taken to hospital all but eight were released. Leg, arm and head injuries were most prevalent.

"I think the motorman must have jumped out of his compartment," said Mrs. Verna Kay of Toronto, passenger in the westbound tram. "The front was crushed in on his stool."

JAS. W. HAGGERTY TREASURER OF COUNTY DIES

Suffers Heart Seizure at Dunnville While Making Tour of Province as Executive Member of Good Roads Association

James W. Haggerty, Treasurer for the County of Hastings, died suddenly as the result of a heart seizure at Dunnville, Ontario Thursday afternoon. He left here two days ago to take part in a tour of inspection with the members of the executive committee of the Ontario Good Roads Association of which he was a member and a past president.

The news of Mr. Haggerty's death came as a great shock to his family, his associates at Shire Hall and to a host of friends and acquaintances in this city and throughout the district. He was prominent in the life of the city and county and to those closely associated with him his sudden death has brought sincere feelings of regret.

Born in Huntingdon Twp.

The late James W. Haggerty was born in Huntingdon Township on November 25th, 1869 and was in his 76th year. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. James Haggerty, his father being at one time a member of the Ontario Legislature for North Hastings. The greater part of his life was passed on the farm where he was born. He took a keen interest in township and county affairs and for six years he served as a member of the Huntingdon Township Council. In 1921 he became Reeve of the Township and as a member of the County Council he rendered valued service. He filled in an efficient manner the position of Chairman of the Provincial Highway and Purchasing committees. He was also the county representative on the Suburban Areas Commission and was active on most of the important committees in the county council. Mr. Haggerty continued as a member of the council until 1926 when he was appointed to the important position of County Treasurer.

Interested in Cheese Industry

Mr. Haggerty was interested in the cheese industry and for a considerable time was a member of the Belleville Cheese Board and filled for a term the office of President of the Board. He was also a director of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association. In his native township he took an interest in school matters and served as a member of the school board.

Good roads were of great interest to Mr. Haggerty and he took an active part in bringing about improved highways in the province, and was a Past President of the Ontario Good Roads Association. For ten years he was also a Director of the Ontario Municipal Association.

CANADIANS TELL STORIES OF BRUTAL JAP TREATMENT

Seventy Canadian Soldiers Captured at Hong Kong in 1941 Arrive at San Francisco

By STANLEY MONCRIEFF
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

San Francisco, Oct. 12—(CP)— Her decks lined with cheering liberated prisoners of war, including 70 Canadian soldiers captured at Hong Kong, Christmas Day, 1941, the United States transport U.S.S. Rixey docked here today.

The Canadians, members of the Winnipeg Grenadiers and Royal Rifles of Canada, told of stories of starvation and brutal treatment while in prisoner-of-war camps.

From the dock some were taken immediately by ferry to Fort McDowell, an island in San Francisco Bay, and others were transferred to hospital for medical examination.

The men have regained a considerable amount of lost weight but still are not completely accustomed to humane treatment and associating with the general public.

Often they stand and stare at a person, giving the impression of being half-fearful of absorbing at a moment's notice more brutal beatings.

Those on board included Pte. H. J. Thibeault, Hudson, Ont.; Rfmn. K. A. Campbell, Craigleith, Ont.

High-ranking naval officers greeted Capt. Oliver L. Gordon, who commanded the cruiser H.M.S. Exeter when she was sunk in the Battle of Java Sea in March, 1942.

Canadians aboard the vessel included: Lieut. Alexander S. Black, Fergus, Ont.; Capt. Winston R. Cunningham, Windsor, Ont.; Rfmn. William J. Lee, Oshawa; Capt. George M. Billings, Kingston; Lieut. William F. Nugent, Lindsay; Cpl. Raymond J. Herbert, Renfrew; Rfmn. Michael J. Kane, Renfrew.

A Rousing Welcome.

Victoria, Oct. 12 —(CP)— Crowds that rushed the gate at the government drydock, knocking guards off their feet and delaying the unloading of the American troopship S. S. Gosper last night gave British and Canadian liberated prisoners from Japan the most rousing welcome yet tendered a troopship arriving here.

The wail of sirens greeted the ship as she hove into sight. First to be taken off were three stretcher cases followed by the Hong Kong veterans, who were taken to Gordon Head camp.

One of the first men off the giant troopship was Lieut. Francis G. Power, of the Royal Rifles of Canada, who was met by his parents, Hon. C. G. Power, former Canadian Minister for Air, and Mrs. Power of Quebec City.

JAPS REPATRIATED

Manila, Oct. 12 — (AP)—Three demilitarized Japanese destroyer escorts arrived today to evacuate 350 Japanese women and children, the first Nipponese civilians to be repatriated from Manila since the war ended.

Women and children have top priority on Allied repatriation orders.

COMMONS AWAITS FINANCE MINISTER ILSLEY'S BUDGET

Reduction in Income Taxes Expected But Will Not be in Effect Until Next Year

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 12 (CP) — Finance Minister Ilsley will bring down his budget in the Commons tonight and while members anxiously awaited his speech they devoted their time to considering a bill authorizing Canadian participation in the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

As the work went on there was much unofficial conjecture of what the budget would contain, but official sources followed the custom of keeping main contents of the budget a secret until the finance minister speaks in the House.

The unofficial forecasts included the possibility there might be some reduction in income taxes, which might not, however, take effect until the end of the present calendar year.

The lifting of the 10 per cent excise tax now in force against a broad list of imported commodities was also forecast. It was believed that the list of goods exempt from the eight per cent sales tax might be greatly increased.

Study of Bill Completed

Study of the Food and Agriculture Organization Bill was practically completed last night but John Blackmore (S.C.-Lethbridge) asked that the measure be carried over until today because there were articles in the organization's constitution he wished to discuss.

With a few reservations all parties approved Canadian participation in the organizatiion, which meets in Quebec next week and which is the first of the international functional agencies affiliated with the general plan of a United Nations set-up to come into active operation.

Don't Approve Wording.

While approving the principle of the bill, the Progressive Conservative party did not approve of its wording and presented two amendments, one of which was accepted as submitted. A second amendment was accepted after Justice Minister St. Laurent and John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre) agreed on a rewording.

Girl Shot in Leg Robbed of $1,000

Welland, Oct. 12 —(CP)— Rose Smith, 19, of nearby Crowland was shot in the leg and robbed of more than $1,000 about a mile north of Welland last night by two men who first forced her car into the ditch.

She was driving to the city after having made collections for a Welland firm, she told police later. Two men drove up in another auto and forced her into a ditch. She stepped to the road as one of the men approached. He grabbed her purse and shot her in the leg.

Okinawa in Shambles Following 132- Mile Typhoon That Kills Three

Manila, Oct. 12 — (AP) — Okinawa today was a shambles — reminiscent of this recent battle-ravaged litter — reduced by a 132-mile typhoon that killed three United States Navy personnel, left 10 sailors missing and more than 100 soldiers injured, and sank, damaged or beached 127 naval vessels. Four Japanese prisoners were also killed.

The typhoon, which struck Okinawa Tuesday after having twisted 150 miles to the southwest for 24 hours, swept northward to kill at least 69 Japanese, flood 8,000 houses, wash away 81 bridges and leave thousands homeless in central and southern Honshu.

Superfortresses from the Marianas today rushed food to the 100,000 Americans on Okinawa to replace supplies destroyed in the storm.

Tents, huts and installations of every kind were demolished or heavily damaged. Parked airplanes were overturned. Food was destroyed. Hospital patients had a nightmarish time throughout the hours of darkness.

Heavily damaged communications on both Okinawa and Honshu hampered attempts to get complete reports on casualties and damage. On Okinawa, damage was so great that the east coast was out of touch with the western side of the narrow, 10-mile-wide island. In Washington yesterday, the navy reported that a far less severe typhoon Sept. 16-18 sank four more minesweepers with casualties of 89 officers and men dead or missing. A submarine chaser also was sunk then, but no one aboard was killed.

Gestapo Charges By C.C.F. Leader Are Not Proven

Criticizes Osborne-Dempster For Actions as An Officer

Toronto, Ont., 12 — (CP)—Premier Drew and his Progressive Conservative government stood absolved today of charges made last May 24 in a radio address by Ontario C.C.F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe that the government maintained a paid political police force, a "Gestapo."

A 6,500-word Royal Commission report issued last night by Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel of the Ontario Supreme Court, climaxing mid-summer Commission sittings in which more than 1,000,000 words of testimony were entered and 36 witnesses called, found the charges specific "with respect to deliberate and wilful acts of wrongdoing by Mr. Drew and his government" and "I have concluded there were no such deliberate and wilful acts."

In his May 24 address which intensified campaigning for the Ontario election June 4, Mr. Jolliffe named Constable William J. Osborne-Dempster of the Ontario Provincial Police as head of a secret police organization he said had headquarters at 18 Surrey Place near Queen's Park government offices.

Misleading Information Claimed

The C. C. F. leader, who subsequently said his principal source of information was Constable John Alvin Rowe, one-time Osborne-Dempster assistant, charged that misleading information about C.C.F. and other opposition groups was collected by Rowe, whose signature on reports was D208.

These reports, said Mr. Jolliffe, were circulated among a group engaged in a conspiracy to maintain the government in power out of public funds. Among those named were Premier Drew, Osborne-Dempster, Gladstone Murray, Toronto police counsel, M. A. Sanderson, Toronto businessman who published political advertisements from time to time, and George McCullagh, president of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Nakamura said the Japanese overseas fleet headquarters temporarily would continue active status "to insure order within the forces under their command."

Argentine Cabinet Resigns

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

Buenos Aires, Oct. 12 — (AP) —The cabinet of Argentine President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell resigned today, under pressure of both military and civilian groups.

Official announcement of the mass resignation came as some 120 army and navy officers met in the officers club, and a growing crowd gathered in the streets outside.

Health Ministry Working Hard To Prevent Epidemic

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

London, Oct. 12 (CP)—Amid officially expressed fears that under-nourished Europe is ripe for a flu epidemic this winter, the British Ministry of Health is renewing its annual "handkerchief campaign" against the spread of respiratory diseases.

Throughout the war years Britons have been urged unceasingly to avoid conditions leading to colds, and instructed how to nurse them if once contracted. Newspaper advertisements, posters, broadcasts, public meetings and press articles have proclaimed the slogan: "Coughs and sneezes spread diseases."

"Britons are well-versed in the drill of avoiding cold-catching, and how not to spread germs," said a ministry official. "Our 'handkerchief campaign' has taught them automatically to cover the germs with their hankies."

The public is exhorted to avoid crowded places when colds are prevalent, to keep fit by eating the right food, including fat rations, to take as much fresh air exercise as possible and to keep rooms well-ventilated.

Much of the ministry's campaign falls in the easier-said-than-done category, for it's hard to find a place in London that isn't crowded and officials urging consumption of a proper diet are forced to add wryly: "When you can get it."

THREE MORE LARGE MUSKIES CAUGHT

Not all 'lunge caught in Muscote Bay are displayed in local store windows as is evidenced by reports of city anglers who have recently conquered big muskies in the favorite haunts of the big fellow in the Bay of Quinte.

Last Saturday Glen Elliot and Percy Pitney landed a 17-pound 'lunge while trolling in Muscote Bay and for next fe wdays enjoyed muskie steaks at their family dinner tables.

But with appetite whetted for more steaks and further excitement, Mr. Pitney again went "down the bay" on Thursday afternoon, this time with William Redner of Herchimer Avenue, and was successful in landing two more. As result of their afternoon's trolling efforts, Mr. Pitney and Mr. Redner brought home ten and 24 pound muskies.

90th Birthday Is Celebrated

Sidney—Mr. George Westover, who was celebrating his ninetieth birthday, was guest of honor at a dinner party held at the home of his son, and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Selburn Westover on Tuesday evening October ninth. Mr. and Mrs. Bid Westover and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Westover were present to enjoy the felicitations with their father on this occasion.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Mr. Westover who enjoys the respect and admiration of young and old.

Enjoying fairly good health, Mr. Westover assists his sons in the farm activities and takes a keen interest in home and world affairs. Although impaired in hearing it is a delight to have a conversation with this fine old gentleman, whose words of wisdom are sought on many occasions.

Three Crashes At Same Corner

Pinnacle Street at the Victoria Avenue and Campbell Street intersection has been a frequent locale for motor accidents during the past 48 hours, with no less than three auto crashes occurring at the above two intersections in little more than a day.

At 10.45 Thursday morning, fender, bumper, and other front end damage resulted when a car being driven north on Pinnacle Street, by Gerrard Shaughnessy, Melrose Ave., Toronto, was in collision with a local taxi which was being driven west on Victoria. Tire and tube, fog light, bumper and left front fender were damaged on the Shaughnessy car while the taxi was damaged about the rear fender.

A short time later two cars were in collision at the Campbell and Pinnacle Street intersection. Ford Thompson of Holloway, was driving north on Pinnacle when his car was in collision with another being driven east on Campbell by Kenneth Nolan. Slight fender and bumper damage resulted.

Humane Society Wishes to Add to Membership List

A meeting of the Belleville and Hastings County Humane Society was held this week at which plans were made for future activities. Inspector Clare Hayes was appointed to the position of President to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Chas. A. Payne, K.C. Inspector Hayes briefly addressed the meeting and referred to the experience he had had in humane society work and his interest in that regard. He hoped to be of assistance, and suggested that an effort be made to extend the activities of the society over the entire county and to enlist the sympathy and cooperation of the various municipalities. Owing to the fact that the annual tag day has not been held for the past five years the financing of the society is largely dependent on membership fees. At the time of organization the fee was set at a very low figure in the hope that all lovers of animals and all those who wish to lessen the suffering of the unfortunate ones, would lend their support by becoming members of the society. Members are urgently needed and an effort will be made to this end.

The Inspector presented the following report covering the past three months. Dogs returned to owners 9; dogs placed in homes 18; dogs humanely destroyed 60; cats returned to owners 3; cats placed in homes 6; cats humanely destroyed 64; horses humanely destroyed 2; stables and other places inspected 15; complaints received 3.

By W. ERNST

On Sunday, Oct. 7th., the Jewish communities of Belleville, Picton and Trenton, held special religious services for their surviving European brethren. Resolutions were also sent to Premiers King and Attlee urging that the doors of Palestine be opened to those displaced European Jews, who are still living under the most intolerable conditions in the very camps into which they were thrown by the Nazis.

Canadian Jewry, together with that of the Empire and the U.S.A. are desirous of obtaining understanding and sympathy from their fellow citizens for the justice of their claim to Palestine as a Jewish Commonwealth within the framework of the British Empire. The Jews base their claim upon several historical facts. First, they at no time signed any documents renouncing their title to Palestine. They were expelled from the Holy Land by the Romans because they refused to exchange their belief in one God for that of Roman paganism. Second, civilized humanity, particularly the English speaking peoples. have in the past two centuries, evinced an understanding for the desire on the part of the Jews to return to their ancient homeland.

Britain Pledged Support.

This wish to fulfil a biblical promise made to the Jews, was culminated in the historic Balfour declaration in 1917. In this document, Britain pledged its support towards the upbuilding of Palestine as a national home for the Jews. Upon the strength of this declaration, Britain was given the mandate over Palestine which was ratified by 52 nations including Canada.

Third, it was clearly understood between Britain and the Jewish people that the Jews were to carry the entire physical and financial burden in the building up and re-settlement of the country and the British were to use their best endeavors to hasten and facilitate this process. The Jews have more than fulfilled their part of the bargain. It is an irrefutable fact that they have reclaimed a malaria infested land and changed it into one of the most cultivated and industrialized places in the Near East. The flower of Jewry has gone there from all corners of the world, often laying down their lives, in order to prepare a haven for those who wede to come later. From a mere 30,000 Jews who lived in Palestine in 1918, the Jewish community has swelled to the impressive figure of 600,000. They founded institutions of health and learning, established industries and built up cities, hamlets and colonies which one would never expect to find in this once desert ridden land.

Given Unstinted Praise.

It is also a fact that the Jewish community of Palestine was the most genuine friend that Britain and her Allies had in Asia during the recent war. Montgomery and Wavell lavished unstinting praise upon the Jewish men and women who played such an important part at the front and in the Palestinian war plants. Aside from the fact that the Jewish people were well represented numerically in the armies of the United Nations the loss of civilian life which the Jews suffered since the rise of Hitlerism, staggers the imagination. No less than one third of the Jewish race was annihilated during the recent struggle.

It is for a small remnant of the European Jews that Canadian Jewry is pleading admission to the only place that is willing and ready to admit them. Palestine to those unfortunates is the only place that holds out some hope to rebuild their shattered lives anew.

Truman Requests Admittance.

A recent survey by the emissary of President Truman, shows that there are presently over 100,000 displaced Jews in Germany.

President Truman requested Britain to admit these Nazi victims, whose only desire is to join their own people in Palestine. It seems that the Labor government of Great Britain, despite its traditional pledge of disagreement with the White Paper policy, which restricts Jewish immigration to Palestine, is about to announce adherence to this unjust document. Churchill called the White Paper a breach of faith on the part of Britain and contrary to the promises made in the Balfour Declaration.

It is to forestall the dire sonsequences that would result from a continued restricted Jewish immigration to Palestine that the Jews in the British Empire and U.S.A. foregathered in their synagogues and temples to pray for Divine intercession on behalf of the suffering remnant of Israel. It is hoped that British justice and British national honor will in the end, as it always does, fulfil its solemn obligation to the Jews and open the gates of Palestine to these unfortunate people.

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP) — President Truman told Congress Thursday only $20,000,000 of the United States' $800,000,000 appropriation for United Nations relief remained uncommitted Aug. 31.

Mr. Truman transmitted the fourth report on United States participation in U.N.R.R.A. as the House of Representatives appropriations Committee began closed hearings on his request for another $550,000,000 to meet "acute need and privation" in Europe this winter.

U.N.R.R.A. "has made a substantial beginning in the immense task" despite world deficits of critical supplies and shipping, Mr. Truman said.

The report covered the quarter ended last June 30. Most of the material in the report has been superseded by individual reports made public since June 30.

As of Sept. 15 all 44 nations participating had pledged $1,882,759,991 to U.N.R.R.A., the report said. Of this, $1,268,750,254 was paid in or is "available on request" toward "operating" expenses, while $15,415,334 had been contributed for administrative purposes.

In "process of contribution" for operating purposes was $597,365,978, including the $550,000,000 pledged but unpaid by the United States, while $1,228,416 was still due in 1945 toward administrative expenses.

Britain's total pledge of $322,400,000 is paid. Russia, which is obligated only for administrative contributions because she is defined as a "liberated" country, has paid $1,000,000 and still owes 750,000 for 1945. Russia paid $800,000 in the third quarter.

War Destitute Peoples of Europe In Desperate Need of Clothing

Tucked away in hundreds of attics and closets in homes in the city and district are discarded pieces of clothing.

Human nature is a funny thing. People dislike the idea of throwing away garments, pieces of furniture or other articles which have become outmoded or have outlived their usefulness.

Consequently the family trunks and other receptacles have become the resting place for many things that the thrifty housewife does not like to part with.

Now there is an urgent need for these cast-offs of the clothing family.

Over in war-devastated Europe millions of people, men women and children are in dire need of clothing of any kind. Mars has taken his toll in a relentless manner. The shot and shell of war has wasted the countries of embattled Europe in a manner that those in the Americas cannot visualize.

Winter in Europe is not a pleasant experience. True, its countries do not have the extremes of the elements with their accompanying snow and ice. But neither is the weather that of the tropics.

Victims of war circumstances these people in many cases are huddling together in war-racked buildings to obtain some semblance of warmth. Warm clothing is a thing that is but a memory with them. Many are covered with filthy rags, many of them disease infested. Others have nothing but sacks with which they cover their bodies.

Belleville with the Dominion is holding a National Clothing Day on Wednesday next. For humanity's sake, residents are to give and give generously of their discarded clothing no matter what style, type or make. Men, women and children are suffering from the lack of warm garments. Boots, shoes, sweaters, socks, in fact anything that comes under the head of wearing apparel will be eagerly and gratefully accepted by those in charge.

Remember next Wednesday is the day. In the meantime, Belleville is urgently requested to scour attics, trunks, garages and other storage places for articles of clothing or footwear that will bring some semblance of comfort and warmth to those who have suffered the horrors of war.

It's moving time for the muskellunge who have summered in Muscote Bay.

And the fish, approximating proportions that are a delight to the fishermen's eye, are being waylaid by cunning anglers who todate have reaped a rich harvest.

Within the last few days approximately 165 pounds of fighting "musky" have been landed by fishermen of the city. And all were caught within a few yards of each other in the vicinity of Sprague's Island. Six of these fish were on display in the window of Black's meat store on Bridge St. East on Thursday.

To Maurice Callaghan goes the mythical victor's palm. To his lure has fallen three of the piscatorial beauties, the largest weighing 39 pounds and the other two, 20 and 15 pounds respectively.

"Mac" McMullen landed a thirty-two pounder while John Black, local butcher, brought home a fine specimen that tipped the scales at 30 pounds.

All the fish are reported to be the female of the species and veteran fishermen of the city are of the opinion that the heavy hauls of 'lunge are due to the fact that Madame "Musky" is looking for new winter quarters.

The weed beds wherein they basked all summer and lazily watched foolish bass go for the angler's minnows, are beginning to rot as is the natural custom, and the Madame, being a fastidious sort of piscatorial person is looking for newer and more comfortable quarters.

Muscote Bay long noted as a prolific lunge ground is living up to its reputation and it wouldn't be at all surprising if some records were broken before the season closes.

Following addresses the meeting was thrown open for general discussion and was concluded with refreshments being served. President of the association, Mr. Charles Johnston, acted as chairman.

Reason for the reduction of the pharmacists' apprenticeship period from three to two years was given by Lt.-Col. Curry as being motivated through a desire of the trade to clear the way for discharged active service veterans, 45 of whom will begin their apprenticeships this year.

A. J. Hamilton, retired Kingston druggist, outlined the feeling of the College of Pharmacy in turning out two different grades of pharmacists, graduates holding the one degree to work from large city pharmacies and holders of the lower degree to be eligible to practise in smaller centres. Nine of 12 Major Bones in Skull Were Fractured

Cornwall, Oct. 12 (CP) — Dr. William G. Hay, Queen's University pathologist, testifying at the murder trial of Clarence Hutt here Thursday said that nine of the 12 major bones were fractured in a human skull he examined last March.

The Crown will attempt to prove the skull in question was part of the remains of George McFadden, Cardinal, Ont., mill hand with whose murder Hutt is charged. The remains were recovered from a backwoods grave last March 23.

Dr. Hay said he believed the skull fractures were caused by blows from a blunt instrument. He attributed death to the multiple fractures.

Wife of George McFadden, Mrs. Iva May McFadden said she had been separated from her husband in 1941 after 23 years of married life. She identified a set of false teeth produced in court as the denture worn by her husband.

History of Watch.

Charles Gilder and Norval Prosser, both of Cardinal testified concerning the ownership of a gold watch which the Crown alleges Hutt obtained from McFadden. Prosser the watch's original owner said he sold it to McFadden after it had been repaired by Gilder. Paul Peterson, Midale, Sask., told the court the watch had been sold to him on Oct. 7, 1943, by Hutt while accused was working for him.

Robert Browning, office manager of the firm at which McFadden had been employed, said McFadden had been employed at the plant since 1922. He produced an office record showing that McFadden had worked on Aug. 14, 1943, doing his regular shift and punching out at 3:05 p.m. He said McFadden had money coming to him from the firm which had never been collected.

Signatures Vary.

Staff Sergeant H. S. Lett, R.C.M.P., handwriting expert, told the court that signatures varied on cheques and receipts issued in McFadden's name.

Prof. Joslyn Rogers, analytical chemist attached to the Attorney General's department, declared that tests he had conducted convinced him that cloth in a coat, vest and trousers found on the body recovered last March 23 was the same as that found in a coat found in an oat bin on the farm where Hutt was employed.

Six Crown witnesses gave evidence Wednesday.

Veterans Want British Brides Sent to Canada

Toronto, Oct. 12 —(CP)—More than fifty veterans of the European fighting plan to meet Saturday to form a delegation to go to Ottawa or to draft letters to be sent to government officials urging immediate transportation to Canada for their British brides. The men have been home from eight to 10 months.

Heading the movement is Cpl. Norman Davidson who said there are around 1,000 veterans in Toronto waiting for their wives who still are in Great Britain.

"We recognize the fact that the government is trying to get the troops home, but we feel that some of the boys coming home now don't deserve to," he said. "Some of them have only been in the forces from a year to six months. We feel our wives ought to have priority over them, because they have been under military rule for five years."

Cpl. Davidson said the veterans are going to request the government to select a ship and fill it, as it would a troopship, with wives and children.

James W. Haggerty

The sudden passing of James W. Haggerty on Thursday at Dunnville has removed from municipal life one of the outstanding figures in that sphere of activities in the province. Not only that but he formed an important link between the present and the past as few others could do. His sound thinking and wise counsel were always available to those who sought his assistance, and for that reason alone he will be missed by both his associates and many others of the county and elsewhere.

Coming of pioneer stock Jim Haggerty had a particular love for Huntingdon township, where he was born, and where he had his early start in life. Huntingdon has produced some splendid men but few more notable and none more loyal to the district from which he came. And the township rewarded him at an early age by electing him to the township council and later to the reeveship. With the experience gained there he ultimately was appointed Treasurer for the County of Hastings, a post which he filled most capably until the time of his death. He also had responsible positions during his life with groups connected with his church, dairying and schools.

When he was appointed to represent the county at central meetings on matters pertaining to municipal affairs, Mr. Haggerty attracted the attention of other leaders in the province with the result that he was placed on the directorates of the Ontario Good Roads Association of which he was past president, and the Municipal Affairs Association where he served with distinction for many years. His extensive experience as a county official always commanded respect in these circles when he chose to make his opinions known.

It might be said that his work was his hobby for he did not have many outside interests aside from bowling and his duties as treasurer. He had a fondness for people, and this along with a good memory enabled him to make friends easily. Thus his work and his interest in human affairs mixed well together because as treasurer of the county he was meeting men whom he knew well, and meeting them he was kept informed not only of what was going on in the county but the activities of his friends as well.

His friends will always remember Mr. Haggerty's kindly manner and unfailing courteousness which made him a favorite in any group, and for many his ability to recall anecdotes of the early days in his life or historic facts connected with Hastings was a most valuable experience which now can be duplicated no longer. For the voice is stilled and the spark of vitality that actuated the life of this fine gentleman has ceased to function under the strain of physical frailty.

Belleville and Hastings County have lost a splendid citizen and a faithful public servant. Along with a host of friends we extend our sympathy to Mrs. Haggerty and the family in this sad hour of deep bereavement.

U. K. Demobilization Program

The statement of Mr. G. Isaacs, the United Kingdom Minister of Labor, on October 2nd on demobilization has given general satisfaction in the Old Country as dealing equitably with the rival claims of the Armed Forces and industry. While the government is emphatic that Britain must fulfill her commitments to maintain certain military forces overseas, the proposed speedup will be of material help to British industry in the urgent task of producing more goods for export and domestic consumption. The public also welcomes the fact that the principle of release by age and length of service, the basis of the original Bevin scheme, is being maintained, as this was widely accepted in the services as fair and reasonable.

After reviewing military requirements now that the Far East War is over, the Government has been able to undertake to release over one and a half million men and women by the end of this year. This is double the figure of three-quarters of a million originally announced, and thirty-seven per cent over the figure announced by Mr. Isaacs early in September. The Minister has promised everything possible will be done to facilitate transport arrangements to carry out the program, which provides for the release of at least three million by June, 1946.

Intakes into the services planned from mid 1945 to the end of the year are 160,000 men and 15,500 women. The men will be recruited at the age of eighteen or from munitions industries. The women will be volunteers. The effect of the revised scheme will be to reduce the total strength of all services from over five millions in June, 1945, to just under two and one-quarter million by June, 1946. Of the latter, 400,000 men will be in the Navy, 1,109,000 in the Army, and 584,200 in the R.A.F., while the Women's Services will total 138,700.

Mr. Isaacs has promised a monthly statement showing progress in release from the Forces, and a later statement showing changes in the number in civilian employment. He is confident that full employment exists for all demobilized men and women.

Flogging Justified

(Chatham Daily News)

An Ontario magistrate recently expressed the belief that flogging the perpetrators of certain crimes is both justifiable and effective. The scoundrel who treats cruelly the victim he is plundering should be flogged for two reasons: because he is cruel and because he is dishonest. The deliberate perpetration of crime carefully planned, as carried out by bank robbers, does not justify any leniency in estimating the degree of severity of the punishment.

The chief object of penalization is to protect society, which would soon end in barbarism if capital punishment were abolished. Many years ago, in a fit of humanitarianism, the Legislature of the State of Michigan abolished capital punishment. There has been no betterment of social conditions; on the contrary capital offense is on the increase.

Human civilized society must depend on self-protection by executing the persons who deliberately plan the destruction of the individuals who are its constituting units.

It is safe to predict that were judges to order the severe flogging of every criminal convicted of bank robbery and serious crimes against morality there would be a sudden decline in cases of that nature.

Quints

According to Metropolitan Life Insurance statisticians, the Argentine quintuplets, who celebrated their second birthday on July 15, have a chance of living longer than the famous Dionnes, who were born nearly a decade earlier. The five Diligenti babies are reported to have been delivered at term, whereas the Canadian girls had to overcome the serious hazard of prematurity.

Another biological advantage of the Argentine quintuplets was that only two of the set are "identical," that is, developed from a single ovum, while this was the case case for all five of the Dionnes. Statistics show that in plural births, children developed from separate ova have a slightly better chance to be born alive and to survive early life.

On at least one point the Dionne babies had an advantage—namely, that all were girls, whereas the Argentine quintuplets were composed of three girls and two boys. The chances of survival are everywhere greater for girls than for boys.

Wrong Beginning

The Tavern League of Wisconsin, says The Milwaukee Journal, concluded its annual conference by passing a resolution urging that all restrictions on the sale of liquor to Indians living on reservations be terminated. Maybe it is no worse for our 100 per cent Americans to get pickled on a reservation than for some of us immigrants in taverns, but the proposal to drop all restrictions might more becomingly originate with someone other than tavern keepers.

ANSWERED PRAYER

"Old Glory flies again at Wake!"
The papers tell today
As re-possession Yankees take
Who long have been away.

The skies above once more are clean
And safe the seas to rise.
Now, Yankee sailor and marine
The colors raise with pride.

Time was to cruel pagan foes
Our youth was forced to bow,
But down has gone the sun that rose
And all is tranquil now.

"Old Glory flies again at Wake!"
Press headline good to see.
I think the prayer I used to make
Has answered been for me.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Are oysters edible in months with no R in the name?

Fresh oysters taken from unpolluted waters are edible at all times of the year, but during the spawning season and a considerable period thereafter — May, June, July and August in northern latitudes — oysters are thin, stringy in texture and flat in taste.

The belief that oysters are not edible in the four months whose names contain no r grew out of several circumstances. Among the Romans and other ancient peoples around the Mediterranean oysters were seasonal and eaten only during the cooler months. This was largely because oysters spoil easily and the ancients had no method of preserving oysters in hot weather.

In "Dyet's Dry Dinner" (1599) Richard Buttes wrote: "It is unseasonable and unwholesome in all months that have not an R in their name to eat an oyster." About the same time Parliament forbade dredging for oysters from May to September. This "summer holiday" was to protect the oysters rather than the eaters.

It is merely a coincidence that the spawning season of oysters falls in the months that have no r in their names.

The early English colonists in America ate oysters the year around. As the Colonists moved inland from the sea coast they feared that oysters plucked and shipped during hot weather were spoiled and unfit to eat, and generally they were right.

In the days before refrigeration there was no satisfactory way of keeping oysters through the hot season, and local laws protected oysters during the spawning season.

Although there is now no good reason for not eating oysters the year around, the belief that oysters should not be eaten in months without an r in their names still persists. The demand for oysters during May, June, July and August is so small that most chefs do not serve oysters in those months.

Modern methods of refrigeration and preservation make it possible to serve during the summer oysters that have been plucked during the cold months when they are at the peak of plumpness and flavor.

From two to five years, depending on the region, are required for an oyster to reach marketable size. Generally speaking, the older the oyster the more tender its meat.

COMMONS AWAITS

The second amendment would limit the powers of the cabinet to passing such orders-in-council as were necessary to carry out the provisions of the organization's constitution.

Under the original clause of the bill, the cabinet would have been able to pass orders-in-council to carry out the provisions of the constitution and the recommendations made by the organization.

Accepted Without Change.

As a result of the change the recommendations made by the organization will take the form of legislation and be submitted to the proper legislative body whether federal or provincial.

Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment, as presented, would have made it necessary for parliament to give its approval within six months to any order-in-council passed in connection with the work of the organization.

Mr. St. Laurent said that such an amendment would mean to other nations that anything undertaken made by Canada would not be irrevocable until approved by parliament.

Accepted without change was Mr. Diefenbaker's amendment which inserted a clause saying that parliament had accepted the constitution of the organization.

Before the bill was taken up, Labor Minister Mitchell announced that parties to the Ford strike at Windsor, Ont., had been invited to meet him in Toronto on Monday and pending the meeting he asked the union to consider withdrawing pickets from the company's offices.

Day of Remembrance.

State Secretary Martin said that Nov. 11 will be observed as a day of remembrance for those who gave lives in the two great wars.

Mr. St. Laurent, Acting Secretary of State for External Affairs, said Canada had accepted an invitation to participate in the Far Eastern advisory committee set by United States, Britain, China and Russia to deal with matters in Japan.

The Senate meantime, debated without conclusion a suggestion that its committees start consideration of bills when they are introduced in the House of Commons instead of waiting until they are passed by the Lower House. The suggestion came from Senator G. G. McGeer (L-British Columbia.)

Distribute Official Data.

In presenting the F.A.O. bill Mr. Gardiner said the organization "will concern itself with studies of production and marketing as they relate to food, agriculture, forestry and fisheries." It will endeavor to promote research work having to do with the solution of these problems.

"It will assemble and distribute official data and promote the development of information that can be co-ordinated internationally," he said. "It will serve the interests of both producers and consumers and function as an organization representing food, agriculture, fisheries and forestry in international deliberations with other international organizations of the United Nations."

John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative Leader, speaking before the amendments were accepted said that "we support wholeheartedly the objective of this measure."

Some Limitation.

"We do not think the government needs the wide powers contained in this bill, however, and we respectfully suggest that the government consider some limitation upon those powers."

He said he disliked the growth of bodies responsible to no democratic assembly. They tended to become dictatorships but the world was changing and growing smaller. Canada among other nations, had to make a choice and in his view should make some concession to internationalism.

Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, said he questioned whether the bill did not confer too much power but he also was concerned on whether it would create a "force outside Canada which would compel Canada to do certain things." Pending further information he reserved a decision on how he would vote.

Percy Wright (CCF-Melfort) supported the bill and predicted Canada would derive benefits from the organization a hundred fold greater than the cost put into it.

Against Order-in-Council

Government of Canada should be done by parliament and not by order-in-council, T. L. Church (PC — Toronto Broadview) said. He declared so many liberties had been given British Commonwealth peoples that one practically forgot what they were.

One of the liberties was to govern by a free parliament. That liberty, taken from the Canadian people during the war years, should be restored immediately.

Don Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) said the opposition was keeping its eyes open for any move to increase bureaucracy. The opposition did not want to extend the government's power to do by order-in-council things ordinarily done by parliament.

Garfield Case (PC — Grey North) said that he did not like the provision which required Canada to stay in the organization for five years.

The country might find itself in a position where it would have to take orders from an organization in which it had lost control and it would have to take such orders for five years.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed.

IF HE BE CAUGHT YOUNG

In awarding the accolade to Ernst P. Boas, M.D. for his book (for medical readers) "Treatment of the Patient Past Fifty" (The Year Book Publishers, Chicago) I quoted here last Sunday the following:

". . . adults experience a steady, long-continued loss of calcium through the years. This does not become superficially manifest because the great calcium stores in the bones constantly make up for the calcium losses in the blood and tissues . . ."

The loss of calcium in itself is a perfectly normal physiological process. That is, the body in health excretes or loses about a quarter of a teaspoonful (one gram or fifteen grains) of calcium daily. If the diet fails to supply that much and a little more calcium daily, to make up the loss, then the body suffers from calcium deficiency.

Dr. Boas explains that, as Sherman has repeatedly emphasized, more deficient in calcium than in any other element. He adds that best sources of calcium are milk, which contains about a gram quarter of a teaspoonful, fifteen grains) to the quart, cheese and green leafy vegetables.

Now had I been writing what I quote from Dr. Boas I would have said this does not become superficially manifest because the great calcium stores in the bones and teeth constantly make up etc. And I suppose most dentists at first blush would scout this idea. It is now as well established that there is constant calcium metabolism in the bones and teeth just as there is in the nerve tissues and other living tissues. If this were not so, the teeth of the expectant mother whose nutrition is deficient (in calcium and vitamin D particularly) would not suffer so much from softening and decay during pregnancy. You see, if the expectant mother has fairly sound teeth to begin with, the developing fetus seizes upon most of the calcium and vitamin D the mother's inadequate diet supplies, so that there is insufficient calcium available to prevent softening and decay of the mother's teeth.

That is the reason why the expectant mother must get not only an adequate ration of calcium and vitamin D, the same as any one else, but an overage or an extra amount of both essentials to insure normal growth and development of the baby and protection of her own health. The old saying that the expectant mother must "eat for two" is wrong so far as calories go but not so wrong as to the daily intake of minerals and vitamins.

Today it is the general custom to give every baby a daily ration of vitamin D in one form or another at least through the first year, not only to prevent rickets but to promote development of strong straight bones and sound even teeth. To that, I (Brady) would add steady nerves. And if you ask me—you never do, but if you ever happen to inquire about it I'd say there is no good reason for discontinuing the practice of supplementing the everyday diet with vitamin D before the child has reached his or her late 'teens.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Biology is Good

Why condemn the field of Biology because some teachers are untrained? In behalf of these high school teachers may I say a word. Would you spend thousands of dollars and several years time getting such education to qualify you to teach in high school for a compensation which barely sustains the standard of living the community expects the teacher to have? (D.E.R.,M.S.)

Answer—Not unless I felt too proud to work. I did not condemn biology. I ridiculed the nonsense of debating whether the skin is an organ or some similar nonsense in the high school "biology" class.

Phony Eye Specialist

I M. Told by eye specialist that I should avoid all salt, even that contained in such foods as meat, fish, milk, eggs, as there is a suspicion of cataract forming.

G. H.)

Answer—I'd refer the "eye specialist" to the Marines. I'd take my normal everyday ration of salt. I'd take pains to get an optimal daily ration of vitamin G (riboflavin) by consuming a quart of milk, in one form or another, daily. Also I'd get plenty of calcium and vitamin D or sunlight on naked skin or both.

LEBEL REPORT

Conclusions on Charges

Among the conclusions on Mr. Jolliffe's charges were:

That the work of the special or anti-sabotage branch of the Provincial Police established in 1939 or 1940, was continued by Osborne-Dempster after the Drew government took office in 1943 although it was not brought to the attention of Attorney - General Blackwell.

That Osborne-Dempster was never placed in charge of the Surrey Place office in the sense that he reported directly to Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer "much less to Mr. Drew or Mr. Blackwell as Mr. Jolliffe charged."

In his report which was in three sections, one dealing with Mr. Jolliffe's charges, one with activities and conduct of Ontario Provincial Police members and one with the way Mr. Jolliffe came into possession of police documents, Mr. Justice LeBel exonerated the Drew government but added:—

"I should perhaps add, however, that . . . Mr. Drew and his cabinet are responsible for such fault or omission, if any, as may have come to light during the inquiry . . ."

Available to Public

A third section of the report, an extended review of evidence, is available for study by newspapermen and later will be made available to the public.

The Commissioner said there was nothing in the evidence, taken during 18 days from June 20 to July 20 including some night sittings, to connect Premier Drew even remotely with Osborne-Dempster or his work beyond "the Peppin incident" — a reference to testimony by one of the witnesses concerning a complaint about a ruling of the Workmen's Compensation Board some years ago.

Dempster Guilty of Breaches

From oral evidence which the report said extended to 3,220 foolscap pages and documentary evidence filled in 267 exhibits, the Commissioner drew these further conclusions:—

Osborne-Dempster was guilty of serious breaches of police regulations and his actions deserved "Unqualified condemnation." But nothing was disclosed in evidence to support Mr. Jolliffe's assertion that Dempster's background was "untrustworthy and sordid." Further, he did not "wilfully gather false and misleading information with respect to any person" and that "except for his unwarranted activities with respect to the C.C.F. Party" he tried to perform his work as best he could.

Not Open to Criticism

Commissioner W. H. Stringer's conduct was not open to much, if any criticism. He was justified in assuming he was authorized to continue anti-subversive work of the force after the work of the anti-sabotage branch was placed under supervision of Deputy Commissioner H. S. McCready. But the commissioner should have mentioned to attorney-General Leslie Blackwell the nature of Osborne-Dempster's work.

Obtained Materials.

"I am of the opinion that the fact that Mr. Sanderson obtained from the files of 18 Surrey Place material for his advertisements, and that Osborne-Dempster went off at a tangent with respect to the C.C.F. party, were due to lack of proper supervision by Mr. McCready personally . . ."

Of Mr. Jolliffe, Mr. Justice LeBel said that regardless of his conclusions on the charges, he was impressed by the C.C.F. leader's conduct during the inquiry as being "frank, sincere and courteous."

The Royal Commissioner described as "most improper" Constable Rowe's action in reporting Osborne-Dempster's activity to Agnes Macphail, then C.C.F. member of the Ontario legislature for York East. Rowe should have gone to McCready, sought independent legal advice, or resigned.

Mr. Justice LeBel added that while Rowe was "gullible," he appeared to be "sincere and honest."

On the manner in which Mr. Jolliffe came into possession of the documents from police files, Mr. Justice LeBel said the C.C.F. leader never stated publicly that the documents which came into his possession were secret documents of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Provincial Police and "I so find."

Hunters Carried Loaded Guns In Motor Truck

Bancroft, Oct. 12 — Magistrate J. L. Lloyd of Northbrook and Assistant Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson of Belleville presided over a large police court at Bancroft Wednesday afternoon when the following police cases were disposed of:

Game Warden M. J. Inwood of Combermere, while patrolling in the township of Carlow on October 8th, came across a light truck driven by Jack Kelly and accompanied by Lionel Bellisle and Evan Schwig, the latter two standing in the back of the truck with loaded shot guns, apparently out for a real kill on the partridge. The Warden stopped the truck to check whether or not these men's guns were loaded and his demand to hand over the guns for inspection was refused which resulted in a free-for-all fight which finally wound up with the officer confiscating the two guns from Bellisle and Schwig, which guns were loaded. The three culprits turned up in Bancroft police court Wednesday and each pleaded guilty to a charge of obstructing an officer in the execution of his duty and each paid a fine of $100 and $3 costs, besides they lost their fire arms.

Dennis Leveck of Maynooth was charged with allowing his dog to run in a place inhabited by deer, pleaded guilty and paid $20 and $6 costs.

M. G. Cook of Toronto paid a fine of $10 and $3 costs when he pleaded guilty to hunting on Sunday. These both charges were preferred by Game Warden Inwood.

Hascal Sweet of Coe Hill, R. Maxwell and E. Barker of Bancroft and H. Easton of Boulter all pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and each paid $10 and costs.

Everett Hogan, Harry Hogan and John Peters of Highland Grove; Maurice Coe, Stanley Kerr and Harold Mooney of Bancroft were charged with illegal possession of liquor, all were found guilty and each paid $10 and costs.

Carl Goodwin, Angus Shields and Dermot Calver of Maynooth; Milton Stewart, Frank Stewart, of Boulter, and Nelson Evans, of Bancroft, and George Unger of Coe Hill, all charged with consuming liquor in other than place of residence, found guilty and each paid $10 and costs.

Peter Munroe of Turriff, Edward Linkie, Bancroft, and Carl Goodwin, of Maynooth, and Harold Mooney, of Bancroft, were all charged with operating motor vehicles with improper lights, each was found guilty and each paid fines of $10 and costs.

Donald Welsh, Hybla, charged with causing a disturbance in a public place at Birds Creek dance hall was found guilty and paid $10 and costs.

John C. Brewer, as the result of a car accident which occurred on October 6th, on Highway No. 62, six miles south of Bancroft, in which his car was completely wrecked, was taken into custody by Provincial Officer Palmateer charged with drunk driving and appeared before Magistrate Lloyd Wednesday and was found guilty and sentenced to seven days in the county jail and to pay $18 costs. His automobile and driver's licence were confiscated for a period of three months.

Arnold Martin Fransky charged with breaking, entering and theft of $125 from the home of Wm. Shannick of Bancroft was found guilty but due to tender age was placed on suspended sentence for a period of three years and paid $8.25 costs; $100 of the stolen money was recovered by the police and Fransky made restitution of the balance of $25.

George Unger of Coe Hill, charged with assault occasioning actual bodily harm which resulted in Hascal Sweet being in the local hospital for several days as the result of a severe beating was found guilty and placed on suspended sentence for one year and paid $28.50 costs.

Twenty-six other cases which came before court were enlarged until the next court on October 24th for further investigation.

"NERVES" SHE CALLED IT

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves," she thought—but it was her kidneys, the filters of her blood, that needed attention. Delay meant danger. She took Dodd's Kidney Pills at once. The improved action of her kidneys helped to clear away blood impurities and excess acids. Fatigue, headache, backache, lack of energy, disappeared. 112

Bancroft

Bancroft October 12 — The ladies of Bancroft Chapter O.E.S. No. 157 held a bridge, Euchre and dance in the Community Hall Tuesday evening and a very nice attendance was present for the lovely evening. At the termination of the card playing shortly after ten, the local orchestra provided snappy music for the balance of the evening. During lunch hour the drawing took place for a spaniel pup which was won by Miss Barbara Downey of the village. Bridge prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wiggins; euchre prizes were won by Miss Ferguson and Mr. Art Moxam.

Every conceivable road which leads out from Bancroft into the surrounding district is dotted with strange cars and hunters seeking the ruffed grouse which make for a choice meal, but gone are the days when the hunter could almost bank on shooting into flocks here and there, for now anyone is fortunate indeed to bag two or three birds on each trip out.

Troops Ordered Into Dock Area To Unload Ships

London, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Troops were ordered into the great, seven-mile-long Liverpool docks today and began unloading 12,000 tons of urgently required foodstuffs from five freighters and nine coastal vessels as the paralyzing British dock strike raised a mounting menace to delivery of the country's meagre rations.

The strike spread to Edinburgh, where 1,000 Scottish dockers quit work in sympathy with their striking fellow workers.

Most major ports already were throttled as stevedores ignored return-to-work pleas of union leaders, despite a government statement that negotiations could be conducted only through regular channels between union officials and dock owners.

Nearly 50,000 workers were idle in the spreading stoppage which has tied up 400 ships, many laden with food for short-rationed Britons. The strikers are seeking a daily wage of 25 shillings ($5.50). Their present rate ranges from 16 to 24 shillings.

Claims Strike Unjustified

The London Daily Herald, organ of the labor part, said the strike was "unjustified," but recalled the war work of the dockers, which, the paper said, was more arduous and unpleasant than the tasks of other civilians.

The London Daily Express cited figures showing that 45 ships bearing 68,952 tons of rationed foods and 9,338 tons of grain and flour lay unloaded in the harbors of London, Liverpool, Hull, Newcastle and Manchester. Among the food cargoes, it said, was a shipment of 26,036 tons of meat, some of it perishable; 1,160 tons of shell eggs and the same amount of dried eggs; 8,777 tons of oranges and 179 tons of orange juice, the latter reserved for children under seven.

Prime minister Attlee summoned an urgent meeting of his Labor cabinet late yesterday to consider the situation. Labor Minister George Isaacs, himself long experienced as a union official, has branded the strike as "entirely unjustified."

Manitoba Election Campaign Enters The Home Stretch

Winnipeg, Oct. 12 (CP)—Accomplishments of the Provincial Government of Manitoba and Saskatchewan were being stressed today as the Manitoba election campaign entered the home stretch. Voting takes place next Monday.

Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan, Oakland W. Valeau, Provincial Secretary of Saskatchewan and head of the Social Welfare Department, and Stanley Knowles, C.C.F. Member of Parliament for Winnipeg, urged support of C.C.F. candidates while members of Premier Stuart Garson's Coalition Government asked to be returned to power in the 55-member legislature.

Premier Garson on a tour through northwestern Manitoba criticized the C.C.F. party supporters from Saskatchewan who were busy campaigning in Manitoba and charged that taxes in the sister Prairie Provinces "were considerably higher per capita than those of Manitoba."

Speaking at Dauphin, Premier Douglas said that his province has the highest minimum wage level in Canada and the Trade Union Act provides that all employees have the right to organize unions that must be recognized by the employer.

Mr. Garson, speaking at Winnipegosis, predicted that in spite of everything the C.C.F. party "invaders" could do his coalition government would be returned to power.

He said he based his confidence on the fact that the government already had seven members elected by acclamation and in four other seats Coalitionists were fighting each other and those constituencies would go to the government.

MOTORING IN OCTOBER

When the sun shines, warm and mellow,
And the leaves, red, brown and yellow,
Lure and beckon in the calm October days,
Then so swift o'er hill and hollow,
We will take the car and follow
Where the distance veils its face in purple haze.

In the calm lake's placid mirror
See the trees as we draw nearer
View their autumn robes in flaming colors bright,
While October's voices calling
Like the strains of music falling
Fill the heavy hearts with gladness and delight.

Soft the light o'er field and fallow
As the autumn seems to hallow
All the days that of October form a part,
And the brain grows brighter, clearer,
And His presence seems the nearer
Driving every trace of trouble from the heart.

BAY OF QUINTE INSTITUTE.

Trenton.—The monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Institute was held on Wednesday evening, October 10, at the home of Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, with twelve members and two visitors present. The President, Mrs. George Clapp took charge. The topic being Historical Research, Mrs. C. Ketcheson gave a talk on Sidney township, bringing out some very interesting episodes on the history of Sidney. Community singing was enjoyed by all present. It was decided to send boxes to the few boys of the community, who are still overseas. Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson and Mrs. Roy Westfall were appointed a committee to do the buying and Mrs. Casey Ketcheson to pack the boxes. Mrs. Ketcheson and committee served sumptuous refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour together.

QUINTE W.I.

Mrs. McMurray, 70 Cedar St., was hostess to the Quinte Branch of the Women's Institute on October 9. The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. Atkins. Plans were made for the officers' rally in November at the Front Road Church.

Mrs. S. Geddes, Home Economic convener, then took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. T. Brown gave a splendid paper on the home which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Geddes introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Mr. Flatt. His paper "Diet and Disease", a very timely topic was dealt with in a most efficient manner. Right food is a curative as well as preventative of disease. A new era has dawned by way of balanced diet. Cooking food properly is of great value. Dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables are essential to healthy living.

Everyone enjoyed and was benefited by this splendid address.

Mrs. M. B. Weese conducted a panel discussion on Home Economics which aroused interest and brought out splendid ideas, mixed with humor.

Appreciation was expressed to all who had helped to make this meeting a success.

WOMEN TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

The regular monthly supper meeting of the Belleville Federation of Women Teachers' Association, was held at the Y.M.C.A., Wednesday, October 10, with some thirty members present. The President extended a welcome to the new members who were being entertained. In order that all might become acquainted the members of each staff, quite humorously introduced themselves.

This was followed by the report of the delegate Miss Alice Heasman, to the annual meeting of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario, held at Kemptville, on Sept. 29, at which the President spoke of the twenty-eight years of service of the organization and of some of its achievements—raising the school age to sixteen years; improving the teacher's status, and the raising of the minimum salary from $500 to $1,200. A report was given of Canadian Teachers' Federation, which met in British Columbia. This organization has a more national outlook and is working for a minimum salary of $1,500 for all Canadian teachers.

Stress was put upon the plans for Education Week in November, the theme being Better Education for a Better Canada.

The President thanked Miss Heasman for her splendid report and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The Thank-offering meeting of the Tabernacle Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Robb, Forin Street, on Tuesday, October 9, with a good attendance. AIKENS' W.M.S.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Aikens' United Church, held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Westover on Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was in charge of the President, Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton, with Mrs. Perry Hamilton, as pianist.

During the business period plans were completed for the social evening to be held in the church where the lantern slides on Africa will be shown.

Interesting stories on the lives of two inspired African Christians Miss Mina Soga and Mr. Solomon Caulker, were told in readings given by Mrs. P. Hamilton and Mrs. F. Westover.

The opening chapter of the Study Book were introduced by Mrs. Fred Moon, Mrs. Everett Hubble and Mrs. Selburn Westover, the latter giving a brief resume of the life and work of Dr. Currie who was born in Ontario. Inspired in early life by reading the life of David Livingstone, Dr. Currie felt a call to go to Africa as a missionary. This year's study on the work and accomplishments of the missionaries is interesting and instructive.

A solo "Missionary Bells", by Mrs. Perry Hamilton, with Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton as accompanist, was the highlight of the afternoon's program. The musical ability of these ladies which adds enjoyment to the meetings is highly appreciated by the members.

Newlyweds Are Given Lamp

Last evening, a large number from Marsh Hill Community, friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Finkle (nee Muriel Bartlett), gathered at the home of Mrs. Frank Finkle to honor the couple, who were married on October third.

The couple were presented with a beautiful floor lamp for which they expressed their very sincere appreciation.

The evening ended with the serving of refreshments and the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

Wife Preservers

A chenille bathrobe will look fine if you wash it in tepid water, rinse, then hang on the line without wringing out any of the water. While it is still damp, brush the robe with a stiff brush to bring up the nap.

Peterborough will be the centre for two great events, the visit of the Moderator himself, the Right Rev. Jesse H. Arnup, D.D., of Toronto, who will speak to ministers and officials in the afternoon of Nov. 2 and at a mass meeting in the evening at George Street United Church. Lindsay, Peterborough and Cobourg Presbyteries joining in and the visit of Canon Warner, formerly of Cronyn Memorial Church, London, now at the School of Evangelism of Calvary Anglican Church, New York, who will address a community meeting in George Street United Church, Peterborough at 8.30 Sunday evening, November 11th; speak to ministers on Monday morning and to ministers and laymen in the evening at the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church; address the Rotary Club at noon and speak at a supper meeting in Murray Street Baptist Church.

Pledge Co-operation

Don Williams, of Belleville, President of the Conference Y. P. U. pledged the co-operation of the Y. P. Societies; and reported that the "Crusade" was given central position at their recent convention at Lindsay at which the Secretary for this Crusade to the Moderator, S/L. Rev. Bruce Miller of Toronto had given three addresses which would be the theme of their fall and spring rallies. Mrs. Lott spoke for the W. A.'s and Mrs. Haggerty for the W.M.S.

At the Belleville meeting plans were unfolded for reaching out into community, university and school life, among the women's organizations, and for the use of the pageantry of the "Crusade" in traditional costume.

Dr. Semple said we were faced with the greatest opportunity ever; and that he had never found the spirit so manifest in his 19 years in the Conference. Ex-President Rev. Basil W. Thompson of Kingston said that this "Crusade" is the most hopeful sign that the United Church has put forth since it came into being. President Neal gave the final challenge to these key leaders: "The more it looms up the greater it seems;" we are being called back to the New Testament, church-praying, witnessing, missionary. Rev. George Telford of Oshawa led in the closing dedicatory prayer.

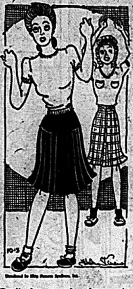
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Corrective Exercise

So few women carry themselves beautifully that the sight of a perfectly poised figure is a treat and a sensation. One does not have to go in for athletics or endure periods of muscle flexing to attain this state of perfection. One has but to charge one's mind with a desire to make the most of one's figure, and do it by means that are as simple as the alphabet.

Poor posture may be the result of ill health in childhood, or it may be pure laziness. The girl with the slumped-in chest, rounded shoulders, head thrown forward is doing herself an injustice. She lacks body balance. The musculature weakens. Internal organs are likely to be affected unfavorably. As for smart clothes, no matter how expensive they are, they will lack style and flair if not carried beautifully.



Don't be casual when going through calisthenics.

We suggest to this thoughtless young lady that she extend her backbone, keep it extended when walking, sitting or standing. At all times the chest should be full, the abdominal muscles pulled in tightly. No killing effort, that. The laziest among us should be able to do it. If it becomes a habit, beauty rewards will be rich. With the tummy flat and the chest inflated, the shoulders and arms assume an easy pose; the head is balanced.

Since poor posture weakens the body fibres, exercise should be a daily practice, so that the body will become strengthened and resilient. Men are ashamed to confess that they do not exercise, and exercise is just as necessary to keep the feminine frame in a healthy state as it is to preserve the male physique.

One can take up some outdoor sport which, because of the competitive element, is more interesting than calisthenics. But any woman can spare five or ten minutes every morning before her bath for bending and torso-twisting.

We offer a few suggestions: Stand with feet apart; let the torso drop forward from the waist. Keep the arms, neck, shoulders, and back completely relaxed. Lift the hands high above the head, pulling hard on the muscles of the mid-section, then drop them downward between the legs. Back to first position. Swing the hands high and low as freely as a pendulum. The purpose of this exercise is relaxation

Follow with this one: Lie on the back with knees bent, feet on the floor. Pull the knees back and send the legs straight upward, lifting the hips from the floor. Repeat. Do this sixteen or eighteen times.

Don't be casual when going through calisthenics. One must have an "alive" feeling in the muscles; one must make them work.

Exercise helps the woman who is restless and jittery, because it sends the blood streams rushing about their business. It brings about physical fatigue that seems to ease up emotional weariness and to condition one for rest or sleep.

These Charming Girls

A perfect lover is one who knows how to make a girl feel that it is breaking his heart every time he says, "Goodnight!"

No matter how popular or attractive a girl may be, there is always one personable man at a party, whose indifference can fill her with an inferiority complex that will spoil the whole evening.

It takes three strokes of luck to get a good husband these days. First, the luck to find him in a world where husbands are becoming scarcer and scarcer. Second, the luck to choose him in a world full of wolves and girl-charmers. And third, the luck to make him choose you out of a world full of glamor girls and man-chasers.

The plainest girl in America may aspire to beauty in these days of magic cosmetics and miracles of surgery; but there still seems to be no satisfactory way of stimulating brains.

It is the new mode for a girl to be sultry and sophisticated, carry a long cigarette holder (instead of a fan) and profess to have no illusions about men. That is, not until the Real Thing happens along and then she is as blind and credulous and as ready to say "Yes, dear", as her grandmother was. A woman is always a woman.

A woman doesn't buy a hat because she needs it, but because she can't resist it—and, come to think of it, that's usually why a man marries a girl!

If apartments and houses become any more compact and diminutive, somebody will soon have to invent a folding family skeleton to keep in the closet.

"Mystery" used to be one of woman's greatest charms but the only "mystery" about her, these days, is what she puts on her hair to make it that odd shade, and how she manages to look twenty-five until she's nearly forty.

A man is never actually sure that he's in love with a girl until he begins to convince himself that he's not in love with her.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

When a Girl Should Rise.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a 13-year-old daughter, one who, praises be, is really interested in having good manners. But one thing is bothering us. . . on just what occasions should she rise? Thank you, if you will make this clear to us.

Mother.

Congratulations to you for having inspired your young daughter to be interested in being mannerly!

This question as to when a young person should rise is often a troublesome one, but if you guide your young daughter to think of rising as not only an act of politeness but also as a gracious compliment to the person in whose honor she is rising, she will be even more intrigued by her "call to courtesy". She should rise on these occasions: when she is being introduced to a woman; when she is being introduced to another girl; when older people enter a room (she rises and remains standing until they are seated or leave the room, or leave the vicinity in which she is); when her hostess comes into the room; when she greets any guest in her home and again when the guest leaves; when she greets the mother of a friend; when, as hostess (for example, at her birthday party), she greets a guest; when she meets or greets a man who is elderly or distinguished, or both (for example, the principal or a teacher in her school, or a minister, or an old friend of your family); and in school, when she is perhaps waiting in the office of the principal or teacher, she should rise when he or she comes into the room. If, in a restaurant, a woman stops to speak with you at your table, your daughter should rise and remain standing as long as the visitor is standing.

Bridal Shower.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother, who is a soldier, is expected home soon. Two years ago he was married, and now as soon as he returns, he and his wife, who is from another State, are coming to visit us, and then they will begin housekeeping. During her visit with us, I would like to give a shower for her. Would it be proper to have a miscellaneous shower for her?

J. F.

As a matter of fact, it wouldn't really be proper for you to have any kind of shower for your brother's wife. In the first place, it isn't considered proper for a member of either the man's or the girl's family to give her a shower. And in the second place (I judge that, since she is from another state, she will be a stranger to all or at least most of the guests whom you would invite to the shower) it is not considered good taste to ask people to whom the guest of honor is unknown, to come to a party where they are expected to bring gifts to her.

If your idea is (as it probably is) to assemble gifts for their new home, why not wait until they have moved into their new quarters and then have a housewarming party for them? By that time she will know your family's friends, they will be interested in the couple's establishing their home, and the party can be a welcoming-to-the-home. . . . .with the guests bringing gifts if they wish

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Mother Not a Volture—Only a Tired Old Woman

A girl has written me and asked if I would call her mother a vulture for demanding every cent of her daughter's pay envelope and then doling out small sums for bus fares, lunches and an extra dollar for incidentals.

No, I don't think the mother is a vulture she's just a poor, overworked woman, downtrodden by husband and sons who drink to excess, and who doesn't recognize the blessing she has in a good daughter. Well, it's too late to change the family arrangement now, though the girl tells me she often lies awake at night thinking about her mother and wondering how they're getting along at home without her pay envelope.

She told someone her troubles and this confidante told her her mother was a vulture. And on the strength of that diagnosis the girl packed her bags and moved. Now she stays awake nights thinking of all the kindnesses her mother did for her. How she once sold a most precious possession, a lovely Spode dish, to buy the girl a doll like those of other children—dolls which opened and shut their eyes, had real hair, and wore real silk dresses.

The memory of the doll has persisted through the years, and there were other kindnesses, too. But things in the old home grew impissible, and the girl moved away. Her father, who passed for the head of the house ,was a hard drinker who could always have a good job when he was sober enough to keep it. And there were the two brothers who drank and got into trouble over street brawls. There was the daughter, the model child never appreciated, who made all her grades at school, studied to be a secretary in Junior High and got a job in the town's leading bank.

For years the girl never protested against turning over the pay envelope to her mother and receiving the aforementioned scanty dole. And it wasn't until the young man she was interested in was told by her father to keep away, that patient Theresa decided to move.

There isn't much of a solution that can be offered in this case. I wpuldn't have her go back to the household with the two brothers who've been turned down by the Army, the father never quite sober, and the distraught mother. But I think the girl could send part of her salary, which is a good one, every week. And she could take her mother to an occasional movie or to a meal that the overworked woman didn't have to cook.

Chicago Cubs May Put Up $150,000 for Marty Marion To Plug the Hole at Shortstop

Detroit Tigers Will be Made Over Like Last Year's Hat

(By SID FEDER)

Chicago, Oct. 12 (AP) — Chicago Cubs may put up $150,000 to plug their shortstop hole with Marty Marion and Detroit Tigers are going to be made over like last year's hat, but when they open next year's baseball grab bag, it's St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees who are most likely to pop out.

The St. Louis Laruppers and the Bronx Bombers have better teams coming back from the wars than either of this year's pennant winners fielded in the 1945 World Series, which featured probably the two weakest clubs in the history of the post-season classic.

Any team that can sell Mr. Shortstop himself—the aforementioned and still figure as favorite to gallop to the pennant, must have the dice loaded. And that is the pretty spot Cardinal President Sam Breadon is in right now, what with the parade of returning veterans and Red Schoendienst packed and ready to move in from the outfield to fill Marty's shoes.

Although they lost to the Tigers, shortstop is about the only big hole the Cubs had in the series.

Had Last Fling.

Tigers, on the other hand, are going to need to be redone from cellar to attic. The fact is that except for the pitchers, the old men who did such a grand job of winning the pennant and the series had their last fling this year.

That will mean one more record added to the pile chalked up in this series. Never before in the history has a complete outfield, probably the entire infield except second base, the catcher and a couple of hurlers disappeared from a series winning team over the following Winter.

Yankees, meantime, get back just about the entire murderers' row—Joe DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich for the outfield; Buddy Hassett (or Johnny Sturm) and Joe Gordon and half-pint Phil Rizzuto and Bill Johnson for the infield; Bill Dickey and Rollie Hemsley behind the plate and Lefty Marius Russo heading a deck of pitchers.

Cardinals will have pitchers Johnny Beazley, Alpha Brazle and John Gordzicki. Jim Brown and Frank Crespi come home to the infield and Walker Cooper to the catching job. But Billy Southworth's toughest job will be trying to find out how he can play Stan Musial, Terry Moore, Harry Walker and Enos Slaughter in the outfield at the same time, along with what he has now.

Referee Barred From Employment In Any Capacity

C.L.A. Claims Jimmy Gunn Used Bad Language in Lacrosse Game

Vancouver, Oct. 12 —(CP)— Jimmy Gunn of Vancouver, one of the officials in last night's final game of the Canadian lacrosse championships between St. Catharines Athletics and Vancouver Burrards, yesterday was barred from "any further employment by the C.L.A. in any capacity, for using bad language."

The C.L.A. decision was handed down at a special meeting following a complaint by Gunn that he was "beaten up" after Wednesday night's game by Bill Whittaker, veteran goalkeeper for St. Catharines.

Gunn said Whittaker, in company with several other St. Catharines players, forced his way into the referees dressing room after the game and, after a brief exchange of words, struck him with his fists.

A fight ensued, Gunn added, and the other referee, Bill Wilkes of New Westminster, B.C., and several other inter-city box lacrosse league officials, were prevented from interfering by the other St. Catharines players.

Whittaker, had been summoned to attend the special meeting, but did not appear.

Gunn, a lacrosse referee here for the last several years, requested that the press be allowed to hear argument at the special meeting, but C.L.A. officials voted to hold the meeting in camera.

Detroit Pays Homage to Team That Won Series

Detroit, Oct. 12 (AP)—Detroit paid homage last night to the Tigers, 1945 World's Baseball champions.

More than 1,200 fans turned out for a victory banquet given the Tigers by the Board of Commerce. It cost the fans $10 a plate.

The players, who returned home from Chicago yesterday to be greeted by a mob of 10,000 cheering fans, were showered with gifts.

Principal gift went to Ed Mierkowicz, a rookie outfielder who won a 1946 automobile in a draw. The car, donated by fan Henry T. Ewald, will be delivered when new automobiles begin rolling off the assembly lines.

Sports Writer Frank O'Neill of the Washington Times Herald presented Sporting News awards to two Tigers. Eddie Mayo got the award for the most valuable player in the American League and Hal Newhouser received the most valuable American League pitcher award.

Reminiscences

With the dark brown taste still in the mouths of Chicago Cub fans, a little info re the doings of the Windy City should not come amiss. In answer to those several phone calls anent the doings of the Cubs in World Series activities.

The most famous team of Chicago history was the 1906 Cubs who set a major league record for victories with 116. The club had the famous double-play combination, Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance and a great pitching quartet with Mordecai Brown, Reulbach, who pitched a one-hitter, Overall and Pliester.

That great team, however, was upset in the 1906 World Series by the "Hitless Wonders" White Sox, four games to two. On that famous Cub team were: Brown, Pliester, Art Hofman, utility, Overall, P; Ed. R. Reublach, p; Johnny Kling, c; Harry Gessier, cf; Jack Taylor, p; Harry Steinfeldt, 3b; Jack McCormick, cf; Frank Chance, manager and 1b; Jimmy Sheckard, lf; Pat Moran, c; Frank Schulte, rf; Carl Lundgren, p; Tom Walsh, c; Johnny Evers, 2b; Jimmy Slagle, cf; Joe Tinker, ss.

A part time outfielder on the Chicago champions of 1885 and 1886 was Billy Sunday, later the famous evangelist. He wasn't much of a hitter, but was the fastest fielder afloat in baseball at the time.

According to Fred Lieb, nationally known baseball writer, Chance's club repeated with ease in 1907; it dropped to 107 victories,, but that was good enough to win over the second - place Giants by 11 games. In 1908, the famous club made it three straight by winning over the Giants in the National League's greatest race, the Cubs beating McGraw's New Yorkers, 4 to 2, on the hostile Polo Grounds in the famous post-season playoff.

The Cubs followed their 1907 and 1908 pennants with overwhelming victories over Hugh Jennings' Tigers in the World's Series of those years; Detroit getting only a 12-inning 3 to 3 tie out of the first series and one victory in the second. The Cubs were invincible in those years, excelling the Tigers in all departments. However, those World's Series victories had to last for a long time, as Cub National League champions have dropped six subsequent Series.

Though winning 104 games in 1909, the Cubs were beaten out by a great Pittsburgh club, but Chance's team regained the pennant heights in 1910, only to suffer an unexpected four-to-one World's Series defeat at the hands of Connie Mack's young Athletics.

After winning the 1906 pennant, the White Sox lost the 1908 flag on the last day of the season, went into a decline, but came back in 1917 under the "bush league manager" — Clarence Rowland — to take the A.L. flag and the World's Series from the Giants. Baseball students rank Rowland's 1917 team among the greatest in major league ball. Kid Gleason won the 1919 American League pennant with virtually the same team, when eight of his players were charged with selling him out in the World's Series with the Reds. The team had such outstanding hitters as Joe Jackson, Eddie Collins, Hap Felsch and Buck Weaver, the great little catching ironman, Ray Schalk, and such famous pitchers as Eddie Cicotte, Urban Faber, Claude Williams, Dickie Kerr and Red Russell.

Three Flags, Three Series Losses.

Hugh Jennings' three-time Tiger American League champions of 1907-08-09 started the run of Detroit World's Series woe. Jennings-led teams won only four games in the three Series, but they had the ill luck of opposing Frank Chance's great Chicago Cubs in that club's very prime, 1907-08, and in 1909 ran into a red-hot Pittsburgh team, which piled up 110 victories in the National League.

The opening game of the 1907 Series with the Cubs was an ill omen of what was to come. Detroit was leading, 3 to 2, with two out in the ninth when Bill Donovan, pitching for the Tigers, struck out Del oward, batting for Joe Tinker, for what should have been the last out. However, Charley Schmidt, the big catcher failed to squeeze the third strike, and Steinfeldt scored the tying run from third. The game eventually ended in a 3 to 3 draw in 12 innings.

Thereafter, the Cubs' strong pitching overpowered Jennings' sluggers and Chicago swept four straight games, Jack Pfiester winning 3 to 1; Ed Reulbach, to 1, and Orvie Overall, 6 to 1, Three-Fingered Brown winding up the Series with a 2 to 0 shutout.

The Series of 1908, also between the Tigers and Cubs, was largely a repetition of the preceding year, except that Detroit managed to win one game. Jennings' crew went into the ninth inning of the opening contest with a 6 to lead, when Eddie Summers blew up and Chicago scored five runs to win, 10 to 6. The unlucky Bill Donovan fought Orvie Overall in a scoreless duel in the second contest until the eighth inning, when Tinker was credited with a home run on a wind-swept fly. The ensuing argument lasted for a quarter of an hour. When Donovan resumed pitching, his arm had stiffened and the Cubs scored five more runs to win, 6 to 1.

Detroit took the third game behind George Mullin, 8 to 3, for the Tigers' only victory in the two Series. Brown and Overall closed with a pair of shutouts, Mordeval winning 3 to 0, and Orvie, 2 to 0, the latter score being identical to that of the final game in 1907.

Jennings again won the pennant in 1909, but there were changes on his team, particularly the infield, which was entirely new. Tom Jones was on first in place of Claude Rossman; Jim Delahanty succeeded Schaefer at second: Donnie Bush took over at short from Charley O'Leary, and George Moriarty, later Detroit manager and also an umpire, went to third base, displacing Bill Coughlin. With this new infield, the Tigers made a better showing against the Pirates, carrying the Series to seven games.

The two clubs alternated in winning, the Pirates taking all the odd-numbered games, first, third, fifth and seventh, while Detroit had to be content with the second, fourth and sixth. The Tigers ran into a hot freshman pitcher, Babe Adams, who defeated them three times. It was one of the few times that the two batting champions of the majors opposed each other in a Series, and old Honus Wagner had all the better of his bout with young Ty Cobb, the Flying Dutchman hitting .333 to the Georgian's .231. And again Detroit was shut out in the last game, 8 to 0.

It was 25 years before pennant lightning again struck Detroit, with Mickey Cochrane captivating the town in 1934 by lifting the fifth-place club of the previous year to the league pinnacle in his first season in charge.

Cochrane's 1934 pennant-winners ran into Frankie Frisch's famous St. Louis Gas House Gang, one of the story-book teams of baseball. As in 1909, the Tigers again went down in a hard-fought seven-game Series. It was the classic in which each of the two Deans won a pair of games for the Cardinals.

After breaking even in the first two contests at Tigertown, Cochrane's battles went to St. Louis and built up a three-to-two edge. Then, to the bitter disappointment of Detroit fans, the Tigers blew their advantage at old Navin Field when the teams returned there.

In the sixth game, Lynwood Rowe, brilliant victor of the second contest, lost to Paul Dean, 4 to 3, with the former "All-American Out," Leo Durocher, breaking loose with a double and two singles. This was followed by the saddest of all World's Series games for Detroit. For the fourth time, a Series wound up with a shutout for the Tigers, and Dizzy Dean made his whitewashing particularly painful, 11 to 0. It was the game in which the disappointed Detroit fans gave vent to their feelings with that shower of decayed fruit and vegetables for Joe Medwick.

Tigers Skinned Cubs in '35.

The Tigers repeated for the pennant in 1935, under Cochrane, and met Charlie Grimm's hot Cubs, who fairly sizzled as they shot past the Gas House Gang on a 21-game winning spree that extended almost to the last day of the season.

Toronto, Oct. 12 (CP)—A jockey who rides in a race and watches the same event from a vantage point outside the racing strip sounds like a split personality with a superman slant, but it can be done. Hank (Squeaky) Harris proved it can.

Dufferin Park, in Toronto, which is to Ontario racink what Brooklyn is to baseball, provided the setting for this tallest of turf tales. Squeaky had the mount on Baltimore Lass in the last race. At the first turn the mare ran wide, Harris fell off, rolled in the dirt and landed on his feet at the paddock gate.

For undisclosed reasons (betting by jockeys is closely regulated), Harris kept going. He ran up the stairs to the jockey's room in plenty of time to watch the field swing around the top turn into the somestretch for the finish of the 1 1-16th-miles event.

All is not well on the harness racing front in Ontario. The trainer of a prominent London, Ont., harness horse stable tells Harry (London Free Press) Eisen that most meets in Ontario this season were "fly-by-night affairs" with purses so small winners barely paid expenses.

The trainer also advocated mutuel wagering to replace betting through bookmakers. "The way the handbooks operate things at the harness horse meets, the bettors might just as well toss their dollars down the drain pipe. The odds they give the poor suckers make a loan shark look like a philanthropist."

Around The Circuit: Joe Farrell, veteran publicity man for Chicago Black Hawks, was pretty incensed when Coach Johnny Gottselig told him he needed a pass to gain admittance to workouts at the team's National Hockey League training camp. When last heard from, Farrell was preparing wires to Chicago papers advising no releases would be sent because he couldn't get into the rink. . . .

LEAGUE LEADERS DRAW SOFT BOUTS DURING WEEKEND

Indians Have Bye and Argos and Rough Riders Meet Bottom Teams

(By The Canadian Press.)

Leaders of Eastern Canada's major football leagues, after tough Thanksgiving week-end assignments which left assorted injuries in their wake, face somewhat softer opposition Saturday as the respective campaigns approach an approximate half-way mark.

The top team in the Ontario Union, Toronto Indians, has a scheduled bye and will take advantage of the open date to play University of Western Ontario Mustangs at London in an exhibition game that will be as closely watched as any weekend league contest.

Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts, co-leaders of the Interprovincial Union with two victories and one defeat apiece, tangle with the League's lower bracket teams, Montreal Hornets and Hamilton Tigers. Ottawa plays Hornets under floodlights in Montreal Saturday night and Argos visit Hamilton for a Saturday afternoon clash with Tigers.

Hornets and Tigers are tied for third place in the four-team I.R.F.U., each with one victory and two defeats. The Hamilton Club has been strengthened this week by acquisition of Lineman Bill Schwenger and secondary defence star Murray Griffin, formerly with Ottawa and Toronto teams.

Two scheduled O.R.F.U. contests match Hamilton Wildcats against Trojans in Ottawa and winless Windsor Rockets against Balmy Beach at Toronto. Beaches and Wildcats are tied for second place ahead of Trojans, who in turn lead the cellar-dwelling Rockets.

Considerable interest will attach to the Indian-Western exhibition game which serves as the debut after six years of the college team which won the University title in 1939 before war suspended intercollegiate football. Coach Johnny Metras is believed to have an all-star aggregation at London which will test Indians to the limit despite lack of previous competition.

Horse Sense Bridge

LESSON NO. 304
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

No bridge playing gents who think they're immense have a right to a name in the bridge hall of fame unless they are good in defence.

Clever defensive players often make mincemeat out of some of the tricks a declarer plans to take. Like when south was playing at a contract of three no-trump in this deal:

NORTH
♠ 8 6 4
♥ 4 2
♦ K Q 9 8 4
♣ A 6 5

WEST	EAST
♠ K J 5 2	♠ 10 9 3
♥ J 7 6	♥ 10 9 8 5
♦ 10 7	♦ A 5 2
♣ 10 9 8 4	♣ K Q 2

SOUTH
♠ A Q 7
♦ J 6 3
♣ J 7 3

The opening lead from west was the club ten. With what he saw in dummy, declarer figured he had his needed nine tricks easy. They were the two black aces, three top hearts, and four diamonds.

To make sure of four diamond tricks, he quickly realized the need of the club ace for a later entry. So, he ducked the first lead and east won that trick with the club queen.

East was a defensive hepcat. He pictured the diamond situation and decided on a plan that would block that suit. With the knowledge that he was deliberately losing a trick, east led back the club king.

How did he know it was deliberately losing a trick? Because he knew that south had the club jack. How did he know that? By the fact that west led the ten, which denies having the card above.

However, a player who knows his onions is glad to throw away a trick if it will save two for his side. And east was that kind of a huckleberry. It worked here.

Declarer took the club king with dummy ace and started diamonds. But east followed through with his plan of frustration by refusing to use up his ace until the third round of diamonds.

By this time the rest of the dummy diamonds were as good as dead. There was no entry left in the dummy hand and south found himself in a fix. Nor was there very much he could do about it now. The upshot of it was that the declarer was held to eight tricks.

Lose a trick without rueing it when you gain more by doing it.

N.H.L. Training Notes

By The Canadian Press

The man with hockey's quaintest handle — Earle (Leaky) Boates — was a visitor at the National Hockey League training camp of Montreal Canadiens shortly after returning from overseas. Boates, former netminder for Montreal's Army team, related that during the big Allied offensive in Germany, he encountered a Canadian soldier herding about 5,000 German prisoners of war into a wire cage. The Canadian wielding a machine-gun, was Sgt. Jack Portland, former defenceman for Canadiens and Boston Bruins.

Four goaltending candidates attended the first pre-season workout of Toronto Maple Leafs at Owen Sound, Ont., yesterday. They are Frank McCool, rookie award winner with the championship Leafs last season; Gordie (Tinkle) Bell, a sensation with Buffalo Bisons of the American League before joining the Navy; Aldege (Baz) Bastien of North Bay, Ont., and Horace (Bud) Lamarche of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Chuck Millman, native of Stratford, Ont., who now lives in Vancouver, bids for a berth with Boston Bruins in Quebec City. Millman, a Navy physical training instructor the last four years, says he weighs 200 now and "never felt better in my life."

Jimmy Slugg of Edmonton, much publicized before he even arrived from the west to try out with Canadiens, is the youngest member of the Montreal camp. Railbirds say Jimmy is 18 or 19. A good stickhandler with plenty of speed, Slugg is expected to serve apprenticeship for a spell with Montreal Royals in the Quebec Senior League before making the hop to the big time.

Max and Doug Bentley, "defrosted" from war jobs after a year out of professional hockey, are reunited with Chicago Black Hawks and they look as peppery as ever. Working on a line with Andy Chakowski from Canmore, Alta., the Bentley Brothers are making things hum at the Hawk camp in Regina.

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

Thirty-five players turned out for the opening practice yesterday at Owen Sound arena of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup holders and champions of the N.H.L., but Coach Hap Day permitted only easy skating. Lorne Carr was an absentee but was due to report Monday while Syl Apps and Bill Ezinicki were expected to report next week after their army discharge.

There were nine former Navy men in the squad, five had seen service in the Army while four had been active with the R.C.A.F. Coach Day expressed the view he had the strongest array of playing material yet available to the Club.

The Senior Soccer squad of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, has a distinctly international flavor. Two players to turn out yesterday were from Malta, two from Jamaica, one from British Guiana, while another pair, T. H. Lane of Austin, Man., and Harold I. Sullivan of Englehart, Ont., learned the game while prisoners of war in Germany.

President Bill Tobin of Chicago Black Hawks yesterday announced the purchase of defenceman Eddie Wares from Detroit Red Wings with whom he had played six seasons prior to army service. Wares will report to the Hawks' Camp at Regina immediately.

Four North Country centres are preparing to organize a Northern Ontario Basketball Association at a meeting scheduled for Kirkland Lake and Sudbury.

Unbeaten Army Meets Chicago In Top Game

By TED MEIER

New York, Oct. 12 — (AP) — Unbeaten Army and once - beaten Michigan clash here tomorrow in the top college football game of the day and the smart-money boys have established the West Point Cadets as 27-point favorites.

Upwards of 65,000 fans are expected to push their way into Yankee Stadium to get their first look at the 1945 West Pointers who have piled up 86 points in their first two games while keeping their own goal line uncrossed.

Always a power in the Western Conference and usually at their best when they come east, the Wolverines are expected to provide the first real opposition of the season for the top-ranking 11 in the United States. Michigan has won three of four games, losing only to Indiana.

Navy is considered 40 points better than the Penn State Nittany Lions whom the Midshipmen entertain at Annapolis in a meeting of undefeated 11s.

Old Romance Is Recalled

London, Oct. 12 (Reuters) —A romance, culminated by marriage after 37 years, was recalled by the death of Maj. Ralph H. Peto at the age of 65.

Maj. Peto was attached to the British Legation in Munich in 1900 and became engaged to Princess Lichnowsky, then Countess Mechtilde Arco-Inneberg, member of a leading Bavarian family. They broke off the engagement by mutual consent and in 1904 the princess married Prince Lichnowsky, German ambassador in London at the outbreak of the First Great War.

Later Maj. Peto also married but this marriage was dissolved in 1923. In 1926 Prince Lichnowsky died. The major and the princess met again in 1937 and were married in London the same year.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma sneezed 3 little sneezes, sounding more like bird cawffing than a person sneezing, being the way ma sneezes, and she said to pop, Oh dear, I'm well on my way to the beginning of a cold, I just know I am. Oh well, I suppose I'll just have to let it run its proverbial course in spite of all the so-called advancements of science and the sulfa this and the sulfa that and the perpetual dance of the glands that we're forever hearing about. I wish the medical profession would tear itself away from the major diseases long enough to pay a little attention to the common cold. After all, charity begins at home, she said.

They're coming to it, my dear, pop said. If you can just hold off that cold for a while, you may be hearing of a cure any day now. I understand they're working on the modern principal of setting the germs of one disease against the germs of another, just as the farmers import certain insects into their fields to chase out other insects, he said, and ma said, Well it's about time for land sakes. What kind of insects are they going to use, I mean what kind of germs? she said.

Well, as I understand it, they're planning to innoculate you with an assortment of the diseases of childhood, such as chickin pox and hooping cawff, combined with diptheria and one or 2 tropical fevers, and perhaps top it off with a minor amputation, for instance an ear or one of the less useful fingers, and in about 10 days you'll recover consciousness and your cold will of completely dissapeered, and after a couple of week's convallescence you'll be practically as good as new, pop said, and ma said, Oh hush, I didn't believe you in the first place. Oh well, the other day I saw Dr. Rorer sneezing and blowing just as helplessly as any common mortal with a common cold, so that's some consolation, she said.

"I've never really had a chance to talk to you for ages, darling," Karen said. "You know how we used to visit."

Elaine stared at Karen's reflection in the mirror. "It has been a long time," she agreed. She swung around to face Karen. "What's on your mind?"

Karen lighted a long cigaret "You are blunt, aren't you? But I suppose that's the Hollywood influence."

"All right. So I'm blunt. I'm also in a hurry, Karen."

Karen shrugged. "I could come some other time. But this won't wait." She crossed her legs, peered at Elaine through the cloud of smoke she exhaled. "Lee tells me Brann is going to produce his play. Is that true-"

"Yes, that's right."

"You must have helped him with it."

"We're co-authors of it."

"Fifty-fifty?"

"Strictly."

Karen studied the ash on her cigaret. "Lee also tells me that Brann hasn't started casting yet. Right?"

"Lee has been doing a lot of talking to you lately. I thought you had a mad on as far as he was concerned?"

Karen lifted her shoulders in a gesture of indifference. "We argued after his play failed. We had some words and I broke the engagement. But we—well, there was nothing definite about the break. I did it more or less to snap him out of his slump. I believe it worked."

Elaine raised her eyebrows but said nothing.

"You make that sound rather unkind of me," Elaine said. "He was invited to join us."

Karen moved her head to one side, expressing half her words with characteristic gestures. "It really doesn't matter. He sipmly called on me and we had a nice evening together. He told me Brann hasn't done any casting yet."

Elaine stood up and crossed to the closet, slipping off her silk robe. Karen openly admired Elaine's figure as she pulled several dresses off the rack, selected an evening gown of soft aqua velvet and put it on.

Elaine was smoothing back her hair before the mirror, adjusting the evening dress. "No," she finally answered Karen. "Brann hasn't done any casting yet. But you shouldn't be interested, should you? You're tied up with John Warren, or is he still producing legitimate theatre stuff?"

Karen stiffened a little. "That isn't fair of you to say anything against John. He gave you your chance, you know."

"Really: then I've been appreciating the wrong producer all these years." Elaine retorted, applying polish to her fingernails.

"Poor John has been having financial troubles again," Karen said. "I'm afraid he can't manage a play before spring. I can't stay out of work that long—not that I can't afford it—but it would simply bore me to tears."

Elaine looked up from her fingernails, not imagining that Karen had ever cried over anything but boredom. "So you want to work for Annie Brann in Lee's and my play?"

"You don't sound enthusiastic, or do you still think I can't act?"

Elaine capped the bottle of polish and placed it back on her dressing-table. "On the contrary. I think your acting is fine. But Lee doesn't cast shows for Annie Brann, nor do I. Does that answer your question?"

Karen moved uneasily in her chair. "You could speak to Mr. Brann."

"I never have interfered with his method or choices of casting. I shan't start now."

"I don't suppose it would, Karen. But that is something that is between you and Lee. It's none of my business."

Karen's eyebrows arched in surprise. "I thought you were to marry Lee?"

Elaine jerked her head up and met Karen's puzzled stare. "Who told you that?"

Karen unfolded a paper from her large purse, handed it to Elaine. It was opened to a Broadway columnist.

Elaine read the item through, then stared unbelieving at Karen. The note in the column said: "Lee Collins is starting a Broadway comeback via the talents of Elaine Grayson, just back from a Hollywood chore. Collins will reward Miss Grayson's valuable help with an offer of marriage. The payment may already have been made. . ."

She flung her paper down and turned her back to Karen, fighting to hold back the tears of anger. It was a disgusting and sordid feeling that penetrated her.

"Well?" Karen asked. "I supposed you knew. I thought that was the only reason you would not talk to Brann."

Elaine knew that Karen placed her in a position where to refuse her request would be to admit that she had accepted Lee's proposal and was afraid that she would lose Lee back to Karen.

"All right." she said. "I'll talk to Brann. Now, go, please. I'm—I'm afraid I shall be late. . ."

"Of course, darling," Karen said, picking up the newspaper and casually dropping it on an end table. "You'll speak to him about the lead part, of course, won't you, darling. . .?"

Karen's voice seemed to echo throughout the apartment for minutes after she was gone. Elaine raised her head from her arm, and looked at her tear-streaked face, her swollen eyes. When Paul, when the Branns read that item in the column, their respect for her would be less than nothing. It all seemed that she had helped Lee in exchange for a marriage proposal.

It was not until moments after Karen had gone that she began to wonder suspiciously who had given the columnist the information. There had been only one other person who had known of the proposal, and that had been Lee himself. Unless he had told Karen.

She suddenly did not trust either of them very much.

Still, she decided, remaking her face, if Karen were put into the cast it would be a good test for Lee. Either he was still in love with her, or he wasn't. And if he wasn't, then she really didn't care what the Broadway gossip columnists said.

If he could be made to realize that Karen had nothing to do with his success, then they might go on writing plays together. Elaine smiled softly to herself. It was worth a try, she mused, and dialed Annie Brann's apartment number.

It wasn't until a long time later, when Elaine looked back over everything, that she had known that Lee had created the lead role for Karen. It had fit her too well: Lee was still writing plays for Karen—and no one else counted.

But it wasn't until a long time later Elaine discovered that.

Paul and Sam Lewin stayed in New York after the premier, and Elaine divided her time between Paul and rehearsals for the new play.

Brann had finally agreed to give Karen the lead role despite his dislike for her, and he was forced to admit to Elaine that she handled the part with considerable finesse and restraint. The play had all the earmarks of a success, and Lee soon resumed his old, buoyant personality.

He made no attempt to discuss the item in the Broadway column with Elaine, and she was careful to stay out of any personal conversations with him.

Brann scheduled the opening for Christmas week, and with the rehearsals going smoothly, Elaine found herself with little to do.

It was a week before the opening that she was approached by Lewin to again come to Hollywood.

"That contract," he said. "the one that will make you a lot of money is still waiting for you."

"But money isn't everything," Elaine answered, "or is that line being used any more?"

"Not in the best circles," Paul laughed.

They were sitting in Brann's office, waiting for him to return from the theatre so they could go somewhere to dinner.

"It's certainly a tempting offer." Elaine admitted.

"You know, of course," Lewin said, "we're buying this play from you and Annie for movie production. Why don't you and this fellow Collins come out and do the screen job?"

There was an immediate silence in the room, and Lewin looked around surprised.

"What's the matter? Did I say something wrong?"

"No, of course not, Sam," Paul said. "I think it would be an excellent idea."

Elaine looked at Paul. His face was serious, but void of any emotional expression. He had not mentioned anything to Elaine about the item concerning her and Lee. But she had been able to detect a slight less affable attitude in his manner. There seemed to be less pleasantry, less enthusiasm in him since then.

"Let's see how the opening night goes first," Elaine cautioned. "You might be buying a turkey."

"I don't think so." Lewin said and then looked at the door as it opened.

Lee walked in, looked around, then started to back out.

"Come in, Lee," Elaine called.

"Sorry if I'm breaking anything up," he sat down in a chair.

"No, no," Lewin said. "We were just discussing the possibility of you and Elaine coming to Hollywood and doing the screen version of the play. Would you be interested?"

"Would I!" Lee laughed. "You wouldn't have to ask me twice."

The door opened and Brann and Karen walked in. Elaine suddenly found the office too crowded. There was a swagger to Karen's shoulders. She was riding on top again, and she enjoyed rubbing it into Elaine.

"How wonderful, darling. Then we can be married out there."

The silence in the office seemed to last for hours before Brann said quietly: "You'll have to finish the run of the play first."

But Elaine heard none of the words which followed. She was only staring at Lee, seeing him as he was. It had been useless to think that he could resist Karen. She got up and excused herself.

She had reached the elevators when she heard Lee call after her.

"Elaine, I've got to talk to you."

IT'S EASY TO SEE WHO USES ODEX SOAP BEFORE COMING TO SCHOOL!
ODEX
Health inspection day drew near,
When "Suds" and "Bubbles" would appear
Before the teacher, always keen
To see if hands and face were clean.
And so they took an extra scrub
With ODEX BATH SOAP in the tub.
Clean, happy as a pair of larks
They both obtained the highest marks.
Buy ODEX at your favorite store
And it will boost your family's score.

Russian Plan Would Cause Loss of "Face"

Tokyo, Oct. 12. (AP)—The Russian plan for a central control council to rule Japan would cause Gen. MacArthur to lose "face" among the Japanese and impair his usefulness, sources close to the Supreme Allied Commander declared today.

"Unquestionably it would cause confusion", one informant said. "Whether Gen. MacArthur would resign under such circumstances was not known, since he has never discussed the matter with anyone.

These sources put the problem this way: Gen. MacArthur as the Supreme Commander has been issuing orders to the Emperor, and the Japanese who must carry out his orders realize he is the boss.

But should a council take over —or even if it only was on equal terms with the General—Gen. MacArthur would to the oriental mind lose face. Much of the work already done would be undone.

On the other hand, the creation of the Far Eastern advisory commission as announced yesterday by State Secretary Byrnes was interpreted as having no effect on Gen. MacArthur's status as Supreme Commander. Mr. Byrnes indicated he was not in favor of the Russian plan, which thus far has not been considered by President Truman.

NO NEW TRIAL

Paris, Oct. 12 —(Reuters)— Gen. De Gaulle, speaking to a press conference here today on his return from Brussels, was asked whether a new trial would be granted Pierre Laval, former Vichy premier convicted and sentenced to death for treason.

"A new trial?" said Gen. De Gaulle. "Certainly not."

He did not amplify his statement.

Canadian Legion Branch Holds Monthly Meeting

The regular meeting of Canadian Legion Belleville Branch No. 99 was held at club rooms at 224 Front Street on Thursday evening. The chair was occupied by the President Lt. Col. H. E. Smith, a large turnout of members being present. The initiation ceremony was conducted by the officers on eight candidates recently returned from overseas, all branches of the service being represented.

On one application from a young man hardly past voting age, it was noted 5 1-2 years service in Canada, England, N. Africa, Sicily, Italy, France, Belgium and Holland and at last back in Belleville, his home town and now a member of the Legion. Many of our recent members have the same service.

Financial Report.

Comrade Tom Hetherington, branch treasurer, read the financial statement for month ending Sept. 30th., a very fine report which received applause from all members. Comrade Jeffs gave his final report on Hasty Pees reception at Belleville Thursday, Oct. 4th., also on recent monster Bingo held at arena, Oct. 1st. Owing to the rainy night a good attendance turned out to share the wealth, there being $500.00 in prize money given out. It is possible that in the near future another monster Bingo may be held, providing the weather stays mild. Comrade Dainard, representative on Poppy Day committee, reported that the annual Poppy Day will be held Saturday, Nov. 10th under the auspices of Canadian Legion and the Army and Navy Veterans, also that Armistice Day will be celebrated by the veterans of Belleville and district at the Cenotaph, Memorial Park, on Sunday, Nov. 11th at 11 a.m. and all veterans and citizens are requested to keep this important occasion in mind.

Committee Named.

A committee of four was appointed to the Social Committee to act with Comrade Dainard, chairman, to make arrangements for a Canadian Legion night on Monday, Nov. 12th for members and their friends. This should be a big night for Branch 99. Further announcement will be made later.

Comrade Jones a member of Branch 99 and also of the Canadian National Veterans, spoke briefly. He advised the meeting that the Red Cross Canteen building at the station was now completed and very shortly will be officially turned over to the Ladies' Clubs which are meeting the trains extending a welcome to our returning soldiers.

Pleasing Duty.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of our local branch had a very pleasing duty to perform recently, by special request of a prominent citizen, the youngest World War No. 2 veteran was arriving on a 4 a.m. train from the East Coast accompanied by a Red Cross nurse. This young veteran survived the bombings of England, during all his life. His name is David Francis age 3 years from Kingston-on-Thames, a short distance from London. He was welcomed in a very official way by Mrs. Jeffs, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Canadian Legion and Mrs. Meeks another member and given the luxuries a boy enjoys. This young veteran who is going to become a Canadian citizen was later turned over to his soldier Dad and his grandmother, who came from Keene, near Peterborough, to receive this new Canadian. This young boy had been travelling alone since Sept. 25 until his arrival in Canada. Everyone who laid eyes on this young veteran traveller would liked to have kept him for their own. An official receipt addressed to Lt.-Col. H. E. Smith, President of Branch 99 Canadian Legion., Belleville, was given by his father Wm. E. Francis. This is just another of the many kind acts carried out by the Ladies' Auxiliary Branch 99. The following letter was recently received by the Ladies' Auxiliary which is self explanatory:

Bridgenorth
(near Peterborough)

Ladies' Auxiliary,
Canadian Legion.
Dear Mrs. Young,-

Will you please extend to the ladies of your organization the appreciation of myself and my family, for the very cordial welcome home given to my son last night on his arrival in Belleville en route to Peterborough.

Belleville deserves every commendation from the surrounding towns and the City of Peterborough, where very little is done to make the boys feel that theirs is a job well done.

When I think that at four a.m. your ladies were on hand with a little greeting and cheer, it makes me feel very humble indeed.

I did not expect my boy on the early train, in fact I did not know he had left Halifax or I should have been in Peterborough to meet him. We seemingly do not have any organizations who meet all trains.

Thanking you again and God bless each and every one of you.

I am sincerely,
Sgd. Jean M. Ray.
(Mrs. Gordon Ray)
Pres. Red Cross—Bridgenorth.

At the close of the meeting lunch was served by Ladies' Auxiliary, everyone doing justice.

Wm. Ford Elected President Of A. & N. Veterans

William Ford, a past president of the Branch 201 Army and Navy Veterans in this city, was elected president of that association on Thursday night, when the annual election of officers was held. There was one of the largest turnouts of the members seen in some time and the slate of officers elected should guide the veterans successfully through what promises to be a difficult year. There were also a number of new applicants and these were received and accepted by the members with the hope they would take an interest in veterans' affairs and offer constructive criticism for the good of the association. Other officers elected were: 1st Vice President, William McKenna; 2nd Vice President, Thomas York; Secretary, A. Galbraith; Treasurer, James Parkhurst; House Master, Frank Post; Executive Committee, Ed. Sunderland, A. E. Brookes, Michael Rashotte, A. R. Newman and James Cretney; Auditors, J. Fisher and W. Holland; Add[illegible] to Finance Com[illegible] Lazenby; Sergeant-at-Arms, Marshall Gerow; Ser[illegible] Robert Browning.

Presented With Chair.

President James Lazenby, who vacated the chair after the election of officers, was presented with a past president's jewel by Thomas York and also was the recipient of a beautiful easy chair and ottoman, the gift of the association. Mr. Lazenby thanked all for their co-operation in the year just passed and hoped for the incoming executive a year of activity and comradeship in their undertakings. He said that the membership was the integral part of the association and their wishes at all times should be respected. A donation of $25 to the Salvation Army was made and $25 to the Institute for the Blind and $75 to the blinded veterans. A sum of $2,000 was transferred from the general revenue to the savings account. On November 11th, Remembrance Day, the Army and Navy Veterans will march to the Cenotaph to honor their dead comrades and then proceed to the Tabernacle United Church for service. The parade will be accompanied by the Municipal Band and the Pipe Band of the A.L.I.

At the conclusion of the business meeting fish and chips were served and a social hour was spent.

Rev. J. G. Hornsby Speaker at Q. M. Home, School Club

The first meeting of Queen Mary's School Home and School Club for the Fall term was held Thursday evening in the auditorium of the school. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Croll. Approximately 70 members were present. Following the regular reports, Mr. Bates outlined the educational radio programs for children and adults. He stated that pupils of Queen Mary School had the opportunity to hear them during school hours. Three members of the executive who have left town, had to be replaced. Mrs. Franklin and Mrs. Cousins replaced two of them and the third will be appointed by the executive.

Five of the executive attended the Regional Conference held in Picton last week.

Mr. Frederick welcomed the graduating class of 1945, who were present.

The social convener, Mrs. Campbell, had planned a most enjoyable program. A male chorus from the B.C.I.V.S., under the direction of M. G. N. Maybee, sang three beautiful selections. The chorus consisted of Don Douglas, Don Beavis, Gordon Watkin, Bill Bankier, Gordon Bankier, and Jim Rose. This group is well-known about town and its appearance is always greeted with pleasure and anticipation.

Rev. J. G. Hornsby Speaker

The speaker of the evening, Rev. J. G. Hornsby, was introduced by Mr. Spearman.

Mr. Hornsby first addressed himself to the graduating class and spoke of the growth of responsibilities, duties, and difficulties, as a child grows up. He urged the pupils to read of the men and women who have given their lives to the work of the Christian Church.

"Teachers," stated Mr. Hornsby, "are not to be blamed for the failures of pupils. They can help only so far as the pupils are willing to be helped." In closing his remarks to the students, he urged them, who have every opportunity given them, to make successes of their lives.

Turning to the parents, Mr. Hornsby outlined a code of "Dont's" for them to follow. "Don't," he said, "condemn the high school curriculum without understanding why certain subjects are taught. Don't take sides with a child against a teacher. Don't sympathize with the pupil who complains of too much homework. Don't set up one child as a pattern of intelligence to another". Rev. Hornsby stated that the idea of "The world owes me a living" must be destroyed and that children should be taught to give to the world, not take from it. In closing, the speaker warned parents not to forget that the development of a good character is of more importance than a good education.

Following Rev. Hornsby's address, Stanley Hagerman played two beautiful and intricate piano selections.

Mr. Harrison, a member of the school board, presented diplomas to the members of the graduating class. Thirty-one of a class of 35, received them. Miss Betty Moore won the I.O.D.E. prize.

Misses Marion Vandervoort and Emily McCullough presented Mr. Frederick with a gift, on behalf of the class of 1945. Mrs. Croll also received a gift from the class, in appreciation of the work she did in making their graduation a success.

Miss Hillis, on behalf of the members of the Home and School Club, thanked Mrs. Campbell for the very interesting program presented.

Joseph Darnand, at LEFT, former chief of the Vichy militia, is shown in conversation with his lawyers after being sentenced to death by the French high court at Paris. Jap Interpreter Who Boasted Of Skill in Beheading Aussie Airman Now Faces Trial

By DUANE HENNESSY

Tokyo, Oct. 13 —(AP)— A Japanese naval interpreter who once attended a Winnipeg school faces trial and probable execution as a war criminal following the discovery that he boasted in his diary of beheading an Australian flier.

The flier, Flt.-Lt. William Newton, was posthumously awarded the Victoria Cross.

Kenneth Yunone, captured at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, in April, 1944, has been identified as the civilian interpreter attached to the navy who wrote "I . . . . . believe I was magnificent" in his conduct of the execution of the Australian. He formerly attended St. John's College, Winnipeg, investigators learned, and Royal Canadian Mounted Police obtained a photograph of him which was recognized by missionaries who knew him at the time of the beheading.

Wrote of Crime in Diary.

Yunone, now in an Australian prison camp, is also accused of decapitating an American flier and goading drunken Japanese soldiers into bayoneting three more to death.

"This afternoon, I myself with my own Japanese sword beheaded an enemy soldier* prisoner (nationality not given.) This was a new experience for me .. I really believe I was magnificent. Amongst the Japanese onlookers there were many who declared their admiration for my skill in making such an excellent stroke."

One of six repatriated missionaries who definitely identified Yunone as author of the diary—they knew him at the time of the beheading—told the grim story of what happened to the four Americans the following November 17.

Betrayed Into Jap Hands

After their plane was forced down at sea off New Guinea, the Americans spent three days in a rubber boat before reaching a New Guinea village where natives betrayed them into Japanese hands.

The missionary related:

"After assembling local natives, including school children, Yunone, as he later boasted, served his emperor personally by decapitating one of the crew. He then ordered guards to bayonet the other three who were present, with hands tied behind them and showing signs of abusive treatment.

"The soldiers hesitated and Yunone gave them saki upon which they became intoxicated and dispatched the three Americans by repeated bayonet thrusts."

In the far flung search to identify Yunone, R.C.M.P. found his picture in a Winnipeg boarding house where he stayed while attending St. John's College in 1926.

Laval's Execution Set for Wednesday Says Paris Paper

Paris, Oct. 13 — (AP) — A decision on whether the execution of Pierre Laval will be carried out without delay was believed possible today, amid unconfirmed reports that Justice Minister Pierre Teitgen was called back by plane from an election campaign trip in Brittany.

The Paris newspaper Liberation said it had learned the execution of the former Vichy chief of government was set for Wednesday.

The unconfirmed reports said Justice Minister Teitgen might confer with Gen. deGaulle concerning the fate of Laval, whose counsel pleaded for a new trial last night. The lawyers said Gen. deGaulle listened without comment.

STRATFORD PLANT ROBBED OF $1,000 BY FIVE BANDITS

Night Watchman Tied Up in Small Office And Guarded While Building Ransacked

Stratford, Oct. 13. (CP) — Brandishing light machine guns, five bandits held up the Swift Canadian Co., plant here last night, leaving the night watchman tied up in a small office and escaping with approximately $1,000.

The night watchman, Joseph Miller, walked out of the plant on to the shipping dock at about one a.m., and saw five men standing on the dock, three of them carrying Sten or Tommy guns.

Holding Miller at the point of a gun, the men forced him into a small office, locked him in and one stood guard over him and the plant while the others ransacked the office.

A large safe was broken open, and the bandits took a smaller safe with them. The safe was recovered this morning on the Maplewood Road, two miles west of Tavistock. In all, it is estimated the thieves escaped with about $1,000.

After putting the safe in their car, the bandits tied Miller up and left him in the small office. He was found there ten minutes later by city police who called at the plant on their night patrol.

Mme. Laval Pleas For Husband's Life

By MEL MOST

Paris, Oct. 13. (AP)—Gray-haired, motherly Mme. Pierre Laval broke a lifelong political silence today to plead for the life of her husband.

Distraught with fear, she bared to newspapermen intimate memories of married life in an effort to show that Laval had sought to temper collaborationist extremism and would have remained behind to turn power over to the Allies if the Germans had not carried him off forcibly.

Mme. Laval repeatedly indicated her husband turned to paths of opportunism only after the Munich pact shattered his dream of maintaining a chain of steel around Hitler's Germany.

Earnestly, the 61-year-old wife of the former Vichy Chief of State told how she had spirited Jewish friends from the Nazi occupation zone and smuggled out money for them by concealing it in her girdle.

She traced her life with Laval from the days when she was his childhood sweetheart in an Auvergne village.

"All Europe was with him (in 1935) when he wanted to encircle Germany . . . He made one front from Moscow to Paris, Bucharest, Budapest, Belgrade and Rome," she said.

"But they destroyed it all in less than three years — the same people who got France into war so unprepared . . .

Four Wives and Seven Husbands Face 'Enoch Arden' Problems

San Francisco, Oct. 13 (AP)—How to rearrange four wives with seven husbands was the war-created problem here today—with only one couple so far already assured the solution. The problem arose with the liberation of four prisoners of war.

Sgt. Birdwell, 22, and his wife, Ann, 19, of Kansas City, Mo., looked forward today to a real "honeymoon" as soon as he could return to his middle western home.

Ann had her marriage to his uncle, Jack Marshall of Wichita, Kas., annulled when Birdwell was released from a Japanese prison camp. The second marriage took place after notification by the war department that Birwell was presumed dead after he bailed out of his crippled bomber.

Staff Sgt. Dwight L. Shaw, 24, of Twin Falls, Idaho, victim of a similar mix-up, "wants to get home to straighten out the matter," his brother, Elbert Shaw of Oakland, said today.

Shaw, captured in the Philippines and listed as dead, did not learn of his wife's marriage to Clarence Madsen, 25, an Ely, Nev., farm machinery salesman, until his return here last Monday.

Mrs. Claire Earlywine Burnett, 32-year-old former navy yard nurse, recovered sufficiently today from an overdose of sedatives to leave a hospital for her home and the complex marital tangle caused when her first husband, gunner's mate Virgil Elmo Earlywine, 32, returned from the "dead" to find her married to a former shipmate, CPO. Robert E. Burnett, 32.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Laurie Cales-Brenstein of Oakland said she is "beginning" to make up her mind between two husbands, both war veterans. She divulged she is corresponding with Lieut. James H. Cales 25, father of her son who is visiting his family in West Virginia.

Cales, officially reported dead after his navy plane was shot down, recently was released from a Japanese prison camp. Last July Mrs. Cales had married Lieut. Ethan Peter Bernstein, a wounded European war veteran.

A court hearing on the annulment of her marriage to Berstein is set for Oct. 25. She added, however, she has not heard from him lately. She refused to disclose her choice.

MAN-IN-STREET GIVEN A BREAK IN NEW BUDGET

Will be Able to Purchase $100 Worth of Articles in U. S. Without Retail Excise Tax

By DOUGLAS HOW

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 13. (CP)—Side by side with a 16 per cent cut in income tax, Finance Minister Ilsley dropped a second lusty encouragement to Canada's little man Friday night—those haunting income tax forms are going to be "greatly simplified".

Those two disclosures, the one financial, the other almost spiritual to many thousands of statistic-swamped breadwinners, were big news to the man in the street, the little fellow who chips into the country's treasury with taxes on tobacco, soft drinks, chewing gum and other miscellaneous items.

But for another year at least the little things that take his nickels and quarters —the cigarets, the tobacco, the movies, the candy, the liquor—will remain unaltered at the levels to which they jumped during the war.

Parliament in this first budgetary salute to a returned peace was the need to get industry back in stride, but the little man had his moments amid the mass of statistics and words the Finance Minister unloosed.

On 1945 income taxes, he can count on paying four per cent less than he had expected because the total 16 per cent cut will only apply to three months of this calendar year.

He will have to wait to see just how simple the new system of income tax calculation is because "more specific information" would be given in the Commons "on a convenient occasion". The simplification originated in the Department of Revenue.

If the little man happens to be planning a trip to the United States he now can bring in $100 worth of articles without having to pay any retail excise tax at the border.

If he is a farmer or a fisherman he could find a stimulation in the statement that "most sympathetic consideration" would be given proposals to allow taxable incomes to be a man's average income over a period of years.

He could look for some cut, say, in American cigarets or other imports through abolition of the war exchange tax of 10 per cent on all imports from non-empire countries. But its major burden has fallen on producers.

If the little man's wife is furminded he can get satisfaction out of what boils down to a slight lowering of the price of furs generally and a greater reduction in the cost of fur-trimmed clothes.

Forty Yearlings Average $1,769

Toronto, Oct. 13. (CP)—A total of $40,700 was realized at the annual sale of the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society at Woodbine Park last night when 23 yearlings were transferred.

Average price for the yearlings was better than $1,769, top price of $4,100 being paid by W. A. Armstrong for a bay gelding from the W. B. and G. M. Hendrie farm. George McCullagh, Toronto, paid $4,000 for a dark chestnut colt from the W. H. Wright consignment.

Ontario Agriculture Minister Kennedy speaking at the meeting predicted a great future for the thoroughbred industry in Canada.

CANADA WILL PARTICIPATE IN FOOD SUPPLY

Debate on Budget Is Adjourned to Oct. 23 To Allow Mr. Ilsley Go on Tour for Loan

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 13. (CP)—Presentation of the budget for the current fiscal year held the spotlight in the Commons yesterday but before Finance Minister Ilsley made his speech parliament gave unanimous approval to Canadian participation in the United Nations Food and Agriculture organization.

From all parties came support for the objective of the organization, the first of a series of international functional bodies to be set up with a view of making the world a better place in which to live.

Mr. Ilsley announced a personal income tax cut of 16 per cent, effective Oct. 1, 1945. He said that the 20 per cent refundable portion of the excess profits tax will be abolished and the 100 per cent excess profit tax rate reduced to 60 per cent, with both changes becoming effective Jan. 1, 1946. These and other tax changes would mean a reduction of $300,000,000 in government revenue.

Wants Expenditures Reduced

Debate on the budget was adjourned until Oct. 23 by J. M. MacDonnell (PC-Muskoka-Ontario), chief financial critic for the official opposition. Before moving the adjournment, he said the taxpayer did not complain about what he had to pay during the war, but now he wanted assurances that expenditures were being reduced to the lowest possible point.

POLITICAL CRISIS IN ARGENTINA FLARES INTO OPEN

One Man Killed and 35 Injured Including Six Policemen

By LAWRENCE F. STUNTZ

Buenos Aires, Oct. 13 —(AP)— Argentina was virtually without a government today in a political crisis which exploded into open civil strife in downtown Buenos Aires Friday night.

After the entire cabinet with the exception of the army and navy ministers resigned yesterday, the army announced it had the resignation of President Edelmiro Farrell "for use at any moment."

Today the only authority remaining was that of the army, navy and the two holdovers from the fallen government, War Minister Gen. Eduardo J. Avalos and Marine Minister Rear Admiral Hector Vernengo Lima.

The police, apparently acting autonomously for the time being, forbade newspapers to publish news of the street fighting. However, they were permitted to mention the 12-hour wait of thousands of persons in front of the army club yesterday while generals, admirals, and civilian leaders inside debated the future of the country.

It was after this debate broke up without results that the firing began. Who began it was uncertain but at its height police fired on the crowd. Individuals in the crowd returned their fire, and a group of unidentified civilians—perhaps Nationalists — aided police by shooting into the massed thousands.

Fighting Spreads.

In the city of Santa Fe there was an openly Nationalist outbreak when Nationalists and Labor Ministry employees surrounded the newspaper El Litoral and shouted "Viva Peron." Col. Juan Peron, vice president and strong man in the Farrell government, was overthrown by the military in an act which precipitated the present crisis.

Tax Payers Can Take Four Per Cent Off '45 Income Tax Bill, Full Reduction in 1946

Reduction Excess Profits Tax Effective Next Year

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 13 —(CP)— Reductions in personal income tax and a selective easing of the taxation on business dominated Finance Minister Ilsley's first post-war budget speech delivered in the Commons Friday night.

In consequence of tax changes he announced individual income tax payers can count four per cent off their 1945 income tax bill and 16 per cent off the 1946 bill, subject to whatever further changes may be made in next year's budget.

The selective easing of taxation of business brought about a reduction of the excess profits tax — effective on 1946 profits — from 100 per cent to 60 per cent but since 20 per cent of the 100 per cent tax was refundable the long-term reduction is from 80 per cent to 60 per cent.

Small businesses, however, benefit specially, since through an increase in the basic exemptions from the excess profits tax some 12,000 businesses, approximately half of them paying excess profits tax, are removed from tax liability.

The budget, while delivered under conditions of peace, covered the entire fiscal year from April 1, 1945, to March 31, 1946, and reflected the high level of expenditures involved both in war and demobilization. It contemplated a budgetary deficit of $2,250,000,000 on the basis of the reduced tax levels compared with a deficit of $2,558,000,000 for the fiscal year, 1944-45.

Special Features

Other special features of the budget were:

1. Immediate repeal of 10 per cent war exchange tax on imports.
2. Immediate exemption from sales tax of machinery and apparatus used in manufacture or production of goods.
3. Limitation of taxation of annuities to the interest element and exemption of the capital element.
4. Limitation of taxation on payments under wills and trusts to the extent they come out of income.
5. Uniform and more generous tax treatment of pensions.
6. Provision of a special tax schedule for family corporations on payments out of surplus.
7. Extension of tax credits for mining and oil companies.
8. Tariff changes confined to administrative adjustments with no material alteration in the level of protection.

To a large extent Mr. Ilsley placed the future of the Federal tax structure on the outcome of the Dominion-Provincial Conference which met here last August and now is adjourned until next month. The provinces now are considering Federal proposals that they allow the Dominion a clear field in income, corporation and estate taxation and receive in return larger subsidies, larger grants for social services while the Dominion itself expands other social services.

Acceptance or rejection of these proposals is one of the uncertainties Mr. Ilsley pictures as overhanging his budget preparations. Another was inability at this stage to judge clearly of revenue requirements until the peacetime picture clarified.

He disclosed a general overhauling of the personal income tax rate structure is contemplated. If agreements are reached with the provinces he hopes to have it for his next budget, probably in the first half of 1946.

He estimated government expenditures for the present fiscal year at $4,650,000,000 and estimated present taxes would yield a net revenue of $2,265,000,000. His tax reductions are expected to knock $100,000,000 off revenue in the present fiscal year reducing net tax revenue to $2,165,000,000. Counting non-tax revenues the probable deficit of $2,250,000,000 was reached. In advancing his proposals of tax reductions he stressed the effect of each in stimulating enterprise and activity rather than in reducing revenue.

The removal of the war exchange tax which was 10 per cent on all imports from non-British countries is expected to lower the cost of a great many articles and materials entering into the cost of production. Industry reconverting to peace must import equipment. Taking the tax off is an incentive.

Still On Motor Cars.

The same effect is expected to result from lifting the eight per cent sales tax from machinery and apparatus entering into production. It remains on office equipment and motor vehicles and on equipment used in distribution and the service industries.

No reduction was made in the basic 40 per cent corporation tax. Mr. Ilsley said if no new tax agreements were made with the provinces the government would be obligated to reduce that rate by 10 per cent and to reduce it now would establish "too rigid a program of tax reduction."

Extend Social Services

As a matter of policy Mr. Ilsley stated that the personal income tax would continue to occupy an important place in post-war revenue producing system.

"The government has made certain financial and other proposals to the provinces," he said. "If they are accepted the government will bring forward legislation for extended social security measures involving a contribution, which, whatever its form, will have an important bearing on the equitable distribution of income tax rates.

Scores of Scientists Did Prize Job on Atomic Bomb Project

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Editor)

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13 — The atomic bomb promises to repay its $2,000,000,000 cost in three ways — each independent and each manyfold on the profit side.

The three are power, new processes and apparatus for industry, and still in the secret category, some fundamental scientific discoveries.

If Nobel Prizes are given for achievement connected with the bomb, some are likely to go to men who have scarcely been mentioned because their work cannot be talked of without great restrictions. This restricted field covers physics and chemistry, but particularly chemistry.

Fundamental discoveries are of importance in more than one field usually. They have applications throughout science, industry and improved ways of living. The applications are usually unpredictable when the new principles are discovered.

But it is a safe wager that the fundamental discoveries, like those more immediately practicable, will in a few years begin to pay and finally overtop the bomb's entire cost.

More than 1,000 scientists participated in the atomic bomb project. Their individual stories have not been told. Some can be singled out by the frequency with which their work is mentioned in the report of Dr. H. D. Smyth, Princeton University physicist, who wrote the official report of about 70,000 words released by Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the bomb project.

Dr. Smyth points out that the report is incomplete and that some of the best work cannot even be identified.

Ilsley Explains How Reduced Tax Is Worked Out

Ottawa, Oct. 13. (CP)— Just when the 16 per cent reduction in personal income tax, announced by Finance Minister Ilsley in his budget address Friday night, will be reflected in payroll deductions, is not immediately clear.

In dollars and cents, Finance Officials said, the date on which the average Canadian finds a bit more money in his pay envelope is of no significance because the full amount of the reduced tax to which he is entitled will be worked out at the end of the year.

The officials said they expected the Revenue Department shortly would issue specific instructions to employers as to how they were to handle the 16 per cent cut, effective Oct. 1.

Regardless of when that cut is made the over-all picture is that Canadians will have their total income tax liability for 1945 reduced by four per cent. That figure is based on the fact that the 16 per cent reduction is effective for three months or one-quarter of the year and spread over the whole year it amounts to four per cent.

If an employee loses immediately a few dollars or cents by a delay in making the 16 per cent reduction effective it will be caught up when he figures the year's return. Payroll reductions are normally aimed at collecting 95 per cent of the year's tax, leaving five per cent to be paid when final returns are computed. The reduction will mean that in many cases Canadians have less to pay when they file their final returns.

Overhauling Needed.

In making his announcement, Mr. Ilsley said a general overhauling of the income tax law is needed but found it unwise to embark on that at the moment in view of the uncertainties of future revenue requirements and the re-allocation of Dominion-Provincial financial arrangements proposed to and now under consideration by the provinces.

"I think it wise therefore to recommend an interim measure of prompt and inquestionable relief", said Mr. Ilsley.

He expressed the hope new arrangements with the province and clarification of peacetime conditions would occur before the 1946 budget. In that case an overhaul of the whole personal income tax rate structure could be combined with "further abatement." Thus the 16 per cent reduction may never apply to a full income year but may be replaced before the end of 1946 by other changes.

Other Changes.

Society Hears Stirring Address By Cobourg Pastor

The Brotherhood of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held their opening banquet on Friday night, which was a success from every point of view. Mr. Fred White proved himself to be an expert in the culinary art by serving up a chicken supper that would delight the heart of a gourmet. He was ably assisted by Mr. Bert Girling.

The guest speaker, Rev. S. D. France of Cobourg, who is moderator of the Peterborough Association of Baptist churches, delivered a dynamic and challenging address. Mr. Fred Pue was heard in a splendid baritone solo and Mr. S. Alec Gordon acted as pianist of the evening. Song leader was Mr. Eric Naylor. Grace was said by Mr. A. E. Haw.

Not Major Victory.

Speaking on the subject "The Spearhead of the Christian Advance," Mr. France stated that though the influence of the Christian Church had been tremendous throughout the world it had not yet attained a major victory over the evil forces. The war revealed a lot of wickedness that we hardly suspected existed. It brought the realization that unless we can translate our Christian ideals into action the world is going to be a more horrible place than it has been. This is a subject that is close to the hearts of Christian people at the present time. If we fail in these challenging days our civilization is lost.

Take Hold of Youth.

"Our major problem, emphasized Mr. France, "is in bringing our ideals out of the realm of generalities into a personal matter. The spearhead of the Christian Church is in the individual, in the influence of his type of living. Preaching and evangelistic campaigns are not reaching the people because only the Christians attended. The others do not want to come. The only hope of our world is in taking hold of the boys and girls who are growing up, instilling in them the ideals of Christian character."

A hearty vote of thanks to the guest speaker was proposed by Mr. S. May and seconded by Mr. W. Neal. The unanimous opinion of the gathering was tended to Mr. France by the President, Mr. Frank Chesher. The benediction was given by Rev. H. O. Eastman.

'Al' Reynolds Opens Hudson, Packard Agency

"Al" Reynolds, former manager of the Belleville Motors has again entered the motor car field with the opening of the Belleville Motor Car Company Ltd. as proprietor at the old site on Coleman street directly behind the Lloyd Service Station and will handle the Packard-Hudson agency with a truck agency being added the first of the month.

This former agency was closed in September of 1942 at which time the garage and equipment was leased to the Stewart-Warner Alemite Corporation of Canada for expansion of their war effort. At the same time the whole staff that was then engaged transferred to war work, Mr. Reynolds having a position with the firm. "Al" as he is familiarly known throughout the city was born in Brockville and entered the garage business in Kingston after public and high school education in his native city. He came to Belleville in 1929 and since coming to the city has taken an active part in the life of the community. He is a member of the Belleville Kiwanis Club and also a member of the Belleville Shrine Club.

Under the new ownership the Belleville Motor Car Company Ltd. will have a complete service department under the supervision of Earl Anderson while the parts department will be administered by Charles West. An efficient mechanical staff has been employed to take care of any make of car particularly the cars that will be handled by the firm. There will be a complete electric service including generator and starter repairs with an additional exchange service for generators and starters. This will enable a motorist with generator or starter trouble to drive in to the garage have a starter or generator installed without waiting for repairs to be made on his own property.

All types of body and fender repairs can be done in this garage besides an up-to-date lubrication system has been installed to give the highest type of service. Although in the previous business the Pontiac, Buick and G.M.C. trucks were handled under the new setup of the Mudson-Packard agency all previous specialized tools and equipment for G.M. products have been retained and the company will be able to render expert service to all owners of G.M. products. The garage has been completely renovated and painted and presents a clean, well-kept appearance and all of "Als" old friends and new customers will be given the same courteous treatment, that was accorded under the previous management.

Attorney-General Dismisses Rowe Dempster, Typist

Toronto, Oct. 13 — (CP)—Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell of Ontario Friday night announced that the Ontario government has dismissed "for cause" Provincial Constables William J. Osborne-Dempster and John Alvin Rowe and Mrs. Bertha Mary Freeman.

The action followed the release Thursday of the report by the LeBel Royal Commission on charges made by E. B. Jolliffe, provincial C.C.F. leader, during the provincial election, that the Drew government had maintained a "political Gestapo."

Asked last night whether a reorganization of the Ontario Provincial Police force was pending as a result of other findings by the Commission, Mr. Blackwell declined to comment.

Dismissal of Constable Rowe has been made effective as of May 30, the date on which he submitted his resignation. He was dismissed on the ground that he "permitted himself to be used as a political agent for political purposes in a manner completely inconsistent with his duties as a police officer."

Constable Dempster, dismissed as of Sept. 30, lost his position "for the reason that, contrary to the rules governing the conduct of public servants, and to his oath of office as a provincial policeman, he improperly disclosed information."

By so doing, it was stated, Constable Dempster "entered into improper relationships with persons outside the police force, which were completely in conflict with his duty as a police officer."

Mrs. Freeman, who was employed at the Provincial Police Department's anti-sabotage office, 18 Surrey Place, was dismissed from the government's employ because "she permitted herself to be used as an agent for a political party in a manner inconsistent with her duties as a public servant."

Canadians More Than Trebled Bank Savings

Ottawa, Oct. 13 —(CP)—Individual Canadians have more than trebled their savings in bank accounts, government securities and other liquid assets since 1938, Finance Minister Ilsley informed the Commons Friday night in his budget address.

It was estimated that at May 31, 1945, individuals had in currency, bank deposits, refundable taxes and Dominion Government securities more than $9,500,000,000. This represented an increase of more than $6,500,000,000 compared with 1938.

Major item in the $9,500,000,000 savings was $5,250,000,000 in Dominion Government securities. Savings in the form of life insurance, pensions, homes or corporate securities were not included in the estimate.

Mr. Ilsley said this increase in savings was in line with a policy adopted in 1939 of limiting borrowings, after an initial credit expansion designed to facilitate a rapid increase in production, to genuine savings.

The intensive campaign to borrow from individuals date from the institution of war savings certificates in 1940, followed by the First Victory Loan in 1941.

The number of individual subscriptions grew from 946,549 in the First Victory Loan to 3,178,275 in the Eighth Loan last May.

"I trust that in the Ninth Victory Loan which is being offered to the public this month this great number will be maintained or exceeded," Mr. Ilsley said. "It is difficult to estimate the importance for the future of the very large savings now held by individuals in this country."

New Teachers Added to Staff Of Collegiate

Made necessary by increased enrolment over last year, two new teachers have been added to the teaching staff at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School, it has been announced by Mr. L.A. Kells, secretary administrator.

Enrolment in day school collegiate classes at the present time is 812 pupils, or approximately 60 above that of last year, it was stated. Teaching staff at the Collegiate now totals 32.

The two new teachers at the collegiate are R. F. Wilson, formerly of Port Arthur, who will join the staff as mathematics teacher on Monday of next week, and Wilbur Countryman, son of Mrs. Florence Countryman, John St., who will start as science teacher approximately November 15th. Both new teachers have recently been discharged from the armed services, the latter presently being employed at the rehabilitation centre in Toronto.

More in Upper School Grades

Principal Currie of the Belleville Collegiate stated that while there was a general increase in enrolment in most collegiate classes, the increase was particularly noted in the Upper School grades. With about 20 more enrolled in grade XIII than last year, it has been necessary this year to divide this class.

Discharged service personnel have been mainly responsible for the enrolment increase in the Upper School, according to Mr. Currie. Numbers normally in this class have been augmented by service personnel receiving their discharge to complete their education.

Attendance at the night school classes is down slightly this year as result of the falling off of numbers in the armed forces who formerly continued their education along vocational lines. Despite the falling off in total numbers, however, night school enrolment by civilians has increased over last year with 230 students of all classes now attending.

Graduating Class of K. G. School Guests of Home and School Club

Presented With Diplomas and Addressed by George Currie, Principal of B.C.I.

Successful culmination of their years in elementary school was marked by the graduating class of King George School last evening at a banquet when the graduates and their parents were the guests of the Home and School Association.

Mr. Everett Fairman, principal of the school introduced the speaker, Mr. Geo. Currie, B.C.I. principal. In his remarks directed to the students Mr. Currie told them that the teaching staff and their parents had invested a great deal of time and effort in them and expected a great deal of them. In tracing the progress of education through history, Mr. Currie explained that there has always been a struggle against privilege. In the beginning education was only for the rich, but there has followed a steady attempt to bring the same opportunities to the masses.

Three Types.

"There are three types of school government," Mr. Currie stated, "representing different philosophies. The repressive type was the traditional view of a few years ago that all children were born evil, and if you spared the rod you spoiled the child. At the other extreme is the emancipation idea where a child is given untrammelled freedom. This system leads to the development of selfish and inconsiderate children.

The middle course is the expressive type where the teacher, parent and child are partners. With this method there is cooperation, the teacher tries to teach the child rather than teach the curriculum, and discipline progresses to self-discipline. "Education," Mr. Currie concluded "is the hope of the world".

Vote of Thanks Moved.

Mrs. M. C. Ward tendered a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Preceding the principal address a toast to the King was proposed by Mr. M. Hackett; and to the parents by Jean Harkins, with Mr. Mifflin responding. Mr. L. A. Kells proposed the toast to the graduates and the response was made by Jean Valleau. Elsie Rapino expressed the gratitude of the students to the teachers in a toast to the staff and Miss H. Thompson replied for the teachers. Shirley Mifflin thanked the Home and School Club for providing the banquet and Mr. S. Aman, president of the association, responded.

Regrets Expressed.

Miss June Fraser was choosen valedictorian for the class and capably expressed their regrets at leaving the school, their appreciation of their teachers and their anticipation of further adventures in a larger sphere.

Presentation of diplomas was made by Mr. L. A. Kells, administrator of the school board, to the following graduates:

PRESS PRAISES BUDGET

London, Oct. 13 — (CP Cable) —The Evening Standard said editorially today that Finance Minister Ilsley's budget statement that reduction in personal income tax could make a major contribution to stimulating initiative and employment 'comes an inspiration across the Atlantic's waters.'

The paper said "nothing is so hampered to British recovery as the complexities and anomalies of our own tax system."

N.S. Election Warming Up

Halifax, Oct. 13 (CP) — With little more than a week to go before polling day, the Nova Scotia election campaign is beginning to warm up. Premier Angus L. Macdonald supplied most of the excitement last night as he stormed int othe middle of Queens County, the constituency in which Progressive Conservative Leader Leonard W. Fraser is seeking election.

The premier denied Mr. Fraser's charge of Thursday night that the Liberals had failed to promise anything for the fishermen, and said his opponent had "no knowledge of what had been going on in the province for the last 12 years. Mr. Fraser was promising to set up a fisheries branch of government, without knowing the "present administration established one several years ago."

He charged that N. M. Fraser wanted to talk of the future, rather than the "dark ages" of the past under Conservative rule in Nova Scotia.

At Kentville Progressive Conservative candidtes, Sqdn. Ldr. Lawrence (Red) Chisholm, introduced a new not in the campaign when he praised the Liberal party and its candidates, but charged they had been in power too long and were becoming "arrogant."

He said the Liberal government was "cock sure of its hold upon this province," and that Liberal candidates were boasting of their coming success at the polls.

"No party should be permitted to keep a strangle hold on this province, thereby weakening the whole structure of democratic government," he asserted.

POLITICAL CRISIS

Peron himself was reliably reported at midnight to be aboard a navy ship in the harbor.

After yesterday's melee in the army club, Gen. Orlando Peluffo announced the civilians had agreed to co-operate with Farrell to form a new government if the university professors gave their approval. However, Carlos Saavedra Lamas, former foreign minister and Nobel prize winner, said that although he attended the meeting he knew nothing of such a plan.

The civilians want Farrell to resign formally and deliver power to the supreme court.

CANADA WILL

He said Canada must at all costs get back to the position of paying her way without borrowing, although this would be difficult for several years to come because of commitments, social services and rehabilitation of veterans.

He wanted to know if the relative tax position of business in Canada and the United States had been taken into consideration. The relative position of business in the two countries would affect their respective capacities to compete in the foreign market.

He asked if the budget gave any indication that the government was really grappling with the task of reducing expenditures. He noted that army expenditures were down only 14 per cent as against reductions of 28 per cent for the navy and 52 per cent for the air force.

Low Supports Bill.

The lengthy adjournment in the debate was an arrangement to allow Mr. Ilsley to make a victory Loan speaking tour through Western Canada. Support of the principle of the food and agriculture bill came from Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, but he asked assurances that Canada could do more to improve living conditions at home and abroad as a member of the organization than she would be able to do alone.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, sponsor of the bill which was given Royal assent in the Senate, said it was generally agreed that through co-operation countries could do more for themselves than they could alone.

Defence Minister Abbott announced that 20,000 war brides and children had been repatriated to Canada and that every effort was being made to complete the movement of Canadian servicemen's families to this country.

Commons debate on the F.A.O. bill brought from John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) a plea Canada support any application Argentine may make to join the organization. He said the objective of the organization would be more easily accomplished if Argentine was a member.

Mr. Gardiner said he did not believe Argentine had applied for admittance to the organization. Any application would have to be approved by two-thirds of the members.

SCORES

Dr. E. O. Lawrence, the genius of the University of California who invented the cyclotron before he was 30, played a dual role. He contributed vitally to the scientific discoveries that led to the electromagnetic separator, the system of great magnets that separated uranium 235 from its non-explosive companion, 238. He also acted as an administrator. His advice contributed to construction of the great plant for the electrical method. This plant was the first to get the explosive uranium in quantity.

Enrico Fermi of Columbia University was one of the pure science wizards of the bomb. He stuck to research only.

J. R. Oppenheimer from the University of California headed the Los Alamos, N.M., plant and laboratories that made the bombs.

Harold C. Urey of Columbia, discoverer of heavy hydrogen and water, headed the development work at Columbia on the gaseous diffusion process for getting uranium 235, which resulted in the giant of all the plants.

A. H. Compton, University of Chicago, one of the great physicists, did an administration job here and at Chicago that carries a story probably unique in the history of universities. Chicago University actually went into the manufacturing business on a big scale by sponsoring the staff for the work on plutonium pilot plant here.

This is probably the first time a university went into industry. Big business was shy about trying what the university undertook, and with good reason. The project was to make a metal which never before existed, by a method never before used, and the method was pure alchemy. Dr. Compton advised the university that the project was a gamble, but worth the try.

With what the university learned here, the Dupont Company took over, on a line new even to them, and set up the huge, successful plutonium plants in the State of Washington.

TAX PAYERS

"If the proposals are rejected by the provinces and no general agreement is reached, the Dominion is obligated to make some reduction in its tax rates and will have to consider what responsibilities it can assume, in those circumstances in respect of any or all of the proposals."

Mr. Ilsley said a Royal Commission studying a tax problem, that on taxation of co-operatives, had reported too late to permit of adequate consideration of its findings but he might be in a position later to introduce tax changes based on its report.

Speed Up Transition

"In recommending these interim tax reductions," said the minister, "my major concern has not been the financial results of the current fiscal year. I have been concerned with making such reductions as would speed up the transition to peacetime conditions and contribute promptly to the expansion of enterprise and improvement.

"I have been willing therefore to look beyond the end of this fiscal year and, despite uncertainty as to the tax fields which we can occupy exclusively in the future, recommend these immediate steps which will have the effect of maintaining the incomes from which all government revenues are derived."

The tax reductions, by producing a larger deficit than would otherwise result, meant more money must be borrowed, said the minister. He was calling attention to the forthcoming Ninth Victory Loan.

Need for Saving Continues

"I cannot emphasize too strongly the continuing need for saving," he said. "There will be over the months ahead some legitimate and increasing expenditure of wartime savings by individuals in acquiring houses and in making some of the purchases deferred for the war.

"I am anxious that they should meet the real needs of the individual whether those be improved housing, better standards of living or better provision for old age. I do not want to see them dissipated as were savings after the First World War in unnecessary spending at inflated prices."

ILSLEY EXPLAINS

1.—Easing and equalizing the impact of tax rates on annuities, pensions and payments out of private or family corporations.

2.—Discontinuance of the practice of having seven per cent deducted from dividend and royalty payments at the source.

3.—Extension of the allowance for medical expenses to permit an estate to deduct medical expenses paid after the death of a taxpayer from the taxable income in the year prior to death.

4. Cancellation of the exemption of service pay and allowances of members of the armed forces in Canada or the Western Hemisphere from income tax for 1946 and subsequent years.

5. Imposition of a special 100 per cent tax on profits made by persons who bought Alberta Bonds between Jan. 31 and Aug. 7, 1945.

Mr. Ilsley gave no assurance as to when the refundable taxes collected during the years 1942, 1943, and 1944 would be repaid except to recall that the law provided for repayment of 1942 amounts not later than March 31, 1948; 1943 not later than March 31, 1949 and 1944 not later than March 31, 1950.

Not Desirable Now

Owing to inflationary pressures still existing the repayment of such large sums was not desirable now. The government has the option of paying earlier but not of paying selectively to some individuals and not to others. Consideration might be given later to repayment before the limits set.

To farmers and fishermen whose incomes vary from year to year the minister held out a hope of a tax change which would equalize incomes in good years with those in bad when a general revision is undertaken.

Taxpayers will find their income tax forms for 1945 contain a "greatly simplified system of calculation," he said. This will be done as a matter of administration and without a change in the law.

Income Tax to Continue

"I think there is no doubt that the personal income tax will continue to occupy a major place in our taxation structure," said Mr. Ilsley. "The extent and nature of the requirements of the government will necessitate dependence on the personal income tax as a major element in the taxation system. It should be, however, an income tax carefully revised to ensure its efficiency and its suitability to post-war requirements."

In proposing the 16 per cent reduction he said he was impressed "with the great and harmful effect which our present high personal income tax is having in discouraging work and initiative in all groups at a time when we need a rapid expansion of employment and a willing mobility of labor."

The 16 per cent reduction will apply to tax deductions on salary and wage payments as soon as arrangements can be made.

A new scale of adjustments in salary and wage deductions for recipients of family allowances will be necessary for 1946.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tummon, Foxboro, Honored by Family On 30th Wedding Anniversary

Members of the family and intimate friends from the community and district gathered at the home of W. E. Tummon, ex-M.P., Foxboro, on Thursday night where Mr. and Mrs. Tummon celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary. All of the brothers and sisters of the happy couple were in attendance including the Blue family and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCoy of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Tummon and Arline from Stirling, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Chase of Frankford, Mr. and Mrs. Sim McCrea and family of Tweed, Mr. and Mrs. John Sagar of Tweed and William Finlay of Tweed and Edith and Frances Graham also of Tweed. The family circle included Frank Tummon and his wife, Evan "Tip" Tummon, D. F. C., and his English bride, John and James, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson and Marjorie.

The happy gathering spent a social hour and short program was given which included solos, readings and community singing. Rev. A. L. Shorten, pastor of Foxboro United Church proposed the toast to Mr. and Mrs. Tummon and wished for them many more years of wedded life. He praised their worth both social and civic in the community. The assembly enjoyed a most delightful luncheon and Ernie and his wife cut a beautiful decorated anniversary cake lighted with thirty candles. Mr. and Mrs. Tummon were the recipients of a number of beautiful presents including floor lamps, Kenwood blankets and electric appliances. Although taken completely by surprise, Mr. Tummon graciously thanked all for their kindness and cooperation in the years gone by and hoped for a continuance of the same in the future.

Death Sentence Of Nazi Party Is Pronounced

Berlin, Oct. 13 — (AP) — The Allied Control Council Friday formally pronounced the death sentence of the Nazi party, all its bureaux, formations and affiliated organizations, and decreed that any attempt at their revival in any guise would be a criminal offence.

The edict, entitled "Law No. 2," also decreed confiscation of all properties and records of the abolished and outlawed organizations.

The law put into writing what already had been executed in fact to a great extent by the Four Powers. An appendix listed specifically 61 Nazi organizations, headed by the N.S.D.A.P. (National Socialist Party) and included the Gestapo, the S. S. (Elite Guard) and S. A. (Storm Troops), the Hitler Youth and all the manifold bureaux and associations through which the Nazis controlled every phase of German life and promoted their conquests.

An appended commentary said the Nazi octopus, although it had the outward appearance of efficiency, actually was a fumbling structure, torn by bureaucratic jealousies. Bureau was piled upon bureau, particularly in Joseph Goebbels' Ministry of Propaganda and in the labor front under Robert Ley. There were frequent duplications and even direct competition among the Nazi officials.

"Various National and party organization and bureaux existing during the Nazi era often formed a system of checking and counter-checking of political activity," the commentary said. "Internal jealousy often was the result of these dual control groups. Though on the face of the matter it seems these organizations formed a well-knit, efficient system, there was always lack of teamwork and co-ordination."

Charged War Criminals Hiding In Many Countries

Moscow, Oct. 13 —(AP)— A commentator charged in the Red army newspaper Red Star Friday that many war criminals were in hiding in such countries as Italy, Switzerland, Argentina and Spain.

The writer said Giuseppe Bastianini, one-time Fascist diplomat and former secretary of the Fascist Grand Council, was living comfortably in Switzerland.

"Italy has become a hideout for war criminals included on our list," the account said. "Leading Hitlerites have found haven in Argentina and Spain."

Quoting the "foreign press," the article said that until recently Nazi Field Marshal Von Brauchitsch and the former Nazi Minister of Railways, Julius Dorpmueller, both on the war criminal lists of Poland, Czechoslovakia and Belgium, were living in Schleswig-Holstein.

Sea Mines Laid Will Endanger Sailors For Years

London, Oct. 13 (CP) — Sea mines laid by the belligerants during the war will continue to endanger sailors, ships and seaside dwellers for years before they are all made harmless.

During the Second Great War Britain alone laid some 100,000 moored mines to create safety lanes for coastal shipping and Germany laid mines to destroy that shipping. The pattern was repeated the world over, surface craft and aircraft being employed to lay offensive or defensive mine fields.

Minesweepers, probably clearing about 500 mines a week,, have been delayed by the storms and a further delay is expected during winter gales, cold and bad visibility.

$50 Week Machinist Proves Plane Isn't Rich Man's Toy

Littleton, Mass., Oct. 13—If you earn as much as $50 a week, you can own and operate your private plane—and buy shoes for the children too.

All you need is a little resourcefulness, says Samuel DeSilvio, $50-a-week Littleton machine grinder, who has owned and operated a plane for eight years. His plane costs him no more, he says, than an automobile.

Mr. DeSilvio has his own hangar and runway too. The hangar is literally in his back yard, and his airstrip runs the length of the two-and-a-half acres behind his house.

He made the hangar from pine trees which he cut down in his back field when he was clearing it for his home-made runway. He paid $14 to have the trees cut into boards. This, plus the cost of nails and tar paper, represents the total cost of his hangar.

A machine operator by trade and an amateur mechanic only by inclination, Mr. DeSilvio says that, far from being "a rich man's toy," a small light plane can be bought for less than the price of an automobile if it is purchased second-hand.

He paid $850 for his second-hand plane in 1937. A plane of similar make and age can be bought now, he says, for around $600. Last spring he had his plane repainted and recently he spent $28 for a propeller. This winter he will equip it with skis, for which he expects to pay about $35. But these items he considers major expenditures and not to be figured in the budget during the early years of the plane's upkeep.

Sometimes he puts a dollar's worth of gas in the small, two-seater, 40-horsepower craft and takes the family on a Sunday cruise about the countryside. After they fly up to the home of Mrs. DeSilvio's parents in Greenville, N.H., for supper—and then fly home in time to put the baby to bed. It takes just eighteen minutes to cover the thirty miles each way.

When he's "flush" Mr. DeSilvio says, he tells the gas station attendant at an airport to "fill 'er up." The plane's tank holds nine gallons and, in a fair wind, will do better than twenty miles on a gallon. It requires no more than a quart of oil for "every two or three hundred miles."

Sometimes Mr. DeSilvio's aviator friends fly down to visit him—only to betkae themselves off without landing after they have had a look at the length of his runway. But the Littleton man has.

"There's nothing to it," he will tell you with a laugh. "I learned to negotiate a small field when I first bought my plane. I kept it in a pasture because I couldn't afford a hangar charge, and I learned to land and take off without too much room to spare."

It's hangar charges that often make ownership of a plane prohibitive for the small-salaried enthusiast, Mr. DeSilvio believes. But if one has as much as two and a half acres of land around the house on which to build a hangar and runway, the cost of owning a plane assumes a wholly different aspect.

Service charges, he believes, can be kept to a minimum if the owner will take the trouble to learn as much about a plane as the mechanically minded motor-

A Dear Flight

Prince Rupert, B. C., Oct. 13 — (CP) — What was perhaps the most expensive flight in history of aviation was flown last Aug. 23 by a Prince Rupert-born pilot who, to save the lives of himself and his co-pilot, jettisoned the equivalent of $433,000,000 in U.S. currency across Tibetan fastnesses in a flight between India and China.

The pilot, Capt. Cedric Mark of the Chinese National Aviation Corporation, told the story in a letter to his brother Earl, a Prince Rupert business man. When one engine of their twin-engined transport "froze" the paper money —five tons of it — was dropped to enable the craft to keep altitude. They landed safely at Kunming, China. The money, $866,000,000 in re-valued Chinese dollars, was going from the U. S. mint to the Chinese capital.

"Kind of spendthrift, don't you think," Capt. Mark wrote his brother. But he added: "We traded $866,000,000 in Chinese money for a $300,000 aircraft and our lives, a fair price." The letter indicated there was little chance of ever recovering the currency.

Control On Export Canadian Newsprint Removed Dec. 31

Ottawa, Oct. 13 —(CP)— The Prices Board announced Friday that its control on the export of Canadian newsprint will be removed Dec. 31 this year and authoritative sources said the question of increasing, or even abolishing, the ration of newsprint to Canadian publishers also was under consideration.

To assure a steady supply of newsprint for Canadian consumers, the board announced that mill allocations of newsprint for Canadian consumption will be retained, and Guy Holt, the board's newsprint administrator, said this meant that Canadian users would be assured of the tonnage currently available to them.

The removal of the export controls Dec. 31 dovetails with a United States decision to terminate effective Jan. 1, 1945, its restrictions on the purchase of newsprint by United States consumers.

The retention of mill allocations for sale to Canadian consumption means that newsprint mills will continue to reserve a certain amount of their production for sale to Canadian publishers who, in turn, receive a quota based on the amount of newsprint used in pre-war years.

Whether or not those quotas to Canadian users will be increased, or eliminated altogether, depends on a number of factors, the main one being how the trend of newsprint production goes in the next few months.

Officials Report Slight Improvement Of Four in Hospital

Toronto, Oct. 13 (CP)—Hospital officials reported "only slight improvement" in condition of four members of the Hilborn family, all described as "still unconscious and in critical condition" from effects of sleeping tablets that claimed the life of eight-year-old Brian ilborn.

The four in hospital, partially revived by police who at first believed them dead, are the father, Clare ilborn, 43, his 20-year-old wife and his two children, Clara, Jr., 10, and Sandra, five. Brian failed to respond to the inhalators used after police arrived at the east Toronto home yesterday to find all five lying on a single bed.

An autopsy was performed last night on Brian despite a note found in the bedroom in which, police said, ilton wrote: "We have all had an overdose of sleeping powder and it will not be necessary to cut up the children." Prof. W. L. Robinson, provincial pathologist, said the autopsy confirmed that death was due to an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Tax Exemptions Continue For Troops Overseas

Those in Canada and Western Hemisphere Will Pay Income Next Year

Ottawa, Oct. 13 (CP)—Members of the Canadian forces overseas will continue to enjoy income tax exemptions, but those in Canada and the western hemisphere will not be granted any exemption beyond this year, Finance Minister Ilsley announced Friday night.

The exemption granted to civilian flyers of the Royal Air Force transport command all will be rescinded at the end of this year.

Income tax exemption was granted to those members of the forces in Canada and the western hemisphere whose duties normally were performed in ships or in aircraft.

"Now that active hostilities have ceased, the occasion for the exemption has disappeared and the exemption is being withdrawn," said Mr. Ilsley.

In the case of civilian flyers of the R.A.F.T.C., they were granted an exemption of one-third of their remuneration.

Charges Not Proved

The report of the Royal Commission by Mr. Justice Lebel in which Premier Drew and his Government were absolved of "Gestapo" charges will be received with considerable satisfaction by the majority of the people of Ontario. There was a general feeling the Premier had no connection with, and much less, tolerated activities of secret police investigations into the privacies of prominent individuals. No sane man would stoop to such methods because those things have a way of leaking out eventually no matter how great the effort to keep them secret.

Just the same, it was no small matter to have such charges hanging over the head of the Premier. Had they been proven true irrepairable damage would have been done to his career, and the party which he heads would have suffered accordingly. All that is past history now but we would like to add that, like many others, we did not think much of the charges nor the way they were made. They had too much the appearance of an election political expediency, and as such deserved the consideration which has now been proven correct. And despite anything that was said to the contrary we still feel that the charges should have been made on the floor of the Legislature and not at the eleventh hour before the election date.

The result of the election in June indicated that the public was not seriously disturbed over the accusations nor has there been any impatience shown over the time the Commission took to reach its verdict. Now that the report has been published and the Government cleared of operating a "Gestapo" it can be expected the incident will be forgotten soon. However, it should be a lesson to others that charges of misconduct are easily made but if they are to "stick" then they must be supported by evidence of an incontrovertible nature.

Winnipeg Seeks Quietness

Out in Winnipeg the city council has passed an anti-noise by-law that is a honey if, and it's a big "if," the police can make it effective. It clamps down on noisy expressions of high spirits such as setting off fireworks, grenades and guns. Radios must be turned down, automobiles and motorcycles kept in pursing condition, and no bells, horns or sirens used except when required.

We have never been in this fine western city but there must be a lot of lively souls living there for the council to take such stringent measures as to rule out guns and grenades. After reading about this we wonder whether we want to go to Winnipeg after all. A person never knows whether the party carrying the gun is serious or just playful. We haven't forgotten some of those western movies in which exuberant cowboys shoot at the feet of some innocent bystander, generally from the east. We are not as active as we used to be and the idea of doing an Apache dance to the tune of a six-shooter has no place in our scheme of things.

We like the thought about noisy cars and motorcycles but those are not a ragged patch on tootling trains and barking dogs of which we have more than our share in Belleville. In fact the bark of a gun is a novelty compared to the bark of a dog particularly when it keeps it up by the hour. The whistling of trains we have with us today, tomorrow and forever. It just seems as if nothing can be done around here about such nuisances but out in Winnipeg they are made of sterner stuff, they've passed a by-law. All we're waiting for is to see who gets hurt — if anyone.

Tourist Attraction

The extraordinary catches of large muskellunge which are being made almost daily from Muscote Bay is good advertising for the city. Also it is grand sport for those who indulge in this kind of activity. If this good fishing proves itself not a flash in the pan as it were, but continues to go on year after year this district is going to attract greater numbers of tourists than any other sport we could offer. That being so then it is up to our game protective association to see to it this fine body of water is kept stocked with this species of fish along with bass and pickerel and give the area protection to assure continued good fishing.

This is a bit out of our line but we pass it on for what it is worth. Some fish, particularly large ones, and certain varieties, sometimes have a muddy or weedy flavor. To get rid of this — clean the fish then heavily coat all surfaces with pepper and after apply a liberal sprinkling of salt. Let stand. When ready for use just wash thoroughly. Easy, isn't it? This is a trick the Indians in some section of the West use, so a gentleman who has spent some time out there told us, and now he uses this method on all his fish which he catches in the Bay. Hope it works.

Far East

Speaking at the Lewisham (London) V-J celebration, Herbert Morrison said that 300,000 British troops were employed in the war against the Japanese and when the enemy surrendered we were about to launch a large-scale operation against Malaya. Our men in Burma would have advanced into Siam, says The London Sporting Post.

"We were also ready to do our share with the United States in the invasion of Japan itself. Five divisions — one British, one British-Indian, one Australian, one Canadian and one New Zealand — were to be employed as a British Commonwealth force under the command of General MacArthur.

"This would have meant the re-deployment to the Far East of a further 250,000 men from the European theatre.

"Our force was not limited by the number of men available but by the fact that our large passenger fleet was transporting United States troops across the North Atlantic.

"From the Battle of Imphal to the fall of Rangoon the R.A.F. flew nearly 250,000 sorties, carried 80,000 troops and delivered 170,000 tons of supplies.

"Over 60 per cent of the total strength of the Royal Navy was our contribution to the war in the Far East — a force three times the size of the whole navy in 1939.

"We finished the war with over four and a half million men in the forces and the total number who have served in Britain's navy, army and air force during the war will be over five and a half million — about a third of our total male population."

Cancer

The once-popular hypothesis that cancer is caused by a virus is revived by Dr. Alfred Taylor of the University of Texas. He and his associates have produced breast cancers in mice with a material obtained from the yolk-sacs of chick embryos previosly inoculated with extracts of mouse-cancer tissue. After the cancer tissue had grown on the yolk-sacs for a time, the yolk, cancer, blood and fluids of the egg were filtered and otherwise treated to remove all cells. When healthy mice developed cancers after this material was injected, Dr. Taylor and his associates concluded that they must be dealing with a virus, because only a virus can pass through the fine filter used. But must we accept the virus theory? Cancer can be produced by many chemicals which can pass through fine filters.

Help Train Belgian Army

Owing to the shortage of Belgian army instructors with a knowledge of modern methods of warfare, the Belgian government has requested Britain's aid in training the Belgian army. Details of this training plan with the help of Britain have not yet been made known; a Belgian Commission, however, is due to come to London, and British Officers and N.C.O.'s will shortly be assigned to Belgian military training colleges.

THE WILL TO BE

It was so in early ages and will be while men remain,
Boys must work and study bravely for the wisdom they would gain.
Though today they start with knowledge old-time scholars couldn't know,
They must read the books that hold it and still further strive to go.

Schools and colleges possess it and they freely pass it down,
But they cannot give or sell it to the idlers of the town.
And, the poor boy and the rich boy find the lessons they rehearse
Ask their price in time and study and are blind to dress or purse.

It was so in the beginning and will be so to the end,
All the worth-while traits of manhood on courageous youth depend.
Wisdom's gained by toil and patience, and ability and skill,
And the traits that mortals honor are the products of the will.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Sanskirt records indicate that rain gauges of some kind were used systematically to measure rainfall in India centuries before the beginning of the Christian era.

Last year nearly 441,000 persons — 42,717 members of the armed forces — were naturalized in the United States. This was the greatest number admitted to citizenship in any one year since 1907.

Why was John of Gaunt so called?

"Gaunt" in this connection is an old English form of "Ghent," the name of a city in Flanders, and the second Duke of Lancaster, who figures in Shakespeare's "Richard II," was so called because he was born in that city in 1340. "Ghent" was spelled and pronounced "Gaunt" by the average Englishman until the 17th century. The French name of the city in modern Belgium is "Gand," pronounced with the nasel "an" and the "d" silent, and that is the present Belgian name. In Peter Heylyn's "Cosmography" (1713) it is correctly spelled "Ghent."

John of Gaunt was the son of an English king and the father of an English king, but he himself never occupied the English throne. He was the fourth of the seven famous sons of Edward III. He was never able to establish himself as King of Castile and Leon, a title he claimed as the husband of Constance, daughter of Pedro the Cruel of Castile.

Nobody seems to know just why "Kit" became the short form of "Christopher and "Catherine."

In Shakespeare's time any dry wine was called "sack." It appears to have been the favorite beverage of Sir John Falstaff, Prince Hal, Poins and their cronies. The word is derived from French "sec," dry.

Some years ago the Dominican Republic imposed a 25-cent postage stamp on all letters addressed to the President of the Republic. The purpose was to discourage all but important mail.

Why Is a Ship Called "She"?

(Ship's Magazine)

Nowadays a seaman thinks of his ship as feminine, but the reason he lovingly labels her "she" is lost in dim antiquity.

There are those who facetiously say a vessel is feminine because she requires constant painting, because it takes men to handle her, and because in port she has a "husband — an agent who handles business ashore.

There are others who say that because a ship has a waist, bonnets, faces, stays, scarfs, combings, jewels and earrings, and often has a "bustle" about her, the gender properly is feminine.

Still others insist that the use of feminine figureheads on ships' prows influenced the choice. However, Phoenician and Egyptian boats—among recorded history's earliest—were graced with male animals, to say nothing of dragons and serpents and monsters to ferocious to have been anything but masculine.

Nor can the femininity be accounted for by the gender of the word itself. "Ship" is masculine in French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese, and possesses no sex in Teutonic and Scandinavian.

Ships have not always been "she." During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries vessels were merchantmen, men of war, Indiamen, and the like. Even as early as 1426 a historian recounting the battle of Agincourt said, "Every ship waved his anker"; 150 years later a treatise mentions that "in a shyppe the rudder ought to be no less than may suffise to direct hys course." Along about the time that Shakespeare was picturing a "shippe boaring the moon with her main maste," a ship master entered in his diary a note that "wee mette a great Dutch shippe neare Nassapore Point. He wore a flagg." As late as 1784, the authors of the famous "Spectator Papers" recognized the masculinity of vessels, writing that "the last (ship) . . . swallowed up within sight of his own shore."

However, this "he" business was just an episode in the passage of the centuries. The Bible, describing the travels of the Apostle Paul, tells that the disciple "landed at Tyre: for there the ship was to unlade her burden."

Probably as sound a theory as can be offered as to why a ship is called "she" goes back even earlier than the New Testament, to the time of the Greek mariners. They gave their ships feminine names, possibly out of deference to the goddess of the sea.

Whatever the origin, the Greeks had a word for it.

Salient Passages From Tax Change Portion of Budget

Ottawa, Oct. 13. (CP)—Following are salient passages from the tax change portion of the budget address delivered last night in the Commons by Finance Minister Ilsley:-

"It is proposed that the (income) tax levied shall be abated by 16 per cent dating from Oct. 1, 1945, this abatement of 16 per cent will be applied to the current tax deductions at the source just as soon as the necessary change can be made. Since the change is applicable from Oct. 1, the abatement on the whole tax liability for 1945 will amount to four per cent. for a full year, the abatement will be 16 per cent of liability."

"As an interim step towards the ultimate abolition of the Excess Profits Tax, it is proposed to abolish the 20 per cent refundable portion of the Excess Profits Tax; and reduce the rate on excess profits to 60 per cent. The simple effect on the proposed legislation will be that all corporate profits will bear a rate of 40 per cent, and corporate profits in excess of 116 2/3 percent of stand profits will bear an additional tax of 20 per cent.

"In the case of the sole proprietorships and partnerships, the rate on profits in excess of approximately 117 per cent of standard will be 60 per cent. It is proposed that these changes in the Excess Profits Tax Act should be effective as from Jan 1, 1946."

"There has been a considerable number of inquiries as to when the refundable portion of the personal income tax is to be returned to the taxpayer. It is provided in the Act that in the case of taxes paid on income for the 1942 taxation period, repayment shall be made not later than the end of the end of the second fiscal period commencing after the cessation of hostilities.

"That means that refunds on 1942 taxes must be paid not later than March 31, 1948. Refundable taxes for 1943 must be repaid not later than March 31, 1949, and those for the six months of 1944, not later than March 31, 1950 . . .

"The present time does not appear to the government to be a period in which such a general refunding of these sums is desirable owing to the strong inflationary pressures which still exist. Under changed conditions, the government would give consideration to the payment of these refunds without necessarily waiting till the dates specified."

"War exchange tax of 10 per cent on all imports from non-Empire countries was imposed in 1940. I am proposing that this tax now should be discontinued."

"It is proposed to exempt from sales tax machinery and apparatus (not including office equipment or motor vehicles) which . . . are to be used directly in the manufacture of production of goods. This exemption . . . will be effective as from midnight tonight."

"There has been a special exemption in the Income Tax Act for those members of the armed forces whose duties were performed afloat or in aircraft, and a similar exemption was allowed to civilians employed in flying by the Royal Air Force transport command. Now that active hostilities have ceased, the occasion for the exemption has disappeared and the exemption is being withdrawn.

"Having examined the legislation in the United Kingdom and the United States . . . I am recommending provision for a percentage reduction in Succession Duties where the same property passes again as a result of a second death within a period of five years from the first death on which the property became subject to Succession Duties.

On a full year the loss of revenue from . . . . interim tax deductions will amount to approximately $300,000,000."

Not Likely Last Victory Loan

Ottawa, Oct. 13 — (CP) — A possible hint that Canada's 9th Victory Loan, due to start this month, will not be her last was given Friday night in Finance Minister Ilsley's budget address when he stated that the loan campaign would be the only one "in the next 12 months."

Asserting the continuing urgency of "systematic saving and prudent spending," he said he did not want to see savings "dissipated as they were after the First Great War."

COME ON OUT—NEVER MIND YOUR HAT

Describing the fine health and the fine teeth of the 2000 people in the Loetschental Valley, a mile above sea level, in the Swiss Alps —people who have lived in a world unto themselves with neither physician nor dentist, with their own home-spun clothing, exclusively on their own home grown food, Dr. Weston A. Price, in his book "Nutrition and Physical Degeneration" says it is clear why they have healthy bodies and sound teeth. Examination of the school children between seven and sixteen years of age revealed that only one out of three had a cavity or a defective temporary or permanent tooth.

The nutrition of the people there, particularly that of growing children, consists of whole rye bread, cheese, fresh milk of goats or cows, meat perhaps once a week, and some green garden stuff grown in the short summer season. Notice, for the sake of your general health, vite and longevity, if not for the sake of your children, that the young ones in the valley do NOT fill up on pap and cheat food—things made mainly of white flour, starch, sugar—nor do they gulp down quantities of refined white sugar in pop and similar stuff whenever they feel the need of refreshment.

Some readers may recall what a to-do there was made of the finding of a youth about eighteen years old, early in the draft, who had ALL of his teeth and no cavities. The boy explained, we learned through the inadvertence of the real censors of such things, that he had never brushed his teeth and he had always eaten whatever he liked.

The children there get a more liberal daily ration of vitamins and of calcium and phosphorus than the average American youngsters does.

Dr. Price speaks of the children playing bareheaded and barefooted in water running down from the glacier in the late evening's chilly breezes "in weather that made us wear our overcoats and gloves and button our collars."

Oh, well, what's the use of trying to tell American Wisecres such nonsense? The old ones, I mean. If you are still young enough to unlearn some of the things you learned from Doctor Horsefeathers Almanac, may I suggest, what Dr. Price left for the reader to infer, that going bareheaded and barefooted or barelegged there in the Loetschental Valley or here in our alley enables the body to manufacture some of the vitamin D it needs to build sound teeth, strong bones, steady nerves, in short, V-I-T-E.

So, I say to all young folk who read this: So far as your health and freedom from illness go, it is always good hygiene to go without your hat, your overcoat, your shoes, stockings, rubbers, heavy underwear, or any other clothing you may be more comfortable without. Always, I say, in any climate, season or weather. Whatever you find most comfortable to wear or to leave off is most healthful for you leave off is most healthful for you—provided you are not feeble-minded and unable to know when you are comfortable or uncomfortable.

Forty Five Per Cent War Expenditures Covered Out of Current Revenues Says Finance Minister

Limit Borrowings As Closely As Possible To the Genuine Savings of the Country Says Minister in Presenting Budget

Canadians Hold Savings of $9,500,000,000 At Present Time an Increase of Almost $6,500,000,000 Since End of 1938; Total Tax Revenues Down Somewhat From Previous Year

Ottawa, Oct. 13 (CP)—Following is a partial text of Finance Minister Ilsley's budget speech to the Commons Friday night.

....In the budget speech of September, 1939, certain broad principles of war finance were laid down. The first one was that we should "follow as far as may be practicable a pay-as-you-go policy." ....

The result of the balance we endeavored to keep between taxation and borrowing has been that up to March 31, 1945, after meeting all other expenditures, we covered about 45 per cent of our war expenditures out of current revuenues.

The second principle . . . was that, after an initial credit expansion, designed to facilitate a rapid increase in production, we should endeavor to limit our borrowings as closely as possible to the genuine savings of the country....

Want Number Maintained

In the first victory loan the number of individual cash subscriptions was 946,549. In the eighth victory loan of last May, the number of individual subscriptions was 3,178,275. I trust that in the ninth victory loan which is being offered to the public this month this great number will be maintained or exceeded.

It is difficult to estimate the importance for the future of the very large savings now held by individuals in this country. It is possible to make a rough estimate only of the savings held by Canadian individuals in certain liquid forms.

Such an estimate, which cannot be too wide of the mark, indicates that as of May 31, 1945, in currency, bank deposits, refundable taxes and Dominion government securities, Canadian individuals held savings of more than $9,500,000,000 and that these savings had increased by more than $6,500,000,000 since the end of 1938.

Large Saving in Securities

The major item in these savings in Dominion government securities estimated at $5,250,000,000. These figures do not, of course, include all the savings of individuals but only savings held in the liquid forms specified. They do not include savings in the form of insurance, pensions, homes, or corporate securities.

The third principle which we set out at the beginning of the war was that in our borrowings we would endeavor to set the rates of interest as low as possible. We began our public borrowing in January, 1940, with the issue of the 3¼ per cent bond having an average maturity of 10 years. The long-term issue which is being offered in the ninth victory loan has a term of 20 years and 10 months and carries a rate of 3 per cent.

Could Be Issued Cheaper

At the rates now obtaining, a 10-year bond such as was issued at 3¼ per cent in January, 1940, could now be issued at 2.59 per cent. As of March 31, 1939, the average rate of interest paid on the funded debt was 3.52 per cent. On March 31, 1945, the average rate had fallen to 2.51 per cent.

The fourth principle laid down for wartime financial policy was part and parcel of the other principles. It was a definite rejection of the methods of inflationary finance. That principle has affected all our operations in the fields of taxation and borrowing but its pursuit has also led us to many major decisions in other fields..

I have recalled briefly some of these points of wartime policy as foreshadowed in the first wartime budget because we now stand at the beginning of a new period and face new conditions and new problems. The policies which we have followed during the war have an important bearing on the choices which now confront us.

A Slight Decrease

In the year 1944-45, total revenues, including refundable taxes, amounted to somewhat more than $2,900,000,000, a slight decrease from the revenues of the previous year. Total tax revenues, including refundable taxes, were somewhat down from the previous year, at $2,374,000,000.

This moderate reduction in tax revenues occurred mainly in the yields of the personal income tax and the corporation tax, and to a less extent the excess profits tax. Among commodity taxes, the revenues from spirits and malt, cigars, cigarets and tobacco, and gasoline, all showed substantial increases.

Ordinary expenditures for the year were $767,000,000 compared with $630,000,000 in the previous year. More than half of this increase was the result of increased public debt charges. The other major increase was in the expenditures of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Increase Net Debt

War expenditures, including mutual aid, are about the same or slightly lower than in the previous year. The grand total expenditure was $5,246,000,000, about 75,000,000 less than the previous year. Since total revenue, exclusive of refundable taxes, was $2,687,000,00, the over-all deficit for the year was $2,558,000,000, or approximately $1,000,000 greater than in the previous year. This amount is the extent of the increase in the net debt during the year....

Total borrowings for the year, including refundable taxes, amounted to approximately $3,360,000,000. Of this, $219,000,000 was obtained in refundable taxes and $2,948,000,000 through the sale of victory bonds and war savings certificates.

Amount Abnormally High

I should say here that, as explained in the budget papers, the amount set aside for refundable taxes is abnormally high. It has been found as returns are assessed that taxpayers have tended to credit too much of their payments to the corporation tax and too little to the excess profits tax or not to distinguish between them. It has become necessary therefore to increase the liability for refundable taxes.

The remaining borrowings were obtained by an increase in treasury bills and deposit certificates outstanding, and in the floating debt. The total amount borrowed—$3,360,000,000 — was used to meet maturities of $252,000,000 to increase holdings of cash by 152,000,000, and to finance the cash deficiency of $2,955,000,000 arising from the budgetary deficit and the loans, advances and investments made during the year.

Interest Rates Down

As at March 31, 1945, the total unmatured funded debt, including refundable taxes, amounted to $13,984,000,000. The net debt was $11,298,000,000, having increased during the year by the amount of the budgetary deficit. The funded debt carried annual interest charges of $351,590,000. The average rate of interest was 2.51 per cent as compared with 2.54 per cent as at March 31, 1944....

Budget Forecast 1945-46 And Financial Proposals

The budget which I am presenting is a war budget in that, as I have already told the House, war and demobilization expenditures will continue for a short time at high levels even though hostilities have ended and though the demands of the armed services on men and materials have fallen and are falling rapidly. The financial needs of war and demobilization are still very great in this as in every other country.

First Peacetime Budget

On the other hand, this is also the first peacetime budget and its effects on employment and income must be accepted as of major importance.

The expenditure estimates for this fiscal year are known to the House. The main estimates covering non-war expenditures require $1,024,000,000. The war estimates stand at $3,365,000,000. The expected expenditures for war service gratuities and reestablishment credits as authorized by statute are $240,000,000. We expect that we shall need to ask about $30,000,000 by way of supplementary estimates. Our total expenditures for the year are therefore estimated to be approximately $4,650,000,000.

On the revenue side it is estimated that under our present tax laws, revenues in 1945-46, not including the refundable portion of the taxes, will be $2,515,000,000, as compared with $2,687,000,000 in the previous year. I shall place on Hansard a statement showing the details of this estimate in comparison with the revenues of 1944-45:—

x-arbitrary estimate.

Some Declines Anticipated

It is indicated in the table that under the present tax laws we anticipate some declines in the sales tax and the war exchange tax, though the declines will be partly offset by the reduction of refunds on purchases for other governments.

We anticipate some increase in revenues from excise duties and from excise taxes on tobacco. We likewise anticipate that there will be moderate increases in the revenues from excise taxes on retail purchases, gasoline, amusements and similar taxes.

Personal income tax would be expected to decline somewhat were it not for the channeling back through this tax of repayments of the portion of family allowances which duplicates the tax credits allowed to taxpayers in respect of dependent children.

We look for some substantial decline in the combined revenue from the corporation income tax and excess profits tax.

Decline in Revenues

On these estimates there will be a decline of about $150,000,000 in our revenues this year, though this decline is to be attributed to the distribution of rebates and refunds as between this year and last year. Taking approximate figures, expenditures of $4,650,000,000 and revenues of $2,500,000,000 would result in a budgetary deficit for 1945-46 of $2,150,000,000, or approximately $350,000,000 less than the deficit last year.

I have explained to the House on an earlier occasion that, as in other years, we will have substantial financial requirements outside the budget. It will be necessary in the reconstruction period to extend credits to allied countries for the financing of their needs and of our export trade.

On a later occasion the House will be asked to approve a very large increase in the amount already provided under the export credits insurance act and to make such provision for other loans and investments as may be required.

Though these amounts cannot be fully estimated at this time, it is anticipated that to provide such credits and to make loans to the foreign exchange control board may require in the neighborhood of $800,000,000 this year, bringing our total financial requirements for the year to about $5,400,000,000, an amount which is $300,000,000 less than the total cash requirements of the past fiscal year.

Only Token Contributions

No provision has been included in these figures for subscriptions to the international monetary fund on the international bank for reconstruction and development, to which, if the House approves the legislation to be introduced, only token contributions would be made this year.

These are our requirements up to March 31, 1946, and, while they represent a reduction from the previous year and some shift from expenditures to loans, they are, as the House will see, at a very high level. These requirements in themselves do not suggest that the Minister of Finance is in a position to forego any revenue which he might otherwise obtain....

No one is more impatient than the Minister of Finance at the slowness with which war expenditures decline. Nevertheless, they did in fact begin to decline this year as soon as hostilities ceased and our stabilization policy has so far saved us from facing that post-war increase in expenditures which was so great and disruptive a fact in 1919 and 1920. It is essential that we maintain our stabilization policy until the danger lessens....

Basic Considerations

Looking further into the future, there are too many uncertainties in the currents of world events which affect Canadian trade and industry for me to venture a definite estimate of our financial requirements for the whole of the fiscal year 1946-47.

Lag Will be Overcome

The lag in payments for war supplies will be overcome and the payments cease. As the peak of demobilization is passed, demobilization costs will decline rapidly. The industries of Allied countries will be rehabilitated and they will find in their own exports increasing sources from which to finance their import trade. Some of the remaining need may be met by the international monetary fund and the international bank. If reconstruction proceeds steadily in the world outside, we can anticipate further substantial reductions in expenditures in 1946-47.

Faced with the present fact of a very large deficit in a fiscal year of which five months had passed before hostilities had ended, and with the prospect of declining expenditures, it may well seem prudent to maintain our revenues, reduce our borrowings and extinguish our deficit as rapidly as possible. Such a policy is not without its attractions to a Minister of Finance but there are other considerations which claim attention.

The second consideration is economic. The government has adopted, as a major aim of government policy, the maintenance of a high and stable level of income and employment. Accordingly, it becomes a major consideration in budget policy.

The present condition, as I see it, is that the outflow of war workers from war plants has been pretty well completed. The demobilization of the armed services is proceeding rapidly and will continue at a high level for some time. Civilian industry and employment are expanding rapidly. There are many projects in contemplation or under way for extended capacity and employment. Capital is plentiful.

Needs No Emphasis

Consumers have unprecedented liquid savings, some substantial part of which they hope to spend as soon as their requirements can be met and met at reasonable cost. The urgent demand for housing needs no emphasis on my part. Deferred maintenance and other urgent and necessary works of railways, public utilities and governments are awaiting execution.

It is urgently necessary that the construction of houses proceed at the maximum possible rate. It is desirable that investment, which will lead to increased employment, should be made as quickly as supply conditions warrant. It is desirable that, as rapidly as finished goods can come on the market, consumers' needs should be met. It is not desirable that the government should through its expenditures compete with these demands for labor and materials, except for the most urgent needs.

During the war, there has been built up a system of taxation which is discouraging to investment, to enterprise and to consumer expenditures. In many of its aspects it was designed to be discouraging and restrictive to all activities not necessary to the prosecution of war.

Some taxes were intended to restrict trade. Others have had the effect of increasing costs. I recognize that in the course of six years, wartime taxation has begun to blunt incentives and if continued indefinitely will paralyze the development of industry and trade.

Must Maintain Policy

This is a consideration of the greatest national importance. In such modifications as it is possible to make in taxation, it is imperative that we do what we can to reduce costs, restore incentives, encourage investment in the expansion of the employing-capacity of our industries whether in small or large enterprises and promote efficiency in production and export.

I probably do not need to elaborate on the third major consideration. We must maintain for some months yet the economic stabilization policy. It has been a sheet anchor during the war and is not to be cast off while there is still danger that what we have gained should be quickly lost.

Recalling the course of events after the first world war, we must recognize the danger that the rush of consumers to buy, of traders to replenish their stocks and of producers to enlarge their capacity may easily result in an inflationary boom.

In avoiding the rock on one side, we could be swallowed up in the whirlpool on the other. Our tax changes must be such as to contribute to employment and income, not merely to inflation and speculation.

There is another set of considerations of which there is not time to speak as fully as their importance warrants. Following the budget of 1941, the government entered into agreement with the Provincial governments for the exclusive use of the corporation and personal income tax fields. By their terms, those agreements expire near the end of 1946.

Contemplate Some Reductions

In August of this year the government laid before the representatives of the Provincial governments comprehensive proposals for new agreements covering taxation and Dominion-Provincial relations generally.

If they should be accepted, these proposals will, to an important degree, affect the continuing financial requirements of the government and the considerations under which it must frame its tax laws.

If no agreement is reached, and the present agreements expire, the Dominion is bound then to reduce the taxation of corporations by 10 per cent and to revise its personal income tax downward. In these circumstances, it would clearly not be prudent to take now hasty and irretrievable steps in the modification and reorganization of our tax structure.

It is in the light of these considerations that the proposals which I am about to make have been framed. We have fortunately reached the time when, despite our large requirements, we can contemplate some reduction in taxes. In doing so, we should bear in mind the paramount importance of assisting speedy reconversion, of restoring incentives, and of encouraging enlarged and efficient production and export on which our employment, income, and welfare depend.

There are many and varied demands of the moment for tax reduction or elimination but it is necessary for all of us to think not of the moment but of the future, and of the interests of the nation as a whole.

Excerpts From Budget Speech

Ottawa, Oct. 13 —(CP)— Following are excerpts of the fiscal portion of Finance Minister Ilsley's budget speech in the Commons Friday night.

"In such modifications as it is possible to make in taxation, it is imperative that we do what we can to reduce costs, restore incentives, encourage investment in the expansion of the employing capacity of our industries, whether in large or small enterprises, and promote efficiency in production and export."

"We must maintain for some months yet the economic stabilization policy. It has been a sheet anchor during the war and is not to be cast off while there is still danger that what we have gained should be quickly lost."

"In these circumstances (Dominion-Provincial discussions), it would clearly not be prudent to take now hasty and irretrievable steps in the modification and reorganization of our tax structure."

"The financial needs of war and demobilization are still very great in this as in every other country. On the other hand, this is also the first peacetime budget and its effect on employment and income must be accepted as of major importance."

"On a later occasion the House will be asked to approve a very large increase in the amount already provided under the export credits insurance act."

"If reconstruction proceeds steadily in the world outside, we can anticipate further substantial reductions in expenditures in 1946-47."

MATTER OF ETHICS

London—(CP)—Asked to arrange for the ringing of his church bells in Thanksgiving Savings Week, Rev. F. P. P. Harvey, vicar of St. James's, Hampton Hill, replied: "This act of worship to mammon savors much of paganism . . . We do not want to drag God and worship into efforts of making money."

BIG LILY BULB CROP

Hamilton, Bermuda—(CP)—The bulbs of Bermuda's famous Easter lilies are being harvested and a bumper crop is indicated. Last year the colony exported 3,961 cases of bulbs, a considerable increase over the previous year.

$2,150,000,000 Budgetary Deficit Forecast in Present Fiscal Year by Mr. Ilsley

Also States Time Has Arrived to Contemplate Tax Reductions

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 13 —(CP)— Finance Minister Ilsley last night forecast a budgetary deficit of $2,150,000,000 for the present fiscal year but, also in his budget speech, announced the time has arrived to contemplate tax reductions.

To an expectant House of Commons, eagerly looking forward to tax changes in the first post-war budget, Mr. Ilsley reported the government's financial requirements as continuing at a high level up to the end of the year, March 31, 1946, and for some time beyond that.

The deficit forecast was lower than that reported by the Minister for the last fiscal year—$2,358,000,000. Expenditures were estimated at $4,650,000,000 against $5,246,000,000 last year and revenues at $2,500,000,000 against $2,687,000,000.

Looking to the future the Minister said it was necessary to base financial policy on four main considerations:-

Four Considerations.

1. High financial requirements.
2. The economic situation and the maintenance of a high and stable level of income and employment.
3. Economic stabilization and avoidance of inflation.
4. Possibility of acceptance or rejection of financial proposals made to the provinces at the Dominion-Provincial conference.

"We have fortunately reached the time when, despite our large requirements, we can contemplate some reduction in taxes," said the Minister. "In doing so we should bear in mind the paramount importance of assisting speedy reconversion, of restoring incentives and of encouraging enlarged and efficient production and export on which our employment, income and welfare depend."

Continuing high expenditures were due to the lag in payment for supplies and services delivered in wartime, service gratuities, demobilization, relief to other countries and credits to finance exports. All these would decline in time and "if reconstruction proceeds steadily in the world outside we can anticipate further substantial reductions in expenditures in 1946-47."

On the economic side the outflow of workers from war plants was pretty well completed. Demobilization of the forces was proceeding. Civilian industry and employment were expanding. Houses were urgently needed. It was desirable that consumer needs be met as rapidly as goods could come on the market.

Intended to Restrict Trade.

"During the war," said Mr. Ilsley, "there has been built up a system of taxation which is discouraging to investment, to enterprise and to consumer expenditures. In many of its aspects it was designed to be discouraging and restrictive to all activities not necessary to prosecution of war.

"Some taxes were intended to restrict trade. Others had the effect of increasing costs. I recognize that in the course of six years, wartime taxation has begun to blunt incentives and if continued indefinitely will paralyze the development of industry and trade."

Hence adjustments were necessary to permit operation of the high income and employment policy.

Events after the First Great War showed the danger of inflation. Tax changes had to contribute to employment and income and not merely to inflation and speculation.

Mr. Ilsley said the wartime tax agreements with the provinces under which the Dominion collected all income and corporation taxes would end late in 1946.

If agreement was reached on new proposals for continued transfer of tax rights to the Dominion coupled with enlarged subsidies to the provinces it would affect the considerations governing federal taxes. If no new agreement was reached the Dominion was bound to reduce the corporation tax by 10 per cent and make a downward revision in personal income taxes. Clearly it was not wise to take hasty steps in modifying the tax structure.

Brief Review Given.

In a brief review of wartime financing Mr. Ilsley recalled principles enunciated in the First War budget of September 12, 1939.

One had been to pay for the war out of revenue as far as possible. War costs had been financed to the extent of 45 per cent out of revenue. In pursuit of that policy taxes reached an "enormously high level" by previous Canadian standards although never the highest in comparable countries.

Another principle was that after an initial credit expansion borrowings should be limited as far as possible to genuine savings. The number of individual subscribers to the First Victory Loan was 946,549 but for the Eighth Loan the number was 3,178,275. As of May 31, 1945, Canadian individuals held savings estimated at $9,500,000,000, an increase of more than $6,500,000,000 from 1938.

Keep Interest Low.

The third principle was to keep interest rates low. The average rate of interest on the funded debt had fallen from 3.52 per cent on March 31, 1939, to 2.51 per cent on March 31, 1945.

The fourth principle was rejection of inflationary methods which led to the comprehensive system of price, salary and wage control.

Mr. Ilsley said that at the end of the First Great War the budgets of 1919 and 1920 showed increased expenditures and it was necessary to increase taxes.

The increased expenditures were largely due to wartime and post-war inflation and emphasized the importance of retaining controls to avoid inflation now. The rapid increases in tax levels made during the Second Great War also left the government less restricted in its choices now than was the government at the end of the last war.

War Expenditures Of $15,210,394,166 Stated in Budget

Ottawa, Oct. 13 —(CP)— Canada's war expenditures to March 31, 1945, totalled $15,210,394,166, Finance Minister Ilsley reported in a white paper tabled in the Commons Friday night in the course of his budget address.

For the year 1944-45 war expenditures, including mutual aid, amounted to $4,453,685,000, a reduction of $168,577,000 from the previous year which represented the peak.

Army expenditures of $1,261,754,000 for the last fiscal year represented a decrease of $68,616,000 from 1943-44. Naval expenses at $417,099,000 were up $47,543. The R. C. A. F. at $1,259,457,000 increased $328,791,000. A sharp increase in expenditures on the R. C. A. F. overseas establishment—from $383,888,000 to $759,070,000—was attributed to the establishment of additional squadrons, payment to the United Kingdom on reserve stores and pipe line supplies and an advance payment to the United Kingdom for the training of advanced air crew personnel.

Munition Department expenditures for 1944-45 were given as $215,844,000, compared with $687,761,000 the previous year. Main reduction under that department was a drop from $672,804,000 to $205,039,000 in expenditures on the expansion of industry.

Mutual aid expenditures for last year were $803,346,000 as against $912,603,000 the year previous.

Govt. to Maintain High And Stable Level of Income

Ottawa, Oct. 13 —(CP)— Government policy of maintaining a high and stable level of income and employment has become a major consideration in shaping the budget, Finance Minister Ilsley said Friday night in his budget address in the Commons.

During the war a system of taxation had been built up which was discouraging to investment and consumer spending. Some taxes were intended to restrict trade and others increased costs.

"I recognize that in the course of six years, wartime taxation has begun to blunt incentives and if continued indefinitely will paralyze the development of industry and trade," said Mr. Ilsley.

"This is a consideration of the greatest national importance. In such modifications as it is possible to make in taxation it is imperative that we do what we can to reduce cost, restore incentives, encourage investment in the expansion of the employing capacity of our industries, whether in large or small enterprises, and promote efficiency in production and export."

The stage had been reached where the movement of workers from war industries was almost completed and demobilization of the armed forces was proceeding rapidly.

"Civilian industry and employment are expanding rapidly," said the Minister. "There are many projects in contemplation or under way for extended capacity and employment. Capital is plentiful. Consumers have unprecedented liquid savings, some substantial part of which they hope to spend as soon as their requirements can be met and at a reasonable cost.

"The urgent demand for housing needs no emphasis on my part. Deferred maintenance and other urgent and necessary works of railways, public utilities and governments are awaiting execution."

Canada's Net Debt On March 31, 1945 Was $11,298,000,000

Ottawa, Oct. 13 —(CP)— Canada's net debt on March 31, 1943, was reported as $11,298,000,000 by Finance Minister Ilsley in his budget speech Friday night.

The increase during the fiscal year ended on the date was $2,558,000,000, the amount of the budgetary deficit for the year.

The total unmatured funded debt as of the same date which included refundable taxes was $13,984,000,000 and gross liabilities, including deposit and trust accounts, insurance, pension and guarantee accounts, totalled $15,712,000,000. Against this were active assets totalling $4,413,000,000, less a reserve for possible losses of $125,000,000.

The Experts Say

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 12 (CP)—Perfection in a pie depends to a surprising extent on care and controlled temperature in baking, the Agriculture Department home economists tell us.

The pie that graces the autumn dinner table must be perfection itself, so here are some tips on baking it.

All pastry should have a hot oven for the first 10 minutes, a temperature of 425 degrees fahrenheit. This makes for light pastry and prevents the bottom crust from becoming soggy. After the first 10 minutes the temperature should be lowered for the rest of the cooking time. In the second part of the baking both time and temperature vary with the type of filling.

For a double crust pie with an uncooked fruit filling the oven should be reduced to 350 degrees fahrenheit and kept at that temperature until the filling is cooked and the pastry well browned. Time will vary slightly but is about 25 minutes.

A pumpkin pie is also baked at 350 degrees fahrenheit after the first 10 minutes and must be baked about 30 minutes at the lower temperature to "set" the filling.

With plain custard pie the temperature must be a little lower to produce a smooth filling. For these pies the oven is reduced to 325 degrees fahrenheit after 10 minutes at 425 degrees fahrenheit.

Pumpkin pie: Roll plain pastry ⅛ inch thick and a little larger than the pie plate. Fit into the pie plate. Fold back the extra pastry to make an edge of double thickness and fluet. Combine 1½ cups of canned or mashed cooked pumpkin with ⅓ cup brown sugar, ¾ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon ginger, ⅛ teaspoon cinnamon, a dash of cloves, a dash of allspice, ⅛ teaspoon salt and two egg yolks. Beat well. Add 1½ cups of hot milk and fold in two egg whites, stiffly beaten. Pour into the uncooked pie shell. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees fahrenheit, for 10 minutes. Cool oven to 350 degrees fahrenheit and continue baking until filling is set, about 30 minutes. Cool before serving. This recipe makes one nine-inch pie.

The CLO routine is the talk at the Health and Welfare Department Nutrition Division these days. The cryptic letters stand for Cod Liver Oil and the routine the Division urges is a daily dose for all members of the family who are still growing. Growing children and adults up to 25 need the vitamin D which, until summer sunshine comes again, cannot be supplied adequately in any other way.

The division reports that along with vitamin D cod and other fish liver oils supply considerable amounts of vitamin A which helps give protection against colds. Because this vitamin is sensitive to light, cod liver oil is always put up in dark bottles which should be kept closely covered and stored in some dark place. Some of the oils should be kept in the refrigerator, and some in a dark cupboard at room temperature.... instructions on the bottle generally say which.

Women's Activities

MARMORA W.A.

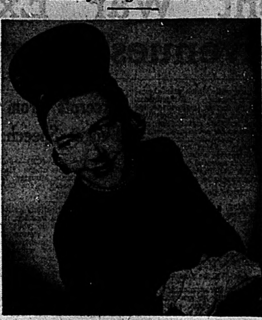
The regular monthly meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Grant. The President, Mrs. L. R. Green occupied the chair. It is hoped to put on a dance at the end of November. The president asked all members to assist as much as possible with the Clothing Drive opening on October 11. A request was received from Marmora War Workers for a number of ladies to assist in the repacking of clothing for overseas. The president was appointed delegate to the Area convention to be held in Belleville in early November. Mrs. W. D. Lavender vice president, was appointed alternate. Mrs. F. R. Wells gave a reading on tea and its preparation for the market. Mrs. H. W. Sabine conducted a quiz program. Some community singing was enjoyed. The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments by the committee in charge.

BETHANY W.M.S.

The October meeting of Bethany W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon McPherson on Wednesday. The President, Mrs. F. Easton was in charge of the worship service.

Mrs. V. Hamilton, group leader took charge of the program. A reading "All This is Mine", was given by Mrs. G. Kerr. Mrs. W. Clarke, Christian Stewardship convener gave a reading "A Bit of History". Mrs. Douglas Tummon read a hymn. A reading on Thanksgiving Day was given by Mrs. G. Sills. Mrs. Frank Walker closed the meeting.

XV Century Beguilement



By PRUNELLA WOOD

BROWN-ACCENTING, height-giving, romantically a-sparkle to light the way for twilight leisure dresses, this black felt hat with cabochon jet buttons for trimming, is 1946 minded.

It is an adaptation from fifteenth century cafe society amongst French gallants, however, and a pleasant revival for our simple, fashionable clothes of today.

The beads are set on cutout felt which makes an open work band for the hairline across the forehead, good going for the coiffure exposed usually to autumn and winter breezes.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

At Forty He's in Love for the First Time.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 40 years old and a bachelor. I've met many types of girls and have never fallen for any of them. But now I find myself deeply in love with a married woman, and her husband is my best friend. And also she's in love with her husband, and neither of them suspects I'm in love with her.

Of course, I've no intention of following it up, but I love her so much that it's just about ruining my peace of mind. No one realizes how hard I've tried to forget it. I never knew there could be such love, and that it has to happen to me at forty.

Desperate.

The first thing you'll have to do is take yourself in hand and pretend this woman doesn't mean anything to you. She isn't aware of your love for her, is happy in her home and in love with her husband.

Then I'd advise you to pick out an attractive, unmarried girl from among your friends, and force yourself to be attentive to her. Take her to the movies, to plays, concerts or even dancing if you care to dance. Go through the motions of being interested in this girl; persuade yourself that you are. We're all creatures of the imagination. Here's to you.

Her Husband is Teaching "The Other Woman" to Dance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband and I have been married almost twenty-five years and have been very happy with very little money. At my husband's request I went to California for our oldest daughter's marriage. He had intended to go with me, but later on said they needed him at his work and stayed home instead. He even suggested I stay three months, and offered to eat out. We have two daughters, 22 and 19, and a son overseas.

When I came home I found he had a lady friend, who is married and has boys overseas. He suggested I take her husband as my boy friend. I'm very unhappy over this, but have not told my children.

He is now teaching this woman to dance, and she has no more grace than a post. He has invited her here to dinner, and I had to be nice to her, but I'm really not jealous of her; I feel so far above her. He doesn't want me to do Red Cross work or go to clubs and never gave me one penny while I was in California. I had a job there, and came home with more money than I had when I left. My husband is 54 and I am 48. What is your advice?

(Mrs.) C. L. E.

This almost universal problem of the middle-aged woman has been met in many ways. The best results come from being good-humored about it, with a dash of fun and sarcasm, if it can be managed gracefully. And positively no nagging. Lady wolves are usually after money, because it's rarely that a man over fifty has kept any snares in the way of good looks. Also get a job, as you had in California.

The aging swain often has a lucid interval and cracks down on the free-will offering. Then the Big Boy comes home to mama and if there's been no nagging and recrimination, it's a lot easier to make up. Again, Father may continue to be charmed by his charmer, in which case these middleaged wives have some serious decisions to make. Here's hoping my correspondent gets the better of the lady who "has no more grace than a post".

Tasty Grape Desserts

The expression "sour grapes" originated of course in the old fable. The fox, when he found he couldn't reach the grapes pretended he didn't want them any way because they were sour.

But it isn't with sour grapes that we are concerned but with the sweet Canadian grapes now on the market. Everyone enjoys them just as they come from the vine and later in the winter as jam, jelly or juice.

But have you initiated your family into the delights of grape desserts, hot and cold, or a spicy catsup made from them? If not here is a good opportunity to introduce them to the family with these recipes from Canada's Kitchen in the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Grape Neapolitan

1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
4 cups blue grapes
2 cups boiling water
¾ cup sugar
Few drops of green vegetable colouring.

Soak gelatine in cold water. Wash grapes and press pulp from skins. Add 1 cup boiling water to the pulp, cook 5 minutes. Rub through a sieve to remove seeds and to the pulp add ½ cup sugar and soaked gelatine; stir until gelatine is dissolved and add green colouring. Cool until it begins to set. Beat until light, turn into a wet mould and chill until firm. To the skins add 1 cup boiling water; cook 5 minutes and add ¼ cup sugar. Cool. To serve, unmould the jellied pulp. Serve with the sauce made from skins. Six servings.

Grape Brown Betty

3 cups blue or white grapes
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons mild-flavored fat
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 cups soft stale bread crumbs
Dash of salt.

Wash grapes and press pulp from skins. Heat pulp to boiling point and boil gently 5 minutes. Rub through a sieve to remove seeds. Combine skins, pulp and the ½ cup of sugar. Melt fat, add remaining sugar, crumbs and salt and mix together. Place alternate layers of grape and crumb mixtures in a greased baking dish, having last layer crumbs. Bake in moderately hot oven 375F, for 40 to 45 minutes. Serve hot. Six servings.

Grape Catsup

4 lbs. (3 qts.) grapes
2 cups vinegar.
1¼ cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cloves
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground allspice

Wash and stem grapes. Add vinegar and sugar and simmer 15 minutes. Rub through sieve fine enough to retain the seeds. Add salt and spices to pulp and boil until thick, about 1½ hours. Pour into hot, sterilized jars or bottles and seal. Yield: about 2 pints.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

The Eyes Have it.

It occurs to your good-looks reporter that while few women fail to put on the beauty trimmings, many of them overlook the pulchritude essentials. Plying commercial blushes, darkening the eyelashes, arranging the curlycues atop the noble brow, are pleasant duties. If we don't attend to these small tasks, the woman in the looking glass makes faces at us. Taking care of the eyes does not appeal to us. Yet, if they are not in normal condition, they will bring along a trail of by-products that will not make for good appearance—irritability, frowns between the eyes, turkey tracks, nervousness, a facial expression of stress and strain.

You'll hear a woman whine. "I suppose I should wear glasses. But I can't bear the thought of putting them on. They'll make me looks lots older. And then there's the expense. Lenses and frames cost so much these days". If she thinks she's using the old brain in a worthwhile way, she's got another guess coming. She thinks nothing of paying for permanents and right now, she is probably out stalking a fur coat. It should be glasses. Tired eyes are sick eyes; to neglect them is to do oneself an injustice.

The human machine has a telephone-system; when one part is ailing, the news goes round; other parts are sympathetic. Eyestrain can make the head ache like blazes.

With so many young people wearing glasses, specs do not suggest advanced years. It may not be that more kids have eye trouble, but that defects of vision are caught earlier. Of all the senses, that of sight is, undoubtedly, most precious. When it is impaired, the eye endeavors to adjust itself, and so is subjected to severe strain which may be deleterious to the general health; certainly it has a bad effect upon the nervous system. Surveys show that 70 per cent of all individuals who need glasses and won't wear them, suffer from headache.

If eyes are tired, they look dull, listless, heavy.

Don't forget that eyes are working every waking moment. It is only during sleep that they have rest. If they are tired, they look dull, listless, heavy. The tissues surround them soon become furrowed with tiny lines because the lids partially close to protect the eyes from light.

Eyelids may redden, become inflamed, and in that condition they are no good-looks bargain. Even if the eyes are normal they should not be subjected to strain. Reading on trains is a general practice with all of us, yet it is a harmful habit, because the muscles of accommodation are often overworked.

Emotional sprees have a detrimental effect upon eye sight. The expression 'blind rage' has meaning.

We hear about eye exercises. They should be done only under the direction of an oculist.

FASHION FLASHES

THE DEMAND GROWS for untrimmed suit that may be dressed up with smart accessories. For wear with a plain black velvet suit, one designer shows a toque of snowy ermine accented with jet. The small melon muff is also of ermine.

A soft touch appears on many of the tailored robes for fall. Rayon crepe printed in dark cabbage roses on a blue ground is cut on slim, long, tailored lines but softened with rows of self ruffling that form a shoulder yoke, make cuffs, edge the slit sleeves and outline the side closing.

It's nice to have at least one colorful frock in the wardrobe. Fuchsia-colored crepe makes a handsome afternoon frock done with sleeves draped up into the shoulders. High, rounded neckline and bow-tied swathed hipline above a moderately-flared skirt.

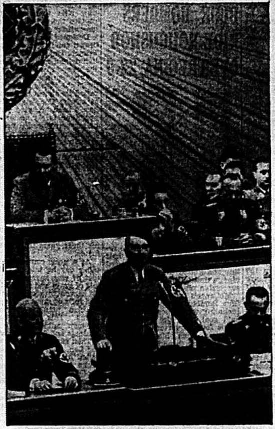
THIS TIME BUY BONDS FOR ONE YEAR!

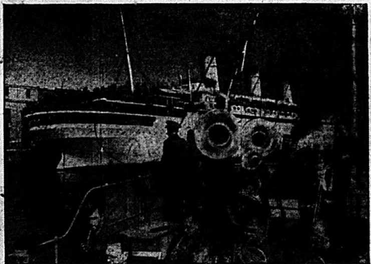


THIS MUST NEVER HAPPEN AGAIN! Remember the raucous voice which hurled out threats through '37, '38 and '39? And the dark months which followed, with the news always of defeat? It is to prevent this happening again, that Canada shares in the occupation of Germany. Your part in this is to keep on buying Victory Bonds.

CANADA'S 9th Victory Loan will be the only Victory Loan campaign for the next 12 months. This means that a huge saving of time and manpower can be effected . . . if everyone continues to buy Victory Bonds on the same scale as before.

So, when you are asked to increase your purchase this time, you are not asked to increase by a penny your monthly outlay; but simply to continue your present instalments, through your bank or by payroll deductions. This time you sign up for a year, instead of six months . . . that's the only difference.

And Victory Bonds, besides being the safest and best investment you can make, will provide for your future prosperity. Co-operate with our allies in bringing essential help to liberated countries. Production for this purpose together with production on the backlog of home requirements will help create employment. This time you insure your future two ways, when you buy Victory Bonds!



THEY ARE COMING BACK! Men who have been overseas for years . . . men of Dieppe and Caen and the Channel Ports . . . men of Sicily, Cassino and the Senio River . . . men of the seas and of the skies . . . are returning home. Your continued purchases of Victory Bonds are needed to accomplish this and to see them successfully re-established in civilian life.

THE PEACE IS NOT WON YET! Canada and her allies are pledged to help the sick, hungry peoples of war-wrecked countries. And every Canadian must be assured of the opportunity to earn a decent living . . . the money you lend in the Ninth Victory Loan is needed to accomplish this . . . as well as to help build a strong Canada for your own future prosperity!

GET READY TO BUY more VICTORY BONDS!

Kraut Line Makes Up For Lost Time At Training Camp

By GUY GAGNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec, Oct. 13 —(CP)— The Kraut Line—Bobby Bauer, Porky Dumart and Milt Schmidt—have been inactive in professional hockey since 1942 but if you want to take Art Ross' word for it, they will be the "Pillars" that will carry the Boston Bruins near the top of the National Hockey League, if not to the top itself.

Since Feb. 10, 1942 the Krauts have been in the Royal Canadian Air Force and haven't had much chance for competitive hockey.

This leaves the line quite undismayed. If they are "a bit rusty"—to use their own words—at least they are not lacking in confidence. All they need is a little practice and that's what they're getting here.

"We'll make up for lost time," Bobby said, and Porky and Milt added their approval.

As usual, Art Ross was inclined to be silent. But he did admit that the line showed enough of their old-time skill to indicate they would be one of the mainstays of the Bruins.

Outside of that one admission of the Krauts' possibilities, all you could get out of Ross was a grunt.

It may be, of course, that Art is rather embarrassed at the array of talent which was turned out for this year's training camp. There are 46 players around, which stands out in sharp contrast to the nine men Bruins had last year when they opened the season against Montreal Canadiens.

What's Doing in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Application by Douglas Ness, racehorse owner and trainer suspended Sept. 15 by the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association, for a review of the circumstances of the case was postponed sine die in weekly court at Osgoode Hall at Toronto yesterday. Postponement came on request of I.C.R.A. which said that counsel who was to have taken the case was occupied on another case for two weeks. Ness' counsel made no objection.

Jockey Gordon Richards rode his 100th winner of the British season at Windsor, England, yesterday when he took Sez You over the line in the Newholme Stakes. Richards last rode 100 winners in 1939 and has scored 2,897 victories in his turf career.

Tampa, Fla., newspapers protested Charlie Trippi, ace backfielder of Georgia University, had been discharged from the U. S. Air Force at Tampa through political pressure so he could jump to the gridiron. The War Department at Washington, however, announced he had been released because his commanding officer declared him "surplus."

Former pro hockey veteran with Chicago Black Hawks and various minor-league teams, Pete Palangio of North Bay announced Friday night he was organizing a N.O.H.A. team for his home town to be known as the Greyhounds, the first sextette for which he played.

N.H.L. Training Notes

(By The Canadian Press)

Blond Joe Kulkay, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., left wing who spelled Sweeney Schriner of Toronto Maple Leafs in one of the 1943 Stanley Cup play-off games against Detroit Red Wings, was the individual star of first serious practice tests at the Toronto Training Camp in Owen Sound, Ont. Klukay, formerly with Toronto, Stratford, Ont., and Halifax navy, scored four goals yesterday in a morning session and added another in the afternoon.—

Paul Bibeault is a popular figure at the Boston Bruin camp in Quebec City. He is a native of Quebec and has a large following of fans who cheer every time he hits the ice. Bibeault formerly played with Leafs and Montreal Canadiens.

Speedy Gaye Stewart of Fort William, a rookie sensation with Toronto Maple Leafs before he joined the navy, weighed 158 pounds when he exchanged hockey togs for a navy suit. Back in training now with the Leafs after obtaining a discharge, Stewart weighs 175 and looks fit.

They're tough on goalkeepers at the New York Ranger camp in Winnipeg. Charley Rayner suffered a torn likament in his hand in Thursday's practice and yesterday Jack McGill received a split lip. He was able to resume play shortly after.

All Singapore Glad To Have British Back

By EWART SWANSTON
In London, England "Spectator"

During the days of rumor and recrimination that followed the fall of Singapore in February, 1942, there came into being a legend, as partial explanation of the catastrophe, which our triumphant return will for the time being have served to scotch but hardly to kill. The British, it seemed, had "no roots" in a country they had first grabbed, or, at least, taken means to dominate, through greed, and then lost through incompetence, and had failed completely to ingratiate themselves with its native populations, and induce in them any spirit or inclination to join in its defence under attack by a third party.

The theory unwarrantably launched by a handful of newspaper correspondents, both American and British, that Malaya fell because it was rotten to the core gained a disastrous currency. That so fatally damaging a misconception of the facts concerning British Malaya, and our connection with it, should have called forth no official correction either at the time or since, is a complete mystery. Fortunately, there is plenty of evidence now available enabling the necessarily superficial accounts of war correspondents cabled back during the stress and strain of withdrawal and disaster to be put in proper perspective.

Let it be said then—and said quickly, before 21,000 unfortunate British men, and women and children, after three and a-half years in Japanese prison and internment camps, begin to disembark, as they shortly will do, on the shores of that homeland upon which their thoughts and longings have for so long been fixed—that the "no roots" legend is just plain rubbish. The "fifth column" of Malay, Chinese and Indian collaborators is similarly seen, on examination, to dissolve into moonshine. The alleged columnists of whatever race, creed, or color were not only singularly well treated under our administration but well aware of that fact, and very appreciative of it, expressing their gratitude in most practical form by extending, to our troops on the long retreat in scores of authenticated instances, and often at great risk to themselves, help and succor down the country, to our sorely tried womenfolk in the dreadful period of last-minute evacuation, and, when opportunity offered, to captives and internees during their long years of imprisonment.

Assertions are, of course, not disposed of merely by being contradicted. Let me explain, therefore, that I have lately been given the opportunity of tracing, interviewing, and taking statements from as many as possible of the various categories of people available who had first-hand experience of the Malayan campaign. These included not only the evacuees and escapees (both men and women) who began three years ago to drift back to this country via Australia, India, South Africa and the Dutch East Indies, but service personnel who had spent years in Japanese prison camps prior to their rescue and repatriation some time before the end of hostilities.

One batch of these were survivors from the bombed "Rakuyo Maru," others had been freed from camps in the Phillippines when the Americans recaptured those islands. In all, fully a hundred such statements were eventually procured. Not one single proved case of Fifth Column in Malaya during the campaign came to light, and the stories of help given to our people by Malayan Asiatics of all races and ranks, from Malay tengkus and Chinese towkays to the humble Tamil coolie, are innumerable.

It was a Tamil laborer who, finding a captured European tied up to a stake after torture, and waiting to be shot by the Japanese, crawled through the lalang grass, though there were Jap sentries only twenty feet away, cut the ropes binding his arms, and cried "run tuan!" as he wriggled off. The tuan couldn't, his legs being tied as well, so the coolie wriggled back again and freed those too.

There was the Malay member of a ruling house, himself a senior civil servant, and a passenger on the bombed "Kuala" at Pompong Island, who organized the most heroic rescue work there, and saved scores of European lives. Conrad could and would have composed a whole epic about what Tengku Mahyideen accomplished on that tragic occasion, but Conrad is dead, and the Tengku gets an M.B.E. Those who know all the story may think a George Cross would have been more appropriate. There were the hundreds of Chinese who hardly ever took payment for food, petrol, or even sometimes for the boats that gave them their livelihood. Good vigorous haters of the Japanese these Chinese, and what artists in sabotage! "When Japanese come," one Singapore amah gleefully announced to her employer, "I pretend to be very nice. Every day take new husband, every night cut off head."

What emerges from the whole picture is that fully a year ago the Japanese were seen, in the eyes of all Singapore city, to have failed completely to live up to the promises they held out both to themselves and the people of Malaya regarding the good things certain to flow from their New Order.

Many of the city's one-time 560,000 inhabitants have been dumped on the mainland to fend for themselves. All have suffered terribly by the loss of a livelihood for long sustained on a worldwide trade in rubber and tin, and on the biggest entrepot commerce of the Far East. Decay has markedly corroded a city once proud of its health, its fine buildings, streets and social amenities. A harmonious community, possibly more racially mixed than in any other city in the world, was subjected to a harsh military rule imposed on a Chinese population obviously biding its time before turning against an old and hated enemy.

Despite the strenuous attempt made to suppress the use of English, the old street names continue to exist, and British stamps carrying the face of King George VI have continued to be used throughout Malaya, though overprinted by the Japanese. Neither the temporary rulers nor their temporary subjects can have escaped the conclusion that all that had gone and was good was the creation of British rule, and all that could be retained and developed was equally a bequest from the past.

The Japanese have done nothing with their conquest to serve the people. We need have no misgivings about the feelings with which Singapore is today welcoming an all-British Army of Liberation.

New Gold Mines Stand to Benefit Under the Budget

Ottawa, Oct. 13 (CP)—New gold mines stand to benefit under an extension of a special provision of the Excess Profits Tax Act announced Friday night by Finance Minister Ilsley in his budget speech.

Previously the special section had been restricted to base metal and strategic mineral mines which have been given exemption from Excess Profits Tax for the first three years of their operations.

In effect this has been considered, the major benefit enjoyed by mines. Under the Income Tax Act special credits were given for exploration work. Normally exploration costs were considered a normal capital charge but during the war permission to write such costs off was given to encourage the development of mines and oil wells.

The Excess Profits Tax exemption would normally have expired Dec. 31 but under the new budget provisions it is extended indefinitely.

While gold mines are brought under its terms the benefit will apply only to gold mines started after Jan. 1, 1946. Mines now in operation will not be able to claim exemption.

Although oil companies are entitled to special income exemption on exploration work they are not included under the excise profits exemption now applicable to gold mines.

DELORO BOWLING CLUB WINDS UP SPLENDID SEASON

Trophies Presented and Fine Address Given by Carl Homuth, M.P.

Marmora — Deloro Bowling Club wound up its 1945 season with a chicken dinner in Deloro Hall on Wednesday, the excellent catering being in the hands of the Deloro group of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild. The chairman M. J. Corrigan opened the post dinner talks by proposing the toast to the King. This was followed by a welcome of the guest of the evening Col. A. V. Yates, M.C. Pinanists for the occasion then led the gathering in a sing-song after which four silver trophies were presented to the winning team comprising J. H. Hemphill (skip), G. Brooks, O. Trumble and Rev. E. M. Cadigan by Col. Yates. All Had Alibis.

Some of the less fortunate skips of the bowling teams were heard from and very one seemed to have an alibi as to why he did not win. Mike Corrigan's team was left out of the postmortems because every one felt his team should not have been runner-up. Col. Yates then introduced the guest speaker, his boyhood friend and capable orator Karl Homuth, M.P., for Waterloo. Mr. Homuth spoke on "Freedom of Living in Canada". He stressed the point that at present when there is clamor for a distinct national flag we should be more fully occupied by making Canada, a flag maker himself. Post-war problems, he reminded his hearers are of great concern to all of us. e said we must all share in this reconversion.

Vote of Thanks.

The speaker was tendered a hearty vote of thanks at the conclusion of his address. Clifford Watson, Bowling Manager, closed the evening's program by thanking all bowlers present for such a real spirited season of bowling. After the singing of "O Canada" many of the bowlers retired to the Company House where round table discussions were carried on far into the night.

Referee Denies Swearing At The Players

Vancouver, Oct. 13 — (CP) — James Gunn, Vancouver referee who was suspended by the Canadian Lacrosse Association Thursday night, yesterday denied in a statement to reporters that he had sworn at players during Canadian finals between St. Catharines Athletics and Vancouver Burrards.

Burrards won the title with 3 straight victories.

The C.L.A. barred Gunn, one of two officials for the finals just completed at Vancouver, from "any further employment by the C.L.A. in any capacity for using bad language."

"I did no such thing," Gunn asserted. "When St. Catharines' coach George Cleverley accused me of this before the C.L.A. yesterday, I got angry and said, 'Sure, I do everything.' This was what the C.L.A. convicted me on."

Gunn said he had been asked to appear before the Association as a witness against Bill Whittaker, St. Catharines netminder, whom he accused of beating him up after the third game of the finals. Whittaker did not appear at the C.L.A. hearing. William Easterbrook of Vancouver, C.L.A. secretary, said Whittaker has been suspended until he appears before the C.L.A. executive.

Picked up as a juvenile for $1,500 by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, four-year old Stymie has earned $193,670 with most of the money coming in this season. The chestnut son of Equestrian romped off with the big melon in the Brooklyn, Butler and Continental handicaps as well as the Saratoga Cup this campaign.

BLUE BOMBERS RIDE ROUGHSHOD OVER REGINA, 22-0

Powerful Plunging by Mather and Placement Kicking by McCance

Winnipeg, Oct. 13 —(CP)— Sparked by the powerful plunging of Frank (Meatball) Mathers and the dead-eye placement kicking of Ches McCance, Winnipeg Blue Bombers rode roughshod over Regina Roughriders here Friday night to chalk up a 22-0 victory.

Mathers, playing his last game for Bombers before leaving for Ottawa to play hockey, smashed through the Regina line for long gains time after time during the first half.

Early in the first quarter he recovered a fumble by Regina half back Lou Meiers on the 30-yard line and knifed through for Winnipeg's first touchdown after four successive plunges.

McCance's place-kicking gave Blue Bombers six points all told, including three converts and a field goal from the 33-yard-line in the fourth quarter.

A pass from Mathers to McCance in the second quarter and a 30-yard run put Bombers on the Regina 15-yard line. Harry Beckwith then caught a lateral pass on the first bounce and romped over for touchdown No. 2.

Roughriders came close to scoring in the final quarter when Meiers kicked behind the Winnipeg goal line, but Ken Draper managed to run the ball out to the one-yard line.

Bombers kicked on first down and on the next play Danny Somers intercepted a Regina pass, Bam Hansford then tossed a 30-yard pass to McCance who made a beautiful catch.

Somers took over the plunging spotlight and smashed through the line for two first downs before going over for the last Winnipeg major.

Ottawa, Oct. 13—(CP)—Undaunted by the development of atomic energy, Canadian Infantry planners are looking over a new rifle that some day may replace the present general issue lee-enfield .303 weapon.

Designed and produced at the Crown small arms plant at Long Branch, Ont., the new rifle is lighter and more accurate than the weapon now in service.

Canadian arms designers developed the "Longbranch" rifle and tested its almost perfect precision at nearby Connaught Ranges. It hasn't been accepted yet but a prototype is set aside and could be mass-produced if necessary.

"Atomic bomb or no," said an army weapons expert, "we are working on the principle that they'll still need infantry and infantry will need improved rifles."

Gross for heroes: "Beefing" in Canada over meat rationing makes Wing Cmdr. Len Birchall, of St. Catharines, Ont., smile. The man who warned Celyon of the approach of Japanese invaders in 1942 ate grass and roots during his three years in brutal enemy hands.

At a press conference here the other day he told a starvation diet of rice augmented by handfuls of grain and fish stolen while he served in a coolie labor gang and tufts of grass and roots foraged in a prisoner-of-war compound. This was a meagre diet for men subject to continuous beatings and forced labor.

Then came Japanese surrender and Len, with a wistful smile, recalled his first steak. Prisoners broke from the compound and, pooling their slim earnings over a period of years in coolie gangs, they made a farmer sell them a cow. They bore the animal back for slaughter and roasting. "Then we sliced off big steaks—our first in all those long months and boy did they taste good."

Toronto, Oct. 13 (CP)—Calgary, the "shootingest city in the British Empire," is a victim of the housing shortage.

Basement premises where the Calgary Rifle Club's rifle range has been located for several years have been converted to other uses and the club is out on the street.

"Unless a new location—even a temporary one—can be found quickly, Calgary will fade this winter from the hard-earned position of leadership in the shooting world it has won in more than 40 years of competition," says Tom (Calgary Alberta) Moore.

The club which won three Dominion team championships in a not exceptional season last year has been looking four months for a new location without result. President Bill McNab told Moore a new range can be built next year if building restrictions are eased, but meanwhile "it looks as though we will have to close up shop—unless somebody can give us a lead on a suitable spot we can rent."

Cape Breton apparently is making a determined effort to become a hockey power. Gee (Halifax Herald) Ahern, quoting a reliable source, says some Cape Breton club officials are prepared to go "all out" for a high-class team. To that end, they've been in touch with members of Quebec Aces, Canada's best senior team of recent years. Ahern notes the geographical setup on the island is "perfect" for a Canadian championship team because of the ease of transportation.

"Having in mind the tremendous interest in hockey in prewar days, Cape Bretoners realize that now is the time to hunt for good hockey players," adds Ahern.

Vancouver Burrards won the Mann Cup from St. Catharines Athletics but the World Series of lacrosse wasn't without some background bickering. Amid reports the series might gross $25,000, Al (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell passes along word the Burrards will receive only $200 as their share. "It appears that when the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association took the first A, the one that stood for amateur, out of its official title, it was in no way intended as a slur on the players," says Cottrell. "They are not only permitted but encouraged to be amateur until it hurts."

Ottawa, Oct. 13 — (CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley's budget recommendations, made in the Commons last night, include 33 tariff revisions but none was regarded of major importance. The revisions were largely redefinitions to facilitate administration.

In many cases articles were shifted from one tariff item from another sometime involving changes in rates usually due to a new definition.

F. PERKINS EMBARKS ON NEW CAREER

Former U. S. Labor Secretary Becomes Writer, Lecturer, After 12 Years in Cabinet

By ADELALIDE KERR

Washington, Oct. 13 (AP)—Frances Perkins at 63 is embarking on a new career as a writer and university lecturer.

After 12 such stormy years as she weathered in the cabinet, most people would be glad to rest. But less than three months after she resigned as secretary of labor, Miss Perkins sailed for Paris to represent the United States at the convening of the International Labor Organization.

At the same time she began a weekly 500-word colmn to be distributed by the Institute for American Democracy. The Institute was founded two years ago to further unity among the American people.

Miss Perkins' column, called "Working it Out," and dealing with the relation of reconversion problems to unity, will be distributed to the labor press.

"The column will cover anything I think labor will be interested in, including such legislation as comes up," Miss Perkins said just before she sailed. "The labor press is becoming more and more important as a liaison between labor unions and the public."

Soon after her return to the United States Miss Perkins will begin a lecture series on labor relations problems at Radcliffe University. She said that she had also received invitations to lecture at other universities and probably would accept at least one. For the present she will continue to make her home in Washington, where she lives with her husband, Paul C. Wilson, financial statistician.

Miss Perkins gives evidence of embarking on a new life in more ways than one. She has shed her famous three-cornered hat and donner a black beret. Her black frock, once as sober and severe as a judge's robe, is now trimmed with an open-work white collar backed with bright red. Her conversation, always swift as a river, is less measured now and liberally seasoned with smiles and jokes.

Horse Sense Bridge

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

Mrs. Picklepuss gives the laws of bridge a good run for their edicts. If she does not have her way, you may as well get your own washing machine in spite of what the bridge laws say.

But when good players get together, the laws of bridge are strictly followed. No matter whose toes are being stepped on, even the victim insists on adhering to what the laws require.

In a deal, a player picked up this hand:

♥J 6 4 3
♦J 9 5
♣10 6 3

After one swift look, he threw his cards face up on the table with these words: "With this bunch of rags, lucky for me the pack was not cut. Now I can get a new deal." Was he entitled to it?

The law says: Dealer presents the pack to the player on his right, who lifts off a portion and places it toward the dealer. The dealer completes the cut by placing the bottom portion uppermost.

Suppose the pack has been cut by anybody except the player at the right of the dealer. In that case (the laws says), any player may demand a new cut or a new shuffle before the first card is dealt.

Suppose the pack has not been cut by any player and the dealer starts dealing the cards. In that case (the laws say), any player may require a new deal before the last card is dealt.

Notice the difference. If the wrong player cuts, no new deal may be had after the first card is dealt. But if there was no cut, a new deal may be had if demanded before the last card is dealt.

In this case, the players recalled that nobody had cut the cards. So, there was no argument on that point. It was, therefore, only a question as to when a new deal may be asked for.

The laws said it must be requested before the last card is dealt. So, it was too late here. And the exposed hand became penalty cards.

MEAT WORKERS DETERMINED TO ENFORCE DEMANDS

Canadian Packing Plants in West Canada Seized by the Government

By The Canadian Press

Government seizure of Burns and Company meat packing plants in five western cities apparently has not immediately banished the possibility of a meat packing strike.

Despite provision in the order-in-council authorizing the seizure that men failing to perform their duties when the plants are under government control can be fined $20 a day, officials of the United Packinghouse Workers (C.I.O.) in three western cities said plans for the strike were going ahead.

They would be stopped, these officials said, only when an agreement is reached with the packers giving workers their previous demand — no decrease in "take home" pay for a 40-hour week (instead of the previous 48-hour week). This is tantamount to a demand for a 30-per-cent wage increase.

Elsewhere on the strike front, the strike of 10,000 workers from the Ford Motor Company plant at Windsor, Ont., was quietly awaiting a government-management-strikers conference; and the strike of 9,000 western miners against meat rationing showed signs of ending.

Large Vote for Strike

Similar statements came from union representatives at Vancouver and at Prince Albert, Sask., where union employees of Burns and Company Packing Plant voted 261 to six in favor of strike action.

At Vancouver, William Symington, British Columbia representative of the United Packinghouse Workers said the determination of the workers to have their demands met "will not be confused by the government taking over these plants."

"We are definitely going ahead with our plans to take strike votes," he added.

Brighter Outlook

A brighter outlook, however, was presented in Toronto by Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the U.P.W.A. who interviewed Labor Minister Mitchell in Ottawa yesterday. Mr. Dowling said he believed it was possible a strike in the five Western Canada plants of Burns and Company could be averted.

"Mr. Mitchell gave us assurance that the company would meet and negotiate on our demands immediately," he stated.

Labor Minister Mitchell said the government action had been necessary to prevent "the grave consequences which would result from any interruption of meat shipments to Britain and European countries."

He added that the government was ready to take over other plants where a strike is threatening.

Plants seized by the government are in Winnipeg, Prince Albert, Sask., Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver. J. G. Taggart, Meat Board chairman was given control of the Burns Plants by an order-in-council, which became effective at noon yesterday.

Abrogates Powers.

The order-in-council appointing Mr. Taggart abrogates the powers of the company's board of directors in managing and operating the plant and makes it compulsory for employees to continue work.

The order says:

"It shall be the duty of every person in the employ of the company at or in any of the aforesaid establishments of the company to perform the duties of his employment until the authority of the controller is revoked; and every person who fails to perform his duties as aforesaid as herein required without lawful excuse, the onus of proof of which is upon him, is guilty of an offence and liable, upon summary conviction, to a fine of $20 for each day or part of a day on which he fails to so perform his duties."

Strike votes will be held at Canada Packers plant in St. Boniface, Man., on Oct. 17 and at the Swift Canadian plant in Winnipeg on Oct. 18.

Preparations for a strike went men met with company officials to decide who would be permitted to pass through picket lines if the strike went into effect.

Mr. Mitchell said the order-in-council providing for seizure of the plants required that the company and the union shall proceed with negotiations toward a mutually satisfactory settlement. One or more commissioners will be appointed to assist in the negotiations.

Brighter Prospects

Brighter prospects appeared in the two-week-old coal miners strike, however, with the announcement yesterday by Labor Minister Mitchell that there was every indication the 9,000 Western Canada miners would return to work Monday.

Early support for his prediction came from 400 striking miners at Nanaimo, B.C., who last night voted to return to work Monday. The men who went off work as a protest against meat rationing decided at the same time to ask the Prices Board to explore possibilities of obtaining a more equitable distribution of grade "A" red meats.

Some 10,000 Ford Motor Company of Canada workers, members of Local 200 of the United Auto Workers of America (C.I.O.) remained on strike at Windsor, Ont., but the threat that 8,000 other automotive workers would strike in sympathy has not materialized.

Talks aimed at settlement of the month-old strike at the Federal Wire and Cable Company of Guelph, Ont., were scheduled for today. J. Godfrey Smith, president of the company, and C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) will meet in Toronto.

Whether discussions on the possibility of ending the Ford strike could be arranged appeared to hinge on the motor company's answer to an invitation from Labor Minister Mitchell for a meeting with union officials Monday. Up to last night company officers had not made public any reply, despite a union offer to allow high Ford officials to cross picket lines and enter the strike-bound plant.

Primate of Ireland, Cardinal MacRory Dies in Armagh

Armagh, Northern Ireland, Oct. 13 —(CP)— His Eminence Joseph Cardinal MacRory, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of all Ireland, died at 7 a.m. (2 a.m. E.S.T.) today.

The 89-year-old prelate, who recently celebrated his diamond jubilee as a churchman, was a native of Ballygawley, County Tyrone, Ireland. He received his education in church schools of Armagh and Maynooth.

Cardinal MacRory was ordained to the priesthood in 1885. Later he became the first president of Dungannon Academy, taught at Olton College, Birmingham, and at Maynooth. He was named Bishop of Down and Connor in 1915 and was translated to Armagh in 1928. He was created a Cardinal in 1929.

In 1942, when United States troops were landing in Northern Ireland, Cardinal MacRory issued a public statement in which he said he found it "exceedingly hard to be patient" when he thought of "my own corner of the country overrun by British and United States soldiers against the will of my nation."

His Eminence was a contributor to the Catholic University Bulletin of America and other church publications. He was widely known in the Roman Catholic Church for his writings, among them commentaries on the Gospel of St. John and Paul's Epistle to the Corinthians. He was a co-founder of the Irish Theological Quarterly.

He served as a Papal Legate at Melbourne to the National Eucharistic Congress in 1934.

Little Benny's Note Book

Saturday afternoon I was talking and arguing with Puds Simkins and Glasses Magee about what to do next, and Glasses said, How about taking a exter long walk somewheres and back?

Sure, thats a swell idea, I said. Let's walk so far we'll break our own record, I said, and Puds said, How do we know what our own record is?

We'll walk till we get the tiredest we've ever been, and then we'll know we must be breaking our own record, Glasses said, and I said, Let's go.

Which we did, and after about 10 blocks Puds said, Hay, dont forget we've got to walk all a ways back again.

We haven't come to our own record yet, and we've got to come to it before we turn around and start breaking it, Glasses said, and I said, I'm not going to start back till I'm so darn tired I cant hardly move.

Me neither, Glasses said, and Puds said, Aw heck, I'm starting back right now, by the time I walk all a way home it'll be the biggest record I ever broke.

Well, okay, me and Glasses said. Both being glad of a good excuse to start back, and the blocks started to seem about twice as long as what they did the other way, and all of a sudden somebody said, op in, boys, and I'll give you a lift home.

Being Shorty Judge's father stopping his car, and us fellows started to whisper to each other, me whispering, He's trying to do us a favor, there's no use acting ungrateful, and Glasses whispering, Sure, there's no use herting his feelings, and Puds whispering, Come on in, before he drives away insulted.

Well hop in, if the conference is over, Mr. Judge said.

Which we quick did, being one of the most pleasant changes we ever felt, but Puds being the only one that went all a ways to sleep.

CHAPTER 14.

"Listen to me, Elaine."

"What is there to talk about?"

"But you don't understand?"

"Perhaps I don't understand you, Lee," Elaine answered. "I only know you asked me to marry you. You said you were through with Karen that she ruined you the first time and you wouldn't take another chance with her."

"I'm sorry if I hurt you, Elaine. But I can't help it. She—she's everything in this world to me. Can't you see that?"

"Yes, Lee," she sighed. "But why did you have to use me—to hurt me?"

His face reddened. "I thought you got what you wanted—a few kisses to remember." His voice was a little sullen.

Elaine slapped his face harshly and stepped into the open elevator. . .

The station was crowded and the echoing voice of the trainmaster bellowed through the high internals of the main lobby. Elaine stood silently by her luggage, waiting for the gates to open. Minnie was folding some magazines for her, and Brann was drawing deeply on a cigar.

"I've got a feeling you won't be doing any more plays for me, Elaine," Brann said quietly.

"I don't know yet, Annie."

"She'll be back," Minnie said. "You'll be back, won't you, Elaine baby?"

It was suddenly harder than she had imagined to cut herself out of the life she had grown used to, to say good bye to people who had become dear friends.

"I'll come back to visit you, Minnie, at Connecticut during my vacations."

"Seven years," Brann said to himself. "Seven years is a long time for a contract to run."

"Why don't you come out, Annie?"

He shrugged. "Broadway is my place. But maybe I will do a picture some day. Lewin keeps after me. The first train—if not sooner, you know," he laughed.

The iron gates swung back, and the crowd milled forward. The red cap picked up Elaine's luggage and moved toward the train ramps.

Once on the train she felt better. It had been a tearful few minutes saying good bye to the Branns. It was when she started through the aisle to her compartment that she bumped into John Warren.

She looked at him, startled. "Hello, what are you doing here?"

"I guess we're both heading for the same haven, Miss Grayson," he said. He was still the same well-tailored, straight-shouldered John Warren. His eyes seemed a little sadder, but his face still had the fresh, massaged look. Somehow, Elaine didn't like it.

"Are you going to Hollywood, too?"

"Yes," he smiled. "My only writer folded up on me and my leading lady walked out. I managed to work an associate producer's job at one of the studios."

"Well," Elaine said, "I will be seeing you out there."

"Yes," Warren nodded, moving off in the opposite direction. "You probably will."

Elaine watched him walk out of the car. She felt sorry for him. He had trusted people, too.

It was different this time, Elaine discovered. When they have you on a picture-by-picture contract, they keep you busy. When it's on a long-term basis, you suddenly find yourself feeling very foolish to show up at your office bright and early, sort your mail, then wait for an hour for someone in the production offices to call you and tell you you're on assignment.

You busy yourself for awhile on an original screen story, but after a few weeks when there has been no reply on the synopsis book you sent to the production department, you soon grow tired of it.

You keep calling the head of the story department to let him know you're still around and patiently waiting for some work, and he laughs and tells you about a good horse running at Santa Anita.

You fill up part of the day by dropping into sets where they're shooting and you watch them, picking up a few ideas here and there. You soon get in the habit of going over to the commissary for cokes in the middle of the afternoon, because that's where everybody else is about that time of the day.

You know you're important because you've got a seven-year contract that pays you a lot of money. But you're doing absolutely nothing to earn it. This worries you and you call up people you know to find out about it.

Sam B. Lewin sort of pats you on the shoulder and gives you a good thing running in the fifth race at Santa Anita and goes back to staring solemnly at somebody's script. Ellison, the man whose office is next to yours, laughs and asks you for a date that night.

Paul Mason, the man you think about a lot at night and a lot during the daytime, seems rather curt and abrupt with you and tells you to drop in and see him some time and he'll explain Hollywood to you. This means he's still hurt about the incident between you and Lee, so you don't bother him.

Finally you get bored and don't bother showing up at your office at all. You take the same attitude everybody else has. When they want you, they'll let you know, and the chances are they'll call you in the middle of the night for a story conference on a picture they want to start shooting two days later.

So you start going out to the races and the beach with some of the studio crowd. You plan a trip to Palm Springs. And you continue to draw a big paycheck.

That, Elaine found out in a few short months, was Hollywood. At least, for her.

It was a calm, cloudless night when she was driving back from Santa Anita with Ellison that she accidentally ran into Paul. They had stopped at one of the numerous drive-in restaurants for malts and Paul's car was parked in the adjoining space.

He leaned out and waved to Elaine. She could see Susie sitting with him and the malt didn't taste good any more.

"Hello," Paul said. "Nice night."

"Beautiful."

"Yeah. Not a cloud in the sky."

"Perfect night."

Ellison chuckled and leaned over, yelling to Paul: "Hey, Mason, what you need is a good script writer."

"I used to think so," Paul said and started his car.

Elaine turned a little and watched him speed off into the night. She wondered if Susie was still waiting for a screen test—or just for Paul.

The morning that followed was foggy and a rainstorm was not too distant. Elaine decided to drive to the studio and pick up any mail that might have been waiting several days for her.

She was surprised to see Paul walk out of Ellison's office when she slipped the key into her office door.

"I've been waiting for you," Paul said. "Don't you ever show up down here?"

"For what? I can read magazines just as well at home." She threw open the door and waved Paul in. It was musty in the office and she shoved a window open. Then she picked up the mail that was in the door slot and dropped it on the desk. Paul was already making himself comfortable in a chair.

It was Summer, 1939, and Grover Whalen was having trouble keeping the New York World Fair from going bankrupt, and people were talking about Johnstown's speed on race tracks and driving to the movies to see Robert Donat in "Goodby Mr. Chips," or Bette Davis in "Dark Victory." The King and Queen of England had eaten hot dogs at a Hyde Park picnic, and "The Grapes of Wrath" was a literary favorite. Judy Garland was singing "Over the Rainbow," and Paul Mason was staring at Elaine with a quiet twinkle in his eyes.

"What's amusing?" Elaine asked.

"Us," Paul answered. "Or maybe just me."

Elaine sat down. "It hasn't been so funny."

"No," Paul said seriously. "It hasn't. I've ben acting like a sullen little boy just because—because . . ."

"Because of something you read in a gossip column," Elaine finished for him.

"What about that, Elaine?"

"What is there about it? I didn't marry him."

"Why?"

"I asked him if he loved me. He didn't answer."

Paul looked down at his hands. "Do you love him?"

"No, I don't think I do, Paul. Maybe there is a little corner of me that still does. I loved him for a long time until we broke up. It isn't easy to stop completely."

Paul stood up, walked aimlessly about the office. "I guess you're right. I suppose this washes me up?"

"That's up to you, isn't it?"

Paul nodded. "Yes. Only I'd like to know how I stand."

Elaine watched him sit on the edge of the desk, idly rolling an unlighted cigaret between his fingers.

"Paul, a girl just can't come out and say that she's madly in love with someone, and that when she sees him with his secretary out on a perfect night she gets green jealousy inside her. Girls just don't say things like that—not even in Hollywood. A man is supposed to sort of know those things."

Paul grinned. "Am I supposed to know those things?"

"You're got the ball, let's see you run with it!"

"Uh—oh—well, how about dinner tonight? And tomorrow night? And the next?"

Elaine nodded, smiling happily. She watched him stuff his hands self-consciously in his pockets, suddenly stare on the floor. "What's the matter?"

He chuckled. "I've been wanting to see you for months and I haven't had the nerve to come around here and get this thing straightened out. I've been afraid I might never get a chance to cash in that raincheck."

"Well?"

"I told myself," Paul continued, "the first time I ever got this settled with you and found out everything was the same, I was going to kiss you like you've never been kissed."

Elaine grinned, lifting her face a little. "Well?"

There was little else that Elaine could do but ask John Warren to join them. They were at the first tee, and Paul was just getting ready to drive his ball down the wide, sweeping fairway that was a bright green under the California sun.

Warren had silently come out of the caddy shop, had watched Elaine send her drive a good distance toward the green. When she walked away from the tee and saw him alone, there was nothing else to do but invite him to play around with her and Paul.

Paul did not seem to mind, in fact was in high spirits most of the round.

Elaine asked Warren while they rested near the seventh hole: "How's the job coming?"

Warren smiled. "Fine. I like it out here. I—I feel that I'm making a fresh start in show business. I hope to learn a lot, maybe handle a picture myself some time."

He looked much younger than Elaine had ever seen him. His face was clearer, tanned. The massaged look was gone. His eyes were no longer strained.

"I understand Brann is coming out here," Warren said, flicking a cigaret away. I've had an idea he would be."

Elaine looked up, turned to Paul. "That's news to me. Is Annie coming out, Paul?"

"I hadn't heard anything about it," Paul said. "Where did you find that out, Warren?"

"Oh, I imagine it's just talk," Warren answered. "But they're saying around American studios that he's coming out to do a picture for them."

Elaine was puzzled. "Surely Annie wouldn't go to any other studio but International."

Warren shrugged. "I imagine it's only gossip."

Deadline Dates For Christmas Mail Announced

Mail which has to travel farther should be mailed earlier!

Such is the warning which is now being given by the postal department to Canadians who will be sending Christmas parcels to members of the armed forces still overseas.

The public is cautioned not to defer mailings until the last moment, as this invariably causes congestion at the post office, and perhaps makes it impossible to provide sufficient cargo space on the last ships leaving in time to secure Christmas Day delivery. "Deadline" dates for overseas Christmas mails are November 10th for continental points and November 15th for the United Kingdom.

The public is reminded that the 11-lb weight limit at the 12c per lb low rate still applies for parcels to overseas Canadian forces. Gift parcels to civilians in Great Britain are limited to five lbs in weight with not more than two lbs of any one articles. Civilian postal rates may be learned by enquiring at the post office.

Saturday Market

Although there was a comparatively large attendance of vendors on the local produce market Saturday purchasers were not present in their customary numbers with result that sales were dragging.

MacIntosh apples were fairly plentiful at 80 cents the six-quart basket, while frost plums were $1.25 per basket and pears the same price. Cooking apples brought 75 and 80 cents the peck.

On the vegetable market potatoes sold at 55 cents the peck with bag lots being quoted at $2.35. Onions were 40 cents the half peck, corn 25 cents the dozen ears, turnips five and ten cents and cauliflower up to 30 cents each. Carrots and beets brought 40 cents the six quart basket.

On the inside market the price of eggs firmed to 2 cents the dozen with mediums fetching 50 cents and pullets 45 cents. Some nice specimens of fowl sold as high as $2.75 for capons with the price ranging from 43 to 45 cents the pound. Mature fowl was to be had at a slightly lower figure.

Young pigs were held at from $8 to $9 each.

Queen Elizabeth To Go On Canadian Repat Service

By JOHN DAUPHINEE

London, Oct. 13 — (CP Cable) —The giant British liner Queen Elizabeth will sail for Canada within 10 days with Canadian troops and will go on regular Canadian repatriation service, it was announced Friday, raising the possibility that by the end of 1945 almost half of the army personnel still in Europe will be home.

Canadian military headquarters made the announcement, and while it was not disclosed how long the 85,000-ton Queen of the North Atlantic will transport Canadians, it was understood she would do so at least until the end of this year. That would provide passage for probably 75,000 troops.

A month ago the overseas strength of the Canadian Army was estimated at 192,000, of whom 20,000 were occupation troops. Most R.C.A.F. and naval personnel are already home. If the Queen Elizabeth made five trips by the year's end, almost half of all army personnel still due to be repatriated presumably would be back in Canada.

Says Dempster Took the "Rap"

Toronto, Oct. 12 —(CP)— E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader, issued a statement today saying that a royal commission report of Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel is "by no means a whitewash" of his charges that the Drew government established a secret political police.

In the report, issued Thursday night, "the main responsibility is pinned on Captain W. J. Osborne-Dempster, who thus 'takes the rap' just as he boasted he would do many months ago," Mr. Jolliffe's 400-word statement added.

The report made it clear that the special branch of the Provincial Police collected reports on opponents of the government and that the material was "improperly supplied to anti-C.C.F. propagandists who were campaigning with the Conservative party and that at least 41 of Dempster's reports reached Attorney-General Blackwell who did nothing to stop it.

"Thus, many of the facts so hotly denied by Messrs. Drew and Blackwell during the election campaign have been established by evidence and confirmed by the commissioner's report. The public can now assess the value of such denials and the trustworthiness of those who made them."

The report did not clear the government "although the commissioner has chosen to accept Premier Drew's denial that he knew anything about the activities of the special branch which were carried on at public expense for 18 months under the Drew administration."

JURY EXCLUDED

Cornwall, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Questions of the admissability of parts of evidence given by Provincial Constable Robert Wennell of Morrisburg, Ont., twice yesterday led to exclusion of the jury at the trial of Clarence Hutt, 33-year-old Williamsburg farmhand, charged with the murder of his uncle, 58-year-old George McFadden, a millhand.

Claims School Can Eliminate Divorce Evil

Los Angeles, Oct. 12 (CP) — America must look to its schools to solve the problem of increasing divorce, says Dr. Paul Popenoe, nationally recognized authority in domestic relations.

Schools can and should provide a thorough education for marriage, he says, but the chief difficulty is that "nobody is willing to take the initiative in finding a place for this education in our school curriculums."

Dr. Popenoe, who founded the American Institute of Family Relations back in 1930, pointed to the mounting divorce rate as an indication of the trend in marital relations.

When demobilization is completed, Dr. Popenoe believes the rate is quite likely to excell that of marriages.

"If states want to reduce divorce," Popenoe advises, "they can do so by adopting an attitude of determined idealism, a belief that family life is so important as to justify a real effort for its success," Dr. Popenoe says.

The schools, Popenoe declares, can inculcate this idealism, and provide education for marriage. Sex education is only a part of the program, but an important one. Pittsburgh's public and parochial schools, he said, provided voluntarily-enrolled classes in sex education, and four years later illegitimate pregnancies had been reduced 50 per cent.

Dr. Popenoe was asked by the Y.M.C.A. to write a booklet for servicemen and their wives on how to make the war strengthen their marriages. More than 400,000 copies were circulated. This cautioning advice broadly sums up the problem.

"If you seek to attain individual happiness at the expense of the marriage, then the marriage will fail, and you will suddenly discover that you have lost your only chance of real and complete happiness.

"If you are willing to sacrifice anything and everything else for the success of the marriage, then it will be a success, and you will discover that you have not had to sacrifice anything of value because, in your marriage, you will have found happiness.

"In attacking any problem, neither husband nor wife can afford to ask: 'What's in it for me?' The question is: 'Will this strengthen our marriage?"

Raising Mink in Backyards Has Pitfalls for Amateurs

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 12 (CP) — Amateur mink farmer William Jones will tell you the trouble with raising mink in your own backyard is that breeding time comes only once a year, and that mama's love for her young frequently is so ravishing she devours them.

Otherwise, the business resembles that of the man who owned the proverbial goose laying golden eggs. Mink being the crowning glory of the fashionable and wealthy lady, Jones avows raising the little weasel-like animals brings a handsome profit of some 400 per cent.

His statistics: It costs $7 to raise a mink on his frugal diet of horsemeat, fish and cereals. The grown beast fetches $35. That is, if the fur is of perfect quality, and therein lies the rub.

Husband, wife, and just casual mink acquaintances love to fight and spoil each other's pelts. They have a hankering, too, for water sports, which also damages the furs. So the keeper must constantly watch lest they engage in either activity.

Moreover, handling the young leaves on them man's scent, and that fills respectable mink mothers with such aversion that they prefer eating their offspring.

Occasionally mink escape, Jones reports, and if the neighbor happens to own chickens, the fowl and the animal's owner are in trouble.

In December, when their fur is thickest, grown mink are killed (by chloroform), skinned, and sent on their way to furriers who require 80 to 120 pelts for one coat.

Mink for breeding purposes cost from $25 to $600, the latter variety destined to produce offspring for fancy mutations and one-of-a-kind coats.

German Popular Song Writer Has Lucrative Offers From U.S.

Berlin, Oct. 12 (AP)—As a one-man tinpan alley for the German Propaganda Ministry, the 34-year-old composer of "Lili Marlene" and "Bombs on London" had his troubles.

For instance:

The song-writer, Norbert Shultze, wrote a song called "Panzers Are Rolling in Africa," which became so popular that Goebbels put in a rush order for two more pieces honoring Rommel, the German military leader in that theatre. The composer quickly whipped out "Forward With Rommel" and another in the same vein.

Then something went wrong in Africa—Rommel started going backwards instead of forward, and the songs never were published.

Later, the composer wrote an opera that was adjudged a smash hit when it opened in Leipzig. Then along came Allied bombers, and the musical scores went up in smoke.

Schultze said in an interview that he joined the Nazi party in 1940, in preference to going into the Wehrmacht because he had four children to think about.

Since that time he had married again—to a singer—and has two more children. He plans to apply for a visa for his family to visit the United States at the first legal opportunity. He says he has been offered, through an American Sergeant, a 10-year contract with a New York musical publisher and an American Lieutenant has promised the second Frau Schultze a singing contract in a leading Manhattan hotel supper room.

The composer has played 30 shows for Russian troops and 42 for Americans. But he's never been invited to perform for British troops who still haven't forgotten "Bombs on England."

Baby Sitters, Inc.

Cleveland, Oct. 12 (CP)—Sitting up with baby has blossomed into an organized business in Cleveland.

Like many another young couple, Harold M. West and his wife have had to forego a party or the movies because they couldn't get anyone to stay with the baby, but West has done something about it.

He's organized "Minute Maid," a baby-sitter service for tied-to-home parents. He put a classified ad in a local paper for girls 18 to 45 for baby-sitting jobs and for parents with babies they want "sat up with."

The response has been so encouraging that West is thinking of expanding his service.

PIERRE LAVAL EXECUTED AS TRAITOR TO FRANCE

Political Leaders Prepare to Replace Ousted Warlords

Japs Holds No Combat Force Either in Fact or in Name

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Oct. 15 — (AP)—Japan slipped quietly and with mingled feelings into military oblivion today as its demobilization was completed on schedule, and for the first time in history these islands held no combat military force, either in fact or in name.

The fighting force of 7,000,000 soldiers and sailors at home and abroad was reduced to nothing and with the exit of the defeated, discredited war lords, Japanese political leaders stepped onto the national stage to put into effect a list of democratic principles prescribed by Allied headquarters.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, one of Emperor Hirohito's close advisers, said in an interview "His Majesty is anxious that revisions be made" in the constitution to bring about the reforms decreed by Allied headquarters.

Konoye, who was boomed as the head of a new political party, added that constitutional revisions under consideration would curb Hirohito's almost unlimited power over his 77,000,000 subjects and give the Diet some supervision over expenditures of the Imperial household. Another figure being mentioned prominently as a prospective party head was General Kazushige Ugaki, 77-year-old Militarist politician.

Permitted to Wear Uniforms

The few officers and men remaining on duty in the Japanese Army will be permitted to wear their uniforms because the war left the country so poor they can get no other clothes. They will lose their military designations and will be known as liaison personnel for demobilization.

Domei agency announced, meanwhile, that an extraordinary five-day session of the Diet had been called to start Nov. 10 to consider future administrative policies.

The Imperial General Staff headquarters, incubator of Japan's Imperialistic schemes since 1878, was dissolved formally yesterday and the general staff was to follow it into oblivion today, all in accordance with the Potsdam Declaration.

The abolition of these two militaristic rookeries came with arrival of the mid-October deadline set by Gen. MacArthur for completion of demobilization of all of Japan's armed forces.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced there was every indication the demobilization would be completed according to schedule, and said the Allied Supreme Commander would broadcast to the world at 8 a. m. tomorrow (6 p.m. today, E.S.T.) on "military phases of the occupation."

One Missing After Collision

Fear Elderly Cattle Buyer Was Murdered

Hamilton, Oct. 15 — (CP) — The disappearance a week ago of 65-year-old Josiah B. Martin of Elmira took on added mystery during the weekend when a body, found last week on the Hamilton-Toronto highway, was identified as that of Martin, a farmer and cattle dealer.

He war last seen late Tuesday afternoon at the Toronto Stockyards. For four days his body went unidentified until his sons become apprehensive over his failure to return home and got in touch with police.

Authorities said identification strengthened their suspicious the Mennonite cattle buyer had been murdered. But they could add nothing conclusive.

Martin's body was found wrapped in a blanket on the edge of the Queen Elizabeth Highway near Oakville. Only a watch and a penknife were on the body but it was known Martin, who left his home on a cattle-buying trip, had as much as $2,000 in cash and cheques with him.

Police sought the automobile in which Martin left home on the theory that somewhere in the car may lie a clue to his strange death. An autopsy showed no external injuries, no signs of violence of foul play.

The stomach and contents were brought to Toronto for analysis today.

A quiet, short man, Martin had been known to Toronto cattle dealers for 25 years. He left his home early last Tuesday and visited his partner, William Schario, in Guelph, where he collected a cheque for $1,000 and set out for Toronto. In Toronto a police check revealed Martin found no cattle he wanted and postponed his purchases for a day. From that time on all efforts at tracing his movements drew a blank.

Japs Used Live War Prisoners As Bayonet Practice Targets

By DUANNE HENNESY

Tokyo, Oct. 15. (AP)—The use by the Japanese of live prisoners of war as bayonet practice targets, while Allied officers were forced to look on, has been fully established, Allied headquarters announced today.

The new record of atrocity was developed by the secret Allied translation and interrogation section of the Allied headquarters which worked through the war interviewing Japanese prisoners and sorting documents seized in battle zones. The secret unit, the existence of which was undisclosed until last week, included Japanese-Americans and worked often while shells were still blasting across contested positions.

One of the worst of the bayonet practice atrocities occurred on Guadalcanal Island in the Southwest Pacific where two Europeans and one Eurasian were used as practice targets while Allied officers were forced to stand in line and watch for 6 1-2 hours. The three were horribly mutilated and tortured by the stabbing, jabbing Nipponese, the announcement said. Prisoners periodically were paraded past the scene so that they could see the death agonies of the trio.

The translated diary of a Japanese officer gave full details of the horrible scene.

Similar instances, in which Chinese prisoners were used as targets, were disclosed by the questioning of Superior Pte. Tokuhashi Nakino, who told A.T.I.S. agents after his capture that during basic training in China his company was provided with live Chinese prisoners on which to practice.

Superior Pte. Saburo Sano told questioners he saw live prisoners used for bayonet practice in China while he was there from March, 1941 to October, 1943.

Chinese reprisal for the acts was swift, Sano reported, adding that when other Japanese commanders learned of the practice his commander was forced to stop it.

"Me ferocious commander was captured by the Chinese guerillas," Sano said. "They cut off his ears, his tongue and his nose. Then they put out his eyes, killing him only by degrees. It put grave fear in other Japanese officers".

TENSION EASES AS 2-MAN CABINET RESCINDS DECREES

Argentine Universities Reopened and Teachers Reinstated; Take Full Control of Army

Buenos Aires, Oct. 15—(AP)— Tension appeared to be easing in Argentina today as a result of measures taken by the new "two-man cabinet" in an effort to restore public confidence and end disorders which preceded Col. Juan Peron's resignation from the government.

One of the first moves made by Gen. Eduardo Avalos and Vice Admiral Vernengo Lima after assuming six of the 11 cabinet posts, was to issue a decree yesterday reopening the universities of La Plata, Buenos Aires and Litoral, which were ordered closed by Peron last month following demonstrations against his regime by students.

At the same time all professors and teachers who had been dismissed for supporting the students were ordered reinstated.

Simultaneously the two new strong men of the cabinet took the following measures:

1. Reinstated federal Judge Rodolfo Marmol of Cordoba who was dismissed Sept. 29 for issuing Habeas Corpus writs to several political prisoners arrested on Peron's orders.
2. Lifted censorship restrictions recently imposed on the Argentine Press.
3. Displayed their control over the country's armed forces by a drastic shakeup of the army command.
4. Ordered police, who have been concentrated in the centre of Buenos Aires, dispersed to other parts of the city.

May Ask Resignations.

There also were unconfirmed reports that Gen. Avalos had asked all 14 provincial interventors, who were appointed by Peron, for their resignations. The interventors hold the authority of governors.

All actions taken by Gen. Avalos and Admiral Lima were approved by President Farrell, whose resignation is being held by the two officers for use if they deem advisable.

A high military source said Generals Alberto Guglielmone and Alfredo Escobar, leaders of a group which has been insisting that Farrell resign and turn the government over to the supreme court, had been confined to quarters.

Three high-ranking army officers, all close associates of Peron, meanwhile followed his lead in resigning their commissions.

They were Col. Filomeno Velazco, former chief of the Federal Police; Brig.-Gen. Bartolome Dela Colina, former executive secretary of Aeronautics, and Lt.-Col. Domingo Mercante, former executive director general in the ministry of Labor and Social Welfare.

POLICE HUNT FOR 'POLKA DOT' GANG OF SAFE CRACKERS

Wanted for $1,200 Job in Stratford and Believed to Have Stolen $1,000 at Parkhill

London, Ont., Oct. 15 —(CP)— Police watched the highways and byways of Western Ontario today for any trace of the machine-gun toting "Polka Dot Gang," wanted for a $1,200 safe-cracking in Stratford and believed to have stolen $1,000 in a safe-cracking at Parkhill.

The two major safe robberies in 24 hours in the London district brought all police authorities in the area to the alert though there was nothing more than surmise to connect the "Polka Dot Gang" with the Parkhill robbery early Sunday.

Police said the work was that of skilled safe-crackers and the "Polka Dotters" showed they are all of that when they carried out the theft of $1,200 from the Swift Canadian Company's plant at Stratford in the early morning hours of Saturday.

The gang is also wanted for several Toronto robberies.

There were no witnesses to the Parkhill robbery.

But at Stratford the five-man gang, operating under a dapperly-dressed leader who masked his face with a red polka dot handkerchief or scarf, held a night watchman, a char woman and two boys prisoners for an hour and a half while they cracked open the safe.

Gave Orders Clearly.

The leader of the gang carried a machine-gun, gave his orders with the clear-cut precision of a drill sergeant, while his men all wore masks and carried revolvers.

I guess I expected a hold-up to be something like a wild west show but those guys were quiet and methodical," said the night watchman, Joe Miller. "They were well drilled like soldiers. The "boss" walked around with his machine-gun and gave orders in a sort of cold, quiet voice.

In practically all the hold-ups the gang has followed what appears to be its regular technique. The men, all wearing red polka-dot handkerchiefs, surprise a night watchman, tie him and any other employees with rope, beating them if they show any resistance, and then hold them under armed guard while one or two members of the gang either force open a safe or vault or carry off the strongbox to be opened elsewhere.

TEN FATALITIES REPORTED

(By The Canadian Press.)

Ten fatalities were reported in Eastern Canada during the weekend. Traffic accidents took six lives, one man drowned, a youth was killed by a falling tree, a man was crushed under a rock, and a Toronto resident succumbed to injuries police said he received when he was stabbed.

In addition, three persons are missing and an unidentified body has been found in Montreal.

CONSTABLE SAYS HUTT CONFESSED KILLING McFADDEN

Testifies Confession Made Day Previous to Finding Dead Man's Body

Cornwall, Oct. 15 — (CP) — Provincial Constable Robert Wannell of Morrisburg today told a court trying Clarence Hutt for murder that Hutt had confessed the killing of George McFadden of Cardinal, Ont., on Aug. 14, 1943.

Admissibility of Constable Wannell's testimony was disputed by defence counsel but Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier ruled the statement could be admitted as evidence.

Constable Wannell said the confession was made last March 22, the day previous to the recovery of McFadden's body in a back woods grave near Williamsburg, Ont. At the time, Hutt was completing a jail sentence at Brockville on a forgery charge arising out of the sale of McFadden's car.

"We had been drinking and I hit him on the head with a flashlight and then struck him with my fist," Hutt declared in a statement made to police which was introduced by the Crown today.

"He was dead when I returned," the statement continued. Provincial Constable Thomas Keiller, of Brockville, said he was present at the jail when Hutt made a clean breast of the crime. Witness said he had warned accused he was under suspicion concerning his uncle's mysterious disappearance.

Constable Wannell said Hutt had been given the customary police warning before making his statement in which accused said he and McFadden had driven north from Cardinal on the afternoon of August 14, 1943.

"I got out of the car," the confession said. "We had been drinking beer and wine. I then got back into the car and hit him with a flashlight that was on the back of the seat. We kind of scrambled around and we got out of the car. Then I hit him with my fist and he fell down and I left him there."

In answer to a question by Constable Wannell, Hutt is said to have disclosed he took McFadden's watch and, some time later, sold the dead man's automobile. In his statement, Hutt said "he wasn't too well that spring" and had been "drinking and running around with women."

LIEUT. GOVERNOR WILLING TO MEET INDONESIA REBELS

Efforts Made to Quell Uprisings Which Imperil One of World's Richest Colonies

Batavia, Java, Oct. 15—(AP)— Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, Lieutenant Governor of the Dutch East Indies, acted today to quell uprisings which imperilled one of the richest colonial empires in the world and offered to negotiate a truce with Indonesian rebel leaders on Java.

Aneta, official Dutch news agency, quoted Dr. Van Mook as stating he was willing to meet leaders of all groups in Indonesia, including Soekarno, self-styled president of the "Indonesian republic."

(In a dispatch from the Hague, Aneta said that A. W. L. Tjarda Van Starkenborgh Stachouwer had resigned as Govenor General because he was "unable to be the bearer of the government policy" in the Indies. He arrived in the Hague early last month after being liberated from a Japanese prison camp.

(Previously, the government has refused to negotiate with Soekarno who was accused of being an "opportunistic Japanese puppet."

(It was not clear immediately whether Governor General Van Starkenborgh Stachouwer was in disagreement with the old government policy or a new government policy of negotiation with the insurrectionists.

(Premier Schermerhorn was expected to make a statement tomorrow.

(A Reuters dispatch quoting Batavia reports said 50,000 Dutch women and children had been "surrounded by wildly excited Indonesians and cut off from Allied forces." The dispatch added that the women and children "are being held virtually as hostages" and that the natives "are said to be inspired by the Japanese."

(An authoritative source in London said the British government had agreed to "make ships available" to rush Dutch troops from Europe to Java.)

New outbreaks were reported from the interior of Java, as armed rebel bands closed upon this city. Acting to maintain order, British Maj.-Gen. D. C. Hawthorn, Allied commander, invoked a death penalty in Batavia for looting, sabotage, the bearing of arms, or refusal to surrender arms.

Aneta said Dr. Van Mook told a Press Conference that Holland would keep a 1942 pledge to give the Indies freedom in internal affairs within the Dutch Commonwealth.

"There are to be no more 'first class' or 'second class' citizens, the agency quoted him as saying. "As soon as order is restored and the existence of war victims, who went through so much, is no longer threatened, I am prepared to discuss details of our plans for the future in the most liberal way."

(The Netherlands home radio quoted him as saying "we Dutchmen have learned that all which has been left to the old Dutch colonial system has to disap-

Fails to Cheat Firing Squad by Swallowing Poison

Volley Did Not Kill Him, Officer Shoots Him in Head

By MEL MOST

Paris, Oct. 15 — (AP)—Pierre Laval was executed as a traitor to France today after failing to cheat the firing squad by swallowing poison.

The man who collaborated with the Germans as chief of government in old Marshal Petain's Vichy regime died from a coup de grace, fired through his ear, when a volley from the firing squad did not kill him.

Doctors restored the swarthy traitor from effects of poison taken four hours earlier. He was led to the courtyard of the bleak old Fresnes prison and died with a cry of "Vive La France" on his lips.

He was refused a final request to give the order for his own death to the execution squad.

Laval refused a proferred blindfold and faced his executioners.

These were his last words:

"It is not the soldiers' fault. They know not what they do. Vive La France!"

The 12 riflemen fired.

Laval fell only to his knees.

An officer rushed up immediately, aimed his revolver into Laval's ear and fired. The coup de grace dispatched Laval at 12:32 p. m. and he fell dead into the dirt of the courtyard.

The man who before the war had thrice been premier of France and a dozen times a member of her cabinets was condemned by the High Court of Justice last week — the same court which condemned former Marshal Petain and Joseph Darnand, the head of the Vichy Militia.

Extensive Search For Child Continues

Campbellford, Oct. 15 (CP) — In response to Mayor Frank Long's broadcast Saturday for volunteers to assist in the search for five-year-old Barbara Radford, missing since Oct. 4, hundreds of citizens along with provincial and local police, canal men, mill workers and hydro employees gathered at the cenotaph early Sunday afternoon all ready to do their part.

The men were divided into groups and assigned to motorboats and smaller craft. The routes were mapped out by an experienced riverman, Walter Lowe, a veteran of The First Great War. Shore lines of all islands south of the town were combed and racks of various powerhouses again cleared but no trace was found of the missing child.

A seaplane from Trenton airport also made a complete survey of the Trent River but the crew had nothing to report. The search will continue again today, numbers of duck hunters having offered their services.

Only Victims of Flooded Underground Subway in Heart of Berlin Were Nazis

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Oct. 15 (AP)—You can take an underground boat ride in the heart of Berlin but it probably would be the most gruesome experience of your life, for the stream—in a flooded subway—is a river of death.

Your craft of this styx is a 30-foot light metal pontoon, and the poles that serve as oars, when they churn the murky waters, provoke a fearful stench and occasionally bring to the surface a decomposed human body. It's the stuff of which night mares are made.

In one of the most bizarre episodes of the battle of Berlin, S.S. fanatics flooded a three-mile section of the subway system with canal waters to prevent the Russians from making an underground dash toward the centre of the city. It was a vain measure because the Russians progressed quickly enough on the surface and the only victims of the flooding were Germans.

Now most of the subway has been drained and at its deepest point the water is shallow enough so most bodies have been removed or located. It was believed three months ago that many hundreds of civilians might have drowned in the flooding, but so far fewer than 40 bodies have been removed and it is doubtful that a great many more will be found. Many of the victims were wounded soldiers.

We found two bodies—one in the water and the other an unforgettable sight—it was the body of a woman who had climbed the wall to the conduit, near the ceiling, trying to escape drowning.

As the waters receded her body still hung there dried and dummylike.

WOMAN RESCUED FROM MOIRA RIVER

Noticing the body of a woman floating in the Moira River beneath the lower city bridge on Saturday, Roscoe Sagar, 45 Dundas Street plunged into the water and supported the woman, Mrs. Nellie Brant, until help arrived.

Calls for assistance were sent out to the Belleville police and Fire Departments with the latter arriving on the scene shortly after with ladders and other equipment.

Fire Department officials applied first aid and restored the woman to consciousness and she was later turned over to Dr. G. S. Cronk who ordered her to hospital, where her condition today was said to be good.

DRIVES AWAY WITHOUT PAYING FOR GASOLINE

The tanned good-looking youngster drove up to the Goodrich Oil Company service station on Saturday morning and ordered gasoline to the value of $4.

The attendant complied and returned to the station to secure the necessary facilities for cleaning the windshield and other courtesies being shown motorists.

But when he returned, he saw the rear end of the car rapidly receding from view. He noticed the car bore a Quebec license beginning with "133" but that was all he saw. "The young man," he said, "wore a leather windbreaker."

POLICE REQUESTED TO LOOK FOR CAR

Police were requested today by Hamilton authorities to be on the lookout for a 1937 Chevrolet sedan dark blue color bearing the license plate 408-P-3.

The occupants are believed, Hamilton police stated, to have been connected with the finding of the body of a man believed to have been murdered, and found on the Queen Elizabeth Highway, near Oakville on Oct. 9. Anyone seeing the car is to get in touch with local authorities immediately.

FORMER I.T.S. OFFICERS HOLD REUNION AT COUNTRY CLUB

About thirty former officers of the Initial Training School that was established at the School for the Deaf during the war, met at the Country Club on Saturday evening to form an association. The meeting took the form of a reunion and the meeting which followed was presided over by Group Captain A. J. Snetsinger, the last Commanding Officer of the school before it was closed. A great number of officers who served as instructors and administrators are overseas at the present time but the school kept in touch with these officers by letter, which contained news and activities of the school. The meeting on Saturday was a forerunner of reunions, which will be held annually. A social night was spent in reminiscing over three years of army life at the school.

McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE

Don't Forget to Have Relief Clothing Ready for Collection

With Wednesday, Oct. 17th., the day for the collection of clothing and footwear for the peoples of devastated European countries rapidly approaching, officials of the Belleville Committee again urge residents of the city to make ready their donations and have them ready for the pick-up in the afternoon.

Clothing of all types and descriptions whether for man, woman or child, will be gratefully accepted by the committee for shipment to war-stricken people whose need for warm habiliments is extreme.

The shipments of clothing, officials stated today, will be forwarded to the battle-scarred people of Holland, Belgium, Greece and Yugoslavia, countries which felt to the utmost the heel of the invader.

Another welcome addition to the donation of clothing, sweaters, coats, etc., is footwear. Shoes and boots, in fact any kind of foot covering is something practically unknown to these peoples over whom winter is already casting its sinister head. Boots in all sorts of repair are doubly welcome, so when you are packing that clothing bale, and you have one or more pairs of old shoes, remember they too, will be appreciated by the victims of war.

As had been mentioned before the collection will take place on Wednesday, October 17th., some time after the noon hour. Residents are requested to parcel their donations and bind them well.

As the collection will be of a city-wide nature and must be completed on Wednesday afternoon, the committee requests all who have trucks or can donate their personal services to the collection of the clothing to get in touch with them or Mr. J. V. White, 156 Bridge Street East.

Remember, all types of clothing and footwear will be welcome. Bale them well and have them ready for collection on Wednesday afternoon next.

Modern Christianity too Complacent States Professor McCracken At V. A. Baptist Church Anniversary

Large congregations of worshippers were in attendance at Victoria Avenue Baptist Church on Sunday to hear Professor R. J. McCracken, M.A., B.D., of McMaster University, and President of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, who was guest preacher on the occasion of the church's seventy-second anniversary.

In his morning sermon Professor McCracken made a forthright arraignment of modern Christianity, which he typified as the comfortable, armchair, strolling-along-with-your-hands-in-your-pockets sort of Christianity.

"It is so easy these days to become a member of the average church," stated the preacher. "Show the slightest interest and the minister is on your doorstep, offering you a comfortable pew. But Christianity is no hobby," he asserted, "to be taken up for an hour or two and then laid aside when other activities come along. People have taken the crosses out of their churches and put in cushions instead.

Losing Vital Force.

"Twentieth century Christianity, to use a slang expression, has very little kick in it. There is not enough danger in it, nor is it a vital force in national or international life. Evils like the drink industry flourish right under its eyes. It is far from a strenuous enterprise, and yet that was the general condition of all first Christians.

"In the first century it meant something to be a Christian. No one ever thought of it being anything but hardship and tribulation. It was a religion for heroes. It set them hard tasks. It matched them over against superior odds. But the first Christians were persuaded that it was something to live for and something to fight for and something to lay down their lives for. It had a creed for heroes. It had a magnetic attraction for heroic souls. The church should never have departed from that.

Severe in Demands.

"No one can possibly say that Jesus got His disciples under false pretenses. He told them frankly what they were in for if they followed Him. Jesus looked men square in the eyes and asked them if they were able to meet His conditions. He was severe in His demands as to morals. He told them the Ten Commandments were broken in thought before the act. He looked straight through to the heart."

Professor McCracken pointed out that it is the nature of the appeal that decides the type of followers you will have. Men can be bribed or they can be challenged. "If you win people by bribing them you get lip service and when the storm breaks they falter and desert. Challenge, on the other hand, and you will have followers that value love and duty, who will stick through thick and thin.

"Some won't accept Jesus because they say they don't understand Him. Others won't accept Him because they understand Him too well. They know the severity of His terms and are not willing to meet them.

"Thousands of people picture Jesus as an amiable person, going about doing good. Of course, He did go about healing the sick in body and mind, restoring sight to the blind and speech to the dumb. On the other hand, He went about giving dire offences, first to His own family, then to the Scribes and Pharisees and the vested interests, until at last He was seized by those in authority and hanged on a cross.

Prof. R. J. McCracken, M.A., B.D.

Was Austere Man.

"He Himself said that He had come to cast fire on the earth, that He had come, not to bring peace, but a sword. He was a disturbing influence. You may ask, what was there about Jesus to give offence? His stern rebukes against the wickedness and hypocrisy of His day. We have lost the note that Jesus was an austere man.

"Christ never made it easy for a man to be a follower. We have no right to expect an easy way in following Jesus. It is not that He doesn't want converts but He wants dependable, expendable converts.

"When the church becomes militant again, when it costs something to be a Christian and people are prepared to give more than an hour a week to the church, the church will once again become an attraction for heroic souls. A fighting church is a triumphant church."

Is outstanding Preacher.

The guest preacher was introduced by the pastor, Rev. H. O. Eastman, who stated that Prof. McCracken was fast being recognized as one of the outstanding preachers of the continent and much loved, not only by Baptists, but by all denominations with which he comes into contact. Prof. McCracken spoke to the Sunday School in the afternoon and also delivered a stirring evangelistic message at the evening service.

Special music was pleasingly furnished by the choir under the direction of Mr. Fred Jobson. Mr. Dorland Houston presided at the organ console. The morning anthem was "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," with solo parts being sung by Mr. Fred Pue and Miss Muriel Jobson. The anthem sung at the evening service was "How Manifold Are Thy Works." The church auditorium was suitably decorated with ferns and flowers.

Former dairy instructor in the Arnprior district Mr. Harold Cunningham, has been named as dairy produce grader in the Belleville area replacing Mr. James L. Irwin who has retired. As successor to Mr. Irwin, Mr. Cunningham assumed his new duties as of October 2nd.

Born in Ameliasburg district of Prince Edward county, Mr. Cunningham learned to be a cheese maker there. A vacancy turned up in Kemptville however, and he filled that position until Mr. Irwin's retirement the last of September. Mr. Cunningham will now assume full charge of the Belleville district grading which also includes grading at Peterborough, Lindsay, Campbellford and Kingston.

Mr. Irwin has been dairy produce grader at Belleville for 23 years, asuming that office in 1923 with the institution of government grading of cheese. A former cheese maker, Mr. Irwin was appointed as dairy instructor for the Bancroft district in 1903 and later instructed in Prince Edward county.

Supply of Nut Coal Depends On Future Supply

Recent reports in the metropolitan press regarding the amounts of coal which can be delivered to the householder are causing no small amount of inconvenience to local dealers, it was learned today.

According to the press reports, it was stated that householders could obtain 75 per cent nut coal and 25 per cent other grade for furnace and other domestic uses.

One dealer stated today that people have been demanding this ratio in view of the printed statements, but delivery of such amounts has been impossible due to the fact that deliveries in such ratios have not been forthcoming to dealers. Only 50 per cent of nut coal can be delivered.

It was further revealed that the reports were later cancelled, but the majority of the coal-using public apparently did not know or was not aware of the cancellation.

Fuel for industrial purposes in most cases has been delivered in such quantities, but the supply of domestic coal such as nut and other kinds prohibits any such deliveries.

Asked as to prospects for the coming winter, the dealer declared in short, "The public must take what we get delivered to our yards. At present the situation looks like a repetition of last winter".

Injured Player Honored by Team

Players of Roblin Dairy ball team gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Kimmett, 100 Chatham Street, Saturday for a social evening and to present Lorne Maracle, of Shannonville, with a purse of money — he had the misfortune to meet with an accident while playing ball earlier in the season, with the dairy team. The evening was spent in playing cards and around eleven o'clock, Lorne was asked to take a chair, while a short address was read by Clare Smith and the purse was presented by James Semark.

Badly Wounded Veteran Displays Invincible Spirit

An outstanding example of the moral courage which matches that of the physical kind shown on the bloody battlefields of Europe is seen in the cases of Canadian war veterans who are fighting a different kind of warfare in the military hospitals of the nation.

Take the case of Pte. Richard Smith, of West Moira Street.

Severely wounded in the leg and chest while serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in front of the Gothic Line in Italy, he came home with a lung punctured by shrapnel, and a leg amputated. For months he was on the dangerous list.

But that is past and gone. Today he is the proud wearer of an artifical limb and one of his proudest moments was his demonstration of walking with it before the family.

He is gaining his general health back to the extent that he is beginning to think about a job, something that cannot be realized for some time yet.

His morale is high. Still a patient in a Toronto hospital, the young veteran grins at what other people call his "disability."

Sorry? Not a bit of it. "If I had to do it all over again, I wouldn't hesitate," he says.

Such is the spirit of the men, who are proving their invincibility in the battle for rehabilitation just as effectively as they did in the physical struggle for civilization.

District Branch Police Association Formed in City

A district branch of the Ontario Police Association was formed in the city over the weekend. The new organization will be known as the Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington Police Officers' Association.

Sergeant Douglas Ellis, of the Belleville Police Force was elected the first president of the association which attracted upwards of 42 police officils and constables of the surrounding district.

Other officers are: 1st. Vice-president, Police Constable Geo. Crawford, Trenton; second vice-president, Chief Noel Langton, Deseronto; secretary-treasurer, Police Constable G. Brown, Trenton. The executive Committee is comprised of Chief W. D. Lavender, Marmora; Chief C. Burkitt, Madoc; Chief G. Spratt, Tweed; Chief G. P. Wells, Bancroft district; Constable F. Culhane, C.N.R. and Constable A. Cooper, C.P.R.

Pointing out the aims and objects of the association in brief addresses were Detective John Cavanagh, Scarborough; Inspector Arthur Webster, Forest Hill Village and Mr. Cecil Crawford, legal adviser to the parent body.

While the association, it was pointed out is subject to the provisions of any statute, either provincial or Dominion, and the regulations from time to time in force relating to labor relations matters, and can bargain collectively and act as a collective bargaining agency, it is not, in a literal sense of the word a labor union, nor is it connected with any labor union in the country.

Objects of Profession.

Chief among its objects and purposes is to unite fraternally and to promote the mutual interests of the members; to uphold the honor of the police profession; to elevate the standards of police services; to encourage a cordial and co-operative intercourse among police officers in the province and to provide financial assistance in accordance with the by-laws of the corporation.

Another object is to establish, maintain, conduct and operate recreational and educational facilities and accommodations, housing, etc., and any other activities deemed to be of advantage to the members, also to encourage and promote co-operative enterprises, and security, credit, pension and insurance plans and arrangements, and to enter into any arrangements with any authorities, municipal or otherwise that may seem conducive to the associations' objects.

Members of the Ontario Provincial Police were present at the meeting and it was pointed out that they are eligible to join the association, but for the time being would not be permitted to hold office.

The Association is a chartered body and is recognized by the Attorney-General's Department. The local branch will hold regular monthly meetings.

(By Rear Admiral R. K. Dickson, Chief of Naval Information, Royal Navy, in London Calling)

I remember once hearing the late Lord Craigavon, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, talk about the British Government system. He said: "I would like to make a law that no politician could reach Cabinet rank unless he had served a turn in the Admiralty. I asked him why, and he replied: "Because at the Admiralty in peacetime you can get an immediate decision, day or night. Besides, it is the matiest of all Government departments. It is like a ship," he said, "all sorts of people rub along happily together."

I think that is true. Certainly in wartime there is no doubt about the quick decisions. Do you remember that day in February, 1940, when the whole world was thrilled by the story of the Altmark? Well, this is what happened:

The Fleet Auxiliary Altmark was slipping down the Norwegian coast on her way to Germany. She was inside territorial waters, but we had every reason to believe that she was carrying 400 British merchant seamen battened under hatches—victims of the pocket battleship Graf Spee in the South Atlantic. Our destroyers were at sea, and the man on the spot was Captain (now Vice-Admiral Sir Philip) Vian, in the Cossack. He had the situation well in hand, until suddenly the Altmark entered Josing Fjord with the British destroyers glaring at her on one side and the Norwegian men-of-war on the other.

It was apparent to the Admiralty that a situation had arisen which no naval officer could be expected to handle. It needed the immediate intervention of a Minister, ready to take any responsibility, because the landslide of the nations of Europe had not then begun, and the significance of Norwegian neutrality could only be fully appreciated in London.

At 5 o'clock, the First Lord, Mr. Churchill came down to the War Room, and dictated a signal to Vian to the effect that he was to get those prisoners at all costs. "Get that ciphered up," he said, "and be quick about it! I have told the Secretary of State that those orders are going at a quarter to six unless we hear to the contrary."

He walked up and down, chewing his cigar, and we all waited. At 5.20 he suddenly turned to me—I was the Duty Captain on watch that afternoon—and said, "I can't wait. Get me Lord Halifax." I got him the Foreign Secretary in a few moments, and he sat down with the telephone in the little green armchair which used to stand alongside the Duty Captain's desk. He talked to the Foreign Secretary for about a minute. Then he rang for the Duty Signal Officer and said: "Add this to the signal: "Suggest to the Norwegian destroyers that honor is served by submitting to superior force." Now get that off at once," he said, and he lounged off upstairs to carry on with his papers. But at the door of the War Room he stopped, and said to all of us: "That was big of Halifax." The signal was made a few minutes later, and so the Cossack went into the Fiord.

That story was the start of Vian's great career at sea in this war, but I have always thought of it also as a personal triumph for the man who became Prime Minister three months later, when Mr. Alexander relieved him as First Lord. The landslide of the nations had then, indeed, begun, and the Admiralty now settled down for five years to bear a strain such as it had never known in all its long history.

I commanded a ship for two years in the middle of the war, but otherwise I served the whole of it in the Admiralty, and it has always struck me as curious that even the Navy itself knows so little about what we do there. Until I was a Commander, I had hardly ever been inside the place—or wanted to, because I always thought of it as something even more mysterious and dreadful than the headmaster's study at my prep school.

The Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty are the governing body of the Navy, which exists by virtue of the Royal Prerogative. Actually, the Admiralty is still the office of the Lord High Admiral; but although his office has not been functioning for centuries, his red flag with the yellow anchor still flies over the Admiralty building; and it is never hauled down.

The Board consists of the First Lord who is a Cabinet Minister; the several Sea Lords, who are Admirals; two or more junior Ministers and the Secretary of the Admiralty; and, in wartime, a Controller of Merchant Shipbuilding and Repairs. That has been so, more or less, ever since that delightful person, Mr. Samuel Pepys, reorganized the Navy in the time of Charles II.

Each member of the Board superintends a share of Admiralty business delegated to him by the First Lord, but personal responsibility for operations of war falls on the shoulders of the First Sea Lord, now Admiral of the Fleet, Sir Andrew Cunningham, because as First Sea Lord he is also the Chief Naval Adviser to the Government.

It sounds pretty complicated, but we have had a good many wars to test the working of the system. It depends for its success on the blending of political and naval considerations, and on the smooth working of the Civil Service machine. Mr. Alexander, the present First Lord, is the only man except one who has ever held that great office three times. But he would be the first to admit that he must look to his professional advisers, and they in turn trust him to support them in Parliament.

There was a good example of that in March, 1943. The late Admiral of the Fleet, Sir Dudley Pound, had been severely criticized in certain quarter; but Mr. Alexander stood up in the House of Commons and roundly said: "Thank God for the First Sea Lord. He has pulled us through a situation without precedent in the country's history."

I have seen many famous actions at sea, both in the last and in the First World War, when history was being made before one's eyes and one was conscious of it. But sometimes I feel that the greatest scenes in the drama of the British Empire are not those played in the face of the enemy. Often the stage is a small room in Whitehall, and there is no audience except a few people who are there to help the big men in some small way.

I have been in that audience more than once, and I shall not forget it. You do not need a vivid sense of the theatre to realize what is at stake when you watch a handful of men get together — sometimes in dressing gowns in the middle of the night—to share a crushing responsibility and, perhaps, to take decisions on which you know the fate of millions will hang.

I remember, especially, the night on which the Belgians surrendered when the inevitable vision of Dunkirk came to the Naval Staff at three in the morning in the First Sea Lord's room. And when we stood in front of the great maps in the War Room on the night of July 9, 1943—the night of the invasion of Sicily. In the early part of that night the weather reports from the Mediterranean got worse and worse; but by then we were committed to that operation, with great forces at sea and thousands of soldiers crammed into landing craft. The whole future of the war was at stake.

The Allied Nations could not afford a disaster, and the decision whether to go on or draw back lay with General Eisenhower's naval Commander-in-Chief, Sir Andrew Cunningham. There was nothing the Admiralty could do about it in spite of their great anxiety. But the fine seamanship of the young British and American officers carried us through; and then, as we watched from a thousand miles away, the Hand of Providence stretched out and the wind died away.

The Admiralty had its fair share of bombs. Three direct hits on the night of April 16, 1941, damaged the lovely old Board Room, and they cut a great slice out of the south front facing the Horse Guards Parade. The most serious consequence was the interruption of communications by the flooding of the basement. But that was the last time we suffered badly. Soon afterwards there arose at the corner of the Mall and St. James's Park an extraordinary object like a mud fort. It is a wonderful place inside, and for the last four years it has been the very heart of the Navies of the Empire.

What you see from the Mall is just a huge lump of concrete; but, underneath it, air-conditioned and lit by daylight lamps, there is accommodation for the Board and for everyone who would be needed for the worldwide control of our fleets under continuous air attack on London.

It could stand a siege. If you went down there at this moment you would find eighty girls working teleprinters to all the naval headquarters in Britain and the Continent. You would see the Admiralty private telephone exchange, and you would find naval ratings manning fifteen or twenty lines of direct high-speed transmission to naval wireless stations all over the world. There is a section dealing with what are called Concession Telegrams — by which naval officers and men abroad can communicate with their friends by naval wireless.

The complexity of modern warfare is a thing few people understand, and nowhere is it more truly reflected than in our naval communication system. That citadel is just a maze of machinery and conveyer belts. In one week last year, in secret messages alone, the Admiralty handled more than 1,300,000 groups of naval cipher.

Atom-Bomb Invention Turns Navy Concept Upside Down

By Capt. Frederick L. Oliver

(United States Navy Retired Naval Correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor)

How will the atomic bomb eventually alter all present concepts of warfare on shore, on sea, and in the air?

At the moment, it admittedly is an explosive that is far from being completely perfected. Yet its possibilities are clearly so appalling that its effect on future wars border on being fantastic.

Political and social factors have partly dictated the decision of the United States to restrict information concerning the details of construction, preparation for use, and alternative methods of using atomic bombs. Although it generally is agreed there can be no lasting monopoly of the secret of atomic energy now possessed by the United States and selected affiliates, there have been both intense opposition to releasing the details and sharp criticism of the secrecy. Yet even the informed technicians are still plunged into a maze of surmises concerning the future of war as we know it today.

Countermeasures of Past

In the past, every radical change in methods of waging war has brought efective countermeasures into use. The sword and spear were countered by the shield, which, in turn, was rendered useless by the arrow. Then came body armor, gunpowder, and subsequently a steady refinement of measures and countermeasures. Now we are confronted with a means of absolutely pulverizing a considerable area with one atomic bomb.

We know what this weapon will do on shore, and if the disintegrations of Hiroshima and Nagasaki are accepted at face value, the strategy as well as the tactics of future war resolves itself into who has the bombs and the means of launching them into critical enemy areas. Just lay waste enemy territory and erase one's enemies! Absurdly simple—if one has the wherewithal. Also a tragic commentary on the progress of human relations.

But will nuclear energy in its present state of development provide the conjectured devastating results?

Chain Reaction

The public knows nothing of the atomic bomb itself. It has been more or less officially admitted that the matter of its critical mass is very important. If exceeded, it may be possible to initiate a chain reaction that will be progressive and possibly get completely out of control.

Rumor provides the bombs that have been used with the size of a grapefruit and a weight of about 25 pounds, also that its detonation results from the mixture of six or more ingredients in some prescribed order. From Japanese sources we were told that the two bombs so far used floated down on parachutes, and we know that they were detonated several thousand feet above the ground.

We do not know how long before use the bomb must be sensitized, but one gathers from the fact that Capt. W. S. Parsons, of the United States Navy, accompanied the two bombs used over Japan as a "weaponeer" that the sensitizing was done immediately prior to release, and was of a nature that required the attention of an officer of high rank.

Furthermore, although the fact has not been dwelt on to any considerable extent, some comment has been made on the spotty and freak effects resulting from the Nagasaki bomb, which was declared by its users to have been a vast improvement on the first one used. It is understood that strongly constructed buildings, in some cases, suffered but little damage.

Coming now to a survey of the possible future effect of the atomic bomb on the navies of the world, and in particular that of the United States, we must, in view of what has already been related, fall back on surmise and deduction.

We must hold that those who are charged with deciding the United States Navy's future have full access to all known nuclear energy data. Granting further the patriotism and freedom from self-interest of these individuals, their decision must carry weight.

Ship Contracts Uncanceled

The end of the war found the United States Navy with a tremendous number of ships in commission and a large number under construction. Despite the advent of the atomic bomb, there was no wholesale cancellation of shipbuilding contracts, and it is planned to maintain in commission a powerful fleet, showing that ships still are considered essential.

The Navy Department, in effect states that the future of atomic warfare is still nebulous, and that the bomb in its present state of development must be delivered by airplane.

The Navy's defence against such attack already is a matter of prideful knowledge and is capable of being bettered. Very probably it was this knowledge that prompted Vice-Admiral John S. McCain, whose carrier planes ranged far and wide over Japan, to state that he was prepared to tackle the atomic bomb with fast carriers and their planes.

A-Bombing of Ships?

For reasons which probably have been well considered, the Navy has not precipitated experimental atomic bombing of surface ships, although Japanese targets ranging from the slightly damaged battleship Nagato on down are available.

Undoubtedly the lesson learned from the fantastically conducted bombing experiments on naval vessels in the early 1920's has not been forgotten, and when atomic-bomb experiments are made, they will be conducted by planes that do not fly at masthead height.

The British Navy is reported to have concluded that too many eggs must not be carried in one basket, and that atomic bombing calls for the substitution of large numbers of small, heavily armed vessels with long cruising radius for the present limited number of giant battleships. But such small vessels involve a paradox—for long cruising radius is not possible when weight is diverted to heavy armament. Perhaps the British have hit on a method of using nuclear energy in the power plants of the proposed ships, in which case practically unlimited cruising radii would be obtainable.

Defence Claimed

Now comes the Crosby Research Foundation with the flat assertion that it has developed a simple, practical defence against the atomic bomb. The undescribed principle involved is claimed to make the possession of an atomic bomb more of a menace to the possesser than to the one to be attacked. Such a claim sounds fantastic, but so were thoughts about the atomic bomb prior to the obliteration of Hiroshima, and fantastic or not, the antidotes for several of the effective devices used by the United States Navy were known to its experts, but fortunately were not developed by its enemies. So nothing should be considered impossible.

The experts in the United States know more about the potentialities of the atomic bomb and its countermeasures than are known elsewhere. They agree that the future is fraught with possibilities for both good and evil results from nuclear energy. But apparently the immediate application of the bomb— until much added development takes place—is not expected to make radical changes in war on the sea as now conducted.

However, nuclear energy research is in its infancy. Only the surface has been scratched. Eventually there will be a change. But until new processes are perfected, we must rely on the modern navy to maintain the control of the sea that we have established with an unprecedented expenditure of men, wealth and energy.

Indications Effective Counter-Measure To Atomic Bombs Has Been Developed

Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—The House of Representatives Navy Committee reported Thursday "indications that an effective counter-measure to atomic bombs has been developed."

The report, based on testimony of high naval officers, did not explain the development beyond saying atomic bombs could be exploded "far short of their objective."

The House Naval Committee said: "Knowledge of electronics promises ability to detonate atomic bombs at great distances by radio. Such interceptive defence can be effected at the greatest distance from our shores by the navy."

The House Committee report was issued as Commerce Secretary Wallace told the Senate Military-Commerce Committees that the United States might stock up more atomic bombs than other countries and still be the most vulnerable of all.

"This is essentially an offensive weapon," Mr. Wallace said

He told the joint Military-Commerce Senate Sub-committees studying federal aid to research that while the United States might be loath to use the bombs because of its traditional non-belligerent attitude, other nations might not.

"We might build up a stock that would destroy all the cities of another nation, perhaps the world," he said, "but some other country with one-third our stock could destroy all our cities. In this field (atomic destruction), it is one world or no world."

Senator William Fulbright (Dem. Ark.) asked why the Russians appeared to be making such progress in science under government direction whereas there seemed to be some feeling in the United States that government aid would stifle advancement.

Mr. Wallace replied that in Soviet Asia, scientific regulation "is not nearly so strict as people think."

The house that Jack didn't build

WE'VE ALL HEARD of the house that Jack built, but nobody hears of the houses that thousands of Jacks haven't built. They've existed in dreams, or they may actually have been planned, but for one reason or another they have failed to materialize.

When you see an old weed-covered plot transformed into a street of cosy homes... when you see old tumble-down barns replaced by fine new buildings on prosperous farms... you can usually figure that a mortgage loan has helped these people to realize their dreams.

In old-fashioned melodramas the mortgage was a threat to family security. Today it is just the reverse. Thousands and thousands of families live in peace and comfort in homes they own themselves because of mortgage funds made available through the Life Insurance companies.

A portion of every dollar invested by Life Insurance companies has helped finance town and farm mortgages for solid thrifty borrowers all across Canada. The balance is in government and municipal bonds, industrial securities, etc. Life Insurance builds prosperity at the same time that it stands guard over the homes and loved ones of four million policyholders.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE

The Budget

The small income tax payer should be favorably impressed with the reduction announced by Mr. Ilsley on Friday night. The fact it applies to the last three months of the current year was unexpected though welcome. Any tax reduction is rather a novel change because we have become so used to increases or else maintenance at high levels taxes which were imposed to help carry the cost of the war. Sixteen per cent off for 1946 is definite relief. Further abatement was promised next year when the whole personnel income tax structure will be re-examined.

The excess profits tax which has been the cause of much grumbling is, also, to be cut from 100 per cent to 60 per cent but since 20 per cent of the 100 per cent was refundable, the long-term reduction is from 80 per cent to 60 per cent. Mr. Ilsley intends to abolish the excess profits tax at a future date.

Other major proposals affecting business include the removal of the 15 per cent rate of total profits on sole proprietorships and partnerships leaving them for the time being subject to the excess profits rate. Relief is to be given small firms whether incorporated or not. Their maximum standard profits have been $5,000 per year. It is now proposed to increase the standard profits of all firms by half the difference between their present standard profits and $25,000. This will have the effect of raising the minimum standard profits from $5,000 to $15,000. A firm with a present standard of $13,000 will receive a new standard of $19,000, above which the excess profits tax would apply.

Restriction on the amount of money large advertisers could spent have been removed. During the war, and as a means of preventing companies from spending large sums on advertising programs which would have been paid out of excess profits, the government limited a company's allotment for advertising to a percentage of its prewar budget. This restriction is now removed. It is recognized many large companies wish to commence large advertising campaigns to promote the sale of their products and thereby contribute to increased production and employment.

Mr. Ilsley is as conscious of the need of cut down expenditures as anyone but he is faced with the problem of finding vast sums to carry on peace-time expenses and give some tax relief at the same time. Wars cause extravagant spending but when the means justifies the result, and cost had no place in our minds back in the early years of the conflict, then we must be willing to pay the price now. With over eleven billions of debt and rehabilitation costs constantly increasing plus a multitude of other charges then it is not to be thought tax rates can be reduced enough to satisfy everyone.

No doubt there will be certain criticism of the budget and some questioning of whether real efforts are being made to cut expenditures as fast as they should be but we agree, with what comment we have heard, that the Finance Minister has done a difficult job well. We know he commands the confidence of a large section of the Canadian public, and we feel assured that tax payers will be given relief from the tax load as soon as the country's position warrants.

Some False Ideas of Heart Disease

The feeling of the general public that heart disease means total incapacity and a sudden and terrible death is far from the truth, writes Dr. Walter Modell in Hygeia, magazine of the American Medical Association! Such an idea is far from the truth for medical science knows a great deal about it — and how to treat it, what is required in the way of rest, diet habits, play and work.

Heart disease can be treated rationally and we must not bury it under an avalance of superstition and ignorance. The majority of patients live a long and often useful life. What is not generally recognized is that some forms of the disease need not interfere at all with a normal existence. Whether any or many restrictions need be placed on the patient depends on an evaluation of the true nature of the condition. This, of course, is a matter for the careful consideration of the physician only.

In the case of heart disease virtually all popular notions of its cause are false says Dr. Modell. In the vast majority of cases the cause is still a mystery. Only in the cases which develop as a consequence of inadequately treated syphillis can its origin be traced to a particular set of circumstances.

In recent years heart disease has become the most important of all diseases, causing more deaths than any other, and thus making more people conscious of it and concerned about its increasing prevalence. Many people are asking why they hear so much about heart attacks and want to know if something is happening to their hearts.

The answer is simple but paradoxical. It is because people are healthier that there is more heart disease today. It is because people are living and because there are more people alive today who are over fifty. Our hearts are as good as ever, nevertheless the disease is a problem of mounting importance.

Bird Peril

Many species of Pacific island birds may become extinct because of military occupation, report Dr. Harvey I. Fisher, University of Hawaii ormthologist, and Paul H. Baldwin, U. S. National Park Service, who recently completed a survey of birds on Midway Island, says Science Service.

Two species of birds formerly plentiful on Midway already likely have become extinct, Dr. Fisher and Mr. Baldwin state. The Laysan rail and the Laysan finch, both of which were plentiful on Midway in 1941, have probably been wiped out. The only other known habitat of these species is Laysan Island in the Midway group, from which both are believed to have disappeared some years ago.

Other birds, though perhaps not so rare, have also suffered. The "gooney bird," or Laysan albatross, has been reduced to less than half its estimated 1941 population. Whereas there were 500,000 Bonin Island petrel in 1941, the present population is estimated at 250,000. Only three noddy terns were found on Midway, where 2,000 were believed to exist before the war.

The importation by military shipping of rats which kill off birds; use of large areas for buildings, lawns and walks, eliminating vegetation and cover; and unavoidable slaughter of birds by planes landing and taking off are some of the reasons why military occupation of an island is devastating to bird populations. In addition, birds are unavoidably trapped in barbed wire, old gun emplacements and foxholes. Bird eggs are also collected for eating.

Evidences of Roman Culture

A start has been made at Southwark on the important archaeological survey which is to be made by the Council of British Archaeology of bombed sites in London. An excavations committee has been formed and volunteers, ranging from soldiers to university students, are helping archaeologists to dig up the history of Roman and Elizabethan Southwark. What lies beneath sites of biuldings levelled by bombs is of considerable importance, as Southwark was the bridgehead settlement for Roman London. The first site to be opened up disclosed the fact that there are undisturbed Roman levels within two feet or so of the modern surface. One of the most interesting finds so far is the rim of a Roman mortarium, used for grinding vegetables, with the maker's stamp quite clearly preserved.

I tried that, Mr. Hershey, but it didn't work with me.
A great clock in the hallway caught whoever late might be.
And the man who did the firing only ugly phrases said
When I told him: "Late in rising," for this reason, "late to bed!"

In that moment he detached me from the payroll, muttering: "Hence!
You may sleep your way to triumph, but no more at our expense.
If success is what you're seeking here's the method I advise:
Till you've pocketed your fortune you had better early rise."

Not one boss that I encountered ever said to me: "My boy, You'll make sixty million dollars since your sleep you so enjoy."
But when late I came o'mornings. for the time they docked my pay.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Re: Budget Resolutions and Tax Deductions at Source

Belleville.

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

With regard to the proposed amendments to the Income War Tax Act and their effect upon tax deductions at the source from employees, this Office has been advised that the presently existing table of tax deductions will be used until the end of this calendar year.

Under this method, employees will have paid substantially one hundred per centum of their tax liability for 1945 on the pay as you earn basis and the tax reduction provided by the present budget for this year will mean that they will have very little to pay at the time of filing their returns.

For next year the new table of tax deductions based on the reduction of tax provided by the budget will be distributed to employers before the end of this year for use at the beginning of the year 1946.

Yours faithfully,
K. L. Reid,
Inspector of Income Tax,
Belleville District.

FAILS TO CHEAT

Not First Time

Petain's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and disgrace; Darnand stood before a firing squad only a few days before Laval.

It was not the first time Laval had felt the steel of a bullet. While leading the Vichy government, he was wounded and almost killed by a youthful assassin. Laval testified during the trial of Marshal Petain that the wounds from that attempt still bothered him.

The trial of Laval was cut short by Laval's own sitdown strike against the proceedings, which he termed a 'judicial crime'. His first statement had been greeted by a burst of jeers and shouts from the presiding judge, prosecutor and jurors. Twice during the first three days, Laval was ejected from the courtroom. His lawyers quit at the start of the trial, but returned only when threatened with disbarment.

Confined in Dungeon

After his second ejection from the trial, Laval was confined in a dungeon beneath the courtroom. He wrote some brief notes outlining his defence.

A coffin lay near the spot where Laval had pitched forward in death. The body was placed in it swiftly and loaded into a hearse.

The official cars bearing the Prefect of Police, the Attorney General and the local Police Commissioner accompanied the hearse from the gates of the prison.

The little procession went to nearby Thiais Cemetery and there Laval's coffin was lowered into the ground, close to the grave of Darnand.

Next to Laval's plot was a grave marked:

"Here lies an unknown collaborator."

Some Spectators on Hand.

It was believed, however, his family will be given the right to move the body or place a tombstone over it.

No medical report was released immediately concerning the exact condition of Laval when he was executed. Two men has supported him on his last walk to face the firing squad.

Doctors worked on Laval with a stomach pump for two hours before the decision was made to proceed with the execution.

Quick action by prison physicians apparently was responsible for the failure of Laval's attempt to cheat the firing squad. The execution originally had been scheduled for 9 a.m. (3 a.m. E.S.T.) at Fort Chatillon, but officials decided against moving Laval to the fort after his suicide attempt.

Laval made his desperate bid to thwart the fate decreed for him when officials entered his cell at him to Fort Chatillon. Robert Amor, director of French prisons, said Laval was lying on his coat when prosecutor Andre Mornet and other officials entered.

Not Told Hour.

Guessing their purpose—condemned prisoners in France are not told of the hour set for their execution until the last moment—Laval huddled down in the bed clothes and while under cover slipped a poison capsule into his month.

A moment later he tumbled to the floor writhing in agony and prison physicians quickly went into action.

A justice ministry communique announcing the execution said:

"Pierre Laval was executed at Fresnes prison at 12:32 p.m. today. At 8.30 a.m., when Attorney General Mornet entered his cell to announce to him the rejection of measures of grace, the condemned man vainly attempted to commit suicide by taking a small dose of poison.

The poison dose apparently made Laval too ill to be taken to his scheduled execution site, the Fort De Chatillon, which is 2 1-2 miles from Fresnes prison.

The firing squad and hearse remained at Fort De Chatillon waiting for the condemned man to arrive until shortly after 11 a.m. Finally the police perfect's car, the hearse and an army truck carrying the execution riflemen drove away.

Stomach Pumped.

They arrived at Fresnes prison at 11:15 a.m. and lined up in the courtyard while doctors with stomach pumps and emetics struggled to restore Laval to a condition in which he could be placed before the firing squad.

Laval was convicted by a high French tribunal last Tuesday for intelligence with the enemy and against the security of France.

A last minute attempt by defence counsel to win a new trial failed yesterday when Gen. De Gaulle declined to intervene.

In accordance with French procedure, however, Laval was not informed that this last plea had failed and he did not know the time had come for him to die until the officials entered his cell this morning.

Arrangements Made.

All arrangements for the execution had been made last night at Fort Chatillon, where a 12-man firing squad was being held in readiness.

Special police guards were posted along the highway leading to the fort this morning, and several hours before the time set for the execution a curious crowd gathered outside the gates.

No demonstrations occurred around Fresnes. Heavy cordons of police lined all approaches to the prison.

When the sound of firing was heard from the prison, a stir went through the crowd.

Headed Govt. Twice.

(By The Associated Press)

Arch-collaborationist Pierre Laval headed the French government twice in peacetime before he hade a third rise to power during the war by courting Nazi Germany.

Often expressing publicly a hope for a German victory, Laval fell quickly from his status of wartime chief of a conquered state to that of a condemned prisoner after the Allies liberated France in the fall of 1944, and he was unsuccessful in attempts to flee from justice.

Acting under Nazi pressure, aged Marshal Henri Philippe Petain made Laval Chief of the French government in 1940, and he quickly put into effect a number of Nazi-inspired anti-semitic and forced-labor laws.

In a broadcast to the French people Laval said peace in Europe could grow only out of friendship between France and Germany.

When Vichy was threatened, he moved the collaborationist government to Paris, then to Belfort and finally made a feeble effort to organize a pro-German French government in Sigmaringen, in southern Germany.

Went Into Flight.

That failing because of Allied military successes, Laval went into flight, returning only to become a key defendant in war crimes trials.

He was a central figure in the dramatic series of events that led from a tumultuous appearance in the treason trial of his Vichy chief, Petain, to his own historic trial in which he was condemned to death.

Laval returned to France in American military custody after surrendering at Linz, Austria, July 31, 1945.

Virtually a Gestapo captive during the darkening days of his Vichy regime, Laval made a series of moves to escape custody, unsuccessfully sought sanctuary in Switzerland and Lichtenstein, finally flew to Spain.

There he was interned by Gen. Franco and later evicted from the country. He arrived at Linz in a German plane.

Called as Witness

Laval's first appearance before post-war officialdom of the country he led into a honeymoon with Nazi Germany was in a stormy session of the Petain trial Aug. 3, 1945. Called as a defence witness, he declared "I am not here to charge the Marshal or to clear him," then recited a full defence of the entire Vichy regime. He testified both he and Petain protested to the Germans about excesses against France during the war, and denied the oft-repeated charge that he was the "evil genius" behind Petain, who subsequently was condemned to death and later had his sentence commuted by Gen. deGaulle to life imprisonment.

Laval's own trial for treason, following Petain's by two months, wrote a singular chapter in the annals of French jurisprudence.

In the five day trial starting Oct. 4, 1945 Laval was twice evicted from the court for bitter exchanges with the judges and jurors, and finally, on the third day, withdrew to his dungean beneath the courtroom and refused to return to the court.

He termed the proceeding "a judicial crime," and spent his time writing a defence he apparently hoped would be used in a later trial, perhaps even after his death.

Trial Criticized

The trial was criticized almost unanimously by French newspapers and the Bar Association, and as a result Laval recruited support in a retrial plea from some of his arch-enemies. One was former Premier Paul Reynaud, condemned and imprisoned by the Vichy regime.

The jurors, however, condemned Laval to death, and he was jailed, in burlap prison garb and with one leg chained to the wall, while his counsel made final efforts to save his life.

His written defence, made public after the sentence was pronounced, denoted Laval was plotting to turn the French government back to Gen deGaulle when the Germans ordered him arrested.

The charges against him included plotting against the country, being a prime collaborator with the Nazi government, and expressing a desire for a German victory in the war.

Poison Ivy Week

From my own experience in practice and my experience as a victim, as well as the number of inquiries from readers each season I should say one week should be designated poison ivy week. I concede that the itching of ivy poisoning is the most atrocious, maddening itch there is—I know, for I have had practically every form of itch you can name.

First, it is my opinion that a daily intramuscular injection of ivy toxin or extract in the homeopathic dose designated for the purpose, is the best treatment for ivy poisoning. In many cases one or two such "shots" will bring relief and a good start on healing within 24 to 48 hours.

Second, I believe taking homeopathic doses of poison ivy (Rhus tox) taken in daily doses progressively increasing for two or three weeks early in the season will confer considerable if not absolute immunity to ivy poisoning for the remainder of the season. In the pamphlet on Ivy Poisoning you may have on request if you provide stamped self addressed envelope I give detailed instructions for this method of immunizing against ivy poisoning.

Many readers have assured me that they have acquired immunity to ivy poisoning by simply eating or chewing a wee bit of poison ivy leaf. Some readers have informed me that they suffered severe poisoning by trying that. So I do not recommend the experiment in any case.

A Boston physician reports that scalding hot water will stop poison ivy itching immediately and even bring a quick end to the attack. He discovered what extraordinary relief scalding water gave to violent itching when he had dermatitis. In desperation he thrust his itching wrists under the stream from the hot water fawcet, in and out quickly to avoid scalding, for perhaps a dozen times, and obtained lasting relief. Later he found the treatment was equally effective for the itch of ivy poisoning, and for intense itching from other causes.

Two readers writing from widely separated places inform me that they found banana peel gave grateful relief to the intolerable itching when the inside of the peel was rubbed slowly upon the itching surface.

Another reader reports that his physician friend advised him to plaster dampened salt over the affected area, which he did, with prompt relief and quick recovery.

These simple remedies sound a little too much like magic, perhaps, but there is no harm in trying them anyway.

First step in treatment of ivy poisoning is prolonged gentle sponging of affected skin with tepid soapy water to remove any remaining toxicodendron oil. Then apply cloths kept moistened with soapy water or with pure grain alcohol or with water containing a tablespoonful of saleratus in the quart, or with equal parts of pure grain alcohol and tincture of iron chloride. The wet dressings should be continued for a 24-hour period. If any blisters form, open them with a flamed needle and carefully press out the fluid on clean gauze or cotton and burn the bits of gauze or cotton or dispose of them without further contact, to prevent spread of the poisoning.

In some instances considerable intense itching with some evident skin irritation or desquamation persists for many months after ivy poisoning. In such cases, a few "shots" of the same toxin or extract now used for treatment of acute ivy poisoning, or a course of the internal homeopathic medication mentioned above should be tried.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why do bright lights attract birds?

Large numbers of birds migrating by night come to grief by being attracted to the bright lights of cities, lighthouses, light ships, flood-lighted monuments, tall bridge piers and other beacons and structures.

Occasionally individual birds dash out their brains by flying against the windows of lighted buildings.

Hundreds of birds of many different species are killed every year by flying at full speed against the flood-lighted Washington Monument in the national capital.

Wild geese, blinded by the flood lights on the near-by power plant, fly into one another and fall from great heights into Boulder Dam Lake.

Literally bushels of dead passerine birds are sometimes picked up below the beacons of some of the larger lighthouses on the coasts.

In one case a loon struck the lens of a lighthouse beacon with such force that it crashed through.

Naturalists have thus far been unable to offer any satisfactory explanation of this phenomenon.

Steady white lights have seemingly irresistible fascination for certain birds, while red lights or moving white ones repel them.

Apparently a fixed dazzling light not only bewilders migrating birds but actually lures them toward it. The fact that such casualties are heaviest on dark, cloudy, windy nights when there has been a decided drop in temperature after nightfall, indicates that birds fly higher on clear, moonlight nights.

One observer reports that the birds killed during the migrating seasons at the Washington Monument generally strike the lee or sheltered side of the shaft.

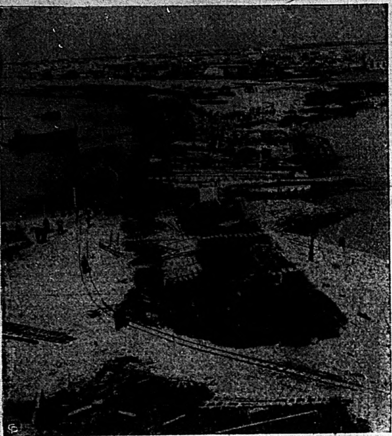
WALCHEREN RISES FROM THE SEA AGAIN



Literally "sunk" when its dykes were breached by the Nazis during the invasion by the British about a year ago, Walcheren Island, off the Holland coast, is being reclaimed from the sea by Dutch workers with British aid and equipment. A breech in the sea-wall is here being closed by sinking specially-built barges and adding a rock fill. After the inlets from the sea are closed the great task of pumping out the water will begin.

The Dean of Emmanuel was installed by Toronto Centre Presbytery with its Chairman Rev. G. W. Woods, officiating. Chancellor Spencer in his address introducing Dr. Matheson, recalled that this was the anniversary of the granting of the Charter by King William Fourth, the first Charter to be granted to a non-conformist institution in Canada. He called for men of the spirit of the founders—courage, honesty, faith and foresight.

Dean Matheson's inaugural address was on "Re-addressing ourselves to the task, to pursue the goal of Christian living rather than the following of the god of Mammon; and outlined his ideals for the Ministry and the Training of candidates. He stressed that the wrong kind of education had brought the world to ruin.

Representatives of the Trinity, Wycliffe and Knox theological Colleges were present. A reception followed the ceremonies.

TRENTON

Historical Data Of Grace Church At Anniversary

Trenton, Oct. 15—Principal H. A. Kent, D.D., of Queen's Theological College, Kingston, and formerly principal Chaplain (P) overseas, was the preacher at the 70th anniversary services celebrated Sunday by Grace United Church, Trenton, of which Rev. J. G. McKee, B.A., who presided is pastor. Situated on the east side of the Trent River, the church, orginially Methodist Episcopal, was dedicated by its Bishop Albert Carman on October 14th, 1875. It was enlarged and practically rebuilt in 1915 under the pastorate of Rev. G. E. Ross and a new pipe organ installed during the pastorate of the Rev. C. B. Brethen, shortly after church union. In the present pastorate there have been added many improvements, including an inside stairway down to the Sunday School rooms; and now this year, the roof has been reshingled, and insulated, the kitchen remodeled with an electric range and masonite tables, shelves added, and the inside of the church has been completely redecorated at a cost of $2,800 for which an appeal was made at the anniversary services by the Recording Secretary, Mr. W. S. Jones.

Greetings Sent.

Principal Kent preached in the morning on "It is More Blessed to Give. Than to Receive"; and at night on "I Have Kept the Faith." Greetings were read from all living former pastors: Rev. J. W. Down, Belleville, 1906-10, oldest and only living retired pastor, who was present and under whose ministry the church was redecorated and the now familiar tower replaced the earlier spire; Rev. H. A. Frost, 1919-22 native of Dartford, Ontario, who is now pastor at Lakeside, Ohio, U.S.A.; Rev. Wendell P. Woodger, 1922-26, now of Trinity Church, Cobourg; Rev. Claude B. Brethen, 1926-34 now of Richmond Hill, Ontario, and who held the longest pastorate; Rev. George D. Campbell, 1934-41, now of Colborne. Rev. J. G. McKee has been pastor since that date.

Musical items were provided by the local choir with Mr. Claude Huffman as organist; the Trenton male choir and Mr. B. Blakeley, solo trombonist.

The Property Committee in charge of alterations were Messrs. Lewis Wilson, Harry Sager and Bruce Robertson. Other officers of the church are President W.A., Mrs. Harold Jeffrey; Clerk of Session, Mr. L. W. Hyde; Chairman Committee of Stewards, Mr. H. Sager; Treasurer, Mr. L. E. York.

Historical Data Given.

Historical data printed on the Order of Service gave the names and terms of successive pastors They made an interesting study of the length of the pastoral term under different church systems. Under the Methodist Episcopal system and the Bishop stationing ministers, the average from 1874-1884 was two years; under the Methodist Church in Canada, 1884-1925 with its Stationing Committee of Conference, the term averaged just under three years; and since Church Union, under the United Church, with its unlimited pastoral term, since 1925 the pastorate has been eight, seven and now five years. The historical review revealed that the only living pastor from before 1919 was Rev. J. W. Down, who with the five since 1919, are all that remain of the 23 pastors of the charge which includes Johnstown, north of Trenton.

Prime Minister Remains in Suite

London, Oct. 15 — (CP Cable) —Prime Minister Mackenzie King remained in his hotel suite today after a weekend during which he continued his chats with London friends.

Persons close to the Prime Minister said he was "listening — not speaking" in line with the fact-finding purpose of his visit to the United Kingdom.

It is understood that the question of an early Imperial conference has been raised at Mr. King's meetings with other Dominion representatives, but Mr. King's views on such a conference have not been revealed.

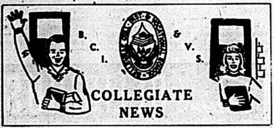
It was also understood that the anxiety of the Canadian government to see that Canadian veterans receive a fair share of available shipping space for repatriation was indicated by Mr. King in some of his talks with British leaders last week.

It was learned, however, that Mr. King did not ask for any specific ship to be assigned to the repatriation of men from the Dominion, but merely outlined Canadian hopes generally for the early return of veterans.

The war transport authorities announced last week the Queen Elizabeth would be made available for repatriation of Canadian members of the armed forces overseas.

ASK REMOVAL

Toronto, Oct. 15 —(CP)— Removal of price ceilings on all goods and merchandise "which are in sufficient world supply to satisfy the normal demand in Canada" is asked in a petition forwarded to Finance Minister Ilsley at the weekend by the Canadian Importers and Traders Association of Toronto.



COLLEGIATE NEWS

ASSEMBLY

Mr. Hills' appeal for more interest along the stamp line should cause some of us to wake up to the realization that we are slipping drastically behind in our duties to our country. And if nothing else but the first law of man "self preservation" will move us, we are failing to help ourselves.

Various announcements were made by Mr. Currie after which Mr. Maybee presented us with a most welcome and pleasing surprise in the shape of a slightly changed quartet. Two new members have added their talents and there is no doubt that Jimmy Rose and Gordon Watkins are able successors. Seeing the old familiar Bankier smile caused quite a stir. Any time at all Bill, and often.

The band played a fine selection and we were again honored with a fine picture called Brass Choir. This picture ended the weekly assembly until next week.

R. J. W.

Girls' Sports.

This week as was prophesied has been a busy one. Tenth graders were really active playing five games.

On Thursday, October 10th. XC beat XD and XB overcame XA 22-14.

In the tournament of XA vs. XB Jean Scott's XAers were victorious.

XC, led by Shirley Walker, had the higher score by 20 points against XE who scored 8 points.

In the eleventh grades there was a very close game between Jean Flintoff XIB, and Mae Sedores XID, with Jean's team winning 23-21. On Tuesday Dot Cook's team overcame XIA, 27-14 and XIC played XIF with a final score of 20-12 for XIF.

XIIB underwent a streak of bad luck with both its teams losing to XIIC Donna Davidson's commercial form score 9-42 and Jessie Fox' team 24-17.

It is to be expected that those with the most experience should prove themselves superior and so the thirteenth grades did. There was a mighty snappy game between XIIIA, the winner by sixteen points, and XIIIB, with slight casualty suffered by Lois Flindall caused by extra pep behind a collision with Marg Taylor. The peppy pair and Ruth Hagerman and Dot Kennedy with their deliberate, strong serve helped score the winning teams points while Phyllis Trusdale struggled valiantly for her team.

R. J. W.

Boys' Sports.

Four inter-form rugby games were played last week. The winners were 12B, 9G, 11B and 9A. In spite of the bad weather Friday, 9A and 9B rematched in a game which proved the former superior. These two teams played to a tie last Friday.

House league basketball in which four teams have entered, will begin today and there will be a game every day except Wednesday of this week. This league was very successful last year and it should prove to be better this year. Everyone should make an effort to see these games and to show some of that old school spirit (?) that we claim B. C. I. has.

R. B. B.

Coming Events.

Rugby is the only extra curricular activity this week. However, things are really humming in that direction Tuesday at noon 10CD tackles 10G, Wednesday noon 13B, comes to grips with 12B, Thursday 9G tackles the winner of the 9AB game, while on Friday noon it's 11C vs. 11B.

Besides all these rip snorting noon games, Wednesday afternoon sees the B.C.I. Juniors taking on the pride and joy of Albert College on Albert's field. With 13B facing 12B at noon and the Juniors taking on Albert later in the day. Wednesday, certainly is a red letter day for the followers of the pig skin.

Wednesday afternoon's game is the first of the 12-man games this season. Anyone who hasn't seen a full blown football game with 24 men on the field, just hasn't lived yet. We will most certainly be living Wednesday afternoon, will you?

Cuff Notes

Well here we go again. First of all I want to print an apology to Boyle-Toms-Cameron duck expedition. In addition to the two coke bottles and two tins of canned soup that these nimrods bagged they got three empty (note empty) beer bottles found floating in the bay which they sank with the utmost dispatch.

Now that war is over and peace is waging a vain battle for existence the formal dance is coming back into its own. The St. Michael's At Home is to be held this Friday and we hope it will be a success.

Some agitation has been started in the upper forms for an initiation for the newcomers to our school. Sounds O. K. from here. How about putting it up to the Students' Council?

Speaking of ninth-graders, our theory that they were the lowest form of animal life, has been shattered. There is one form lower than ninth which is known as the Amoeba Proteus. It is a clear, brainless, jellylike mass one one-hundredths of an inch in diameter. Top that!

Despite many vain attempts to suppress further disturbances another quartet made an appearance last assembly. This organization was entirely a spur-of-the-moment arrangement and its brief but meteoric career is ended. No, Mr. Maybee, I will not sing again! A thousand times no! (Loud cheers from school.) Besides I am saving my voice for the first rugby game. Yeah! Team.

The long awaited Elevator tea dance has come and gone. The committee in charge hasn't summoned courage enough yet to make a financial report. Maybe in assembly. I should judge that they did quite well. Good work.

The humor department is on the prowl for good clean jokes for the Elevator. If you hear any new ones, new, n-e-w ones, let us know. Even old ones will do. We can always shave them if the whiskers are too long.

I have been asked to have the following announcement printed: "Will the student who mistakenly took the ten pounds of salami and half-gallon can labelled "bootleg gin" from locker 2041 please return the bottle. The label was misleading. It contained anti-freeze and, while a quick start is essential these cold mornings for a student, my model T refuses to function without it. Thank you". Your Cuff Note editor will be pleased to clear up any such misunderstandings. Just mail your entry with the top of your head and twelve pesos to "Cuff Note Editor, Rockwood! What am I saying?

(In view of the fact that there is a shortage of writers we cannot, despite many and frequent requests, shoot the present Cuff Note Editor until we have someone to fill his place. All applications will be gratefully received.)

It is rumored that the Teen Agers are to have a New Year's Dance. This may be a little premature but some advertising never hurt any proposition. See you there.

I thought I had seen everything when I saw the title "Mairzy Doats" but, while wandering around Saturday I saw a ballad entitled "Don't Shoot the Bartender, He's Half-shot Now!" This is no guff. Well back to my padded cell.

My Favorite Hour

When the shades of evening fall
And my pipe and paper call,
That's the time I love the best
When by the fire I go to rest.

For here I sit and read or dream
And like a king I rule supreme;
With faithful dog so near my side
It's in this place that I'll reside.

Here in peace I always reign
While all my troubles call in vain
For in this chair I often sit,
To think and read or dream a bit.

When at last the fire burns low
In this chair my dreams I stow
Then with my dog I tread the stair
While far behind I've left my chair.

This year GET READY FOR WINTER EARLY

For cold-weather protection you need high V.I.—low Pour Point!

Your car's engine and lubricating oil may be freezing cold when you start—yet up to temperatures of 200° or over when you've driven a few miles! Hence the importance of V.I., (Viscosity Index) which is a measurement of resistance to change in Viscosity due to change in temperature. Peerless, an exceptionally high V.I. Oil, gives easy starting when your engine is cold plus safe protection when it's hot.

Pour point is important, too! Oils less efficiently de-waxed than B-A Peerless actually solidify at low temperature, making it hard to get the engine started and leaving metal surfaces unprotected until it has had time to warm up.

And with Peerless you add less between changes! That is the experience of motorists in all kinds of driving . . . "It goes further to save you money!"

This year get your fall change-over early and change to Peerless Motor Oil. It stays on the job longer and it does a better job because "It's Alloyed!"

In this series, our artist gives his version of how the finest crude oil—symbolized by Pete—is refined at B-A's modern plant, and how Peerless Motor Oil protects your car better.

Next time, "Pete vs. Cold Weather"

The approach of Winter, with its snow and hard frosts means hard starting, drastic engine temperature changes.

With Winter-grade Peerless in the crankcase of your car you can be sure of better protection and easier starting.

Peerless dispells Winter worries because it remains fluid at sub-zero yet maintains its body at running temperatures.

Dress, Hat Prices Fabulous in Paris

Paris, Oct. 11—(CP)—The business of being a Parisian fashion plate, while never exactly an economical pursuit, today is something reserved almost exclusively for wives and daughters of millionaires.

Between fabric shortages, government taxes (almost 48 per cent) and inflation, the prices charged by all the top-flight dressmakers range between 18,000 and 35,000 francs, or $360 to $700.

Actually the franc is worth less than the exchange rate of two cents each to the French, so that brings down the price somewhat for natives, but it still represents a terrific price to pay for dresses which cost from $50 to 150 before the war.

France is in no position at the moment to resume the exporting of clothes, primarily because she does not have the available textiles and other things that go into the haute couture.

The same situation applies to hats. In this field of fashion, prices run around 4,000 to 5,000 francs. But if you want such things as fur trimmings, birds of paradise or flowers, you can pay as much as 15,000 francs for a single hat.

One of the best-known modistes in Paris turned down a fabulous price for a copy of one of the hit hats of her collection because she had only one mink tail in the establishment, and was using it on several different numbers.

Despite the fact that the entire fashion industry is unable to resume exporting, the present fall collections are almost as important to it as they would be if the salons were crammed with buyers.

The reason is, first, that it takes on an average of seven years to develop a worker, and if he stops working his skill at cutting and draping material is lost.

Second, so much of Paris is built around the dress industry that to close up shop until times were better would mean the loss of employment for thousands in small business that feed into the great salons.

Consequently this season's collections are aimed primarily at French consumption—and the nation is eating up the new styles after the years when the industry kept alive by crawling along under the German heel.

FASHION FLASHES

The big demand by busy women is for underthings of knitted jersey that launder easily and require no pressing. Black tricot is used for a handsome slip made with built-up waistline and trimmed across the bodice with flower bowknots and delicate embroidery in pale blue. This color is also used for neck and hem piping.

Noted with interest is the revival of moleskin, used this season as a jacket lining and dyed in wonderful shades—such as electric blue, shocking pink and kelly green. A few moleskin jackets are also appearing.

There's plenty of glitter for those who like a lively afternoon frock. A simple black crepe frock with skirt drapery gathered into center front, has extended shoulders and short cap sleeves massed with shocking pink sequins.

New luxury marks this season's crop of muskrat coats, many of which have the skins worked in the let-out technique that marks the finest of mink skins. Silver-blue dyed muskrat is used for a handsome coat of 36-inch length, with overlapping flanged shoulder line, pointed tuxedo collar and easy sleeves with wide, turn-back cuffs.

A trend is developing for the larger, head-fitting crown in conjunction with the off-the-face brim. This formula is used for a hat of royal blue felt, its upturned brim faced with black Persian lamb and finished with black and royal blue satin bows.

STOWAWAY BRIDE

Mrs. Donesse Nancy Kuhn, of Warwickshire, Eng., came to the U. S. "the hard way," stowing away aboard the S.S. Irving MacDonnell, and hiding for four days under her husband's bunk. Mrs. Kuhn is being held in Boston, Mass., by immigration authorities, pending investigation of her status. Her husband is Robert Kuhn, 23, mess attendant, of Rochester, N.Y., veteran of four years of army service. Meanwhile in England, other British brides of G.I.'s called at the British parliament in a body to protest delay in granting them passage across the Atlantic to join their husbands.

For Ladies in Waiting

Today's crop of young mamas-to-be can choose delightful clothes that not only do a pretty good camouflage job but are smart in their own right as well. This anticipation number is a youthful jumper of light weight checked spun rayon and wool in beige and brown. It buttons from bow-tied neckline to hem, has dirndl fullness in front only and has extra fullness at the waist which snaps under the belt. It may be worn with or without the long sleeved brown crepe blouse shown here.

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED

This is the Xochimilco hair dress, as worn by Ann Dvorak for "Masquerade in Mexico." In the front view the hair was waved back, the sides separated, braided and rounded around the head. The sides are brought over the braid ending in three flat curls in back. In the back view the front hair was waved back as outlined. The braids were crossed in back and wound around the head, forming four rows of braiding at the nape of the neck. The sides are brought over the braids, ending with the three flat curls in back. Mexican silver leaf spray is used as an ornament.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Love Affairs While in High School Are Devastating to Good Grades

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For a year I kept company with a young man six years older. I'm going into my last year in high school. This young man came over to our house a great deal, as he's a friend of the family, but they never knew of our friendship.

When he went into the army, he met another girl of whom he became very fond and now that he has come home again he seldom comes over, and treats me as if I were some little girl. I'm 17.

He has a younger brother and I've gone out with him a couple of times and like him too. Do you think I'm too young to be going with the older man? Should I go with his brother and other younger boys instead? Senior.

Let's be thankful for the younger brother. A 17-year-old high school girl strikes me as too young to be seriously interested in anyone. Perhaps when the glamour of the other girl wears off, the older brother will come back;; then you'll have two strings to your bow. My advice is not to be too serious about any boys while you're in high school. Friendships are fine, but love affairs are devastating to good grades.

He Doesn't Meet The Right Sort of Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm in my late twenties, of foreign-born parentage, but we're all good Canadians at heart. I'm a businessman and fair-looking. I dress well and am a good dancer. I've had a college education, but have always been so busy studying that I haven't met many girls.

KEEN HALLOWE'EN

Pointed reminder that frost is in those pumpkins is furnished, ABOVE, by the barbed wire that entangles pretty Martha Vickers of the films just enough to make this picture tingle with spirit o' Hallowe'en.

And then the war came on and I had to go as well as the others. Since being honorably discharged, I have taken over my business again.

My problem is to meet the right sort of girls. I'd like to go out with girls of 21 or older. Those I meet seem to be cheap "gold diggers" with no other interests than expensive good times and they have no constructive ideals at all. I don't object to smoking and drinking moderately. Surely there must be some girls of the type I'd like to know. Can you tell me where to find them? How does the average man meet his ideal girl?

Average Man.

As has been stated in this column, the best and safest way to meet ideal friends is through other friends. Sign up for membership in good clubs. Make new contacts, enlarge your circle of acquaintances, be a joiner. The YWCA takes into account lonesome bachelors. The girls give dances, and the director is always glad to get names of the right sort of men to add to their stag list for dances. The Y.M.C.A. is also a good bet. All faiths have similar organizations.

As you're a businessman, why not apply for membership in some young businessmen's club? There must be dozens of such. Then let me say, in making friendships, it's always well to make haste slowly.

They Broke up Because of a Silly Quarrel—Now She's Engaged to Another

Dear Miss Fairfax:

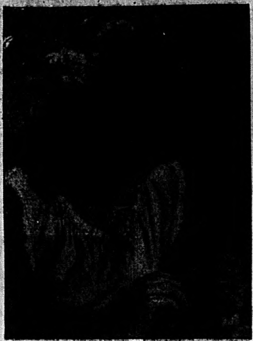
I'm 20 years old and am wearing the ring of my present boy friend, and we hope to be married some day. Before I met this boy I had been going with a young man with whom I broke up due to a silly quarrel. I wouldn't make up with him, although he wanted to, so that ended it. He joined the service, and is now honorably discharged.

Since going with the second young man, the first one has tried to make up, but my fiance doesn't want me to have anything to do with him; he's afraid I still care for him. But I think I ought to go out with him just to test myself and see whether I still care for him before I marry the second young man. What is your opinion? D. S. R.

My advice is not to marry the young man whose ring you're wearing or anybody else, until you can definitely make up your mind as to which one you really love. It is my opinion that you're more in love with love than with either of these young men. From what you write me in your letter (all of which I'm not printing) I judge you're in the center of wedding preparations, and this has its influence on your present state of mind.

Marriage is not a flirtation under the auspices of the church or the law. It's a serious business. I think your present fiance would do well to let you go out with the first young man so you can make up your mind as to your real state of feelings. Don't marry in haste and repent at leisure.

Help for Hard-Working Hands



Polish is the finishing touch to well-groomed nails.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Hand care is fifty per cent protection. Grime takes a terrible toll as the Victory gardener found to her dismay when she was doing her digging and reaping. Finger nails without luster, cuticle creeping up on them, some nails broken, darn it!

The boss of the domestic works needs to give hands and talons daily care. They are in and out of hot water many times a day. Soap removes the natural oil that keeps the skin surface smooth. Mrs. Lazy Bones who does nothing at all in the way of hard labor has no worry about her paws. She takes them to the beautery once a week, has her nails groomed, then forgets all about them.

Housekeeper's Nails

But when one juggles pots and pans, scrubs window sills, cleans the kitchen stove, that, my hearties, is something else again. One's hands look capable, if that is any comfort, and it should be.

If your hands are in a deplorable condition, then add cornmeal to the soap suds when you wash them. The tiny grains will dig out dark lines in the knuckles, the starchy content will have a favorable effect upon the flesh. Before the washing, plunge the finger tips in a cut lemon. The juice will make the nail eaves as white as snow.

Lift the cuticle with the orange wood stick while it is soft and pliable after the washing. Do not press down at the nail bases. Apply the rosy-tinted polish only after nails are in good shape.

Hand Lotions

Keep faith with one of those milky, semi-liquid hand lotions; use several times a day. Have a bottle in every bath room, and in the kitchen. Place them so you will see them; they will remind you that if you are kind to your hands, they will be kind to you.

Once or twice a week have an oily friction, using lanolin.

GOOD MANNERS

Twins As Junior Bridesmaids

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance was formerly of a different faith from mine, but while we were going together he found that my faith had more to offer and so he turned to mine. This made me very happy as we now can be married in the church. But there is one problem that is bothering me. He is now of a faith different from his family's and all of his relatives except an aunt (who became a Catholic just before she was married), her children and grandchildren. Her grandchildren are twin girls, about twelve years old. As much as my fiance would like to have one of his brothers as his best man, this can't be done; in fact none of his sisters or brothers can take part in our wedding. But if it is possible I would like to have his family feel that they will be represented in some way. So I am wondering if the twins are too old to be flower girls. In fact, I'm not sure if it is ever correct to have two flower girls in the wedding party....is it? Any suggestions you have will be appreciated. M. A.

I think your plan is an excellent one and very thoughtfully conceived. By all means, have the twins in your wedding party, and it is indeed proper for you to have both of them. Since, 12-year-old girls are usually too tall to act as flower girls, why not have them as "junior bridesmaids"? If you wish, they may take the place of bridesmaids at your wedding, walking together after the ushers; or if you wish also to have bridesmaids, they (the junior bridesmaids) may walk together, after the ushers and before the bridesmaids, or after the bridesmaids and before the maid of honor. If your other attendants are to wear long gowns, the twins wear long gowns of the style and color as the bridesmands' gowns.

Inviting the Prospective Bridegroom to a Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give a bridal shower for a friend of mine. Several people have told me that I should invite the prospective bridegroom. Is this proper? S. H.

If to your shower you are inviting only girl friends of the bride-to-be, you don't invite the prospective bridegroom to the shower itself, but you may, if you wish, ask him to drop in toward the end of the party. And of course he is invited if your shower is to be given in the evening and both girls and men are to be your guests; in which case the shower is given first, presents opened and thanked for, and the men invited to come for the post-shower entertainment, say about two hours after the hour set for the shower itself.

The Bride-elect's Mother at The Trousseau Tea

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a trousseau tea what are the duties of the mother of the bride-to-be? L.A.

Usually at the trousseau tea, the mother of the bride-to-be stands with her daughter to receive and welcome the guests, and when all the guests have arrived, she "circulates" among them to see that everyone is made comfortable and happy, that any necessary introductions are made, and to guide directions concerning the refreshments. Rather than have her mother "posted" at the tea-table, the bride-to-be usually invites some of her most intimate (and decorative) friends to preside over the tea-table, perhaps two for each hour of the party. The mother may stay with her guests during the entire party, or she may withdraw while the trousseau is being displayed by her daughter, returning in time to receive the good-byes of the guests.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Twenty-Minute Manicures

For the last four years, Time has been at our heels, rushing us, chasing us, making us gallop. Beauty chores have been sadly neglected by many who find leisure hours an impossible luxury. To snatch forty-five minutes out of a busy day, to get a manicure, has seemed like a selfish indulgence to some of us. So we have taken to little clean-up treatments after the nightly face washing and creaming. Something has to be done to nails besides hiding defects with rosy polish.

Don't make the mistake of washing the hands first. If you do that, you will have trouble shaping the nails because they will be soft and will bend. Remove the polish. Form neat oval outlines with the flexible steel file, working from side to center. Pass the orangewood stick under the eaves; it will bring forth some little shags that the file hasn't cut; remove them with an emery board.

Now you are ready for the soapy scrubbing. Use a nail brush for this purpose, let the hands soak for a minute or two to soften the cuticle that surrounds your pink talons. Rinse and dry.

Use your nail-white pencil, forming neat lines. On each nail place cuticle cream—or mineral oil, if you prefer it. Use the stick in circular movements along the sides and bases, lifting the flesh gently.

It is important that one should be gentle at the nail base. Downward pressure is likely to injure the matrix, causing ridges, or funny little white spots, to appear.

Unless your nails have received fastidious care, this treatment may flush up some hangnails. Remove them with the manicure scissors, ends pointing downward. Remember that the slightest wound invites infection. No rough or hurried treatment when taking care of your nails.

If one has been doing heavy work in the garden or house, the flesh may have hardened at the nail corners. Use plenty of cream or oil there, freeing the flesh from the nail with the orangewood stick. If the cuticle still clings, soak the hands again in warm soap suds; dry and repeat the oiling.

Deep wine shades continue to be popular .

Every bit of oil or cream must be scrubbed away; otherwise polish will not go on evenly. Also, the surface of the nails should be as dry as a bone.

Be stingy with liquid polish. Let it drain from the bristles of the brush. Sweep upward from base to tip, applying a light film. Let it dry, then make a second application. This manner of treatment means that you won't have to put on a new coat in a day or two.

Deep wine shades continue to be popular, though women who like to be "different" are using opalescent tints.

Fashion Flashes

Very dressy hats are appearing atop simple, slim black outfits. A favorite line is down at one side and very up and tall at the opposite side, designed to reveal much of the back coiffure. Black net is used for one such hat. The hat is tied on in back and is studded with large, flat, pale pink silk roses under clouds of dotted veiling.

Without much fuss and promotion, beaver is still managing to do very well. Many of the new beaver coats are softly styled, with full cut. Huge cuffs that are virtual muffs adorn a beaver coat made with soft tuxedo front and four-ripple back.

Recommended for soft beauty is a bridal suit of pink woollen trimmed with beaver. The jacket is cut on boxy, fairly long lines and beaver bands outline the collar, the standing revers and continue down the front on each side to extend around the jacket hem.

Chemistry helps to make things Better!

CONSIDER some of the improvements that have come to us through chemistry in recent years.

Our automobiles have run on tires that lasted longer because of rubber chemicals. They have been given new and longer-lasting beauty with better finishes, such as "Duco" and "Dulux". Gears have been case hardened by means of chemicals; and moulded plastic parts have been used for new, attractive interior trim.

Chemistry has given us nylon yarn, too; vastly better paints, varnishes and lacquers for our homes; and light, tough, transparent "Lucite". Chemical research has found a way to make textiles water repellent. The list goes on and on.

Most assuring of all, is the fact that our chemists are still at work seeking ways to make old products better and to discover new products that will contribute to the welfare and comfort of Canadians in the years to come. Chemistry never stands still.

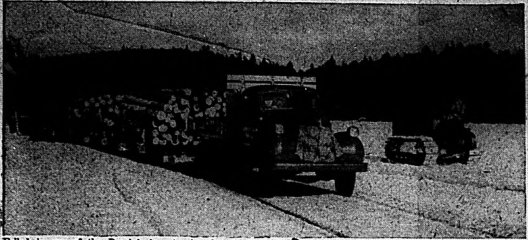
Rayon Doffs Battle Dress to Serve Canadians in Variety of Peacetime Roles



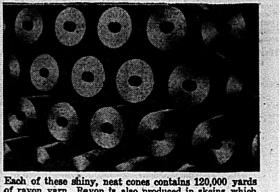
Felled in one of the Dominion's extensive forestlands, these spruce logs are bound for a paper mill to become woodpulp. Sent on to a silk mill, the pulp will become viscose, basic material from which rayon is made. The rayon yarn is woven into cloth for a wide variety of articles including gowns, upholstery, gloves, hosiery.

Gossamer Artificial Silk Made from Woodpulp Used in Tires, Parachutes, Uniforms in War

Like so many other Canadian products, rayon played an important part in the promotion of the Dominion's war program and now has turned to the more pleasant task of providing beauty and comfort for a nation at peace. A unique feature of rayon is its origin in the forest. Literally, rayon is made from wood. The fine, shimmery material is produced, however, only after a long, complicated series of processes. These are always kept under the strictest control and are constantly checked and tested by highly-trained laboratory staffs. Fine quality, high tensile strength and necessary dyeing properties are demanded in the rayon yarn by the makers of articles ranging from trim gloves and full-fashioned hosiery to glamorous gowns and upholstery that keeps its beauty for years.

Wood pulp comes to the rayon manufacturer in gleaming white sheets which, after an acid bath and drying, are torn by this shredder into what the trade calls crumbs.

A liquid, viscose, obtained by processing these crumbs, becomes rayon yarn being used by the girl in this photo to weave cloth to be sent to garment firms, glovemakers.



Each of these shiny, neat cones contains 120,000 yards of rayon yarn. Rayon is also produced in skeins which hold from three to forty thousand yards of the yarn.

The limitless variety of designs that appear on rayon garments, gloves, upholstery, are produced in several ways. This design is applied by the silk-screen method.

Pulp for Textiles

by JOYCE SEALE
(NFB Staff Writer)

Because of its extensive use in both war and peace, rayon has become an accepted item in the daily life of Canadian men and women. But few know that rayon actually is made from spruce wood.

The story of rayon, which went to war in parachute shroud lines, uniform linings, high-tensile yarn in heavy-duty aircraft tires, and covering for signal wires and will fill a vital peacetime position in dresses, hosiery, gloves, undies and other items, begins in the forests of the Dominion. A giant spruce is felled, carried to a mill where it becomes pulp. This is formed into gleaming white sheets of cellulose woodpulp for the rayon mill. Torn to shreds by machinery, then processed in chemicals, the pulp is transformed to a clear, orange-brown liquid called viscose.

Fine Filaments Extended

Viscose is rayon yarn in the raw. Forced through microscopic holes into an acid bath which hardens it into extremely thin filaments it becomes rayon thread. At the cloth makers, the thread is woven into handsome fabrics to be fashioned into gowns and other items.

That, from tree to street, is the story of rayon in brief. In detail, the story is even more interesting.

The rayon manufacturing process is one of the most carefully controlled operations in industry. The pulp in the initial step of the process, is steeped in caustic soda, drained, then shredded into what the industry knows as "crumbs." These crumbs are aged in a cellar for 48 hours after which several chemical processes transform them into the clear liquid viscose, which, when ripened, filtered and tested for coagulation properties, is piped to the spinning machines.

Wound Into Cakes

Spinnerettes fastened to the end of the pipes are under the surface of an acid bath. Through their holes pours the viscose to solidify into a gossamer strand which is wound into cakes inside boxes revolving at more than 7,000 revolutions per minute.

The cakes are conditioned under cotton coverings, washed and bleached before being dried. From the cakes, the rayon yarn is wound onto cones or made into skeins, depending on the customers' requirements. For instance, makers of dresses, draperies, underwear and gloves prefer the cones, while hosiery and woven crepe manufacturers want skeins.

The entire process is constantly checked by highly-trained laboratory technicians for strength and dyeing properties. Throughout the operation, temperature and cleanliness are controlled.

So, into the peace after serving nobly in battle comes another remarkable product of man's ingenuity. Out of wood, science makes silk to serve the nation's warriors and, afterward, to provide style and beauty to the people and their homes.

Court Refuses Quisling's Appeal

London, Oct. 13. (CP)— The Norwegian Supreme Court today refused Vidkun Quisling's appeal from the death sentence imposed for treason, the Norwegian Information office announced here.

"Quisling's appeal was unsuccessful on all points", the Information agency said. "The decision of the Supreme Court was unanimous".

The former Norwegian puppet leader, whose name became synonomous with "traitor", had been sentenced by the lower court, Sept. 10. Under Norwegian law he was permitted to appeal only from the sentence, not from the court's verdict of guilty.

BEMOANS EXPERIENCE

Emporia, Kas., Oct. 13 —(AP)—Leo Carrillo, the film actor, here to play the title role in a performance of "The Bad Man," bemoaned his experience with a real Kansas "bad man" the other night. "The bad man entered the 'Bad Man's' hotel room, and the bad man stole the 'Bad Man's' money," Carrillo said. He lost $50 while his manager was minus $250 after the footpad's visit.

Ships, Fish Mean Much to Scotland

By James Lansdale Hodson

The plan to attract new industries to the Scottish Highlands, to which I referred in a previous article, is part of a wider Scottish scheme to bring light industries to the heavy industrial regions of the country. South Wales, the northwest coast of England, and Sheffield—all share the same boat; and all felt they were heretofore too dependent on the heavy trades—coal, iron and steel. When those fell into depression terrible suffering followed.

I remember, between the wars, a Clyde shipwright saying to me, "Chaps like me are scrap. We're just waiting to rust away. We built two ships a year before the yard shut down—two ships so small ye could sail 'em in your bath." He held out his two strong hands. "They're as good as iver they were," he said. And so they were. But we could find nothing for them to do.

Wants No Repetition

This must never happen again. The demand for new ships and our plan to distribute industries ought to make it improbable for long years to come, if not impossible.

But there is another important Scottish industry to which thought has been given — the herring industry. Before the World War 1,000 herring drifters were at work. Before World War II the figure was 400 to 500. Today there are only about 150 drifters. But the herring shoals are as big as ever. Herrings are swimming away when we could be using them.

In the old days we sent a million barrels of herring yearly to Russia. Then Russia decided to catch her own. We continued to send herrings to Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Finland and Germany. What will happen in the future is uncertain.

Before the war half the herrings we landed in Scotland were cured, and 90 percent of the cured went to the Baltic countries. It seems unlikely they will go to that degree in the future, so that we need, in the first place, new markets to provide a stable demand so that the herring fleet can expand once more. Those markets can be found both in Britain and in places like the West Indies, but to achieve them we need more factories for freezing and canning.

Good as Steak

It has been suggested that a central organization such as the Herring Board should buy every herring caught and pay a fixed price, working perhaps on somewhat similar lines to the Milk Marketing Board. Propaganda will have to be used, too, to convince people how nutritious herring are, and that there is something in the notion that herring is just about as good for a hungry man as beefsteak.

In Scotland they wisely started one the children and gave prizes for new dishes designed by children that made use of herrings, oatmeal and potatoes. In passing, if we could teach Britons to be better cooks than most of them are it would be a stroke of genius and a Godsend. We have a saying, "God sends the food and the devil sends the cooks." There are exceptions, but not enough.

But I am no expert on the herring industry. All I can do is to outline what is going on. What will come of it all I don't know. If you meet a man like Sir William Darling, M.P., who is a draper, bookseller and author, and chairman of the Scothtish Industries Council, you will find several ideas running out of his head. For example, he wants us to build some big ships to take our children in their last year of school around the world to widen their knowledge. We have not builders to build schools, he says, but we can build ships. (I suggested for my part, that in addition we might build some great sailing ships to send our adventurous boys around too, and make fine, sailors of them at the same time.)

Training Grounds

Sir William wants the Great North Road to continue all round Scotland. He wants us English to send our soldiers to do their training and manoeuvres in Scotland where suitable land abounds and where the harsher climate would help toughen them. (A lot of commanders were trained here during the war). And he cannot see why so many of our great naval bases should be in the south.

I said, "But what about Scapa Flow and Rosyth?" He said, "Yes, but as soon as the war is over you begin to go away."

However this may be, you will see that some Scotsmen think their country should be used more by the armed forces in peace. We talked next about the tourist business and the Scottish Ancestry Association which will help you discover about your forebears, if you had any Scots ones, and where they came from. Scotland is proudly nationalistic in this business. I used, some years ago, to see a shop on Princess Street which showed which clan a multitude of names were affiliated to and which tartan you could rightly wear. So many were the names (and un-Scottish ones at a glance) that I almost expected to find that I, too, might rightfully sport a tartan.

Well, the Scottish business sense coupled with a genuine pride in race has done much. You can now buy a map showing where the Frasers, the Macdonalds, the Andersons, the Mackinnons and hundreds more hail from.

President's Wife In Middle Of Hot Controversy

By EDITH GAYLORD

Washington, Oct. 13 —(AP)— Mrs. Harry S. Truman found herself in the middle of a hot controversy over racial discrimination today despite her wish for a back-ground rôle in public affairs.

In the case of Negro Pianist Hazel Scott, denied use of Constitutional Hall because of her color, Mrs. Truman said in a telegram:

"I deplore any action which denies artistic talent an opportunity to express itself because of prejudice against race or origin."

But she said she sees no reason why she should boycott the Daughters of the American Revolution, who own Constitution Hall. She was honor guest at a D.A.R. tea yesterday. When a reporter asked whether she will accept similar future invitations she replied "why not?"

Negro Representative Adam C. Powell (Dem.-N.Y.), Miss Scott's husband, promptly declared:

"From now on Mrs. Truman is the Last Lady."

And Miss Scott, in Minneapolis to play a concert, remarked in an interview that Mrs. Truman's presence at the tea seemed to indicate "she gives sanction to the D.A.R.'s refusal to let me play in Constitution Hall."

President Critical.

Representative Powell, contending Constitution Hall "is a public institution inasmuch as it is tax exempt," said he would seek to have it placed on the tax rolls.

President Truman sharply criticized "race discrimination" and "prejudice" in a letter to Powell yesterday, but said Constitution Hall was privately owned and he could do nothing more about the D.A.R. decision to deny Miss Scott an Oct. 20 concert date.

The D.A.R. explained it acted "in accordance with the prevailing custom" of the District of Columbia in segregating whites and Negroes in public places.

Mrs. Truman, replying by telegram yesterday to Powell's suggestion that she pass up the D.A.R. tea, said she made the engagement before the controversy began. It was "not related to the merits of the issue," she said. Mrs. Truman is an honorary D.A.R. member in her home town, Independence, Mo.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the late President, resigned from the D.A.R. in 1939 to protest exclusion of Negro Soprano Marian Anderson from Constitution Hall.

Comment Not Unanimous On Tax Changes

Toronto, Oct. 13. (CP) — The budget reduction of the 100 per cent excess profits tax to 60 per cent, effective Jan. 1, should be of great help to smaller Canadian industrial firms, a legal expert of the Canadian Manufacturers Association stated today. For the major Canadian companies however he predicted it would not make much difference.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association had been appealing for abolition of the tax or else a substantial reduction, "and we got the second best", this official stated. Finance Minister Ilsley, in view of the reduction of income tax by only 16 per cent, could hardly have done better with regard to the excess profits tax, he added. But it was hoped that the excess profits tax would be still further reduced in the future.

Removal of the sales tax, effective today, on machinery and apparatus of production would be of great assistance to Canadian industry in meeting the problems of reconversion, he declared.

Balmer Neilly, vice-president of McIntyre-Porcupine Mines, commenting last night on Finance Minister Ilsley's announcement in his budget address that gold mines and certain industrial mineral mines would be exempted from excess profits tax as of January 1, next, said: "The provision means little or nothing except to high-grade mines, which do not need this kind of assistance."

Toronto labor leaders said they were disappointed with the tax provisions. They said they felt that income tax reductions for low wage groups were not great enough and that the excess profits tax should not have been cut.

Furriers welcomed the reduction of the excise tax on furs and predicted that the change would stimulate sales, particularly to tourists from the United States.

Some taxpayers expressed elation over the 16 per cent reduction in personal income tax but others took an "it's about time" attitude. Several were quoted in a newspaper survey as saying they did not mind paying fairly high income taxes while the war was on but thought sharp reduction should be made for peacetime.

An advertising agency official said he believed the removal of restrictions on advertising would have a beneficial effect on Canadian business and would make it possible to introduce many new products.

How Exiled Dictators Spend Lonely Hours

(By Ernie Hill, In the Vancouver Province, Writing From Mexico)

One-time dictators lead lonely lives in exile. Some spent years plotting counter-revolution. Others just try to keep from getting bumped off by former enemies.

Fulgencio Batista, now in voluntary exile after running Cuba for 12 years, has journeyed on to Mexico City after spending more than a week in Southern Mexico viewing the Mayan ruins at Chichen Itza.

Surrounded by gunmen ready for enemies with a grudge against the generalissimo, Batista went out of office 10½ months ago after giving Cuba an honest election.

When his party lost the election he immediately embarked upon a good will tour. Only now is his itinerary beginning to repeat itself.

Batista, a group of friends and the dazzling young Martha Fernandez—whom he is going to or already has married—made a triumphant entry into the Hotel Merida on their return from Chichen-Itza.

First three gunmen came in and sized up the crowd. One pulled a chair to the head of the patio steps and parked there when Batista, looking younger and more fit than he did last October, made a triumphant exit. One parked outside my door all night because I had asked the desk clerk twice when Batista planned to return to the hotel.

Batista, the next morning, said he planned to return to Cuba in about a year. Until then—more travel, more precautions, more time-killing.

At that the erstwhile dictator is better off than most of his contemporaries. Some of them failed to get away with a stack of blue chips when they left their countries.

Enrique Penaranda of Bolivia, for instance, left so hurriedly almost two years ago that he took nothing along but his army pants. Fortunately, he had been commissioned an honorary general in the Venezuelan Army during his heyday. He now lives on an army pension which the Venezuelans decided to send him at Arequipa, Peru.

Penaranda wasn't a dictator according to the full definition. One of his colleagues, however, machine-gunned a group of unarmed tin miners and sometime later he was booted out. Now, he twaddles his time away in Peru.

Rafael Franco, one-time toughguy president of Paraguay, makes soap for a living on his back porch in Montevideo, Uruguay. Franco, nicknamed "The Lame Lion" also frequents Paraguayan nightspots in Buenos Aires when Argentina lets him in on a visit.

Jorge Ubicon, former president of Guatemala, was ousted last year after running his country for more than 10 years. He has been leading a subdued life in New Orleans and travelling inconspicuously. Ubicon, unlike Franco doesn't have to make soap on his back porch.

Carlos Arroyo Del Rio, former president of Ecuador, watches days drift by and crises arise and pass in his country, from nearby Ogotab, Colombia. He caught an airplane when Jose Maria Velasco Ibarro came out of exile and chased him across the border.

Arroyo Del Rio complains about Velasco Ibarro wearing his ties and driving his automobile. He also doesn't like the weather in Ogotab.

Balmy Beachers Move Into Three-Way Tie by Smothering Windsor Rockets by 23 to 8

Ottawa Trojans Beat Wildcats, While Ottawa Defeats Montreal — Two Exhibition Games

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Today's best bet on the football fronts: even money (if you can get it) one of three Toronto teams represents Eastern Canada in the Grey Cup final.

Hints of a Hogtown harvest were plentiful even before the east reached the weekend's approximate half-way mark in scheduled competition. Indians set the Ontario Union pace from the start and Argos had a half-share of the Big Four lead.

The twosome became a trinity Saturday as the third Toronto team — coach Ted Reeve's Balmy Beach — smothered Windsor Rockets 23-5 before fewer than 2,000 shivering fans in Maple Leaf Stadium.

Stalled with a 7-5 lead after the first half, Beaches added four points in the third quarter and tapered off on a string finishing kick which netted two converted touchdowns. The result hoisted the home club into joint O.R.F.U. leadership with the unscheduled Indians and jammed Rockets into the cellar without a victory in five contests.

If Beaches reach the east-west final the hired help should be familiar to western fans. Two young men from out of the west, Johnny Lake and Bob Cosgrove, played authoritative roles though each had only two practices. Lake scored 11 Beach points and Cosgrove's jarring tackles stiffened the defence.

Ottawa Trojans Win

In the other O. R. F. U. league game, Ottawa Trojans sustained ebbing play-off hopes with a 15-11 conquest of Hamilton Wildcats before about 5,000 Ottawa fans. The triumph, decided in the 4th quarter on a placement by Ted Edwards, left Hamilton two points behind the two Toronto leaders and a similar margin ahead of Trojans — unless the first Ottawa victory against Rockets is ruled a four-point contest.

Interprovincial Union results widened the gap between Argos and Ottawa Rough Riders, tied at the top, and the trailing Hamilton Tigers and Montreal Hornets, similarly situated in the cellar. In a floodlight game at Montreal, Riders prevailed 25-8 despite injuries which sidelined Tony Golab and Ken Charlton. Wilf Tremblay with two touchdowns led Ottawa scorers while Ken Campbell took credit for Montreal's major.

Hamilton Stage Rally

Argos led 9-0 in the fourth quarter against Tigers on three singles and a converted touchdown by Frank Hickey, but barely lasted as Hamilton staged a rally for 6,500 home fans. After Al Lenard booted two singles Don Crowe took a touchdown pass from Jerry Ollinger and Walter Gibb converted to make it 10-8 for Argos.

Intercollegiate football — with all the trimmings provided by cheer leaders, co-eds and coonskin — returned with exhibition games in London and Toronto. University of Toronto seniors suppressed McMaster University intermediates 18-9 at Varsity Stadium and in London University of Western Ontario extended the O.R.F.U. Indians to the limit before losing 13-9.

Welland Defeats London Majors

Welland, Oct. 15 — (CP)—Welland Atlas Steels, defeated in the first two games of their Ontario Baseball Association senior A finals by London Majors, bounced back into the running Saturday with a 1-0 victory.

A pitcher's duel between Tommy White of London and Eddie Bush of Welland ended in the last of the ninth when Frank Chase singled through short, took second on Russ Evon's error and scored from that bag on a wild throw to first.

Fourth game in the best-of-seven series will be played in London Monday night.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Oct. 15 — (AP). — Lou Little, Columbia's canny coach, was holding forth on how the offence has taken over football this season — and Lou's Lions didn't do so badly in that respect Saturday . . . "That's the way it should be," Little maintained, "the era of solid defence and two and three-yard gains is a thing of the past. The fans want offensive football and I think we ought to encourage the offence in every way possible . . . The day is gone when a tackle did nothing but charge and batter his brains out on defence." . . . One of the listeners interrupted: "It doesn't take brains to play tackle, does it, Lou?" . . . "No," stated Lou grimly. "If he had any brains he would not be playing tackle." . . . Little was about as good a tackle as Penn ever had just before and after the First Great War.

O.H.A. DECIDES TO OPERATE SIX SERIES THIS YEAR

Executive Committee Accepts Number of New Teams and Makes Cash Awards

Toronto, Oct. 15 (CP)—In its first peacetime meeting since 1939, the executive committee of the Ontario Hockey Association during the weekend approved awards totalling $2,500 to three organizations, approved new entries in several divisions and decided to operate six series in the 1945-46 season.

The committee decided to recommend at the annual O.H.A. meeting Dec. 1 that $1,000 be voted to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto in memory of the late John Ross Robertson, President of the Association from 1899 to 1905 who died May 31, 1938. Mr. Robertson was the first life member of the O.H.A.

Capt. James Sutherland of Kingston, Ont., life member, said he moved adoption of the motion with "great personal pride" because of his association with Mr. Robertson in the early days of the O.H.A.

The executive also will recommend to the annual meeting $1,000 award to the International Hockey Hall of Fame at Kingston, and $500 to the Canadian Red Cross Society. A similar award to the Red Cross has been made for the last five seasons.

The committee approved operation of these series: Senior A, Junior A, Intermediate A, Junior B, Intermediate B and Junior C.

Entries for all series except Senior A and Junior A will not be received until after Dec. 1 annual meeting in Toronto.

New Clubs Accepted.

New clubs accepted into O.H.A. membership include Tavistock, Ingersoll and Lindsay in Intermediate B, Scarborough, Riverside (members of Windsor Junior League) in Junior B and Huntsville, Stouffville and Picton in Junior C.

It was announced that Lakefield Juniors, now in Junior C grouping, will have to play in Junior B if they wish to use five players from Peterborough as intimated.

St. Catharines Seniors announced they will not operate this season but will be allowed to pay fees and retain their franchise. It was ruled that all junior hockey played in Kingston will be in "B" category and that Emerson Hicks will be allowed to play for Guelph Junior "B" team if all Kitchener and district teams waive on his services.

Officials at the meeting included President F. W. Moore of Port Colborne; George Panter, Gravenhurst and J. J. McFayden, Galt, Vice-Presidents; and Executive members Roy Reynolds, Chatham; J. M. Roxburg, Simcoe; Stewart McTavish, Oshawa and Clifford MacGillivray, Niagara Falls.

WORLD'S RECORD MADE BY NELSON

By JACK HEWINS

Seattle, Oct. 15 —(AP)— Toledo's links king, Byron Nelson, swapped his golfing irons today for a shooting iron and slipped away to Idaho's mountains after knocking over a world's record yesterday in winning the $10,250 Seattle Open Golf Tournament with a score of 193-66—259.

With $2,000 in war bonds to Mr. Nelson, it was the lowest tally in the Professional Golfers Association books for a 72-hole tournament, undercutting by two strokes the mark hung up just two weeks before in the Portland, Ore., Open by Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa.

It was 21 strokes under par for the Broadmoor course, and the swank layout's standard also took a licking from seven other professionals and an amateur who knows the route like the back of his hand—Seattle's Harry Givan.

The hometowner was eight under regulation figures at 272, notched there in a second place tie with Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me. Givan won a $100 war bond; McSpaden $1,333 in bonds.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER

Wacky—But Recordbreaking.

With the cream of the major baseball league stars doing duty in Uncle Sam's armed services, baseball writers at the beginning of the 1945 season predicted anything could happen—which it did—with big loops calling in sandlot experts to fill in the vacancies caused by the draft.

What they probably meant was that the turnstile rhythms would revert from swing to sweet with team exchequers trying to do a valiant job to make ends meet. But they didn't look for record-breaking box offices receipts even if Mr. and Mrs. War Worker and others at home did need extra recreational outlets.

For instance, according to Dan Parker, the New York Giants in a year when the quality of major league baseball reached an all-time nadir, with one of their poorest teams for the first time in history, topped the million mark in home-game attendance.

Records galore went by the board as a wacky season growing wackier with practically each game, had the fans standing in the aisles, on their ears, and at times on their haunches, wondering what would happen next.

Mel Ott of the Giants broke all records for bases on balls, home runs, runs batted in, runs scored, total bases on hits, and extra bases on long hits in the National League.

He also added to this imposing array the distinction of having played the greatest number of seasons with one club.

The "bean-ball" record went to Charlie Schanz of the Phillies who nudged four batsmen with pitched balls during the season. But this record is shared by Elon Hogsett, Browns, Charlie Pittinger, Braves, Earl Whitehill, Tigers and Carl Doyle, Dodgers.

Vince DiMaggio of the well-known baseball family upheld its diamond traditions in the absence of brother Joe by tying the major league record of hitting four homers with the bases loaded.

Franky Schulte, Babe Ruth and the late Lou Gehrig are the only other major leaguers who have accomplished that feat.

Tommy Holmes, Boston's bad batting boy who finished second in the hitting marathon hit safely in 37 consecutive games to break the "Rajah" Hornsby's National League modern record of 1933, but he fell short of Wee Willie Keeler's old mark of 44 in 1897.

A new major league record for games caught during a player's career was set by Al Lopez, who passed Gabby Hartnett's mark of 1793 set early in September. Lopez is mentioned as the Pirates manager next season.

Equalling the record for the best major league performance for his position, Eddie Miller, Cincinnati shortstop figured in five double plays in one game.

Cleveland Indians tied another record by going through a nine-inning game without an assist. Who could beat that record, anyway?

Detroit used 19 men and the Senators 16, a total of thirty-five in a recent game to tie an American loop mark. That does not include the wacky Cubs-Tigers world series tussle in which 38 players and nine pitchers were used.

The Cubs snagged a record for their belts when they won 18 double-headers while the Senators tied the American league's previous performance by making 14 double plays.

Dick Fowler, Canadian big league product pitched the first American League runless hitless game in five years against the Browns. It was his first game pitched for the Athletics since his return from the wars.

Add to this the wacky world series, when a seasonally hitless Tiger team came out of its lair in the seventh game to pound almost the entire Chicago Cub pitching staff out of the lot and you have a baseball season that was chock full of surprise, records and sheer daffiness.

Juniors In.

In a startling reversal from their City and District league form, the SWACOS baseball squad held the St. Louis' Juniors to four games before the youngsters cracked down and finally annexed the semi-final series. The planters behind the fine hurling of Ernie Smith held the youngsters to a 2-all tie in the first of the weekend two game frays, and had they hit in the clutches might have annexed a win. Not that it would have made any difference, for the win column for them would have placed the teams on the same scratch level. As it was, the sturdy left arm of Kelleher came through with a fine one-hit performance in the second joust and the planters were eliminated 6-0.

Kelleher showed a lot of ability in the second game and only Hammett's 4th inning clout robbed him of a no-hitter. Why this lad wasn't used more in the playdowns is something of a mystery to some of the dyed-in-the wool fans. However that is past history and the well-known water under the bridge.

As to the finals series between Batawa and the Juniors nothing definite as to dates has been arranged as yet, according to league officials. The weather is something of a hazard these dark dismal October days, and it is doubtful if an extended series could be played with an allotted time. There has been some rumor of a sudden death game between the squads or at least two out of three. Otherwise the teams will be jockeying with the Weather man for breaks indefinitely. And baseball is definitely out of season on Christmas Day.

NIAGARA FALLS WINS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 15 — (CP) — Niagara Falls Houcks defeated Stratford Nationals 7-6 in 11 innings Saturday to take the deciding game of a best-of-three series for the Ontario Baseball Association senior B crown.

With two out in the last of the 11th and darkness settling over the field, Bob Wilson beat out a bunt, stole second and carried the winning run home on Walt Gregus' single to left.

Belleville Juniors Earn Right To Meet Batawa For Loop Title By Tieing and Beating Swacos

Kelleher Allows Only One Hit in Defeating SWACOS in Second Game

Speedy St. Louis Belleville juniors, runners-up for the Ontario junior hardball championship, earned the right to meet the fast stepping Batawa team in the finals for the City and District Baseball League championship over the weekend by tieing one and winning the deciding game against the SWACOS entry.

The semi-final series between the squads had been postponed with a win for Juniors sometime ago due to O.B.A. playdown participation by the younger team.

In the weekend series Juniors were held to a two-all tie in the first game but cinched the series in the second tussle by blanking the SWACOS by a 6-0 count.

In the first game the teams battled to a two-all tie with Juniors leading 2-1 till the seventh when SWACOS scored only one run on three hits and a hit batsman. Booth started off with a single and Smith went out, fielder's choice. Juby got a hit and advanced on a wild pitch and Rutherford went out, after walking. Philp was hit by the pitcher but Booth had crossed the plate with the tying run after Hammett had hit safely. SWACOS got their first run in the third on Philp's first hit, an error, and two infield outs.

Juniors tallied in the fourth after Goyer had singled safely and went to second on a wild pitch. He stole third and stole home before the next two batters had struck out. They got their second marker in the 5th by a walk, a hit and two sacrifice plays.

Smith on the mound for SWACOS deserved a better fate. He struck out ten batters, walked one and let the juniors down with three scattered blows but his mates failed to hit in the clutches and that was that.

SWACOS on the other hand touched Bunton, Juniors' hurler for seven hits, three of them coming in the seventh when the batters failed to take advantage of their opportunity. Philp got two of his team's clouts, one a two-bagger and while Goyer hit a two-baser and a single for two of his mates three knocks.

Second Game

The Juniors found some of their batting eyes in the second joust of the series and behind the one-hit hurling of Kelleher trotted off the field with a 6-0 victory and the series in their warbags.

It was Lefty Kelleher all the way in this game with the big fella being robbed of a no-hitter in the fourth, when Hammett flashed out a single for the only clout of the pastime. Previous to that, and from that time on, the southpaw had the Planters eating out of his hand. He struck out four and walked one. His team bobbled four times behind him but they occurred when nothing was at stake.

Carl Casey started the mound chores for SWACOS but was derricked in favor of Juby in the fourth after five runs and as many hits had been garnered off his delivery. Juby let the opposition down with one run and one hit for the remainder of the abbreviated pastime. Juniors scored one each in the first and second. Three in the third, one in the fourth and that was all.

Goyer and Seamark hit two-baggers for the winners with Fitzpatrick, Bush and Kelleher getting singles.

U.S. Football Picture Unchanged

New York, Oct. 15 — (AP) — The status quo continued in United States College football this weekend There were a few upsets, but they did not change the national picture from a week ago.

Princeton's 14-6 victory over previously-unbeaten Cornell was perhaps the most surprising of the unexpected results.

Southern California's 33-6 trouncing at the hands of the San Diego Navy was a bolt from the blue, too. It was the first defeat of the season for the Trojans from a team that earlier had lost to U. C. L. A. who, in turn, had lost to U. S. C.

In contrast, the first five teams in the Associated Press' National Poll last week had comparatively little trouble in taking another step towards an unbeaten and untied season.

Navy, No. 1, likewise sputtered some against Penn State and was "held" to 28-0 while Notre Dame, No. 3, used 50 players in squashing Dartmouth, 34-0. Ohio State's Buckeyes, No. 4 was hard put to beat Wisconsin, 12-0, but like Army registered their 12th in a row since the start of the '44 campaign. Minnesota No. 5, dumped Fort Warren by two touchdowns, 14-0.

Horse Sense Bridge

LESSON NO. 806
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When Lady Luck smiles on you and bigger cards come your way, no matter what others do, your bridge seems to be okay. But when your defense is weak, look out for a losing streak.

Drag yourself through this deal:

North
♠ A Q J 4
♥ 7 4 2
♦ K J 7
♣ 7 4 2

West
♠ 9 8 5 2
♥ K 8 6
♦ Q 9 2
♣ J 10 9

East
♠ K 6
♥ 9 5 3
♦ A 10 4 3
♣ 8 6 5 3

South
♠ 10 7 3
♥ A Q J 10
♦ 8 6 5
♣ A K Q

It came up in a duplicate championship, where the same hands are played at all the tables. Mostly, the bidding went like this:

South	North
1♥	1♣
2NT	2NT
3NT	Pass

Typical of what happened, west led a club. Finesses in spades and hearts may lose. But six tricks will still come in from these two suits. With three top clubs, the contract looks easy.

Taking the first trick, south led and finessed a spade. It lost to the east king. In one case, east returned a club, hoping a fourth club would develop for his side. But declarer had it easy from there.

In another case, east estimated differently. Instead of a club, he immediately led back the diamond trey. When west played the queen on it, declarer saw his danger too late.

Dummy won the first diamond trick with the king and his heart finesse lost to west. A diamond from west gave east three tricks in that suit and the contract was wrecked.

At a third table, dummy refused to win that diamond with the king. If west had only two diamonds, declarer would still be safe.

West promptly sent back a second diamond. East wisely refused to use up his ace on it. Then when the heart finesse lost, west led the third diamond and that killed the contract.

It was not tough for a knowing defender to lead a diamond into the jaws of dummy K J 7. If west has not the queen, no harm is done.

See what I mean?

N.H.L. Training Notes

By The Canadian Press

Lester Patrick says he won't be surprised if the National Hockey League schedule eventually lists as many as 80 games for each team in one season. "Of course that might mean carrying a team of 20 players or more," added the New York Ranger boss from the Winnipeg training headquarters, "but I think it will come about in time."

Dick Irvin is disappointed in the quality of the rookie crop with Montreal Canadiens. "I don't know if our veterans are better than most veterans, or if our rookies aren't so good as the usual crop. Anyway, the veterans have been showing up better than the youngsters." Which indicates there'll be some pruning done when the Canadien coach takes inventory today.

The Boston invasion of Quebec City wasn't confined to the hockey team. Boston newspapers also sent a sizeable representation, with the following in Quebec to report club progress: Gerry Moore of the Globe; Henry McKenna, the Herald; and Johnny Gilhooly and John Brooks, the Record.

Western Mustangs Favored to Win College Title

Johnny Metras Has Fine Backfield With Needed Experience on Line

Written for The Canadian Press By JACK PARK, London Free Press

London, Oct. 15 —(CP)— The galloping University of Western Ontario Mustangs, champions of the Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union in the league's last season of operations in 1939, will flash from the starting gate next Saturday as favorites to retain the title.

Just how strong favorites will be better known after the clash with McGill University in Montreal come Saturday. But on paper, at least, the overall picture looks plenty good.

Coach Johnny Metras, moved up since he was assistant to Bill Storen when war blacked out intercollegiate sport, won't come right out and say his gridmen are the ones to beat. Western has advantage, however, in that it featured exhibition matches during war years when rugby was all but dormant in other colleges.

A questionable front line raises the only doubt concerning the all-round class of the Mustangs. Behind that line a razzle-dazzle army of stars, including some back after service in the armed forces, gives the club the needed experience,

After American Style.

Metras, a United States gridiron performer before he moved to St. Michael's College in Toronto as a snapback, has moulded his system after the the American style. It features a fast-breaking, tricky backfield aided by all the blocking and coach can extract ffrom the rule book.

Most prominent of returning veterans is Harry Szumlinski, brilliant running and passing half from the 1939 championship club. Herb Ballantyne, team captain and a standout the last three years in exhibition matches, will direct traffic from the quarterback slot, with Paul Walden as his understudy.

Indeed, Metras has so much backfield material he hardly knows who to "chop." Most likely to line up with the Mustangs, however, are Bob Krol and Joe Koskie, both of Windsor, Ont.; Joe Cochocki, who started this season with Hamilton Wildcats of the Ontario Rugby Football Union; Dick Farley, a London booter, and Pete O'Neill, another Londoner and a former Canadian army paratrooper.

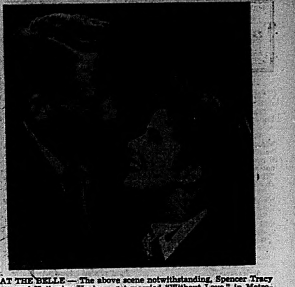
Line Impressive.

Crafty Johnny has done a lot of moaning about his line but that might just be propaganda because the line has been impressive in pre-season workouts. Doug Cook, former Toronto Runnymede Collegiate snapback, has been tagged as the best centre in the game. Bob Allen, big outside wing of the 1942 team, is back along with some last-year huskies. Some of the stars have been lost through graduation.

Wartime exhibition football found Western pitted against some of the top Eastern Canada Senior clubs. For instance, last season the Mustangs defeated Montreal Navy, Eastern Canada champions.

That's something for the respective coaches of University of Toronto, McGill and Queen's University to think twice about.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dan Duryea is able to blackmail Joan Bennett and her unknown companion when he learns of their part in the murder of his celebrated boss. As the other innocent victim in this plot, Edward G. Robinson finds himself forced into a second murder which will certainly betray him to the police. • "The Woman in the Window" is now showing at the Capitol. On the same program "Ever Since Venus," a musical featuring Ina Ray Hutton and her band.



AT THE BELLE — The above scene notwithstanding, Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn get married "Without Love," in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new laugh hit of the name, featuring Keenan Wynn. —"Hollywood Victory Caravan," with a cast of 20 stars and two bands is a special added attraction.

100,000 Soviet Fans on Hand For Soccer Game

(By The Canadian Press.)

The biggest sport crowd of the weekend anywhere was seen at Moscow where approximately 100,000 Soviet fans gathered Sunday for the U.S.S.R. soccer championship match on a snow-covered field, the Red Army defeating Moscow Dynamo 2-1 to take the title. It was reported that sport enthusiasm is sweeping post-war Russia in a revival of hockey, basketball, boxing, wrestling and physical culture on a grand scale. Preparations are also being made to introduce baseball. Horse racing trotting and soccer have been drawing hugh crowds.

A demand is growing for international sport competitions and a British soccer team in Moscow has had many requests for games.

Joe Krol of Canadian gridiron fame did not figure in the line-up of Detroit Lions Saturday when they rode over Philadelphia Eagles 28-24 in a National Football League fixture at Detroit to hand the visitors their first setback of the season.

A crowd of 44,321 at New York's Jamaica Saturday rolled up a record wagering total of $4,151,512 for a seven-race card, compared with the former peak of $3,847,045 at Aqueduct Sept. 3. The mark for an eight-event program is $5,016,745.

Intercollegiate soccer was resumed in Canada after a war suspension at Guelph Saturday when the Ontario Aggies took the short end of a 4-3 score at the hands of the University of Western Ontario in a senior fixture. They were tied 3-all at the intermission.

In various exhibition games, Detroit Red Wings bowed to Cleveland Barons, champions of the American Hockey League, 7-3 at Cleveland Saturday night; Montreal Canadiens measured Providence Reds 4-2 at Shawinigan Falls, Que., Sunday; Hershey Bears beat Pittsburgh Hornets 6-2 at Hershey, Pa.; Buffalo Bisons trimmed New Haven Eagles 9-2 at St. Catharines, and Kansas City Americans handed Chicago Black Hawks a 3-1 defeat at Moose Jaw.

Louisville Colonels of the American Association won the Little World Series at Louisville, Ky., yesterday when they handed a 5-3 reverse to Newark Bears in the sixth engagement of the post-season argument.

The highly-favored Stymie wound up sixth among a dozen starters in the $50,000 Gallant Fox Handicap at Jamaica track Saturday. The winner's share of $39,200 went to Reply Paid which paid $18 to his backers with Trymenow second a length back.

In U.S. pro football yesterday Cleveland Rams scored a 27-14 win over Green Bay Packers; Chicago Cardinals made it 16-7 against Chicago Bears; Washington blanked Pittsburgh 14-0 and Boston tied with New York Giants, 13-13.

800 REPATRIATED

San Francisco, Oct. 15 (CP) — Approximately 800 Canadian soldiers repatriated from Japanese prisoner of war camps have passed through this port to date en route to homes throughout Canada, Captain C. Thompson said Saturday. He estimated all repatriated Canadian soldiers will have arrived back in North America by Oct. 19.

THIRTY-ONE KILLED

Brussels, Oct. 15 —(Reuters)— Thirty-one of the passengers and crew were killed when a Royal Air Force Transport plane crashed at Melsbroeck airdrome, on he outskirts of Brussels, Saturday night, it was announced here today.

The dead were all military or Royal Air Force personnel.

PAT FLANAGAN, JOE JACKSON IN MAIN BOUT

Not one but two important matches go in the Hume Arena ring on Wednesday night. In the main bout Irish Pat Flanagan the fighting airman leaps up to main bout prominence in his rematch with Joe Jackson who gave him such a thrilling battle here in the semi-final last week. Supporting this actionful main battle will be a meeting between John Katan and popular Toar Morgan in the semi-final spot. Morgan and Katan had one of the most thrilling wrestling matches ever seen here last summer when Katan first used his "delayed run to the ring" technique. This dodge enabled him to get back into the ring a fraction of a second quicker than Morgan and beat the count of ten. Ever since the likeable big Toar has been clamouring for a return match. Now that he has got it it's strictly up to the Fighting Marine to see that the same dodge doesn't happen again. The main bout featuring two such smoothies as Flanagan and Jackson indicates that the Belleville fans are due to see their finest scientific match in many months.

In fact several fans have referred to the match as the best in prospect since the spectacular Watson-Claybourne bout here a couple of years ago. This Jackson is smart as a whip, fast and with a dead-sure knack of timing that has won him a long list of victories. Jackson's main hope in next Wednesday's match is that a victory over Flanagan will bring him into a main bout here with Whipper Watson. But beating Pilot Officer Flanagan is going to be quite a little trick, if it does come off. Irish Pat is the fastest improving young heavyweight in the mat sport today. The other night in Maple Leaf Gardens Pat held the redoubtable Bob Wagner to a draw. It nearly ruined him doing it but he made it so Jackson faces a harder task than he pretends to believe. Joe Maich the Brantford Buzz-saw meets Aaron Stein newly arrived from South America.

TROUNCE STRATFORD NINE

Toronto, Oct. 19 (CP)—Toronto East Riverdale trounced the Stratford nine 20-1 Saturday in the first game of a best two-out-of-three series to determine the 1945 junior league champion of the Ontario Baseball Association. The second game will be played in Stratford next Saturday.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Brockville, Oct. 15 (CP)—Russell Gardiner, 40, of nearby Maitland, was killed yesterday when the automobile he was driving was struck by a Canadian National Railways freight train at a level crossing 100 yards from his home. No inquest will be held. His widow and five children survive.

CHAPTER 15.

"Maybe they made him a better deal than Sam would," Paul said.

"But—but he would have let us know, wouldn't he, Paul?" Elaine's eyes were troubled.

Warren stood up. "Don't worry about it, Miss Grayson. If Brann hasn't let you know about it, then it probably isn't true." He stared out across the sloping fairway. "They say he's bringing Karen and Lee out with him."

Elaine saw the little slump to his shoulders, the tightening of the muscles in his face.

"It's probably only gossip," she told John Warren, but her words sounded hollow to herself.

When Paul and Elaine were sitting alone in a corner of the immense clubhouse patio, Paul asked: "Why the dramatic gesture to Warren?"

"You mean when he mentioned Karen and Lee?"

Paul nodded, and briefly Elaine told him the story.

"You see," she concluded, "Warren is probably still in love with Karen. She—she has that effect on people. And when she walked out on him, he couldn't get additional backing to do a new play. And he was operating on a shoestring in the first place."

Paul was thoughtful for a moment. "What will it do to you if Collins comes out here? He's supposed to, you know. Lewin halfway hired him to work on the script of your play. You're supposed to work on it, too."

Elaine studied Paul's face. "You worry about things before they ever happen."

"Maybe. But it's as you said a couple of weeks ago. There might still be some feeling for him in you. And you won't ever really be mine until you lose that feeling entirely. That's right, isn't it?"

"I guess it is, Paul. Only let's not spoil our day by talking about it now."

Paul shrugged. "It has to be talked about some time. What will you do when Collins comes out here?"

"He and Karen are going to be married, remember?"

"I remember, all right. But a lot of people go on loving someone after they've married another. You're not infallible to that."

Elaine whitened a little. "Don't you think I'm the best judge of that?"

Paul smiled, touched Elaine's hand. "I'm sorry, ankle, if I've made you mad. But I want you to marry me, and I want you to be sure about it when you do."

Elaine stood up. "Paul, when I do marry you, it will be for keeps—with everything that's in me."

"The weatherman says tomorrow will be a nice day. Good time to turn in the raincheck."

"Tomorrow, Paul dearest," Elaine smiled widely, "I start work on a picture. But keep after me, will you?"

Paul nodded slowly, looking across the patio. "Don't worry, I shall return to my adolescent days when I used to chase girls up and down the halls of the high school building."

Somehow she was not surprised when the telegram from Annie came. He was flying to Hollywood; would be there the next night, the wire said.

She called Paul. "Hey, it looks as if Warren was right. Annie's flying out here."

"Yes," Paul said above the noise of voices in the background. "I talked to Sam. He told me."

"Well, why didn't you let me—?"

"I'm busy right now, ankle. I'll see you at the cafeteria at noon." He hung up abruptly.

She stared moodily at the telephone.

"Uh — Miss Grayson, if you please." It was Ellison, sitting on his neck in the chair opposite her desk, his feet propped against a filing cabinet. "We have thousands of notes taken at a story conference to wade through before we chuck them out a window and write our own story. Would you like to begin now? My day will be ruined if I'm not at Santa Anita in time for the daily double."

She swung around, looked at Ellison. He was youthful looking, wide, blue eyes under rough brown hair. His features were common, a little ugly, even. He was short, as short as Elaine, and he wore lavender sports shirts But he was a top writer at International. He was ready to produce his own picture some day. He was smart. Lewin paid him well and he stayed out of scandals and talked with the sharp staccato of a machine-gun.

"You are ready, Miss Grayson? Good, then if you will kindly take your eyes off that telephone and gaze at my manly face I shall outline this picture we will write for International. The daily double is run at three o'clock, Miss Grayson."

There was a sharp rap on the door and Ellison groaned. A telegraph messenger walked in and laid another telegram on Elaine's desk.

"Why don't we move down to the Western Union office?" Ellison muttered.

Elaine ripped the yellow envelope open, straightened out the telegram and read it. It was from Lee. He and Karen were following Brann to Hollywood. Karen was going to have a screen test Would Elaine find an apartment for Karen?

She folded the piece of paper into many little squares while Ellison watcher her.

"Bad news, kid?"

Elaine looked at him, startled. She had forgotten he was in the office. "Oh, no. No. Just some people are coming out here." She watched a heavy truck laden with stage sets and props roll past the building.

"Yeah," Ellison said. "I know how it is. When I clicked out here my relatives moved in on me like a pack of flies. I finally had to shoot them."

"Who?" Elaine asked absently. "The flies?"

Ellison dropped his feet to the floor with a resigned sigh. "No, kid, not the flies. If you get any brilliant ideas about a screen story have me paged at the track. I'll be riding the horse with the green eyes in the sixth race." He left the office quietly.

Elaine stared at the telegram. She knew she would have to face Lee's presence again, and she was frightened. She really didn't love him, not the way she could love Paul. But he was in her system he still held some sort of hold on her.

She wondered how soon she and Paul could be married.

Elaine was busily pounding out a scene and Ellison was chewing at a battered pipe, leaning on the filing cabinet, his eyes closed, his lips moving silently.

She stopped and looked up. Lee was standing silently in the doorway, grinning at her.

"So this is how the geniuses in Hollywood work?"

"Who is this stray dog?" Ellison asked, biting down on his pipe. "Go away before we call the dog catcher." He closed his eyes again.

Elaine laughed and rose to greet Lee. His eyes were a little wary.

"You're not still mad at me?"

Elaine shook her head, looked at him. He seemed a little heavier, a little more expensively dressed. "No, I'm happy to see you."

Something shook inside her when he touched her hands. The warmth that came from the look in his eyes sent little electric shocks through her.

"Come in, Lee."

"Miss Grayson. Miss Elaine Grayson," Ellison's voice cut in. "The daily double you know."

"Yes, Ellison," Elaine laughed. "It starts every afternoon at three. Lee, this is Ellison. His first name is Archibald, but everybody here calls him Ellison. He's International's top writer." Lee stretched his hand out and Ellison stared at it disdainfully.

"You're a writer, I presume?" Ellison asked loftily.

Lee nodded. "I've worked on plays with Elaine."

"Sam is always bringing new writers out here, hoping to discourage me. But it won't work, I tell you, it won't work!" He had the office door open. "I will be riding the horse with orange eyes, Miss Grayson."

He was gone, whistling shrilly down the hall.

Lee stared after him, then looked at Elaine. "Whew!"

"That's only Hollywood," she said. "Well, when did you get in?"

"This morning. Just got through signing contracts."

"Where's Karen?"

"She's at Brann's office. He really went to work in a hurry. Has his production staff already."

"Yes, he was telling me about it last night. We—we start work on his next picture, you know."

Lee was looking around the office. "Oh—the two of us?"

"Yes, I thought you knew that."

He pulled out a cigaret case, offered her one. "Well, I was under the impression that I'd be handling the story myself."

Elaine was sitting behind her desk, idly shifting papers around. "If you'd rather . . .?"

Lee watched the smoke curl from his cigaret. "We can decide that later." He laughed. "You should have seen those critics after the play opened. They were calling me a genius again. I certainly made them eat their words."

"I'm glad the play helped you that way."

Lee nodded. "It didn't do Brann any harm to produce something I wrote, either."

"We wrote," Elaine gently reminded him.

His face flushed a little.

Elaine quickly changed the subject. "I suppose you and Karen will get married soon?"

Lee's eyes narrowed. "We'll have to wait and see how her screen tests come out." He seemed not to want to talk about it and Elaine did not press him.

"How about lunch?" he asked abruptly.

The studio commissary with its adjoining cafeteria and smaller dining rooms was crowded. She found a table and was just sitting down with Lee when Paul walked in. She waved to him and he started to the table, then stopped when he saw Lee.

He smiled quickly, then turned and headed for another dining room. She could see him sit down at a table with Lewin and other studio producers. Paul was one of the few who could walk into the more or less dignified dining room of the producers and directors and join them.

Elaine was hurt at his evident snub, but she knew how he felt about Lee. They were giving their orders when Karen walked in with Brann.

Lee twisted in his chair, tried to attract her attention, but Karen made no effort to see him, although Elaine was certain she had when she first entered. She and Brann walked into the other dining room and Lee followed them with angry eyes.

"I ran into John Warren the other day," Elaine said.

Lee's head jerked around. "Warren? Is he out here?"

"He's an associate producer at American."

Lee looked at Karen, visable from their table. "I suppose she'll go big-shot on me again . . ."

Susie smiled up at Elaine when she opened the heavy reception room door of Paul's office.

"Is the Wizard of Oz busy?" Elaine asked.

Manitoba Electors Go to the Polls

Winnipeg, Oct. 15 — (CP) — Polling booths opened at 8 a. m. C.S.T. today in 39 of Manitoba's 46 electoral districts, the other 7 were decided by acclamation, where 48 members will be chosen to sit in the province's 22nd Legislature. Temperatures hovered around 30 degrees as the first voters trekked to the polls.

Seven supporters of Premier Stuart Garson's Union administration, including three cabinet ministers, were elected by acclamation on nomination day, Oct. 5.

Of 118 candidates remaining in the field for election by public franchise today, 59 were coalition candidates. The largest opposition group, the C.C.F. making its first bid for power, had 41 candidates, including two Independent C.C.F. followers. The Labor Progressive party has the second largest group —13 candidates.

Polls close at 7 p.m. throughout the province's rural districts, but in four cities — Winnipeg, St. Boniface, Portage La Prairie and Brandon — eight o'clock is the voting deadline.

Twenty candidates are running for 10 seats in Winnipeg where the proportional representation system of voting is used. In the rural one-member ridings the alternative vote system is in effect.

Besides the seven seats decided by acclamation, Mr. Garson was assured of two additional supporters. In Cypress and Rockwood only coalition candidates are in the contest.

Voting at advance polls was light. Servicemen in the province who voted at special booths last week will have their ballots counted in with the civilian total tonight.

FAO Convention Meets in Quebec

Quebec, Oct. 15 (CP)—In the first major move by the United Nations to give substance to the Atlantic Charter's "freedom from want," delegates from 32 nations begin a conference here tomorrow of the Food and Agriculture Organization which may last three weeks.

This historic city, where Allied leaders previously twice met to plan freedom of the world from aggression, will be the birthplace of the first of the United Nations permanent organizations — one which hopes now to plan victory over the problems of world food and proper nutrition for all peoples.

Already hotels here are filled with delegates and newspapermen who will report F.A.O.'s progress on its objectives of raising nutritional levels, increasing food production, bettering distribution, bettering rural living conditions, promoting international policies for provision of agricultural credit and others.

Puncher Berths With 800 Aboard

Halifax, Oct. 15 (CP) — Carrying nearly 800 men of Canada's three armed forces, the auxiliary aircraft carrier Puncher berthed here Sunday.

The crowd on hand to welcome the Puncher was not large, but there was a good scattering of friends and relatives to greet the men massed on the flight deck and below on the hangar deck.

Returning aboard the carrier were the 92nd Battery, Third Regiment R.C.A., under the command of Major W. R. Gilchrist of Edmonton, returned after fighting through Italy and the European theatre.

Naval personnel disembarking were members of the 31st. Minesweeping flotilla, most of whom will be demobilized at once.

The 150 R.C.A.F. members were entrained at once for Lachine, Que., leaving the city about 11 a.m.

First man off the carrier was Group Capt. John E. Farquier, of Ottawa, who leaped ashore before the gangplanks were in place. Farquier, who possesses the D.S.O. with two bars and the D.F.C., received news on the dock that he had been promoted to Air Commodore. This is the second time he has held that rank as several months before the war ended he resigned the rank so he could return to operations.

The senior C.W.A.C. officer overseas, Lt.-Col. Isobel Croyn, of Ottawa, was a passenger on the Puncher.

REPLACE FLOATING DOCK

Third Division To be Repatriated Begining Oct. 30

By WILLIAM BOSS
(CP War Correspondent)

Amsterdam, Oct. 15 —(CP Cable)— Availability of the liner Queen Elizabeth will permit repatriation of the Canadian army's Third Division to begin Oct. 30, it was announced from headquarters of the Canadian forces in the Netherlands.

Officers responsible for repatriation arrangements said they now were able for the first time to "plan on a minimum basis that won't change.

Plans announced today call for the Third Division to start to leave the Amersfoort area for the Nijemegen repatriation area in a daily flow of 500 men of all ranks, increasing to a daily flow of 1,000 men by mid-November.

Announcement that the liner had been made available for Canadian repatriation service was made last week and it was expected the ship would make four or five round trips before the year-end, carrying about 15,000 personnel in each westward crossing.

Farmers Free to Sell Cream to Any Creamery After November 1st

Ottawa, Oct. 15. (CP) —Effective Nov. 1 the Agricultural Food Board will remove its stabilization restrictions on the purchase and sale of milk and cream which were imposed two years ago, the Department of Agriculture announced in a release today.

After Nov. 1 farmers will be free to sell milk and cream to any condensery, creamery cheese factory or dairy and the trade will be free to buy—subject to provincial regulations—from any producer.

The restrictions were enforced to ensure creameries sufficient cream to maintain the butter ration and cheese factories sufficient milk to fill the cheese contract with Britain and generally prevent unnecessary diversion of milk from one use to another.

It is now apparent that cheese requirements can be met, the release said and the emergency regulations appear no longer necessary. The Board warned, however, that farmers should continue selling cream or milk to their regular buyers until the end of the month in order to continue receiving the producers' subsidies on milk and butterfat.

Bloody Skirmishes.

Bloody skirmishes were reported from widely separated areas as insurgent Nationalists implemented what they called "a Mohammaden Holy War against the Dutch Infidels." Indonesian headquarters ordered seizure of all private property — corporate or individual — throughout Java.

(Two distinct factions exist among the Indonesians, the Hilversum radio reported. The broadast said Dutch dispatches from Batavia indicate Saturday's "declaration of war" against Holland was issued by the Indonesian people's army headquarters and not by the Soekarno Nationalist movement, which previously was believed to be behind the outbreak.

("Soekarno seems to have lost control over his movement altogether," Hilversum radio said.)

Insurgent forces are armed with weapons ranging from guns to poisoned darts and snakes, Nationalist sources disclosed.

An Eurasian eyewitness said Indonesians took a number of Europeans and Eurasians from a train at a village 12 miles north of Batavia Friday. Several, including a European girl, were killed and bodies thrown into a river, the informant declared.

Japanese troops drove Nationalists from the interior town of Garut after three days of fighting in which more than 20 persons were killed. The dead included three Netherlanders and many Japanese. Sixty Dutch prisoners who had been slated for execution were rescued.

Japs Ambushed.

Other Japanese troops, acting under an Allied directive to maintain order, were ambushed by Insurgents who had planted mines in the road. Twenty Indonesians and an undisclosed number of Japanese were killed. Japanese forces also cleared the Indonesians from the mountain city of Bandoeng where a Dutch army ordnance plant is located.

(There were new indications of differences of opinion between British and Dutch authorities on how the Javanese situation should be handled.

(A Singapore dispatch to Hilversum radio said talks between Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Supreme Commander in Southeast Asia, and Lieutenant Governor-General Van Mook "had much less favorable results" than reported.

("It appears that the British will increase their support of the Netherlands but that they want to connect certain conditions with this support with regard to the future dutch position in Indonesia," the broadcast said. British "interference in the internal affairs of another country" has caused resentment in the Netherlands, Hilversum radio added.)

INCREASED BUTTER PRODUCTION

Chicago, Oct. 15 AP—Increased butter production and the United States army's release of 80,000,000 pounds of butter for civilian use will be sufficient to make possible the end of butter rationing by Dec. 1, Owen M. Richards, manager of the American Dairy Association, said yesterday.

WOOLER

Couple Honored Prior to Departure From Community

Wooler—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sharp of Pine Woods, near Morganston, were happily surprised at the home of their eldest daughter, Mrs. Harry Wilee, Castleton, R. M. D., on Friday last when approximately fifty close friends and neighbors assembled to offer best luck and good wishes prior to their departure to Wooler where they have purchased five acres of land. There, they already have a barn erected and have started preparations to build a small dwelling house. In the past twenty years, Mr. and Mrs. Sharp have made a wide circle of friends, who will miss them in the surrounding community where they have spent many happy times.

During the evening an address was read by Mrs. Jerry Philp and Mrs. Allen Jones made the presentation of an occasional chair and a purse of money. Mr. and Mrs. Sharp expressed words of appreciation, saying also, they were sorry to leave such a fine neighborhood, but owing to Mr. Sharp's ill health, he was unable to continue with farm activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharp were former residents of Wooler and their many friends here welcome them back. Their youngest daughter, Isabella, has secured a position with the Bata Shoe Co., at Batawa.

"We're Responsible for His Tomorrow"

"ONE war with Germany each generation!" Is that what we intend to accept in our minds? Where will this boy be at twenty? In Europe again, in khaki or blue?

No. This time, Canadians, and all the allies, are determined that peace will endure. To take practical steps to ensure it, our fighting forces are on duty today with the army of occupation, doing their part to make certain this peace will work. By its very presence in Germany, our army is helping to protect the hopes we all share for our children.

In addition, we must co-operate with our allies in bringing help to liberated countries. Production for this purpose, together with production on the backlog of home requirements, will ensure a high level of employment in Canada.

This great effort takes all the money we can lend. To maintain our forces in Europe and to provide the essentials to European recovery, demands millions of dollars.

There will be only one Victory Loan in the next 12 months. Because of that, the objective for the 9th Victory Loan will be higher than ever before. For that very reason, you are asked to buy double the amount this time—the same rate of savings as in previous loans will pay for twice as many bonds over the 12 month period.

EISENHOWER SAYS JEWISH REFUGEES ARE WELL HOUSED

Food Increase Given and Adequately Supplied With Shoes, Clothing

Washington, Oct. 16 —(CP)— Gen. Eisenhower reported today that Jewish refugees in American occupied Germany generally have more housing space than is required for U. S. soldiers. The commander of U. S. forces in Europe made this statement in a letter to President Truman in replying to a report by Earl G. Harrison, U. S. representative on the inter-governmental committee on refugees, on conditions in the U. S. zone.

Harrison had said that the treatment accorded Jewish and other displaced persons in the U. S. area was little different than they received under the Nazis.

Eisenhower told of his efforts to improve the lot of the Jews and others and described as "definitely misleading" a report that military guard are substituting for German S. S. troops.

He said that on recent inspections of Jewish centres he had found crowded conditions but in "nearly every instance" each person had more than the 30 square feet of space required for a U. S. soldier.

He said the food allowance for displaced persons has been increased by 300 calories daily. They have adequate and suitable clothing and shoes and "uniformly excellent medical attention." he added.

At the same time, he "freely admitted" there is room for improvement so far as schools, welfare activities and outside employment is concerned.

Says Refugee Camps Worse Than Belsen

Crayford, Kent, England, Oct. 16. —(Reuters)—Refugee camps in the British sector of Berlin are worse than Belsen, N. N., Dodd, Labor member of Parliament for Dartford, told his constituents here last night on his return from the German capital.

"In the Russian sector officials were doing more to lighten the loads of refugees," he said. "In the British sector you have to go to see it to know what it is like. I have seen pictures of the Belsen camp and except for the gas chambers, I believe the refugee camps are worse."

Large numbers of children in the camps were freezing. There was no light nor sanitary arrangements in most of the rooms and refugees entered their quarters at night and were unable to leave them until the following morning. They received one meal a day—a plate of soup and a piece of bread.

In the Russian sector the relief work was being handled "mainly by the Germans themselves—countenanced by the Russians".

Labor Situation in U.S. Better Though Picture Still Dark

New York, Oct. 16 — (AP) — Labor disputes, numbering at least 135, kept some 385,000 workers from their jobs across the United States today. It was the lowest total this month, but the general labor picture was not bright.

The darkest cloud came in the form of Labor Secretary Schwellenbach's announcement of the collapse of a conference called to settle the critical soft coal strike.

In New York City, a 16-day strike of A.F.L. longshoremen has virtually paralyzed shipping in the world's biggest harbor.

On the bright side was the resumption of service to some 1,000,000 New England bus and trolley riders as buses, under control of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, began rolling after a three-day strike of 1,800 Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway employees.

Although the government in 10 days of meetings failed to get the soft coal operators and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers to agree over the recommendation of the Mine Foremen's Union, the Labor Secretary said he still held hope of solving the dispute. He said negotiations had adjourned "subject to call," and he was not going to recommend government seizure of the pits.

Meanwhile, the scarcity of fuel in many of the strike areas brought further curtailment to steel and other industries, and threatened to close three large Pittsburgh high schools.

Thousands of steel workers have been furloughed and production in several big mills has been cut as much as 28 per cent.

Violence was reported in the 16-day-old strike of dockworkers in New York harbor, which has virtually halted all out-bound shipping, and hundreds of extra police were ordered to patrol duty along the big waterfront today.

WEAPONS WELL GUARDED

London (CP)—Sentries of the Welsh, Scots and Irish Guards kept night and day watch on the "secret" weapons on view in Trafalgar Square during London's Thanksgiving Savings Week.

CHILDREN FOUND

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 16 — (CP)— After nearly 24 hours wandering in the dense woods on the outskirts of the city seven children who became lost while picking apples Sunday strolled out of the bush about eight miles away yesterday afternoon, little the worse for their experience.

Presses, Backed by Jap Bayonets, Flooded China With Worthless Money

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Oct. 16 —(AP)— Printing presses backed by Japanese bayonets deluged China with now-worthless currency adding up to about $59,400,000,000 in face value, the Tokyo newspaper Asahi said today.

The figure was the first to be published indicating the degree of financial plundering of Japanese-occupied territories by Japan's militarists. It was disclosed by the newspaper in its demand that the Imperial government curb inflation.

Notes totalling 4,000,000,000,000 yuan were issued by the Central Reserve Bank of China, a financial agency backed by the Japanese militarists, the newspaper said.

This sum, at the official rate of five yuan to one yen, equalled 800,000,000,000 yen, or nearly 20 times the wartime homeland note output of the Bank of Japan, which contributed much to inflation in Japan. The current rate is 15 yen to one United States dollar.

Allied authorities, studying the records of the Central Reserve Bank of China and other Japanese institutions used to exploit the Empire's conquests, have declined to announce figures until their survey is completed.

Asahi's report was made in a story outlining some of the financial problems facing the government.

But the actual plundering implied by the size of the China bank's note issue must be doubled to evaluate the total of militaristic financial profits. When the notes were first issued they were arbitrarily discounted at one for two former Chinese yuan, thereby halving all bank accounts and other assets based on the former yuan.

The notes probably are the largest, but by no means the sole part of wartime currency which the Japanese issued without a single ounce of gold backing. The Central Reserve Bank of China served Central China, including Shanghai.

Other banks were established for North and South China, Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies, the Philippines, Indo-China and Siam, in addition to the long-existing note issuing banks in Manchuria, Korea and Formosa.

Asahi, in demanding inflation curbs, detailed the following additional financial headaches in store for Japan:

1. Reparation payments, which have not yet been determined but which will represent a "large figure as a state burden."
2. Indemnities for war-damaged munitions industries within Japan, estimated to exceed 100,000,000,000 yen.
3. State help to semi-official overseas companies, including the Central Reserve Bank of China which issued the Militarist-backed currency.

BRITISH TROOPS REPORTED LANDED IN EAST INDIES

'Indonesian Republic' Declares Report False Country Has Declared War on Netherlands

London, Oct. 16 —(AP)— The Free Indonesia radio said today the "Indonesian Republic" of Java had declared completely false all reports that it had declared war on the Netherlands.

Meanwhile the All-India radio reported British reinforcements had landed on the rich Dutch East Indies to cope with native disturbances.

The Netherlands news agency Aneta reported Saturday that the Indonesian People's Army of the Soekarno Nationalist Movement had issued a proclamation declaring war on all Dutch, Eurasians and Ambonese.

The Free Republic radio broadcast this purported statement from the "Republic," contradicting the Aneta dispatch:

"All news circulating abroad that it has declared war on Holland is false and untrue. The reports are only the evil provocations of foreign agents who are trying to discredit the Indonesian Republic. The Indonesian Republic wishes to emphasize their policy which is to respect the principles of peace, humanity and justice."

The All-India radio said the two British brigades on Java would be built up to a full division. Lt.-Gen. Sir William J. Slim of the Southeast Asia Command was reported to have approved military plans for dealing with the situation on Java.

Disarm Japanese.

(A Reuters dispatch from Batavia said first task of British and Indian troops assembling in the capital would be to take over the numerous internment camps on the island in which there are between 60,000 and 100,000 Dutch men, women and children.

(The dispatch quoted an Allied spokesman to the effect that disarmament of the Japanese on the island would be carried out after the internment camps were taken care of.

(Aneta, the Netherlands news agency, said a battalion of British Indian troops arrived at Batavia yesterday and were moved inland 30 miles south of the capital city immediately after disembarking in Batavia port. They were assigned to disarming the Japanese in that area south of the city, the dispatch said.)

Draws Sharp Protest.

A Dutch broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said the use of Ghurka troops to occupy the town of Buitenzorg had drawn a sharp protest from Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, All-India Congress Leader, who assailed employment of the Indian troops "to suppress the Indonesian Freedom Movement."

Nehru was quoted also as protesting against the dispatch of any material from India to Java which might be used to "subjugate" the Indonesians.

(Reuters reported British troops with fixed bayonets halting motor vehicles driven by Indonesians, and searching them for arms.)

Commando Tactics Save Family

Everett, Mass., Oct. 16 — (AP) —Commando tactics he learned for overseas duty possibly saved the life of Cpl. Emerson H. Foster, 34, his wife and baby.

Foster, in "human fly" fashion, descended the outside of a burning house to reach the street 30 feet below by using window ledges on which to get foothold.

He reached the sidewalk in time to notify firemen that his wife and child were trapped in a third floor attic. Firemen carried them to safety over ladders.

Foster was in the D-Day invasion of Normandy and only recently returned from Germany.

LINER AGROUND

London, Oct. 16—(CP)—Lloyd's of London said today the 7,936-ton British India steamer Takliwa was aground and burning fiercely off the Nicobar Islands in the Bay of Bengal, with either troops or repatriated prisoners aboard. Rescue ships were reported en route.

The ship, bound for Madras from Hong Kong, normally has a crew of 143.

BAVARIAN CHIEF

Wilhelm Hoegner, New Westminster-president of Bavaria, has promised to rid Bavaria of all Nazis in public office. His own hatred of Nazism cannot be questioned inasmuch as he had to escape to Switzerland under the Hitler rule to save his life. He succeeds Dr. Friedrich Schaeffer whose apparent disinclination to sever connections with former Nazis was one of the reasons that General George S. Patton, Jr., was called on the carpet by General Dwight Eisenhower.

PACKINGHOUSE STRIKE THREATENS CANADIAN PLANTS

Coal Miners Slow in Obeying Union's Call to Return to Work

(By The Canadian Press)

Possibility of a general strike of Canadian packinghouse workers today darkened the Canadian labor scene. Strike votes have been called in all major Canadian packing plants.

Maritime coal miners last night deferred a threatened strike for higher wages. But Western Canada coal miners, who were striking for an increased meat ration, were slow in obeying the union's call to return to work.

The strike of 10,000 automotive workers continues at the Ford plants in Windsor, Ont., while a Toronto conference of federal and provincial labor officials with representatives of the company ahd of the union resumes today in an effort to find a solution.

Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) said at Toronto last night that strike votes will be conducted at the Swift Canadian Company plants and Canada Packers Company plants across Canada within a week. He said a strike vote at the Swift Canadian plant at Moncton had already been carried unanimously.

The federal government last Friday appointed a federal controller for the five western plants of Burns and Company where a strike vote had previously been taken. At that time Arthur MacNamara, deputy federal labor minister, said the government would also take over all meat-packing plants where strikes threatened, if necessary. Labor Minister Mitchell and Mr. MacNamara, both of whom were in Toronto, had no comment last night on the new and wider threat.

Dowling said that the Union is seeking from each of the three major packing chains a master agreement for a 40-hour week with no reduction from present pay for a 48-hour week.

CHURCHILL PORT TO BE USED MORE EXTENSIVELY

Repatriation Progress To Be Given by Mr. Abbott When the Estimates Are Given

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 16. (CP) — The Port of Churchill, Man., which on the word of Cabinet Ministers is closed by ice or fog for all but a few months of the year, may be used almost as extensively as other Canadian ports for shipment of wheat overseas once the tightness of the shipping situation eases.

That was the intimation made by Transport Minister Chevrier and Reconstruction Minister Howe in the Commons yesterday during an almost day-long debate on suggested and possible uses of the port.

Mr. Howe, who built the 2,500,000-bushel grain elevator at Churchill before he entered politics, and Mr. Chevrier both stated that it was an indisputable fact the Navigation season through Hudson Bay to the port was limited to 1 to 14 weeks a year.

Despite this fact Mr. Howe foresaw the possibility of 20,000,000 bushels of grain a year being moved through the port and said there were few ports in North America which handled a larger amount.

R. S. Moore (CCF-Churchill) set off the debate on his resolution which asked that more extended use be made of the port or, as an alternative, that the Federal Government turn it over to the jurisdiction of the prairie provinces.

The resolution was supported by a vote of 105 to 24 when a division was called after Mr. Moore declined to withdraw it on the suggestion of Mr. Howe. Most opposition members and most Liberals supported the resolution. Those who opposed it included some Liberal members from or near Atlantic and Pacific ports.

With the day devoted to private members' business, there were few announcements prior to the debate on Churchill.

Details Expected.

A picture of the situation in regard to the repatriation of service personnel and war brides is expected to be contained in a speech by Defence Minister Abbott when he speaks on departmental estimates, possibly this afternoon. The speech is likely to contain statistics on the progress of the repatriation program which the minister already has told the Commons is ahead of schedule.

An unofficial compilation shows that about 150,000 of the 160,000 personnel which the services expected to move back to Canada between VE-Day — May 8 — and Christmas, have already arrived home.

37 Members Win, 7 Others Leading In Latest Returns

C. C. F. Fails in First Major Bid for Power

Winnipeg, Oct. 16—(CP)—Premier Garson's Coalition Government today held office in Manitoba for a second term, swept back into power in yesterday's provincial general election in which the C.C.F. failed in its first major bid for power in the province but strengthened its position in the 55-member legislature.

The Coalition forces, which held 43 seats at dissolution, elected 37 candidates and seven others were leading when compilation of the vote wound up for the night. The C.C.F., led by S. J. Farmer, elected four candidates, an increase of one from its dissolution strength, and five were leading.

The latest standing, compared with the standing after the 1941 election: —

	1945	1941
Coalition:
Liberal - Progressive	21	26
Conservative	11	13
Social Credit	2	3
Independent	2	5
Independent - Con.	1	-
C. C. F.	-(37)	3(31)
Opposition:
C. C. F.	4	-
Independent	1	1
Conservative	-	2
Workers	- (5)	1 (4)
Doubtful	13	-
Total	55	55

Early compilation of the popular vote indicated a probable total of 218,000 compared with 163,576 in 1941 when 16 government supporters were elected by acclamation.

Based on incomplete results, Coalition candidates polled 54 per cent of the total vote. The C. C. F. had approximately 34 per cent, and other opposition candidates 12 per cent.

Score Personal Victories

Mr. Garson and Mr. Farmer scored personal victories in home constituencies. The premier had a walk-away election in Fairford where he defeated G. W. Leonard, 64-year-old C.C.F. candidate. Mr. Farmer headed the poll in the 10-member riding of Winnipeg, elected on the first count after the quota for election under proportional representation had been set unofficially at 7,600.

W. A. Kardash, Labor-Progressive leader, failed to obtain election on first count in Winnipeg, but he was well up among the leaders when the count was halted for the night. Leader of the Manitoba Conservative party, Hon. Errick Willis, Minister of Public Works, was re-elected by acclamation nomination day along with six other supporters of the government.

German Luftwaffe Is Now Being Broke Up, by RCAF in Easy Stages

By FLT. LT. G. ANGLIN, R.C.A.F.

Oldenberg, Germany, Oct. 16 — (CP) — In this city a few miles west of Bremen technical officers and clerks of the R.C.A.F. are taking apart the German air force in a three-storey high school whose class-rooms once resounded with the Luftwaffe's praise.

Oldenburg high school now houses headquarters of the R.C.A.F. Disarmament Wing which set up shop here May 20. Three squadrons were established thru a "tactical area" more than 40 miles wide and running 100 miles north to the North Sea coast and including the Frisian Islands.

Under Group Capt. W. E. Bennett of Ottawa, the Wing launched its share of "operation eclipse" —disarming all German air force establishments with an area of 4,000 square miles — and "operation resurrection" — studies to reconstruct the administrative and operational activities of the defeated force.

Fighter fields, air-sea rescue stations, anti-aircraft batteries and radar installations, big camps and small installations were visited during the first phase of the operations. Guards were established at each point until an initial survey had been completed.

"Our men were provided with a complete list of all 'targets' known to British intelligence as a basis upon which to work," said Wing Cmdr. J. R. Thompson, D. F. C., of Listowel, Ont., Wing Operations Officer. "As each target was visited, the entire surrounding area was combed for minor installations not previously discovered through espionage or aerial observation.

"While conducting this first 'quick appreciation' we were instructed to watch out for four different classes of material. Priority was given to the Luftwaffe's most advanced types of aircraft, rocket and other hush-hush items for immediate shipment to Britain for expert investigation.

"Second on the list were materials suitable for immediate Allied use in the task of occupation of the Pacific theatre, before the Jap war ended. Other types of equipment were wanted for exhibition purposes on the home front, and a fourth class of 'dangerous material' such as small arms and explosives was given immediate attention to insure it would not fall into wrong hands."

In four months the first phase was completed and the second was begun — that of hauling away equipment for temporary storage and sorting.

Sqdn. Ldr. Victor MacLachlan of Owen Sound, Ont., heads the signals and radar sections.

Wartime Controls Extended for Five Years in Britain

London, Oct. 16. (CP) —The House of Commons voted 258 to 139 Monday night to extend the government's wide wartime controls for five years, after the Labor majority beat down a spirited Conservative attack led by former Secretary, Anthony Eden.

Mr. Eden, leader of the opposition in the absence of ailing former Prime Minister Churchill, said the broad powers over the economic life of Britain which were asked by the Labor government were "such as no government has ever before asked for in times of peace."

Earlier the House rejected 306 to 183 a Conservative amendment which would have limited to a maximum of two years the powers under which the government is able virtually to draft labor, to regulate prices of food, clothing, building materials, labor and other services, to direct factories to certain types of production and even to requisition housing.

The latter authority was used principally to provide billets for troops and to shelter bombed-out persons.

MacArthur Asked To Allow More Newsmen in Japan

Washington, Oct. 16 —(AP)— The War Department Bureau of Public Relations has asked Gen. MacArthur's press headquarters at Tokyo to restudy its recently announced quota system for correspondents with view of liberalizing it wherever possible.

A spokesman said today the bureau had been in cable discussion with the Tokyo army press relations headquarters, directed by Brig.-Gen. Legrande A. Diller.

The department has advised Tokyo to be sure that the quotas were based on a fair allotment of representation for the press and radio, even if it meant some rearranging of billeting and eating facilities.

Gen. Diller announced Saturday a quota system for correspondents fixing the total number of reporters each wire service and certain newspapers and radio companies could have in Japan and Korea. This order followed a previous decision to return all correspondents to civilian status later this month.

FACIAL INJURIES SUSTAINED IN CRASH

Leo Ryan, Stirling was taken to the office of Dr. J. .. Robertson last night suffering with severe facial injuries as a result of a truck-motor accident on Pinnacle Street at the rear of the McCarthy Theatre Monday night.

According to city police, three large transports were parked at this spot and one of them was being backed into a warehouse in the vicinity.

Douglas Smith, Plainfield was driving south on Pinnacle in his car and endeavoring to avoid the truck which was in the backing-up process, crashed into another transport parked on the other side of the street.

Ryan was a passenger in the Smith car. Damage was done to the front of the car, and to the rear of the transport.

WOMEN INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Mrs. E. McLearn, Bonarlaw, and Mrs. Laura Brown, also of Bonarlaw, were injured in a triple-car accident that occurred on Highway No. 14, seventeen miles north of the city Monday.

A car driven by Phyllis Wells, Marmora, travelling north on the highway sideswiped a car driven by Marion Heath, Stirling. Bouncing off the Heath car, the first vehicle struck another automobile driven by John E. Brown, Bonarlaw, causing damage estimated at $200 and injuring the above named passengers. Mrs. McLearn suffered head and facial bruises and Mrs. Brown complained of hip injuries.

Damage to the Wells car amounted to $45 and to the Heath vehicle $25.

Traffic Officer Harry Caldwell, O. P. P., who investigated the accident stated that charges will be laid.

RUNAWAY HORSE STRIKES AUTOMOBILE

It's an old newspaper axiom that when a man bites a dog it's news.

In similar, vein, it's equally news when a horse takes it into his head to charge a moving automobile.

It happened on Highway 14 two miles out of the city when a frisky Dobbin owned by Roy McMurter ran out and struck a car driven by Albert E. Downey, 240 Charles Street, hitting the left door of the vehicle.

There were no injuries sustained and no serious damage, but according to investigating Traffic Officer Harry Caldwell, when last seen, the nag was still going strong and rapidly disappeared from view.

MISS MARION DANIELS NOW IN NEW POSITION

Miss Marion Daniels, of Foxboro, well-known leader in Leadership Training work throughout Belleville Presbytery . Young People's Unions and the Bay of Quinte Conference Union of which Mr. Don Williams was recently re-elected President, is now on the headquarters staff of the United Church in Wesley Buildings, Toronto, being secretary to Rev. Alvin J. Cooper, Young People's Secretary for the United Church of Canada, in the Board of Christian Education Department of which Rev. Dr. A. J. William Myers is secretary-in-chief.

CITIZENS WARNED TO BE CAUTIOUS WHILE WALKING ON LEAVES

In an effort to cut down the number of unnecessary accidents which might arise from the conditions, Chief of Police Walter Probert today requested the co-operation of pedestrian and motorist alike in exercising caution on city streets, that will become slippery with fallen leaves and rain.

"The people of this city as a rule are careful in their driving and walking habits, as the number of street accidents here compared with those of other cities of the same size will prove. But as a precaution I would like to issue a word of warning against unnecessary speeding of motor vehicles, especially at the intersections, when streets have become littered with leaves and other autumn debris. Pedestrians, too, should exercise care when crossing streets which are in this condition. A slight slip might result in serious after-effects. It's better to be safe than sorry", he said.

Guest Story Teller Entertains Rotary

In a distinct departure from the usual guest speaker program, the Rotary Club at its Monday luncheon sat back, relaxed and heard Barry Stafford, noted Kingston raconteur, in his best form regale them with humorous stories that at times had the clubmen in gales of mirth and merriment.

Mr. Stafford whose ability as a teller of stories has gained him fame over a widespread district is no stranger to Belleville service clubs and his witty sparkling style of relating purely fictional yarns made him an immediate hit with Rotarians here.

He is an expert mimic and his interpretations of the French, Russian and other national characters whom he introduced in his stories added color to the actual yarns themselves.

Possessed of histrionic as well as lingualistic ability, Mr. Stafford illustrated his stories with many gestures, the majority of which were realistic imitations of those actually used by the characters themselves in stories in which he introduced some outstanding international figures.

His quick ready wit was exemplified during a rapid fire introduction by Rotarian Jack Ireland. Rotarian Ireland was relating in fast oratory, the many accomplishments of the guest "story-teller" when Mr. Stafford suddenly interrupted with the well-known radio slogan, "Sold to American". Roars of Rotarian laughter greeted the unexpected sally.

He was thanked on behalf of the club by Rotarian Tommy Tucker, who acted as an efficient sergeant-at-arms as well. During the luncheon, Rotarian Morley Duff, urged the co-operation of the clubmen in the National Clothing Drive scheduled here on Wednesday. A number of Rotarians volunteered the use of trucks while another large number responded to the appeal for men to man them.

Former Napanee Minister Honored

Rev. A. J. "Aleck" Wilson former pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, and for the last five years editor of the "United Church Observer," official organ of the United Church of Canada, was recently honored in Philadelphia by being elected vice-president of the Associated Church Press, an international organization of editors of church papers. While church papers were criticized sharply for being drab and without much reader challenge, Dr. Wilson's paper was given high honors as being an outstanding exception. The Doctor is well known in the Belleville area, and is the editor of the Napanee Beaver. He is a camera enthusiast and his candid shots taken on church occasions have helped greatly in the five-fold increase that has greeted his editorship. He is at present on a speaking tour of the Eastern provinces in the interests of the "Crusade for Christ" and will visit his old school, the Pictou Academy, and attend the inaugural ceremonies of H/Col. the Rev. W. Ross Flemmington, M.C., as President of Sackville University, succeeding the Rev. J. G. Trueman, who has retired. Col. Flemmington has been overseas since the beginning of the war and was Principal Protestant Chaplain at C.A.O.S. Headquarters in London at the end.

FS. Lyle Bedell Presumed Dead

Flight Sergeant Lyle E. Bedell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Bedell, R.R. 2 Belleville, reported missing over Nuremburg, Germany some months ago, is officially presumed to be dead, RCAF headquarters, Ottawa, has informed his parents.

According to information received by his parents, the young air gunner was member of a bomber crew of seven who were shot down over the German city. Three of the crew lie buried near Nuremburg, while two escaped alive. No sign of a grave, or any other evidence that Bedell and another member of the crew were killed has been uncovered. They apparently disappeared into thin air after their bomber crashed.

The young airman enlisted in the RCAF in 1943 and after extensive training in various parts of Canada was given his wing at Mont Joli, Quebec. He went overseas in July, 1944, and was posted to a bomber squadron. Previous to enlistment, he was associated with the Aluminum Company of Canada at Kingston.

Born in Sidney township he received his early education at the Avondale school, later becoming a student at Belleville Collegiate Institute. A brother, former Stoker Petty Officer Glenn Bedell, who saw over three years service in the Navy is now discharged. Another brother, Bruce, 9, and a sister, Mrs. C. Wood, reside with their parents.

Previous to enlistment Flight Sergeant Bedell was a member of Holloway Street United Church.

Jap Sub Failed To Save Hitler

London, Oct. 16 —(CP)— A Reuters News Agency despatch from Tokyo today said a former Japanese navy staff officer had "told details of a plan for Hitler to escape to Japan with Eva Braun."

The despatch said a Japanese officer attended a "secret meeting in Tokyo on March 3, 1945, when final arrangements were made for the "rescue" of Hitler and his former secretary, whom he is reported to have married shortly before the fall of Berlin."

"Hitler had promised the Japanese that if they provided a safe refuge for himself and Eva Braun he would give them plans which he guaranteed would win the war in the Pacific, the Japanese officer said.

"Hitler also asked for and was given an assurance by the Japanese Imperial Staff that after the Japanese had conquered Australia and America they would help him regain control of Europe so that between them Germany and Japan could rule the world."

The navy officer said at Hitler's request, apparently because he had reached the stage where he could trust no one in Berlin, a Japanese submarine was sent to pick him up.

Last-Minute Hints on Getting Those Parcels of Clothing Ready For Wed.

Tomorrow, Wednesday, lest we forget, is Collection Day for the National Clothing Drive across Canada for the war victims of Europe's devastated countries.

And here are some last minute tips.

Any clothing, no matter what vintage, style or pattern, whether, men's, women's or children's is vitally needed.

Boots and shoes, regardless of style, whether men's, women's or children's are equally necessary, to the winter welfare of ill-clad men, women and children, innocent sufferers of the holocaust of war.

Here is an important item. Bundle the clothing in compact parcels or packages. Tie them with stout cord or string, and place them on your verandah before 1.30 in the afternoon.

The same applies to boots and shoes.

No Dry Cleaning Necessary.

And in answer to several queries, clothing does not have to be sent to the cleaners before being bundled. As long as it is in a reasonable state of cleanliness and repair, it is acceptable.

Service Clubs have rallied to the call for help and are donating trucks and manpower to facilitate the collection.

More are needed. Many hands make lighter labor. Anyone wishing to donate a truck or his personal services, please report to the Armouries by 1 p.m. Wednesday where collection zones will be allotted.

The central collection point will be at the Armouries. If your parcel is by any chance missed, rush it to this point and your efforts will be gratefully appreciated.

Remember, there will be one collection only. And that is on Wednesday.

A last thought. Go through the attic or that old trunk again. You may find other articles of clothing that will be a God-sent gift to some half-naked European, who will soon be face to face with the cold blasts of winter. Do it now. And have that package ready for the collectors when they call.

Jas. W. Haggerty Laid to Rest

The high esteem in which James W. Haggerty, late treasurer for the County of Hastings, was held was evidenced by the large number of friends from the city, county and province who were present at his funeral which took place from his late residence, 236 Church Street, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on Monday afternoon. The service in the church and at Stirling Cemetery was conducted by the minister of St. Andrew's, the Rev. J. G. Hornsby.

The late Mr. Haggerty was a member of Stirling Lodge, A.F. and A.M., and the last rites of the orders were conducted at graveside by Master of Ceremonies, Bro. Thomas Solmes; Wor. Master Cecil Baker, and chaplain, Bro. H. R. Tompkins.

The bearers were Messrs. Elmer Sandercock, Erle S. Denyes, W. H. Middleton, David Fleming, Simeon Fox and James Moore.

The honorary bearers were Messrs. Peter McLaren, Charles S. Rollins, W. E. Wiggins, S. B. Rollins, Walter Whytock, William C. West, Henry Larkin, Geo. Thompson, J. L. Churcher, W. J. Davis, Charles Rush, T. E. Fleming, Dr. S. S. Lumb, Dr. A. T. Embury, all of whom are past wardens of the County, and J. Fred Wilson, M.P.P., the present warden; also Geo. H. Stokes, M.P.; T. J. Mahoney, secretary-treasurer, Ontario Good Roads Association; John Sibbett, Past President Ontario Good Roads Association; George Raynor of the Raynor Construction Company, and Harvey Small, District Municipal Engineer of the Ontario Department of Highways.

At the service in the church all the present members of the County Council and county officials were present, also the Mayor and aldermen of the city of Belleville and city officials; the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, the Bowling Club, the Rotary Club and the Cemetery Board.

Select Site On Madawaska R. For Power Project

Toronto, Oct. 16. (CP)—Selection of a site on the Madawaska River near the ghost town of Stewartville, seven miles from Arnprior, for construction of a $7,000,000 hydro-electric project to develop 50,000 horsepower was confirmed last night by Dr. T. H. Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission.

The project will employ 600 workers for some 18 months and inject new life into a community which became a ghost town after early lumbering operations in the valley passed it by.

After a six-month survey by engineers, the Stewartville site was picked as most suitable for the first two units of a five-unit plan to bring 150,000 horsepower in increased Hydro power to Eastern Ontario.

Other units and sites would be selected at a later date. Meanwhile engineers are still at Stewartville and progress has not yet reached the contract-letting stage.

The new development will be linked with the 55,000-horsepower plant at High Falls farther up the Madawaska near Calabogie.

Reports from Arnprior said several carloads of machinery had already been unloaded at the Canadian National Railways Station at Glasgow, the nearest to Stewartville, and railway officials were said to be planning to resume operation of the station which had been closed for several years.

City Beaches Land Sold for Use As Factory Site

Despite the protests of delegations from the Women's Christian Association, the Hospital Board and the Beaches Association, the City Council at a special meeting on Monday night sold to Kingston parties a parcel of land on the Bay of Quinte waterfront, south of the hospital for an industrial site, where cement products will eventually be made. The council reserved a right-of-way of more than sixty feet that can be developed into a waterfront and bathing beach.

It was recommended and unanimously passed "That the City Solicitor take immediate steps to convey to C. M. Partridge and St. Clair Hurlbut according to their offer parcels of land between the C.P.R. right-of-way and the Bay of Quinte known as the easterly fifty feet of Block H., Block one and Block two including Dufferin Avenue, which it is recommended should be advertised for closing at once, saving and excepting a right-of-way in common with others over and upon a strip of land running east from the 30-foot right-of-way on the plan and north of the Bay of Quinte over southerly portion of the land hereby conveyed tapering to a width of 60 feet at the easterly edge, the purchaser to have a 30 foot right-of-way to Willis Street."

Other Recommendations

In another recommendation a by-law will be prepared to close Dufferin Avenue from the C. P. R. tracks to the Bay of Quinte and the same will be advertised in the local paper. Another motion to have the Mayor appoint a committee to bring in a proposal for employing a town planning engineer to make a survey of the city was referred back to the committee because the meeting could not deal with the matter as the session was called for one specific purpose.

The Industrial Commission went on record as favoring the transfer of the particular strip of land for an industrial site, Mr. A. B. Baird speaking for the Beaches Association was much opposed having an industrial firm on the land chosen although he was strongly in favor of having industries come to Belleville. He stated the Association was interested in the development of the waterfront for a natural recreational area.

The speaker felt that the city should have industries away from the waterfront. Mr. Baird said that $3,000 had been spent on the Beaches and a great deal of time and effort of the members and he was sure the people had used the recreational facilities. He did not think that the 60-foot allowance on the waterfront was enough.

Mark Vanner told of the progress made at the beaches and asked: "If we have industries on the waterfront where are the people going for recreation especially those who have no cars. He claimed that the proposed sewage disposal plant would clean up the pollution that is said to exist at the beaches but the people would be unable to get to the beaches if industries were built in the area."

"At one time the Beaches Association approached the council to lease the whole waterfront and the deal was practically completed but never finished," said Mr. Vanner. "I am not quite sure that the present council is fully conversant with the aims of the Beaches Association in that area."

Elevated Siding Needed.

Morley Stork, also speaking for the Association, stated that the waterfront could be made into a lovely spot and wanted to know if there was any advantage to the industry to be on the bay shore. "We are trying to develop a park as well as a beach," said the speaker.

Mr. Hurlbut, one of the parties interested, explained that the firm required a siding and there must be a difference in elevation. He expected that the surrounding district would be supplied from this plant.

Mrs. W. C. Mikel of the W.C.A. stated she had been in the hospital circles since 1919, and the present hospital had run into many difficulties and the greatest was the railroads creating noise by whistling of the engines and shunting. She stated the present plant stood at $750,000 with employees and nurses standing at 200 and this represents a lot of money coming into Belleville. She said 1,000 meals were served a day and most of the food was bought in the city. The W.C.A. would like to buy the land because of the future need of expansion of the hospital, Mrs. Mikel concluded.

Mackenzie Robertson, Chairman of the Hospital Board, said that if the city was to grow the hospital would also grow and if "You fence us in," the place will be totally too small.

Mr. Robertson was opposed to the shunting of cars, that would take place at the new plant so close to the hospital saying that the institution had enough of this to contend with at the present time. Frank Cushing appealed for the retention of the land because in years to come it could be made into a park for the benefit of tourists, whose trade is eagerly sought by both Provincial and Federal governments.

Mr. David Fleming said he was interested in the Beaches of Belleville and that they should be preserved. J. O. Herity explained that the Commission had worked to a plan handed them by the City Engineer and the plot of land under controversy was marked as an industrial site and was shown for that purpose. The matter now remains a question of policy for the council.

Ald. Woodley stated he was surprised that the organizations represented at the meeting were against this proposition because industry was the backbone of any community and Mr. Vanner stressed the fact the Beaches assoc. was not trying to block any industry coming to Belleville. Many of the Aldermen expressed the opinion that the location of the industry would not hurt the hospital in any way.

The council then went into the committee of the whole and passed the above recommendation without a dissenting voice. The Mayor thanked the delegations for coming to the meeting to discuss in a friendly way matters vital to the municipality. Mr. Hurlbut thanked the council for their decision and that he and Mr. Partridge would take an active interest in the community life of the city.

Beef Shipments To Britain Show Big Increase

Ottawa, Oct. 16. (CP) — The Canadian Meat Board announced today that from Sept. 29 to date it has shipped or booked for shipment to Britain a total of 37,123,000 pounds of beef carcass weight, seven times as much beef as in the entire third quarter of this year.

The total for October so far compared with 4,743,000 pounds shipped in September, 1,050,000 pounds in August and 137,000 pounds in July, carcass weight, wihch is meat with the bone in.

Canada's latest beef commitments to Britain for 1945 have been placed at 200,000,000 pounds of carcass and boneless beef with the possibility of another 25,000,000 pounds if she can supply it. In addition she has undertaken to ship 465,000,000 pounds of bacon through 1946 and will also supply 114,000,000 pounds of canned meat for peoples of the liberated areas of Europe.

Exports in the first half of the year totalled 80,000,000 pounds of carcass weight beef, 255,000,000 pounds of bacon and 51,000,000 pounds of canned meat.

Estimated slaughter of cattle at inspected plants during the last half of 1945 is placed at 825,000 head, and it was believed this would enable fulfilment of the contract for canned meat. However, officials said that even allowing for reduced home consumption as a result of meat rationing, the estimated slaughterings would provide at most a total of 160,000,000 pounds of beef for export for 1945.

HAMILTON, ONT., PUPILS OUSTED BY SKUNK

Finding the housing shortage somewhat difficult, a skunk took up residence under a frame annex to Onteora school, near Hamilton, Ont., with the result that 250 pupils got a two-day unscheduled holiday. An SOS brought Hugh Halliday, nature writer, who has a pet skunk of his own which has the run of the house, from Toronto. After much digging and crawling under the school annex, Mr. Halliday brought out the offender and here puts him into a bag while pupils hold their noses. Principal W. A. Tindall hopes to get classes back into the regular routine after the school has had the week-end to "cool off."

Why Australia Is Worked Up Against the Japanese

By THOMAS DUNBABIN
Australian Press Attache, Ottawa

When Singapore fell on February 15, 1942, nearly 20,000 Australian soldiers of the 8th Division became prisoners of war. Elsewhere at Amboina, in Java, at Rabaul, several thousand more Australian soldiers and a number of civilians fell into Japanese hands.

The pitiful remnants, broken, maimed, starved and tortured for more than three years, are now being brought back to Australia. Many thousands will never return—and many of those who do would rather be dead.

Take the little Australian garrison of Amboina in the Moluccas as a test case. A Japanese force of more than 20,000 overwhelmed them in March, 1942. Of the 792 who were made prisoners, 164 were rescued on September 10 and brought to Darwin, Australia. Of the others, 17 were executed, 411 died, and 200 were taken away from the island and have not been heard of since. This means that one in five of the Australians made prisoner at Amboina has returned.

In the case of the 8th Division men from Singapore who were sent to North Borneo the proportion is much lower.

Of the 7,000 men first sent from Singapore to work on the Siam-Burma railway, 3,100 died there. Mortality amongst the British soldiers was 61 percent. The Australians lost 31 percent. These figures are given by the Singapore correspondent of the London Times.

A second body of 3,270 sent later lost only 886 men. The Emperor Hirohito had decreed, so the Japanese stated, that the railway must be rushed through. The behavior of the Japanese is described by British survivors as an impressive tribute to the success of the intensive efforts of the authorities to brutalize and dehumanize their army.

Of 150 Australians who surrendered at Tol in New Britain in February, 1942, only one survived. The Japanese, according to native evidence, killed them all, a few at a time. One, who was left for dead, escaped.

As might have been expected from their hideous record earlier in China, including the horrors, continued for a fortnight, of rape, torture, massacre and sadism at Nanking—where a cousin of the Emperor Hirohita was in command. The Japanese were no more merciful to women and children than to men.

Here are two sidelights:

A woman who reached Brisbane on September 25 told how the Japanese beat and brutally ill-treated the children of an internees' camp near Batavia, Java, where 3,000 children died. Children of six were made to work and to bow to Japanese soldiers. The children were forced to dig their own graves.

Sixteen Australian women, four army nurses and 12 others, made prisoner at Rabaul on January 22, 1942, returned to Australia on September 13 to tell of starvation and savage beatings. All said they were systematically starved till they were glad to eat the entrails of cats and dogs and had to crawl upstairs on hands and knees. Each evening they had to bow towards the palace of that eminent marine biologist, the Emperor Hirohito. As they bowed they whispered in English: "Damn the emperor, God save the King."

The starvation of prisoners was not always due to lack of food. Owen Colin Campbell, one of the very few survivors of 2,000 Australian soldiers from Singapore sent to Sandaken, North Borneo, told on his return how well-armed, well-fed Japanese guards often destroyed quantities of food before the eyes of the starving prisoners.

Nor is it certain, though most accounts give the Japanese the benefit of the doubt, that Japanese cannibalism at the expense of Australian prisoners was always due to the pressure of need. In some cases, set out in the report of Sir William Webb, Chief Justice of Queensland, to the War Crimes Commission, the flesh was cut off while the prisoner was still alive.

It is true that when they were really hungry the Japanese ate their own dead as well as Australians and Americans. One Japanese made prisoner said that when rations ran short the Japanese ate their own dead. Another said that he first practised cannibalism at Buna on January 10, 1943. He found human flesh reasonably good to eat.

In itself sporadic cannibalism is not very significant, especially when the pressure of real hunger can be pleaded. Perhaps, too, we should not dwell on the case of the two Americans at Kokumbona on Guadalcanal, whose livers, as Mr. Justice Webb finds, the Japanese cut out while the prisoners were still alive.

What really matters, as Australia's Minister of External Affairs (Dr. Evatt) pointed out in London on September 20 in commenting on the Webb report is that the atrocities in general are "part of a system of terrorism in which all Japanese troops and commanders participated."

That there were atrocities is now more or less admitted even in Japan. Naturally attempts are made to minimize or gloss them over. And efforts will be made to put all the blame on poor old Tojo, who failed even to commit suicide, or on shadowy "militarists."

Speaking of Japanese atrocities at Manila the Tokyo newspaper Nippon Sungro Keizai wrote on September 18:

"The facts are there, it must be admitted, and the responsibility for the Japanese soldiers' atrocities must be made clear."

This is just what the Australian Government wants done. As Dr. Evatt put it on September 20:

"The report reveals not only individual and isolated acts of barbarity but also practices which are beyond the pale of accepted human conduct and which cannot have become general without the connivance, encouragement, and direction of superior officers up to the highest."

Since Dr. Evatt said this, much more evidence has, with the release of prisoners, come to supplement that taken by Mr. Justice Webb from 500 witnesses. Mr. Justice Webb's report deals mainly with Japanese atrocities in the New Guinea and Solomons areas. The further evidence suggests that what happened elsewhere was true to pattern.

The Australian Prime Minister (Mr. Chifley), noting the heavy task that lies before the War Crimes Commission in Europe, has suggested that a separate Atrocities Commission be put to work in the Pacific. It would be a heavy and grievous task. There is no lack of evidence and more is unearthed every day.

More than two centuries ago Defoe wrote in "Robinson Crusoe":

"Dangers as well of the seas as of the Japanese, who are a false, cruel, and treacherous people."

And Australia feels that something ought to be done about it, The evidence bears out Defoe. and done soon.

The Answer . . . to 3 personal questions

Question 1
HAVE YOU A MAN STILL IN THE ARMED FORCES?

● Then you will truly realize that, even though the "cease fire" has sounded, a lot of money will be required for the forces of occupation —to bring home as quickly as possible those no longer required, and to meet our obligations to them after their return.

Question 2
IS YOUR MAN HOME AGAIN?

● You are looking ahead with him. You want stability—security—your man must have the best in hospital care if needed. This all adds up to the fact that Canada must raise a tremendous sum of money—money for mustering out pay—money for all the benefits and services your man so richly deserves. That's why the coming 9th Victory Loan drive is so important —and so necessary. Lend twice as much as before. Do your full part in putting the 9th Victory Loan Campaign over the top.

Question 3
ARE YOU PLANNING YOUR IMMEDIATE FUTURE?

● With the cessation of hostilities, one's thoughts turn to plans for the future. Money may be needed to carry you over from wartime to peacetime jobs. Then there are education, household repairs, and replacements to take care of . . . all important uses for the money already invested in your Victory Bonds. The savings reserve you add to now will be so important and useful later, that you should make the largest purchase you can of 9th Victory Loan Bonds.

Only Victory Loan for a Year

The 9th Victory Loan is the only one for 12 months. You are asked to buy double this time—the same rate of savings as in previous Victory Loans will pay for twice as many bonds over the 12-month period.

Buy from savings; by wage deductions; monthly savings through Banks, Loan or Trust Companies or by the deferred payment plan. Plan now to double your investment in the 9th Victory Loan.

New Type Dress

In an effort to make this newspaper easier to read, particularly for those whose whose eyesight is not as good as in their youth, the management has provided a whole new type dress for the paper. It is somewhat larger in size and has more space between each letter, and is known as "opticon." The extra space between the letters permits each letter face to stand out and so makes for better printing.

The work was done by degrees and we imagine some readers possibly thought their glasses were not working right or those who had none that maybe the time had come for them to visit the optometrist. The variation in the old and new type faces was quite noticeable when arranged side by side. Strangely enough certain of our readers who gleefully pounce on the mistakes which ordinarily appear in every paper seem to have been left behind because, so far as we know, no one mentioned the change in the appearance of the paper either during the change-over or since. Guess the boys are slipping.

There was no hokus-pocus about making the selection of type face. We just merely examined several different styles and finally selected the one which was thought most suitable. Just as simple as that! The fact there have been no protests would seem to indicate the readers are satisfied with the selection.

This is merely the first of improvements which are to be made and which will be made evident in the better appearance of the paper generally.

Initiations Should be Discouraged

There was a brief reference in Monday's Collegiate News which stated there has been some agitation started in one of the upper forms for initiation of newcomers to the school. The item went on to suggest the matter be referred to the Students' Council.

This is a matter which should receive much consideration before being approved by any student group. If the proposal will promote any form of rowdyism and humiliation to "Freshies" then initiation has no place in the Collegiate. It serves no good that we have ever been able to discern and the tendency has been to curtail these activities in universities.

The forms initiation take in some schools, colleges and fraternities, descend to rather a low level of humor even if it is done "only in fun." If there could be some form of ceremony devised in which the participants could enter with some degree of pleasure it would be all right. But if the boys and girls who enter secondary schools have to make fools of themselves for the entertainment of senior students then we think initiations have no place here or elsewhere.

Relief for M. P.'s

There is a resolution by the Government before the House of Commons whereby it is proposed to pay $2,000 a year expense money to all Members of Parliament, that, presumably, means Senators, too. By and large Canadians will not quarrel with the fairness of the proposal, even an M.P. is worthy of his hire. But the question can properly be raised is the resolution well timed?

There are thousands of white collar men employed in the country on whose incomes a tight ceiling is maintained, says the St. Catharines Standard, and from all accounts, it is the intention of the Government to retain the ceiling for some time to come. There are demands everywhere almost, by labor, for a 30 per cent increase in wages with a 40 hour week. Under these conditions it is proposed that the Members of Parliament vote themselves a reimbursement of $2,000, an expense allowance in addition to the $4,000 a session indemnity.

There is no doubt a Member of Parliament has a good case, and it is not right that a man serving his country should be out of pocket. That condition, if continued very long will put only affluent men in control of the affairs of the nation. And if an M.P. is poor, he must live parsimoniously, on the proverbial shoestring in Ottawa for many months of the year. Good service cannot be expected in either case of rich or poor M.P. But the lawmakers cannot expect one law for themselves and another, restrictive law for others, that is price and wage controls. Until the lid is lifted, the proposal to pay expense allowances should be deferred. After that it can be made unanimous.

Squirrel Slaughter

(Kenora Miner and News)

The report of the game and fisheries committee of the Board of Trade that 25,000 squirrel skins had been sold in Kenora, will come as a shock to the majority of Kenora citizens, for the mischievous little red squirrel has come to be accepted and looked for in our bush travels, and outside of being a niusance when he gets into summer camps and digs deeply into an unguarded mattress, he has given little trouble down through the years.

For years past, boys of town and district have shot squirrels in the bush, but their toll could not have passed much beyond the hundreds total. It seems a shame that this little busy-body should be the object of mass slaughter, and something should be done to stop this, before it is too late and our forests are denuded for years to come.

Harsh Words

The official suggestion that a waistline measuring exactly 42 inches must classify a man as portly is a vicarious insult very hard to bear; and for the correspondent who actually suffered this indignity in an arm yclothing store sympathy will be widespread, says The London Times.

Everyone knows to his chagrin how slipshod in choice of epithet are officials whose invidious task it is to describe fellow-creatures to their faces. A complexion which might without offence be called "fresh" is only too likely to appear on a passport as "florid," and hair allowably "gray" comes out devastatingly as "white."

There is no limit to the power of the official pen to wound tender secret susceptibilities, and as a rule we can only nurse our grievances in silence as must a woman who, having been told often that her eyes are of a wonderful lapis lazuli, reads that for official purposes they are merely blue. But it will be generally agreed that the official pen should not be allowed without protest to strike at the waistline.

Sailors' Homes

Former merchant seamen and their families are to be accommodated in a new type of village in Surrey, England. There is to be living space provided for 250 families at first, says The Halifax Chronicle. A community centre is being built, two theatres, a swimming pool, tennis courts and a nursery school. The National Union of Seamen is responsible for the idea, but South Africa is so impressed with it that $200,000 has already been contributed from that source.

Materials may be short in Britain, but somehow they seem determined to get things done for those who served the country. That is something to be admired—and possibly copied here.

Bad Habit

An ex-soldier, with a gold discharge button in his lapel, met an old friend on the street. They chatted for a while, then, when the ex-soldier bent to light a cigaret, the friend noticed he wore handcuffs and quickly looked around for an accompanying officer, Coronet related. There was none. He took a second look — sure enough, they were handcuffs. One steel bracelet was snapped on the right wrist and the other was clamped around the belt.

"Darned nuisance," sighed the ex-soldier. "But I've got to break myself of saluting officers, somehow."

St. Michael's Church, which was destroyed by fire last December, was opened and consecrated yesterday by His Grace Archbishop Gauthier. It was, indeed, a happy day for the popular Parish Priest, Rev. Father Twomey and the former pastor, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Farrelly. The interior of the church is not yet completed. The grand organ, which will probably cost $8,000.00, may not be installed for a year or two, and a temporary, but beautiful altar, was used yesterday. No one could help observing that the present church is much brighter and more beautiful than the old church. The twelve marble pillars, which used to present such a striking and beautiful appearance in the old church, have been duplicated in the new church. They came from Aberdeen, Scotland. The cost of nine of the twelve pillars has already been donated and the remaining three will soon be accounted for. The nine donors are as follows: Rev. Father Twomey, Rev. Father Holden, Chancellor of the Diocese of Hamilton, an old Belleville boy; Mr. W. Williamson, Mr. A. Robertson of Montreal, Mrs. O'Horo, Mr. T. Daly, Mr. Walter Cahill, Mr. Frank Dolan and Mr. J. Reporters Say Dog Can Talk Kettlewell, Yorkshire, Oct. 16—(CP)—Two Yorkshire newspapermen are satisfied there is such a phenomenon as the talking dog.

Interviewing a mongrel dog named Punch, the property of Robert Gommerson, they claim the animal talks in a high falsetto voice and has a vocabulary of three words.

This conversation is alleged to have taken place between the reporters and the dog at Mr. Gommerson's cottage:

Reporters: "Are you hungry, Punch?"

Punch: "I am."

Reporters: "How old are you?"

Punch: "I am two."

The reporters also claim to have played a game of dominoes with Punch in which the dog won.

"The claims made for Punch are absolutely authentic," said Miss Cutcliffe-Hyne, daughter of the late J. Cutcliffe-Hyne, Yorkshire novelist.

PACKINGHOUSE

"We wrote Canada Packers and Swift Canadian over a week ago asking that they enter negotiations but have not heard from them," he said.

The strike vote among about 900 Toronto employees of Swift Canadian will be taken tonight. The vote among approximately 1,800 Toronto employees of Canada Packers will be taken within a week. Votes will also be conducted in Swift Canadian plants at St. Boniface, Man., and New Westminster, B. C., and at Canada Packers plants in Hull, Que., Peterborough, Ont., St. Boniface, Edmonton and Vancouver.

The threat of a strike by 12,000 Martime Coal Miners was averted for the time being when the United Mineworkers of America (C. I. O.) at Glace Bay, N. S., last night announced that the present wage contract would be extended to Oct. 31, and that a general referendum of the workers would be held Oct. 30 to decide whether to accept or reject the latest decision of the National War Labor Board. Previously it had been announced the contract would be terminated at midnight Monday night.

The Union wants an increase of $1 a day and an extra week's vacation with pay. The alternate offer was two weeks vacation with pay and wage increases to be met by an increase of 33 cents a ton in the selling price of coal.

In Alberta and British Columbia Coal Miners appeared divided on the decision to return to work. Headquarters of district 13 of the United Mine Workers at Calgary estimated only 4,000 of the 9,000 miners "on holiday" had returned yesterday but said the number would be increased shortly.

No Details Given

On the Ford strike, no details were forthcoming from the Toronto conference, the first time that company and union heads have been in conference with government officials since the strike started Sept. 10. Delegates however said after yesterday's preliminary meeting that the discussions were "satisfactory", and expressed hope of an early settlement. The workers want a union shop and check-off, 30-hour week and two weeks' holiday with pay.

These were other developments:

At Windsor, the city council last night voted to discontinue, as from midnight tonight, relief in the form of food and fuel to Ford Company employees either on strike or made idle by the strike, on the ground that it is the responsibility of the Federal and Provincial governments.

At Toronto the Goodyear Local 232 of the United Rubber Workers announced more than $1,000 had been collected from its members for the Windsor strikers and further collections would be made; another $300 was donated by Local 584 of the U.A.W.A. in East York township.

At Drumheller, Alta., the Domestic Coal Operators' Association of Western Canada wrote Acting Finance Minister Ilsley and other cabinet ministers asking immediate intervention in the "holiday" of Drumheller miners and charged that if it were not for "very ill-advised public utterances" by Chairman Donald Gordon of the Prices Board the miners now would be back at work.

37 MEMBERS

The Canadian Press election trend-analysis indicated the reelection of the government at 8:51 p.m. C.S.T. 51 minutes after the close of urban polls and an hour and 51 minutes after rural polls had closed.

Liberals Elect Most

The Liberal-Progressive party, headed by Mr. Garson, elected the largest number of members, 21, followed by the Conservatives with 11. Social Credit elected two and two Coalition Independent candidates were successful.

Mr. Garson called the victory 'an impressive vote of confidence,' one that will give his government a clear road with its post-war reconstruction program, the major issue in the election. It also renewed his mandate to seek financial re-adjustments at the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference.

Mr. Farmer said he was a "little disappointed" but expressed pleasure that the C.C.F. had increased its membership. He forecast the possible election of 10 members.

All cabinet ministers were returned to office. Resources Minister J. S. McDiarmid heading the Coalition candidates in Winnipeg, running second to Mr. Farmer. Hon. N. L. Turnbull, Social Credit Member of the Cabinet, was re-elected in Hamiota.

Former Judge Elected.

The only opposition independent elected was L. St. George Stubbs, former County Court judge, who was re-elected in Winnipeg.

Coalition candidates hold leads in Fisher, Killarney, Winnipeg, where four nominees were well up as the second count proceeded today, and in Rupert's land.

C. C. F. nominees are leading in St. Boniface, St. Clements, Springfield, the Pas, and Winnipeg.

In the single-member Rural Ridings the alternative or single transferable vote system was used and where the poll was indecisive last night a transfer of ballots will continue today.

In the far-northern constituency of the Pas, Berry Richards, independent C. C. F., was leading in a close contest, but his fellow House member, Dr. D. L. Johnson of Brandon, another independent C. C. F., went down to defeat. Both were suspended from the C. C. F. party early this year after criticism of party policy. L. H. McDorman, coalition Liberal-Progressive, won the Brandon seat, defeating both Dr. Johnson and Peter McDuffe, the official C. C. F. candidate.

Veteran Defeated.

The C. C. F., however, scored a victory in Assiniboia where the veteran David A. Best, coalition Conservative and member of the last House, was defeated by Ernest R. Draffin.

In Portage la Prairie, C. M. Greenlay, coalition Conservative, was re-elected, defeating Mrs. Horace Mann, C. C. F., and Earl Moffat, Labor-Progressive. The only other woman candidate Mrs. Harry Walsh, coalition Liberal-Progressive, had little chance of election in Winnipeg.

Servicemen in the province voted last week at special polling stations, casting ballots for candidate in home constituencies. The service vote was consolidated with the civilian pool. A special returning officer reported only 1,384 servicemen voted, the largest number in Winnipeg where the count was 660.

Later, three members at large will be elected by servicemen outside the province, including those stationed overseas, to bring the House membership to 58. Each branch of the service will have a representative—the Army, Navy and Air Force.

John Bracken, now National Progressive Conservative Leader, formed the coalition government in 1940, seeking a non-partisan administration for wartime. The C. C. F. supported coalition on its formation, but withdrew support after Mr. Bracken became Progressive Conservative Leader. Mr. Garson succeeded to the premiership in 1943.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed.

BEWARE CARBOLIC ACID

A child's fingers were injured by a machine, one finger crushed, another almost severed. The doctor gave the child the benefit of the doubt by sewing the nearly severed finger in place. Five days afterward (as the child's parent describes it) in the hospital the doctor informed the parent the child had "carbolic gangrene."

Now this is confusing. The parent is vague or careless about the identity of the doctor—no telling from the letter whether one doctor gave the child the first aid treatment and the treatment in the hospital, or perhaps a second doctor horned in and took charge in that ethical way waxy plugs you mould in warm hospitals or hold "staff" positions do when such a case comes in. I know. I served as a physician on the staff of a hosbital for years. It's a nice racket if you can wangle a place on the staff. Not so nice for those who practice on their own.

The doctor at the hospital told the child's parent the child had "carbolic gangrene" and that it was caused by the (careful, now, Brady, you'll stir up a veritable hornet's nest if you just presume the trade name for the product is no longer private property)—well, we'll call it the Saponated Solution of Cresol or Solution of Cresol with Soap, which has been used as an "antiseptic" in the dressings. The parent says they changed doctors and the second doctor (ah, then, the first doctor talked himself out of the picture, eh?) amputated at once, where the gangrene was. The first doctor had been waiting for the gangrene to stop. Does gangrene stop? (Signed———)

I (Brady) imagine the first doctor had discontinued use of the cresol and was waiting to see whether the blanching or apparent death of the injured tissues would clear up. That, I should say, was good sense. I'd want to wait and see if my fingers were at stake.

Cresol is virtually crude "carbolic acid"—officially it is a "mixture of cresols and other phenols obtained from coal tar." The official name for "carbolic acid" is phenol.

In my judgment neither "carbolic acid" (phenol) nor cresol nor any preparation containing phenol or cresol should be used on any cut, abrasion or wound. I believe it is too dangerous, too likely to cause gangrene (death of the tissues or the finger itself). I believe even the weakest "carbolic salve" or other ointment containing phenol or cresol retards natural healing by destroying delicate new cells as fast as they can form.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Ear Stopples

After years of questioning I have found a satisfactory way to exclude disturbing noise so I can get to sleep—I work nights and have to sleep daytimes. Probably many of your readers would like to know about—(paraffin or waxy plugs you could in warm fingers to fit your own ear canals)—which, I believe, are available in the east and middle west in drugstores, sporting goods stores etc. (C.R.)

Answer—Thank you. Ordinary paraffin candle or the material called soft paraffin wax (not the hard paraffin used for sealing canned jellies and fruits) is practical for ear stopples. For excluding water from the ears, swimmers and divers may use either natural lamb's wool or cotton batting (not absorbent cotton) to keep the ear canals plugged while in the water.

Acid Stomach

I must tell you how grateful we are for your pamphlet "Yankee Stomach". My husband has suffered a great deal for several years from what some doctors call "nervous hyperacidity" and others call peptic ulcer. He has taken innumerable ant-acids and followed prescribed diets with indifferent results. But for the three months since he began using the discs you recommended for hyperacidity he has enjoyed almost complete relief.

(Mrs. A. R. H.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. On request I'll mail any reader who provides stamped self addressed envelope the pamphlet "Yankee Stomach."

Pimples and Blackheads

Please recommend something to remove pimples and blackheads. My face is a sight.

(Miss A. F.)

Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address, for monograph on "Acne."

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why are Nova Scotians called Bluenoses?

"Bluenose," it is supposed, became associated with Nova Scotia and its inhabitants as the result of a common variety of potato that at one time was exported in large quantities from that province to New England.

The Yankees associated the name of the potatoes with the people who raised them.

This particular variety was probably known as the bluenose because one end was bluish or purplish in color.

In time "Bluenose" was accepted by the Nova Scotians as their favorite nickname, and now it is widely used in connection with sports and as the name of ships, train, etc.

It is not probable, as sometimes stated, that the nickname is derived from the fact that the typical Nova Scotian, owing to the northern latitude of the province and the cold winters, is often given a blue nose by Jack Frost.

Nor is it probable that the nickname has any relation to "bluenose" in the sense of a puritanical or snobbish person.

Thomas Chandler Haliburton, who was a native of Nova Scotia, wrote in "The Clockmaker, or Sayings and Doings of Samuel Slick of Slicksville" (1837):

"Pray, sir," said one of my fellow-passengers, "can you tell me the reason why Nova Scotians are called "Blue-noses?"

"It is the name of a potato," said I, "which they produce in the greatest perfection, and boast to be the best in the world. The Americans have, in consequence, given them the nickname of Blue Noses."

By extension the nickname is now frequently applied to the inhabitants of all the maritime provinces of Canada — Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick as well as Nova Scotia.

EVEN THE COLONEL LENDS A HAND

A volunteer dock gang — the strangest ever assembled in New York — took over as the strike of dock hands there went into its 10th day. Sixteen army officers, including a colonel, a lieutenant-colonel and eight captains, manned the winches, loaded slings and drove motorized dock trucks. Officers of the transportation corps, water division, are shown unloading G.I. baggage from a ship at a Staten Island pier.

YOUR NURSING SOW IS LIKE A COW!

Yes sir—a nursing sow is a lot like a cow. To make either of them milk heavily you have to feed her a milk-making ration. And it's really important to your pocketbook to make your sow milk well.

When a sow has plenty of good rich milk for her sucking pigs, they come right along. When she hasn't, they don't. Government survey figures show over 20% of all pigs dying before weaning . . . 1 in every 5, a total loss . . . mostly caused by lack of milk.

Feed your sow for milk. Feed her MacKenzie's Chow-Mix Sow Ration. Let the little fellows help themselves to it, too. That will get them used to solid feed, and lift them over weaning without a setback.

FEED BOTH SOW AND LITTER MacKENZIE'S CHOW-MIX SOW RATION.

LIBERALS SEEKING TO RETAIN OFFICE IN N.S. ELECTION

C.C.F. Makes Bid for Power With Candidates Running for Majority of House Seats! Voting Oct. 23

Halifax, Oct. 16—(CP)— Long-time exponent of the two-party system of politics and Liberal bastion for 66 of the 78 years since Confederation, Nova Scotia on Oct. 23 elects a new legislature with the C.C.F. party making its first full-strength bid for power.

The C.C.F., which wedged its way into the Legislature in 1939 when Douglas MacDonald won a by-election in Cape Breton Centre, then entered five candidates and won three seats in 1941, this year has entered the lists in a majority of the province's 30 House seats.

The Liberal administration at dissolution of the Legislature had 22 seats, against four for the Progressive Conservatives, three C.C.F. and one vacant.

With that margin of strength, the Liberals are seeking to retain the power they have held ever since Confederation, with the exception of the periods 1878-82 and 1925-33 when the Conservatives directed the affairs of the province.

The strongest threat from the C.C.F. is expected to come from Cape Breton—where the party holds three of the five seats in the coal mining Cape Breton County—and in the mining and industrial eastern section of the province. The party also has entered candidates in the five Halifax county ridings.

The history of earlier elections bred the tradition that urban areas voted Conservative and rural voters favored the Liberals. That was shattered in the last three elections when industrial areas went Liberal by heavy majorities, and the C.C.F. captured three seats in the coal mining area in 1941.

After Confederation

The first House after Confederation sat under a Liberal premier, William Annand, although Nova Scotia had entered the union under the leadership of that staunch Conservative, Sir Charles Tupper. Hon. H. Blanchard had formed a government July 4, 1867, in protest against Confederation, but later was forced to resign and Annand took his place.

Leader of the anti-Confederationists before this was that most famous of Nova Scotia Liberals, Joseph Howe. Like Tupper, he never sat in the provincial Legislature after 1867. When Blanchard formed his government, Howe was in England trying to have the British government remove Nova Scotia from Confederation and restore its colonial status.

He changed his views a few years later and served under Sir John A. MacDonald at Ottawa, and just before his death became Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia. The agitation against Confederation was continued by his followers until 1878, when the Liberals were defeated and the Conservatives crossed to the right of the Speaker's chair for their first sojourn in power. They held office until 1882 under S. H. Holmes and J. S. D. Thompson, who like Sir Charles Tupper later became Prime Minister of Canada for a brief time.

Then the Liberals were returned, and held sway until 1925 under the leadership of W. T. Pipes, W. S. Fielding, later federal minister of finance, G. H. Murray and E. H. Armstrong. Labor unrest and a strike in the Cape Breton coal fields unseated the government and the Conservatives took office under Hon. E. N. Rhodes.

In 1933 Angus L. MacDonald led the Liberals back to office following an election disenfranchisement scandal. Premier MacDonald was returned in 1937. He was called to Ottawa in 1940 as Navy Minister. A. S. MacMillan held the premiership in custody for MacDonald who returned to the party leadership this summer after terminating his five-year stewardship of Canada's naval service.

White's Church Has Anniversary

White's District—Anniversary services were observed at White's Church on Sunday, October 14th with the Rev. J. R. Trumpour of Cannifton Circuit taking the morning service assisted by the Pastor, the Rev. A. C. McCallum. The church was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants for the occasion. Mrs. Frank Sandercock as pianist played "Drifting" as a musical prelude and the choir favored with two anthems, "Give Praise This Holy Day" and "Sunshine In The Heart". Mr. Trumpour using as his text, "In Him was Life", gave examples of some who followed in Jesus' footsteps as missionaries, overcoming all difficulties because they had faith and endurance.

The Rev. J. R. Trumpour was also guest minister at the evening service. He chose as his text "The Earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein." We are all entrusted with certain duties and must use our talents to the best of our abilities. In the old story of "Adam and Eve," Adam was entrusted with the care of the garden but failed in his trusteeship. The trustees of the church have certain duties to perform. 150 years ago William Carry, a cobbler, gave up his work to become a missionary to India. In the church he founded the chairs to this day are still called Carry's chairs and the crutches he used in his old age are still preserved. We need the spirit of Jesus Christ to solve individual problems, so we must dedicate ourselves to Jesus.

The choir rendered "Jesus is Precious To Me" as an anthem and Mrs. Glenn Meyers of White's and Mr. Earl Brooks of Johnstown favoured with a duet "He Hideth My Soul". Appropriate hymns were used throughout both services.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Bert Hall in the loss of her husband who passed away on Wednesday morning at Belleville General Hospital. Friends and relatives gathered at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon for the funeral service conducted by the Rev. A. C. McCallum. Mr. Hall until recently, has been actively engaged in farming and markets gardening.

The guest speaker, Rev. Mr. Glazer, B.A., B.D., Th. Ed., of the Albert College staff, chose "Fellowship" as the theme of his address. The meaning of "Fellowship", the factors that enrich fellowship such as co-operation, unselfish sharing of responsibility, devoted service, and thirdly the hindrances to true fellowship such as rivalry and jealousy, were clearly reviewed in a very challenging manner.

During the evening, Miss Ana English, bride-to-be, was presented with a beautiful tray by the members of the Y.P.U. as a token of appreciation for her services during the past two years.

After a friendly sing-song, tea and cookies were served.

Most helpful and well chosen posters illustrating each phase of the topic were prepared by Mrs. Wheal. The topic was divided as follows:

What the country owes to youth, Mrs. Wheal; the community, Mrs. Rankin; the church, Miss Mutton; the school, Mrs. Drinkwater; the home, Miss MacDermid.

A vote of appreciation was tendered the speakers by Mrs. Duffin. A few words were spoken by Rev. Mr. Poulter, who closed the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Woodley Local Furrier, Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Wedding Dinner Held at Quinte Hotel on Sunday and Recipient of Many Beautiful Gifts

Application of the Golden Rule to business methods, and a thorough knowledge of one's work or job is the formula for success of Mr. George T. Woodley, well-known Front Street furrier, who celebrated 41 years of business here on Oct. 11 and on Monday, Oct. 15, observed with Mrs. Woodley, the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

Time has been kind to this Belleville couple through a half century of marital happiness. Nine of a family blessed the union and consistent success has marked five decades of business principles that throughout the long years have been known for courteous dealing with the public.

The ravaging hand of Time has left but little mark on Mr. and Mrs. Woodley since the 15th of Oct. 1895 when they stood hand in hand in the parsonage of the Dorchester Street Methodist Church, Montreal and before the Rev. William Sykes took their marriage vows. At the present time they are both in the best of health.

A Large Family

Now they boast a family of 37 sons, daughters and grandchildren, 26 of whom were present at the "wedding dinner" held in the Hotel Quinte on Sunday. Afterwards the family paid its respects and felicitations to proud parents at a reception held in the home of Mrs. T. E. Poste, a daughter who resides at 70 Dunbar Street. There with numerous other gifts, Mr. Woodley was presented with a handsome wrist watch and his bride of 50 years a lovely wall mirror.

Mr. Woodley is a native son of Belleville and was born here 73 years ago, one of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Woodley. He has two brothers Albert and Phillip, both of Detroit, Mich., and a sister Mrs. C. C. Miller, of St. Catharines.

Mrs. Woodley was the former Miss Ada Inman, of Birmingham, England. She has a sister, Mrs. C. McMillan, who resides in Los Angeles, California.

Employed in Montreal

Mr. Woodley was employed with the John Henderson Company, prominent Montreal furriers at the time of his marriage. Leaving Montreal in 1904 he came back to his native Belleville and established his own shop on Charlotte Street. A few months later he moved to the present store at 273 Front Street where he has successfully conducted his business for the past 41 years.

Through prosperity and depression, Mr. Woodley states, he has never had a setback in business. True, times were trying on occasions but he never lost faith in the public and by endeavoring to "do to people as you would have them do to you" has marked his long business road with the milestones of success.

Intensely interested in church work, he has been associated with the Holloway Street United Church nearly all his life and for a number of years was its Sunday School Superintendent. In his earlier days he was connected with the Y.M.C.A. here and organized the first Boys' Department in that institution thirty-five years ago.

Ardent Bowler

He is an ardent bowler and spends long hours in the summertime on the lawns and greens of various bowling clubs. Asked if he had any regrets, he said, "Yes, one, I wish I could bowl better."

He never had any aspirations to become the mayor of Belleville or even a city councillor, "even in the old days when they were looking for men to sit in the seats of the municipal mighty." He was however, a member of the Board of Education here for a period of 10 years.

Members of the family include five sons, Messrs. Ald. Harold (Twig) and Russell at home, Gerald, the present mayor of Gananoque; Leslie of Hamilton, and Arthur (Bud) who served 4 1/2 years with the R.C.A.F., two of them in Ceylon, and who returned home last May, and four daughters, Mrs. T. E. Poste, Belleville, Mrs. Elwood Nicholson, Kingston, Mrs. H. A. Poste, Toronto, and Mrs. H. Howard, Toronto. The family with its immediate relatives was here for the parents' golden wedding.

Many Congratulatory Messages

Mr. and Mrs. Woodley were the recipients of felicitations of a host of friends in the city and outside points.

Mr. Woodley's grandmother, the late Mrs. George Brooker, died in Belleville on New Year's Day, 1920 at the grand old age of 101 years, less two months. His mother lived to see her 95th birthday.

Rev. J. G. Hornsby Elected President

The Belleville Ministerial Association held their annual meeting in Bridge St. Church parlors, on Monday. With almost all its members present.

Rev. R. C. Chalmers, Th.D., spoke to the Ministerial Association of Belleville yesterday at Bridge St. Church Parlors on "Religious Reconstruction", which he said was necessary to meet the Intellectual rationalism, the Social conflict and the moral perplexities of an age of an easy conscience. "The problems," he said, "were all basically religious and must be the concern of the Church which has to function in a cultural atmosphere which is basically irreligious. His suggested remedies were: First Greater co - operation between the Churches: "to function together for common ends", which movement is gaining ground rapidly in the Canadian Council of Churches, the Federal Council in the United States and the World Council which has 87 communions co-operating; Secondly: a Rebirth of Interest in Theology, which must stress the things that are held in common; and most of all, there must be, he said, a new emphasis on Religious Experience and emphasis on its validity. "We must make the spirit and content of the New Testament a living reality in the Church today", "no if's" and "buts" will do, nothing but "I know whom I have believed" will meet the modern needs of man. Dr. Chalmers, received his doctorate degree this year "in course" at Victoria University; and was appointed Associate Secretary of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church, at the General Council at London in 1944, succeeding the Rev. Dr. John Coburn, who retired. He was then minister of Sherbourne Street Church, Toronto. He is a maritimer.

The officers for the next year are: President, Rev. J. G. Hornsby; Vice President, Rev. J. W. Houston; Secretary - Treasurer, Rev. H. O. Eastman.

Words of appreciation were very ably spoken to the retiring President, Rev. J. A. Dilts, and the retiring Secretary-Treasurer, Rev. J. S. Spearman.

Winter Sports Coming Up

By PRUNELLA WOOD

Barbara Stanwyck is ready for any wintry winds that blow, in this lumber jacket and slacks outfit. Shown here as designed by Edith Head of Warner Bros. for skiing, Barbara wears a popcorn white stocking cap and mittens. But for bright October days, long before the slopes are covered, the outfit sans warm accessories is comfortable going.

The plaid tweed is red, black and gray; the pants gray flannel. Note their zipper-closed slant pockets.

Fashion Flashes

A SPOT OF COLOR combines with warmth to create a pretty dormitory nightgown. At a college show, applause went to a nightie of white and blue flowered flannelette with a bright red middy tie.

THERE'S NOTHING as attractive as an all-white evening or dinner dress fashioned on long slim, fluid lines. This is typified in a white crepe dinner dress made with long sleeves from a winged armhole. A gold studded belt slips through looped waistline drapery.

YEAR AFTER YEAR corduroy registers for cool weather wear. Useful for wear over dresses or suits is a 36-inch topper in soft gray corduroy that is made with a straight front and a modified raglan sleeve that extends up to form a small band collar at the sides and back of the neckline. The back of the coat flares sharply to a full swing. Nice over a suit of coral-colored pinwale corduroy.

HAVE YOU NOTICED how many hats have gilt or glitter trim this autumn? Casual felts get a dressed-up look with the use of crown bands studded with jewel-tone cabochon stones or sequins or gilt nailheads.

HAPPY DAYS are here again, and that goes for evening, too. A charming, youthful dance frock has a sweater-top bodice in black velvet and a skirt of shocking pink taffeta with horizontal velvet bandings.

ADD ANOTHER ENTRANT to the collection of white furs. It is natural white Russian fitch, a predominantly creamy-white fur with delicate brushings of very dark brown-into-black shadings. We saw it made into a beautiful coat with very wide sleeves and a small pointed tuxedo collar.

Eight Employees Miss Death By Fire and Bullets

Montreal, Oct. 16 (CP)— Eight employees of The A. Cohen And Company clothes manufacturing office on downtown Victoria Square missed death or serious injury by fire and flying bullets today when a dismissed worker set fire to the premises and fired shots at men and women working in the office.

Disarmed by police and firemen, the former employee identified by detectives as Herman Segal, 63—was held for further questioning.

The incident began late Monday forenoon when Segal grabbed bundles of cloth and set them afire on the floor. When the dumbfounded employees tried to intervene, Segal pulled out a nickel-plated .38 revolver, police said, and fired at them.

Segal's shots stopped the men from obtaining help until a few minutes later when one succeeded in getting through the flames and bullet fire. Firemen and police arrived and disarmed Segal, who did not put up a struggle.

Damage by fire was not considered heavy.

Police said Segal had been despondent since the recent death of a daughter, and that his dismissal Saturday may also have led to his action today.

Charge Three With Murder

Lethbridge, Alta, Oct. 16 (CP) —Three German prisoners of war were charged in Royal Canadian Mounted Police court here Monday with murdering a fellow captive in the Medicine Hat prisoner-of-war camp on July 22, 1943.

The prisoners, Johannes Wittinger, Alof Kratz and Wanner Schwalh, about 25 years old, were remanded in custody for eight days and are being held in the Lethbridge Brovincial jail. Police said the date of their preliminary hearing has been set tentatively for Nov. 13 at Medicine Hat.

They are charged with murdering August Plaszek.

This is the first time that prisoners of war have been charged with murder in the Dominion.

The three men, captured while serving in North Africa with Rommel's Afrika Korps, heard Magistrate Arthur Beaumont read the joint murder charge and then after asking a few questions, explained they understood all that was said in court.

Laval Says He Hid Poison on Himself, No One to Blame

Paris, Oct. 16 — (Reuters) — In a last letter addressed "to my lawyers to enlighten them and to my executioners to reply to them," written before he took cyanide in an unsuccessful suicide attempt, Pierre Laval said he had hidden the poison on himself and no one else was to blame.

Shot Monday for treason less than three hours after swallowing the phial of poison, Laval wrote:

"I have chosen the manner of my death freely, it is the poison of the Romans. I do not wish a single soldier to be associated with the judiciary crime."

In another letter addressed to the Police Commissioner, Laval stated on oath that he had had the poison on him ever since leaving Germany in August, 1944.

In spite of Laval's last statements, French authorities ordered an inquiry to learn how he obtained the poison.

Heavy Death Toll Following Typhoon

Manila, Oct. 16 — (AP) — The death toll from the typhoon which whipped across the West Pacific last week stood at 28 United States Navy personnel and 7 Japanese prisoners of war on Okinawa, and 184 persons in Western Japan.

Meanwhile, United States fleet headquarters at Pearl Harbor said six men were killed and 23 injured in an unexplained explosion at a navy receiving station on Okinawa Friday. A court of inquiry began an investigation.

The navy also reported 70 missing and 422 injured during the storm. The United States Army listed no deaths but a "considerable number of minor injuries." The army previously announced that 100 soldiers were injured.

The total of Japanese dead was reported by the Japanese Home Ministry, which also said the storm left thousands homeless, destroyed 350 bridges and badly damaged rice fields.

The army still awaited reports from Northern Okinawa and nearby islands, both of which have been out of communication.

Toivo Nurmi Is Acquitted

Sudbury, Oct. 16. (CP)—Toivo Nurmi, 47-year-old farmer of Beaver Lake, Ont., Saturday night was found not guilty of murder.

The jury deliberated 3 1-2 hours, then announced its verdict and Nurmi went free of the charge that he had shot his neighbor, Kalle Saari, last July.

The verdict came half an hour after the jury had asked for clarification of what constituted self-defence and whether justifiable homicide embraced the shooting of a person in defence of a third party.

Nurmi said nothing when acquitted. Silently he stepped from the prisoner's box and walked from the courthouse to the jail where he obtained his personal belongings. His wife joined him there and together they went home.

During the trial Nurmi admitted he shot Saari "to stop that crazy man (Saari) beating my wife" and said Saari attacked Mrs. Nurmi and then turned on him with the exclamation "Now I'll kill you, too".

Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson, after receiving the verdict of the jury, dismissed it and said, "Mr. Nurmi, you are now a free man, you may go".

QUICKLY OVERCOME EFFORTS

Berlin, Oct. 15 —(AP)— Business boomed in the Tiergarten today as Berlin's busiest black market quickly overcame effects of the mass raid in which British troops and German civilian police nabbed 2,000 persons Saturday.

Despite a drizzling rain the black market was crowded and, as usual, Russian, British and American soldiers were among the buyers.

Twenty-five civilians, described as the Tiergarten's biggest operators, were being held for trial.

Woman's Evidence Brings Laughter From Audience

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Lueneberg, Oct. 16 — (AP) — A blonde S. S. woman's testimony that she permitted prisoners to attack a camp spy today brought laughter from the audience and a court threat to continue the Belsen war crimes trial behind closed doors.

"I am not going to have this court turned into a place where people sit and laugh. If dignity is not maintained we will carry on a closed court," Maj.-Gen. H. P. M. Berney, president of the court, declared in a furious voice.

Herta Ehlert, 40-year-old supervisor at Belsen, had testified that the camp spy, Helena Kopper, falsely reported three prisoners possessed concealed jewelry. When a search showed there was no jewelry, the Ehlert woman angrily confronted the prisoners with their accuser.

With gestures, the S. S. woman described how the prisoners flailed the spy with their fists. A ripple of laughter swept the courtroom.

A few minutes earlier the 45 S.S. men and women guards accused of atrocities at the Oswiecim and Belsen concentration camps had witnessed a 20-minute Soviet documentary film showing the condition of 2,000 Jews found at Oswiecim by liberating Red Army forces.

The film pictured a score of twins who were to have been used for experimental purposes, 108 child prisoners, the gas chamber and the crematorium.

The defendants watched intently throughout the film — all except Irma Grese, accused of being one of the cruelest of the defendants. She looked away to whisper comments to the Ehlert woman, who sat beside her.

(By LYNN HEINZERLING)

Wiesbaden, Oct. 16. AP) — A United States military commission trying seven Germans on charges of killing hundreds of Poles and Russians at the Hadamar murder factory was asked by Prosecutor Col. Leon Jawrski Monday to show the defendants no more mercy than they showed their victims.

"In this land where sin and horror were rampant, there were men who thrived on death," Col. Jawrski told the seven-man tribunal. "In their eyes human life was cheap. Their counsel will plead for their lives. What right do these people have to expect their lives will be spared when they did not spare the life of one of several hundred Poles and Russians brought to them?"

Col. Jawrski described Hadamar as "a production line of death."

"The defendants gambled and lost," he said. "They knew they would be in trouble if Germany lost the war, and there is no doubt that if Germany had won these people would have received personal preferment."

British Test "V-2" Rockets

London, Oct. 16. (CP)—British engineers and artillery experts have assembled from old parts two German "V-2" rockets which they fired at a target 150 miles away, the Ministry of Information said Monday.

The disclosure that experiments have been under way to test German statements on efficiency of their vaunted "secret" weapon was made in an announcement that firing of a reconstructed missile will be demonstrated to military observers and press correspondents in the British zone in Germany tomorrow.

The two reconstructed V-2's were fired into the North Sea during the first week of October. One fell within three miles of the target point. The Ministry of Information called the experiment a "complete success".

After a test was decided upon last May, Royal engineers had to build their own launching site and assembly factory because no completed ones were available.

The actual firing was done by German technicians.

The first projectile failed to rise and the German technician who climbed into the combustion chamber to see what was wrong became "drunk" on alcoholic fuel flames and "was unable to complete his task", the Ministry of information said. It was shot off successfully later.

In using the weapons the Germans discovered it was necessary to fire them within a few days after they were tested, or the percentage of failures reached as high as 40 per cent, the Ministry said.

ALTITUDE RAISED

New York, Oct. 16 —(AP)— Civil aeronautics administration has instructed pilots to avoid flying over lower Manhattan Island in New York City under a minimum altitude of 2,500 feet. Suggestions to raise the previous minimum of 1,000 feet were advanced following the crash of a bomber into the Empire State Building here July 28 when 14 persons were killed.

London Dockers Vote to Continue Work Stoppage

London, Oct. 16—(CP)—Within a few hours of an official statement saying they would resume work Thursday, London dockers met again Monday, refused to accept the resolution. Instead they voted to continue their work stoppage.

A previous statement from H. Vanloo, a Union official, said the dockers except for their railway group members "pledge themselves to try for normal resumption of work in docks nationally."

A return to work would end a three-week walkout which has paralyzed shipping and threatens a cut in meagre British rations.

All but a few of London's strikers were reported to have voted to resume work pending negotiations of the wage demands which precipitated the strike. Jack Donovan, national secretary of the docks section of the Transport and General Workers Union, said their decision would probably be adopted by strikers elsewhere.

The British government has assigned troops to unload vital foodstuffs in the absence of the 50,000 dockworkers involved. The strikes have spread in the three-week period to nearly all but the Southern English ports, tying up more than 300 ships loaded with about 200,000 tons of food.

3 Armed Men Carry Off Safe

St. Catharines, Oct. 16 (CP)— After determining in advance that the owner of the house was not at home, three armed men forced their way into the home of Thomas Heit Sunday night and carried off a 500-pound safe containing $1,100 in cash, $1,500 in bonds, two diamond rings and some other jewelry.

A 19-year-old girl who was minding the two young Heit children answered the telephone about 8.15 and told a man who asked for Mr. Heit that the Heits were not at home.

Fifteen minutes later she answered a knock at the door and was confronted by three armed men who ordered her to sit down, then went directly to the basement and carried out the safe through a side door.

Chocolate King Leaves Fortune As Trust Fund

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 16 —(AP)— Milton S. Hershey, 88-year-old chocolate king-philanthropist, died Saturday, leaving a trust fund of $84,000,000 to "the orphan boys of America".

Mr. Hershey came to this Central Pennsylvania town in 1903 near the tract where he was born, Sept. 13, 1857, and founded a chocolate and cocoa empire, the Town of Hershey and the Hershey Industrial School for Orphans.

The elderly philanthropist died in Hershey Hospital, which he founded and gave to this model community. He became ill Thursday night.

Entry of the United States into the second Great War found Mr. Hershey still actively participating in the affairs of the huge chocolate corporation. The familiar chocolate bar became vital war material, and Hershey's factories began production of Field Ration B—known to the armed forces as the "Iron Ration".

Governor and Two Turnkeys Fired

Ottawa, Oct. 16 —(CP)— Dismissal of Ian A. Sutherland, governor of Carleton county jail, and two turnkeys following investigation of a jail break Oct. 1, was announced here Saturday by Sheriff Samuel Crooks.

Sheriff Crooks said he had been advised of the action and appointment of Ralph Ayres of Toronto as acting jail governor by the Provincial Secretary's Department in Toronto.

Turnkeys J. M. Boucher and S. Besserer were dismissed and a number of other officials were reprimanded following the investigation of the break by Inspector M. Gourlay of the Provincial Secretary's Department.

The jailbreakers, Arthur Mann and David Huard, both of Ottawa, forced four doors and scaled a 19-foot wall to gain freedom and are still the object of a widespread search by Ontario and Quebec police.

My Backache Gradually Disappeared"

Could any woman tell a happier story about backache than this:

"About 6 weeks ago I started having awful pains in my back. At times I could not straighten myself and I got depressed and worn out. I could scarcely carry on with my household duties and everything was being neglected. It was then I saw a Kruschen advertisement and I decided to give Kruschen a trial. I started by faithfully taking a small teaspoonful in hot water in the morning, and in three weeks—my word, what a difference! The pains gradually disappeared and though I am now 46, I really feel years younger."—Mrs. H. M.

There is always a cause of backache: and in many cases it can be traced to toxins or poisons, which stay in the system instead of being eliminated. And that is where Kruschen saline treatment can be of real help to you. Kruschen is a balanced combination of mineral salts . . . and its action is to help your organs of elimination. By taking Kruschen faithfully for a few weeks . . . as Mrs. H. M. did . . . many people have found joyous relief from wearisome backaches and rheumatic pains. The Kruschen saline treatment costs so little to try . . . Use it in your own case. Kruschen has helped others. Why shouldn't it help you? All drug stores have Kruschen at 25c. and 75c.

WRIGLEY'S

CHEWING GUM

Recognize and remember this emblem . . . It means the wearer has an honorable discharge from the Canadian Armed Forces.

Yes, when he was overseas, he enjoyed receiving boxes of Wrigley's Gum sent to him by his relatives and friends—through Wrigley's Overseas Gum Plan.

Now that he's back home, he misses seeing Wrigley's in his favourite stores. That's because the total supply of certain pre-war quality materials has been used up—and WRIGLEY'S famous SPEARMINT, DOUBLEMINT and "JUICY FRUIT" Gum can no longer be made.

But in their place, Wrigley's are producing a pure and wholesome Wartime Chewing Gum both for the Armed Forces still overseas and for the home market.

Revival of Championship Competition in All Classes Predicted As Ratings Released

All Champions Served Notice They Must Defend Laurels at Earliest Opportunity

Washington, Oct. 16. (AP)—Revival of championship competition in all boxing divisions was predicted today by President Abe J. Greene of the National Boxing Association as he hailed the return to civilian life of all titleholders.

Revealing the first post-war N.B.A. ratings Greene announced that notice had been served on all champs that after a "proper conditioning period" they will be expected to defend their crowns against proper contenders.

Joe Louis, Gus Lesnevich and Tony Zale were given a full period of respite from title defence because of their recent discharge from military service but Freddie Cochrane, Ike Williams and Manuel Ortiz were served notice to prepare to take on high-ranking foes.

Although Louis was not required to make immediate plans for risking his heavyweight crown, he signed a contract with promoter Mike Jacobs yesterday for a battle with Billy Conn that is expected to draw a $3,000,000 gate next June.

Most noteworthy change in the quarterly ratings was the meteoric rise of Rocky Graziano, New York middleweight, into the logical contender class behind Zale. Other boxers with the same rank were Jake Lamotta of New York, George Abrams of Washington and Holman Williams of Detroit.

Only two Canadians—Johnny Greco and Danny Webb, both of Montreal—were named in the lists. Each was given "honorable mention" rating in the welterweight and featherweight classes respectively.

Rankings Included:—

HEAVYWEIGHT— Champion, Joe Louis, Detroit; logical contender, Billy Conn., Pittsburgh; outstanding boxers, Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland, Tami Mauriello, New York, Melio Bettina, Beacon, N.Y.

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT — Champion, Gus Lesnevich, Cliffside, N.J.; logical contender, Archie Moore, St. Louis and Freddie Mills, England; outstanding boxers, Lloyd Marshall, Cleveland; Anton Christoforidis, Cleveland; Billy Fox, Philadelphia.

Arnie McWatters And Tommy Ford Among Leaders

By The Canadian Press

Arnie McWatters and Tommy Ford, a couple of backs for whom almost any coach would exchange his right arm, slipped into a 2nd-place tie in Eastern Canada football's individual scoring race, a Canadian Press compilation of all scorers showed last night.

McWatters, playing-coach of Ottawa Trojans, and Ford, Toronto Balmy Beach speedster, finished their fifth game of the season Saturday with a five-point-a-game average that gave them 25 points each — just one less than scoring leader Annis Stukus whose Toronto Indians had no Ontario Rugby Football Union engagement during the weekend.

Tournament records, such as Byron Nelson's 259 for the Seattle competition which closed Sunday, are not going to count under a plan announced yesterday at Chicago by Fred Corcoran, manager of the Pro Golfers Association. He said each course would be checked for standard requirements before any new competitive marks would be accepted as official.

With the American Hockey League opening at Cleveland tonight, President Maurice Pdoloff announced at New Haven last night the best-of-seven championship playoffs were scheduled to start March 19 after a series of inter-division contests had been staged for which purses would be offered. The prize for the finals will be $12,600, with $4,800 going to the winners.

Veteran Spider Armstrong of Toronto was no match for Charles Riley of Detroit in their feature go at the Motor City last night, the Canadian being knocked out in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Wilfred K. McDonald, M.P., for Parry Sound, otherwise known as Bucko McDonald of N.H.L. fame, turned out with Hull Volants of the Quebec Senior Hockey League last night. The Parliamentarian said he might play if he returns to form (hockey).

Toronto, Oct. 16 — (CP)—Typical pre-liberation menu at a prisoner-of-war camp in Japan:—

Breakfast—Soup and Rice.
Lunch—Soup and Rice.
Dinner— Soup and rice.

And it tasted just as flat as it looks in print, says Sgt. Gordon Conway of the Quebec Rifles who passed through Vancouver recently after a three-year, eight-month imprisonment.

Five years ago, Conway was a 190 - pound defenceman with Shawinigan Falls in the Quebec Provincial Hockey League. Then he joined the Army, went to Hong Kong, was taken prisoner and watched his poundage shrink to 131. He told Ken (Vancouver Province) McConnell he wants to get back on skates as soon as he can — but he's pretty sure that now, at 28, he's missed his opportunity of reaching professional ranks.

Conway while in captivity rose each day at 5:30 a.m. and one hour later was herded to nearby shipyards where he worked as a riveter.

"Nothing mattered after a while. You just went to work, tramped back to your so-called supper, went to sleep and started all over again the next day.

"I will never forget the three years and eight months . . . I would not have missed it either . . . . but if I had to do it again, I'd vote in favor of death — and quickly, too."

Conway wanted to do all the usual things that prisoners want to do. He wanted to go into a Canadian restaurant and order a "bushel of groceries." He wanted to be home with his parents and just lounge around the house. He looked forward to seeing his old gang again.

Most of those desires are becoming commonplace now Conway is back at home but he told McConnell plainly what he thought of the Japanese.

"The atomic bomb failed. It didn't kill all the Japs."

N.H.L. Training Notes

By The Canadian Press

Edgar LaPrade, Port Arthur's great centre ice prospect, has finally been signed to a New York Rangers contract. Lester Patrick made the announcement yesterday at the Rangers' training camp at Winnipeg. LaPrade first went on the Ranger list in January, 1939, in which season he led Fort Arthur to an Allan Cup triumph, scoring six of the Bearcats' goals in that series.

Charlie Rayner was back at the Ranger practices after being out for a few days with an injured hand, Coach Frank Boucher says he has three good forward lines but his defencemen will take some sorting out; he has nine rearguards working regularly.

Dick Irvin is still juggling the Canadiens around. So far he has two forward lines pretty well set; the old star line of Lach, Richard, and Blake; and a new line of Benoit, O'Connor and Bill Reay. Legs Fraser is doing all right in the Canadiens' goal and should make good insurance if anything happens to Bill Durnan.

Canadiens are having their share of pre-season casualties. Leo Lamoureux suffered a bad cut in his side Saturday, and last night Murph Chamberlain ran a stick into his left leg. Both men took stitches but are expected back on the ice in a day or two.

Floyd Currie, former Oshawa Generals, has been setting a fast pace with the Canadiens but it is expected he'll wind up with one of the Quebec senior league teams, probably Montreal Royals.

Toronto Maple Leafs should look like their old Stanley Cup selves when Sylvanus Apps arrives at the training camp at Owen Sound, either today or tomorrow. Apps has received his discharge from the Canadian army, in which he was a lieutenant.

Apps may pivot a Leaf forward line with Nick and Don Metz. In practice yesterday Ted Kennedy was centering a line with Gaye Stewart and Mel Hill.

Gus Mortson reported to the Leaf camp yesterday but Lorne Carr is still awaiting from the west. Leafs showed a third forward line yesterday consisting of Billy Taylor, Gus Bodnar and Sweeney Schriner.

Jack Adams is shifting Detroit forward lines around "so we can get additional speed." Yesterday he put Modere (Mud) Bruneteau on a line with Red Lindsay and Jim Conacher. Into Mud's spot on right wing with Liscombe and Howe the Wings' coach put Steve Wochy. Wings meet Indianapolis tonight in an exhibition.

BLUE AND WHITE SQUAD PREPARING FOR NEXT YEAR

Expects to Develop Three or Four Into Triple-Threat Halves

By WILFRED GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Oct. 16 —(CP)— University of Toronto's football supporters—from the "old prof" to the youngest of the pretty co-eds who are going to perch themselves in Varsity Stadium to see the club genial Warren Stevens has come up with to carry the blue and white colors in the Intercollegiate Union this season—are asked to save a cheer or two for next year.

For it is then that Stevens and his battery of assistants expect to have a club of Grade "A" calibre—a team which they expect to mould out of this season's aggregation of a few veterans and a large number of inexperienced youngsters. "Steve" is the first to admit that the abbreviated schedule of four games this year and the shelving of college football during the war has left him no other choice but to concentrate on developing for next season.

A Bunch of Kids.

By the time the season ends he expects to have made football players out of a bunch of kids who first showed up with the fundamentals and the "old college try."

He won't come out and specifically name anyone whom he thinks will really shine but there's gleam in his eye when he talks about some of the backfielders, three or four of whom already show signs of developing into triple-threat halves.

So far the inexperience of the whole team is his prime concern and it was demonstrated last Saturday when McMaster University of Hamilton, an intermediate squad, made them fight for every point in their 18-9 exhibition win in Toronto. It wasn't until late in the last quarter that Varsity really galloped out in front.

Hopes to Get Polish.

This week Stevens expects to replace a little of that greenness with some polish now that he has pared his squad down from the more than 100 players who turned out to try to make a spot. Until now they cluttered up the practice field so much he hasn't been able to introduce all his plays he hopes to have ready for the opening game against Queen's University next Saturday in Kingston.

Until the team gets a couple games under their belts Stevens expects the few veterans with Senior football experience behind them to carry most of the load, especially the Lawson brothers, Mel and Gord, and Stew Scott, all of whom have been playing so far this season in the Ontario union. Mel and Gord have starred with Hamilton Wildcats and Scott with Toronto Balmy Beach.

Mel most likely will direct the team from the quarterback spot and the half line will revolve round Scott with Bill Lawrence of Winnipeg, Bob Henry, who played with the R. C. A. F. Hurricanes when they won the Grey Cup in 1942, and Jack McReynolds backing him up.

No Good Kicker.

Scott and McReynolds most likely will do most of the kicking and they can be spelled by Ted Toogood. It's in this department that Varsity will be weakest as there isn't a real kicker on the team although kicking Coach Jim Follwell has hopes of developing a couple of the halves into fair booters.

Stevens isn't too concerned over this as he figures his aerial attack will make up somewhat for that handicap.

The wingline will have Gus Campbell in there as snap with Bill Henry and 225-pound Jim Carson or John Kilpatrick as first-string insides. Flanking the insides at middle will be Mark Guppy of North Bay and Rod Smith. Gord Lawson will look after one outside position and Johnny Farmer the other.

The second team will be spearheaded by Al Jacobs at quarter, with an array of backs to choose from that includes Ron Hall of Regina, Jimmy Grierson, Jimmy O'Brien, Bert Hamn, Don Bark, Colin Graham, and Bill Daniels. Among the second stringers for the front wall are Frank Pyne of Regina, Bert McComiskey, Wilkie Davey of Peterborough, Rudy Grass and Maurice Egan of Smith's Falls.

The win gave the London Club a 3-1 stranglehold on the best of seven series. Venue of the fifth game was not decided but it is likely the two teams will meet in Welland on Saturday.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER

A Cry in the Wilderness.

"Pro Hockey Tonight at the Arena" said the ad, in the St. Catharines Standard. "Practice tonight" states another in a not too far distant town. "Oshawa junior squads in reconditioning practice."

In other words, "water all around us, and not a drop to drink" practically sums up the early hockey situation in this city.

While returned veterans of the armed services now look longingly at boots and skates and hockey paraphernalia in the attic or garage, and long for the time when the wintry legions will breathe forth below zero winds, the lads in nearby communities are out there in the big white spaces getting their muscles limbered up, the shooting eyes focused, and in general revelling in the pre-season shinny that is parallel to, as the old toper remarked, "the first swig is the best one."

Just what the general hockey situation here will be this coming winter is a matter for conjecture. In the days of war, when the district was cluttered with starry artists from all parts of the Dominion dressed in air force blue, the winter sport produced a fine brand of the pastime, thanks to the efforts of the Air Force and a few sports-minded citizens.

But "them days has gone forever" and at the present the situation is anything but hopeful. These are rumors extant of a city league being started which will comprise industrial firms, and a junior O. H. A. representation might be in the offing—if anyone cares to take up the burden.

• • •

The Van Horne Series.

Several queries have come to this corner lately about the entry of a Belleville team in the annual Van Horne series, a pre-season workout for district teams usually held in Kingston. In the old days the City Service team annexed the goblet on two various occasions and other Belleville squads made good impressions.

The series is being held again this year and entries have to be in the hands of the secretary no later than the end of the week.

Just what sort of a team Belleville could ice is another question. There are available such players as Clare Williamson, and tis said Tim Williams will be available. Speedy St. Louis, stated today that he is willing to get out there and loosen up the old joints. The two Goyers, Leo and Vern would likely throw their hats in the ring and a number of promising juniors of last year are ready to get out there and show their wares.

True enough a Belleville squad would meet with pretty stiff opposition down Kingston way, what with well staffed local squads and army players eligible, but what difference would that make. It would make the boys get out there and show their best besides getting them into some sort of pre-season shape, if and when a hockey loop is formed here.

There is some equipment available such as goal-pads sticks etc with the odd pair of pants, but that's all. However it has been promised, if and when a team is organized.

• • •

The Situation Here.

The consensus of those approached on the matter seems to be that Belleville's hockey players specially the younger ones are crying in the wilderness. Cities and communities all around this city are in a position to play hockey, thanks artificial ice, from October to April. Local teams are confined to the whims of the weather gods which at the best produces ice fit for hockey anywhere from six to eight weeks.

If the great winter sport is to be maintained here and if Belleville's future generation are to get the opportunity of learning and being taught the intricacies of the great national pastime, then there is only one answer—and that is artificial ice.

Kingston is building a new arena. Peterborough has over $250,000 subscribed for a new Memorial Arena. Many smaller centres are by-passing the old first-war idea of stone and mortar monuments to the glorious dead and are centering their activities on things that will keep fresh their memory forever.

But that is beside the present question. One prominent gentleman came out flatfooted with the statement today that these sports improvements which benefit all within a community are primarily the concern of the civic government.

"Sport", he claimed, "is one of the greatest morale builders in the world. This was exemplified in the war just ended. 'Morale in these equally hectic days of early peace and rehabilitation is just as important to the welfare of the community and nation as it was when the dogs of war were growling. Municipalities, provinces and nations did not hesitate to send their fighting sons the best. Why should they hesitate to give them the best after they have done their bit. As it was mentioned on the radio last night. 'Those who gave their best, appreciate those who gave their all'.

"It's time," he went on, "that some civic governments forgot about the age-old election idea of lowering taxes. 'I'll bet a plugged nickel that right here in Belleville the majority of people would not growl at an additional mill or two in their tax bills if some civic improvement was achieved. And what better for the people especially the youth of the city is there than an artificial ice plant or an up-to-date arena and community centre."

"As far as I can see," he said, "I can't see any hockey future for this city and its youth and future generation, until an artificial plant is installed, and to speak bluntly it is up to the civic powers that be to see that it is done."

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, JR)

New York, Oct. 16. (AP)—Mike Jacobs reports his engineers (and what's this world coming to when a fight promoter needs engineers?) say that television will have advanced far enough by next June to pipe the Louis-Conn fight into the theatres. . . Sgt. Laverne Roach of the Cherry Point, N.C., Marine Base, says he's flattered to receive Billy Conn's offer of "sponsorship" but he hasn't decided to sign with anyone yet. . . . Sheriff Ray Barger wasn't fazed when he had to bust up a post-game brawl between Colorado U. and Colorado Aggies fans after last Saturday's game. He poured in tear gas in the approved Hollywood manner—making it foot bawl, no doubt. . . . The Santa Anita racetrack is planning to entrance the fans with a tremendous floral display in the infield depicting the explosion of an atomic bomb—possibly the reaction of a two-buck bettor when the favorite loses.

And probably a lot of guys who were there wished they could have done the same.

A.H.L. VISIONS GREAT FUTURE AS LOOP OPENS

Loop Opens Tonight With Expectations Many More Cities Will Join

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 16. (AP)—On the say-so of President Maurice Podoloff, the American Hockey League opens its first post-war campaign tonight with "very, very fine" prospects and visions of a big future. Not that all war years were too bad by any means, for the season of 1944-45 broke all attendance records.

Podoloff, starting his 10th season as the head of the loop, and its predecessor, the International-American, paused at his headquarters here before heading for the Cleveland-Hershey opener at Cleveland, to predict that this year's brand of hockey "will be better than ever".

He thinks that before "too long" such war casualties as Springfield, Mass., Philadelphia and Washington, D.C., will return to the circuit as New Haven already has done. "Plans also are afoot", he added, "for hockey auditoriums in Cincinnati, Erie, Pa., and Rochester, N.Y., and those cities eventually may be additions to our league".

Podoloff emphasized that his circuit "sought no concessions or favored treatment from the government during the war, and received none, with the result we operated with players either too young or too old for military service.

"Today we find ourselves with a great surplus of ice athletes, a fact that makes me sure our hockey will exceed the quality shown before the war".

Podoloff singled out as "sure to be an improvement", this season a regulation under which two referees, each with equal power except that one will have the final say in event of controversy, will handle all contests. Previously, a referee and Linesman were in charge, but the latter's duties consisted solely of calling offsides and facing the puck.

Tonight's game at Cleveland will be followed tomorrow by Indianapolis at Buffalo, St. Louis at Pittsburgh, and New Haven at Providence in addition to a return Cleveland-Hershey engagement at Hershey.

Horse Sense Bridge

LESSON NO. 807
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

If your bridge has gone to pot, don't begin to fret. It is likely, more than not, something that you et.

Take a bite of this deal:

NORTH
♠8 7 5
♥8 5
♦A K 10 9 7
♣8 5 4

WEST
♠9 6
♥K Q J 9 6
♦J 5 4
♣K 9 3

EAST
♠J 10 4 2
♥7 4 2
♦Q 6 2
♣J 10 2

SOUTH
♠A K Q 3
♥A 10 3
♦8 3
♣A Q 7 6

The bidding went like this:

SOUTH	NORTH
1 S	2 D
3 C	3 D
3 NT	Pass

After west led the heart king, declarer saw seven top tricks; three spades, a heart, two diamonds, and a club. To make the contract, dummy diamonds must be developed.

When east gets in with a diamond, he must be kept from leading a heart. So, south waited until the third round of hearts before the ace was used up. He then led a diamond, intending to finesse.

But west gummed up the works by going with the diamond jack on the first diamond lead. And that blocked declarer from making the contract. Anything he did after that was ungood for him.

If he let west hold that trick, the hearts would wreck him. If he won the first trick in dummy, east will block dummy from taking more than two diamond tricks.

If he let west hold that trick, the hearts would wreck him. If he won the first trick in dummy, east will block dummy from taking more than two diamond tricks.

Second hand low is the generally accepted play. That has been the custom for hundreds of years, starting in the early days of whist.

But the play of hands has developed some very clever stunts both in offence and defence. Much of this is due to a study of dummy hand possibilities. That and the development of partnership signals.

Where good bridge is played, defenders are always looking for some unusual way of defeating declarer. And if they look hard enough they often find it. Very often.

"Newfie" Welter Champ at Arena Friday Night

Boxing fans of the city and district will get the opportunity to see a lively aggressive welterweight in action at the Hume Arena on Friday when the Garden Athletic Club presents Frank Morton, Napanee, Newfoundland, army champion in a headline five rounder with Bill Westfall of Trenton.

Morton comes with quite a reputation and as Westfall backs up from nobody the main go should provide the fans with plenty of action and excitement.

In the semi-final popular Ronnie Mansfield, meets Gord Woods, Trenton, in what should be a fast moving show, while the aggressive Don Shore tangles with Jerry Tyler in another bout of a card that fairly sparkles with action.

Frank Mondeville will be seen in action with Jimmie MacDonald while Pete Lewis will mix things with Bill Hannah.

Three other bouts round out a card that should prove one of the best to be offered by Maestro Harold Kurtz and his colleagues of the Garden Club during the season.

DRAGGED IN ALLEY, ROBBED

Toronto, Oct. 16 (CP)—Three men seized Joseph Wilcox of Toronto as he was walking on downtown Jarvis Street early Monday and, police said, knocked him unconscious and stole $15 after dragging him down an alley between two apartments.

Columbian Squires, Provincial Softball Champs, Junior Ball Team Guests of Kinsmen Club

Tribute Paid to Fine Showing Made by Two Teams in Stiff Competition

(By G.H.C.)

Columbian Squires, Belleville Ontario junior softball champions and the Belleville junior baseball team, runners-up for the provincial title in their realm of diamond activities, team and league officials, were the guests of honor at the regular weekly banquet of the Kinsmen Club in the Hotel Quinte on Monday night.

Under the chairmanship of President Harry Rollins, the youthful players of both squads were tendered a vociferous ovation and many verbal tributes from the assembled clubmen and officials before they were personally introduced by Secretary Ernie Summers, secretary of the City and District Baseball League and O.B.A. representative here, and Jack Doran, who represented John Boyle, manager of the Columbian Squires.

Present were Alf Hitchon, president of the local softball association; Wilfred Fitzpatrick, who represented Alex. Carmichael, sponsor of the Squires; "Speedy" St. Louis, manager of the junior softball squad; Father O'Donnell, St. Michael's Church; Arthur Young, who took the softball squad under his wing during the struggle for titular honors; members of the press and others including Eddie Schreider, president of the Ladies Softball Association here and "Pete" Beach, Albert College athletic director, who was the guest speaker of the evening.

Typical Club Meeting.

It was a typical Kinsmen evening with the youthful guests and visitors getting an insight into the good-natured raillery, the "fine-baiting" and the fine camaraderie that is characteristic of the weekly get-together of the youngest service club in the city. Jimmy Bankier, with Kin Phil Huddleston at the piano regaled the clubmen and their guests with two outstanding vocal numbers. Kinsmen voices were lifted high in song at periods with Kin Gardner Duff acting as master-of-ceremonies. The "Three Kinsmen Andrews Sisters" Kins Colling, McIntosh and Knott, gurgled "When I Grow Too Old to Dream" in a manner that nearly brought down the house.

Keynote of the many tributes paid both squads was the honor they had brought not only to their respective clubs but to the city of Belleville as well.

Mr. Hitchon stated he was "proud of the boys, they were real championship material."

"It was the biggest thrill of Mr. Carmichael's life," when the Squires won the Ontario title," Wilfred Fitzpatrick stated, speaking for the sponsor of the youthful juvenile champions.

Father O'Donnell congratulated both teams on their efforts. "Both teams did remarkably well and brought glory and distinction to their teams and to the city of Belleville," was his brief tribute.

Paid Tribute to President

Arthur Young, paid tribute to the fine work of President Jack McVeigh of the City Baseball League, who was unavoidably absent. He said the Squires had brought a championship to a city that had long been hungry for one. The baseball juniors too, had gained honor and glory in starting from "scratch", had never played together before and had done remarkably well under the able coaching of Speedy St. Louis. He deplored the fact that one man in a city of 18,000 people took an active interest in the baseball wellbeing of the young baseballers. "More men of his type are badly needed here," he said.

He paid signal tribute to the Squires and to the Kinsmen Club for their interest in junior sport, and advocated that only through the schools and the fostering of youth would baseball be brought back to its proper status in the city. He mixed his tributes with a criticism of the local press, stating that the local public is more interested in what local Johnny Jones is doing than what salary Ty Cobb got years ago.

Press Pays Tribute

Claude Tice, speaking for the press, paid one of the warmest tributes of the evening to the young athletes. "I have travelled with them on occasions and finer, better - behaved sports representatives of the city have never carried the colors of Belleville," he said.

"On the road and at home, on the diamond and off it, they acted like perfect gentlemen and were a distinct credit to their teams and their city." In rebuttal to the criticism of the press, Mr. Tice stated that his office was at all times behind local sports and athletes. "We will do anything to further sport in the city. Just let us know, and we are at your service," he said.

Speedy St. Louis was loud in his praise of the Squires. With regard to his baseball squad, he stated, "We did our best, and I am proud of what my juniors did. Next year we will have more experience and hope to bring a baseball title to Belleville." He paid tribute to Mr. Young for the interest taken in his squad during the trying financial days of the playdowns.

President Rollins added his own personal tribute to those already uttered and Past President Cleo Colling formally welcomed the athletes and visitors. He assured them that his club would always maintain high interest in youth sport in the city and that certain projects were already being mooted in Kinsmen circles for its furtherance. He invited the club's guests to attend any future functions of the club at which they would be assured of a hearty welcome.

Squads Introduced.

At this point the members of both squads were introduced personally to their hosts and the dining room rang to the cheers of "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" and the usual lusty three cheers.

Team captain Fitzpatrick, of the champion Squires on behalf of his team thanked his hosts for the splendid reception accorded them.

Captain "Pete" Beach, the guest speaker told his audience many interesting anecdotes of the work of the Y. M. C. A. auxiliary services in many European theatres of war. His address, which was given to the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs here, appeared in previous editions of this newspaper.

Enos David Thanked For Use of Radio To Hear Series

Thanks to the generosity of Mr. Enos David, of the David Electric Shop, Front Street, the editorial and advertising staffs of the newspaper were able to hear the radio reports of the recent World Series.

Mr. David installed a postwar model of the RCA Victor Company's table model radio in the editorial rooms and the play-by-play report of every game of the series was made available to members of the staff.

Reception was excellent and this newspaper extends its sincere appreciation of Mr. David's gesture in making it possible for first hand reports of the baseball classic.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at his paper and ma was looking at hers, both looking at the radio page, and pop said, It's about time for the Bert Buzzby show, he hasn't been very funny lately but I think I'll be big hearted and give him one more chance.

I wish you'd listen to some good music occasionally, William, it might get to be a good habit, ma said. The Combined Coke Company orkester is going to play Anton Antonovitch's new Red Star Simphony in a couple of minutes, with an introduction spoken by Jules Janders the great conducter, she said, and pop said, I guess I can take it if you can.

And ma turned the radio on and the announcer was just introducing Jules Janders, and Jules Janders said, It is my great priviledge to say a few words in exolination of Anton Antonovitch's new but deathless simphony, Red Star Forever. The first movement of this magnificent composition begins with a distant mingling of strings and oboes discriptive of the first faint breath of liberty blowing through the limitless expanses of Anton Antonovitch's native land. The spirited 2nd movement is a tone poem visualizing the great mountains and the broad steps of Russia wakening joyfilly to a new destiny. The brilliant 3rd movement, rich with brasses and wood winds, depicts the surge of desperate battles melting into a final and everlasting peace, prosperity and equality. The conducter now raps his baton and the simphony begins, he said.

Hold everything, pop said, and he quick turned the radio off, saying, Now that I know the whole plot, it would be an anty climax to listen to the orkester telling it all over again. I feel as if I could whisle the simphony myself from beginning to end, but I dont think I will, he said.

Which he didn't turning on the Bert Buzzby show instead.

Being partly funny and partly not.

LOUIS TO DEFEND TITLE

New York, Oct. 16 —(AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Louis Monday signed a contract to defend his title in June, 1946, under the auspices of promoter Mike Jacobs. The champion agreed to meet Billy Conn, now considered the leading contender, or any other suitable opponent designated by Jacobs. The exact date and the site of the bout will be set by Jacobs at least 40 days prior to the fight.

Hollywood and HERE

by SYD BOSSIN

Those who think double bills ought to be abolished will realize the difficulty involved when they learn that 60 per cent of Canada's film programs during 1944 featured two films.

Five provinces — Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Alberta and Saskatchewan — preferred single bills and the remaining four—Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia—liked double bills. The balance is on the side of the double bill, however, because between them Ontario and Quebec contain about half of Canada's 1,298 movie theatres.

There were 208,167,180 paid admissions to Canadian movie houses last year, a slight increase over the previous year, but it is agreed that movie attendance, which has jumped greatly each year since the war, will stay at the 1944 level for years or drop.

Admissions have almost doubled since 1934, in which year the total attendance was 117,354,509.

Obviously the movies have grown tremendously in popularity and will continue to grow, even though much of that expansion will be in hamlets without theatres to which come itinerant exhibitors who unpack their cameras, put on a show, and go on. There were 116 of this type of operator last year.

* * *

Popular as movies are in Canada, Australia leads the Dominions. Compared with Canada's 1,298 theatres in 1944 for a population of between ten and 11 millions, Australia, with a population of betwen six and seven millions, had 1,571 movie houses . . . The average Canadian theatre uses 140 films annually. Big city houses in downtown areas may use 40-or-so each year and some have used as few as 13 but neighborhood and rural houses use double features and change twice or thrice weekly . . . In contrast with the movies, there were but four places operating as legitimate theatres and their total paid admissions was under one million.

* * *

Another Canadian is rising to prominence in British films. He's Paul Dupuis, a radio actor and announcer originally from Quebec, who will star in "Johnny Frenchman" . . . Bob Hope likes to joke along his own lines so much that during the filming of "Monsieur Beaucaire" the producer pleaded, "Let's get some of the script into the picture" . . . In case you missed it Eric Johnston, at the moment president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, has succeeded Will Hays as spokesman and "czar" of the movie industry. Johnston will get $150,00 per year, with $50,000 in expenses added, and Hays, who remains as an adviser, will get $100,000 annually. Nice work if you can get it.

* * *

Do you want your financial dreams to come true? Write a successful play. Those in charge of "The Late George Apley" want $650,000 for the movie rights . . . A sandstorm wrought havoc with the location company of "California," being directed by John Farrow, which was in the desert. Afterwards it was discovered that one fellow had filmed it and now those shots will be the most thrilling in the picture.

Fans' Praises Fail To Spoil Slav Danseuse

New York, Oct. 16. (CP)—Petite, red-haired ballerina Mia Slavenska remains completely unaffected by the demonstrative ovations accorded her by balletomanes and the warm receptions of critics.

Her impulsive admirers have showered praises upon the Yugoslav dancer since she was in her early teens. And to this day none of the classical ballet dancers in North America who are authoritative enough to be called ballerinas enjoys a more enthusiastic public than does Miss Slavenska.

Even in the most exacting of classical roles the warmth and grace of her performances is so moving that it has been said that critics sometime seem to be writing love letters rather than critiques.

When she made her New York appearance with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in 1942, bouquets and potted flowers lined the stage from wing to wing. But even that audience was far less violent than one in Algiers a few years previous when they showered her with lipsticks, compacts and handkerchiefs. The theatre manager had to call police and lock little Mia in her dressing room until the crowd subsided.

By the time he was nine years old, choreographers had composed two ballets for her. At 14 she received the acclaim of ballot lovers in Zagreb, the Yugoslav capital, and two years later she achieved the title reserved for the danseuse who stands first in her profession—ballerina absoluta—with the Yugoslav National Opera.

Today, in her middle twenties, she is the only ballerina who has her own company, does her own choreography, staging and costuming. Standing just five feet, three inches, she has what is called the perfect ballet torso — flat in the tummy and flat in back. Her legs have been trained carefully so as not to overdevelop the muscles.

The Spartan life of a ballet dancer is far from one of milk and honey and Miss Slavenska is sometimes a little rebellious about it. But when practising must be done she is a strict disciplinarian with herself—though she "bends" some of the rules afterwards. While most ballet artists do not do any other exercise for fear of straining a muscle, Mia is proud of her tennis ability. She also drives a car, dances for pleasure and cooks as a hobby.

Living alone in a small downtown, tastefully decorated apartment in Manhatten, Mia enjoys cooking for herself and guests—if there are not more than three.

CHAPTER 16

"He's at odds, the wizard is," Susie said, a slight pout on her lips. "But you can enter."

Elaine rapped, then walked into Paul's office. He was signing letters and did not look up for a minute. When he did the smile he usually had for Elaine was absent.

"Beautiful day for golf," she said.

"Sorry, can't make it."

"Bound to be a beautiful evening for a ride."

Paul hesitated. "Should come back here and work tonight."

Elaine stood up. "Sorry, guess I walked into the wrong office."

"Wait a minute," Paul said, standing. "Can't a guy be jealous without you getting mad?"

"What are you jealous of?"

Paul shrugged. "My shadow, maybe. But Collins is here now. And who do I see you with? Collins. That makes me sore."

"You're being silly," Elaine said. "What about golf?"

Paul looked down at his desk. "All right, let's go."

There were few cars parked in the club house parking lot and when Paul turned the ignition switch off he sat motionless, staring at the sun glinting off the car hood.

"Why the heavy thinking, fullback?"

"I'm seriously considering a time limit on that rain check," he answered slowly. "Like 'good for thirty days.' After that you can't get your money refunded. Something like that, maybe."

Elaine said nothing.

Paul fished into his jacket pocket and pulled out a velvet box, snapping it open. The diamond ring sparkled with a thousand brilliant shafts under the glare of the sun.

"Try it on for size," he said, handing her the ring.

Elaine looked at it. "It's beautiful, Paul," she whispered. She might have looked at the ring for hours. Her silence was timeless. But she did not put it on.

Finally Paul reached over and took the ring back. "Okay, I should have known better," he said quietly and got out of the car, slamming the door shut and walking toward the club house bar.

The war in Europe had its effects on Hollywood producers. Their foreign market was wide, and they wildly sent representatives flying the Atlantic to check "on the entire situation and cable us immediately on what this fellow Hitler is going to do."

The world's most experienced diplomats didn't know what Hitler was going to do, other than what he had done—march into Poland, then accept the declaration of war from England and France without missing a syllable in any of his frenzied speeches.

But it mattered not whether the diplomats knew. Hollywood had men "who could find the answer to the world problems in a few days." Hollywood was full of geniuses and each studio had its share. Whether they could find the answer with a technicolor musical comedy or bank night was not disclosed. But across the Atlantic they flew—and it was more than several days before they found the answer.

Paul was International's choice to go across and investigate how their markets were reacting. It was late 1939 and Dick Powell was singing "Jeepers Creepers" to Ruby Keeler, and a man named Willkie was gaining prominence for his work in the TVA—Commonwealth and Southern utilities case, and people were listening closely to President Roosevelt's "fireside chats."

Elaine had driven to the airport to see Paul off, although she had no invitation for such. She had just gotten into her little car, poked it through Sunset Strip and out to the huge Los Angeles airport. There was a space of loneliness inside her for him, but since the day she had refused his ring she had not seen him except from a distance.

She parked her car and got out, walking slowly to the tall wire screen that separated the parking lot from the wide runways. She recognized Lewin's car in the lot, presumed he and possibly Brann were inside the administration building with Paul. There was probably a full staff from the production office acting as a farewell committee.

They had given him a party a few nights before and presented him with an elaborate cowhide suitcase, which he could use for "the next week or so while you're getting to the bottom of things" and then put away in his apartment closet to gather dust.

She watched men work on the silvery transport plane, watched a porter roll a baggage truck toward it. Then she saw Paul, Lewin and Brann walk out to the passenger platform.

Elaine did not realize she was pressing against the wire screen her nose poking through one of the mesh openings, her eyes glued on Paul. He turned casually and glanced around, stopped when he saw Elaine.

She quickly backed away, hoping to make herself invisible in the shadows of the cars. But Paul was walking rapidly toward her, almost running.

"Hi, ankle," he said, reaching the screen.

She moved back to the screen, grasped the wire netting and looked up at him. "Be a good boy, fullback."

His fingers touched the screen, found her fingers. He was rubbing one of her polished fingernails, looking at it. "Don't win all the Academy Awards on screen while I'm gone."

"Look," she said, "stay away from the war fronts—don't try to see the manager of some theater inside the Maginot Line and show him International's press-book."

Paul laughed. "I won't even step outside London. Oh, maybe I'll run over to Paris and look around. But I'll be back in a week or so."

Elaine nodded, watched Paul playing with her finger.

"Wel, be a good boy, fullback."

"Sure, ankle, sure."

Suddenly he leaned down and kissed her through the wire screen.

Elaine did not see him again for a year.

Once, when she was dining out with the Branns, she asked Anthony what the main office had heard from Paul.

He looked a little worried. "Lewin doesn't tell me much, only that it's taking longer than expected to get a line on things over there. Paul did say to keep shipping pictures across, so maybe it doesn't look too bad."

But it got worse than any of the geniuses in Hollywood predicted, and none of the men sent across came back in a few days. Most of them didn't came back at all.

Nazi bombs found their mark on the Hollywood Club and its ornate decorations in the heart of London one night.

It was at the Academy Award banquet in early 1940 when Sam B. Lewin spoke gravely into a microphone and said softly: "Perhaps the war has come to Hollywood sooner than it has to the rest of the United States . . ."

But Elaine was silently praying her thanks that Paul had not been in the Hollywood Club that night. That he was sailing across the Channel to Paris to help load raw film stock for shipment back to London before the Nazis started their breakthrough, she did not know.

Probably none at the banquet even knew of the forthcoming breakthrough and the wiping out of the Maginot Line . . . .

Elaine kept the Oscar she had won with Ellison for their work on a screen story propped in Paul's office. Susie said she didn't mind and Elaine thought it would be some sort of gesture to Paul, some sort of way in which she could tell him her feelings.

There had been a flame of jealousy in Lee when Elaine had won the Oscar, but he had hidden it.

"Swell work, kid," he said one night at Dave Chasen's night club.

She was with Ellison and had seen Lee and Karen enter. Candid cameramen were busy popping tiny flash bulbs of Karen. She had won a high place for herself, and she did not hesitate to let everyone know it.

Her evening gown was cut low, tight, revealing her shapely body to a desirable degree. She was Karen Stoddard, International's bright young star.

Lee looked a little sulky, but when he saw Elaine he smiled and crossed to them.

Ellison did not particularly like Lee and his attitude showed it. "Call the dog catchers," he growled when Lee approached their table.

"Karen looks gorgeous tonight," Elaine said, perhaps a little wistfully, for even if a woman screen writer did look beautiful, no one noticed. Not even Ellison, who was always noticing such things.

Lee half turned and looked back at Karen. "Yes, she's beautiful, isn't she?"

"I hear you got the assignment on her next picture," Ellison said.

"That's right. I've written so much stuff for her I should be able to turn out one of Hollywood's greatest screen stories for her picture."

Ellison stared at Lee, his mouth gaping a little. "Well, buck up. Get a little confidence in your work and you'll do all right."

Lee did not seem to notice the barb. He was staring at John Warren, moving away from the bar on the far side of the big room and crossing the dance floor to Karen.

"I saw the ring you've given Karen," Elaine said. "It's wonderfully beautiful."

Lee snickered. "Every year I trade it in on a new model."

"Marry the girl, marry the girl," Ellison murmured. "Then you'll have a home and pipe and slippers and a refrigerator that needs a new fan belt every month."

Lee stood up, his face twisted, staring at Karen rising with Warren and walking to the dance floor with him. He watched them move among the mass of dancers, pressed closely together, Karen's eyelashes like butterflies against Warren's cheek.

"I'll have to kill him first before she'll ever marry me."

Elaine was talking to Minnie on the telephone when Lee stormed into her office, waving a heavy shooting script book. She hurriedly said good bye to Minnie and hung up.

"What on earth's wrong, Lee?" He paced animal like around the office. "They didn't use my scenario for Karen's new picture. They had Ellison writing behind me. It isn't anything like I wrote it."

Elaine sighed. She'd heard that Lee's script had been terrible, that Brann had been forced to ask Ellison to do a complete rewrite job.

"I'll break my contract with International, that's what I'll do," Lee cursed.

"There is nothing illegal about having somebody write behind you, Lee. You know that. All you can do is find out from the producer when you start the assignment if he intends to have another writer work on the story. In your case, so I hear, it was the only thing Annie could do."

Lee glared at her. "You're like all the rest. You don't think I can write either."

"I didn't say that, Lee."

"Well, everybody else is saying it. Karen is laughing at me. Calling me a fake. Warren's put her up to that."

"Where are you going?"

Lee had pulled the door open. "I'm going out and get good and drunk."

"That won't help matters any. Listen," she was standing, walking toward him. "Why don't you drive me into Los Angeles. I have worlds of shopping to do and all that traffic terrifies me. Please, Lee?"

He looked at her for a long moment, then nodded.

The afternoon sun was bright and it was warm in the little car. After Elaine had loaded her packages into it, Lee headed toward the beach. She did not object.

They stopped at a little drive-in cafe for their meal, watching the sun fade behind the expansive Pacific. They had talked little and what they did say was of little importance.

Elaine could sense the strain easing in Lee. His eyes were more cheerful, and when he turned the car out of the drive-in station he turned on the car radio, humming a tune.

"You can take me home now, if you'd still like to get drunk," she said.

He laughed. "No, I guess I won't. Can't afford it anyhow."

"You're not broke?"

"I'll be glad to see pay day."

"Lee, you're awful."

He grinned, swung his arm around her shoulders. "I'm the awfullest awful guy you ever knew—but you love me anyway."

Elaine could not tell whether he was kidding, but she said nothing, moving away from him a little.

"Sorry, didn't mean to get fresh," he mumbled.

"It's all right—really," Elaine said. "Only, I keep thinking of Karen."

Lee's face twisted. "I'm sick of Karen."

"You shouldn't say that."

"What good does it do me to keep after her? She isn't going to marry me. She isn't going to marry anybody. Not even Warren. Maybe he doesn't know that, but he will some time. She'll do nothing but hurt him, like she has me. She'll break him right back to where he started. She'll rob him of his money, she'll rob him of his pride."

Elaine's hand found Lee's pressed it. He turned the car off on a canyon road and stopped. He sat motionless for a long time, the muscles in his face working rapidly, his lips tightly closed. He kept pounding his hand against the steering wheel.

"Don't, Lee," she whispered gently.

He suddenly turned to her, his eyes a little moist. "I've flopped out here just as I did in New York. When I should have been working, learning something, I've had to entertain her, keep her satisfied. I could hate her, Elaine, hate her with everything in me."

Elaine pulled his head down to her shoulder, pressed her chin against his hair. She heard him breathe wearily, his face warm against her neck.

They sat like that, motionless, for a long time while the darkness of the night covered them, while the cool wind from the ocean cut into the car.

She listened to him, thinking back through years of time and space when she had heard her father sob quietly in a darkened room after her mother had died. She had never heard a man cry before; it had sickened her a little, made her feel strange and helpless.

Here's One of the Best Home Ways to Build Up RED BLOOD!

You girls who suffer from simple anemia so that you are pale, feel tired, weak, "dragged out"—this may be due to lack of iron in the blood.

So start today—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound TABLETS with added iron—one of the best iron tonics you can buy to help build up red blood to give more strength and energy—in such cases.

Young Man Given 3-Month Term On Five Charges

Robert Allan, 21-year-old city resident, pleaded guilty to six charges, including breaking and entering; taking a truck without the owner's consent; failure to observe his recognizance while on suspended sentence; driving a car without a licence; careless driving and failure to report an accident, in city police court today and was sentenced by Magistrate Wills to three months in the county jail on five of the charges, sentence to run concurrently.

The bench reserved sentence on the sixth charge for two weeks in order that financial restitution be made to the Department of Highways for signs damaged by Allan while driving a truck along Highway No. 2.

The charges stated that the accused had broken into and entered Grills' dairy and taken the sum of $4 from drivers' pouches. He had then taken the key to one of the dairy trucks and went on a joy ride along Highway No. 2 where he became involved in an accident that damaged Department of Highway's signs and the truck. He left the scene of the accident and failed to report it. He had no driver's licence.

Reformatory Sentences Asked.

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, read a lengthy record of the accused and promptly asked for a reformatory sentence. E. E. Follwell representing the accused pleaded for leniency on the grounds that Allan had promised to go to work and that the majority of the cases in his record were intoxication and assault.

Magistrate Wills told the accused, "You have been in and out of court several times since I have been here and you have caused considerable trouble. You have been dealt with leniently but now you will see what imprisonment is like".

After imposing sentence, Magistrate Wills commented, "I hope this will be a lesson to you, and that when you come out you will go to work".

Tardy Radio Owners Fined.

A government radio inspector dropped into town the other day without pomp, pageantry or special announcement and as a result of his calls, some thirty-seven citizens donated to the governmental coffers with fines of two dollars and costs or roughly five dollars each. Two of them, however decided they were in the right and pleaded not guilty in police court today.

Motorists Fined.

It appeared to be open season on residents of the city this week for local police officers went out on the main thoroughfares with intent to stop a lot of illegal parking that has been going on. Result, 20 motor car owners received the little white slips and presented the conventional fines to the police department some with grins, others chagrined and others feeling their dignity had been hurt. Note—all the fines were collected.

Says Present Time Unfavorable For Refunding Taxes

Regina, Oct. 16. (CP)—Canadian taxpayers are unlikely to receive the refundable portions of their income taxes before the dates due for payment as long as inflationary tendencies exist, Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley said in an interview here last night.

Refund on the savings portion of taxes paid in 1942 must be paid by the government not later than March, 1948 and refundable portions for 1943 not later than March, 1949.

"The present time does not appear to the government to be a period in which such a general refunding of these sums is desirable because of the strong inflationary tendencies existing throughout the country", said Mr. Ilsley.

PREPARED TO RECOGNIZE RENNER GOV'T.

London, Oct. 16 (CP) — Britain is prepared to recognize the Austrian government of Dr. Karl Renner, official quarters said today.

The disclosure came after an announcement from Washington that the United States was ready to exchange diplomatic representatives with Austria.

Formal recognition, it was pointed out, can take place only through the Allied Control Commission in Vienna. Since the Russians have been asking for recognition of Renner's government, which was formed while the Soviets alone were occupying Austria, the Allied move now awaits French action, officials in London said.

The Renner regime operates only in the Soviet zone at present, but is slated to be broadened to include all of Austria.

WILL NOT FOLLOW QUEBEC EXAMPLE

Toronto, Oct. 16 —(CP)— An official of the Ontario Liquor Control Board today said there is no chance, at least before Christmas, of this province following the example of the Quebec Liquor Commission in removing gin and rum from the ration list.

"The question is not one principally of supply, but bottling," he said. "With additional bottling machines installed and the plant working day and night we are just able to bottle enough to meet the present demand."

Investigation Into Murder Case Shifts to Toronto

Toronto, Oct. 16 —(CP)—Police investigation into mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of Joseph Martin, Mennonite cattle buyer from Floradale, Ont., shifted to the Jarvis Street district in downtown Toronto today with a report that a beer permit bearing the address of the 55-year-old man and a set of false teeth had been found.

The articles are believed to have belonged to Martin, whose blanket-wrapped body was found at the edge of the Queen Elizabeth Highway, near Oakville, last week. They are reported to have been found and turned over to police by a street cleaner working in Gerrard St., near Jarvis.

Meanwhile, police said they are working on a theory that Martin died of poison and that his body was dropped from an automobile after he was robbed of some $2,000. An analysis of stomach contents is being made.

Police said there was also a possibility that Martin had been enticed to the Jarvis-Dundas Streets area and given knockout drops.

Detectives are endeavoring to trace Martin's blue sedan which has disappeared. They believe that somewhere in the car may be found the clue to his strange

Three Sentenced To 4 Years Each

Peterboro, Oct. 16 — (CP) — Norman James Woodcock, 25, Toronto, and Frank McIntosh, 27, Peterboro, were sentenced to four years in Kingston Penitentiary today for the Sept. 14 armed holdup of a Fitzpatrick and Geraghty corner grocery store here.

Woodcock pleaded guilty to two other charges of car theft and theft of a number of guns being carried by the C.P.R. in Toronto, and was given an extra year for each, the latter sentences to run concurrently.

McIntosh, who pleaded not guilty to attempted armed robbery and car theft, was convicted when Magistrate O. A. Langley, said he could place no credence in his alibi.

The auto theft charge was dismissed when the Crown offered no evidence. The pair were arrested by city and provincial police about three hours after the men, one carrying a shotgun, had held up employees of the lunchroom part of the store, attempted to rob the till and fired a blast from the gun at Samuel Trude, butcher, who attempted to frustrate the hold up men. Trude was later dragged from the store and kicked in the head, while resisting attempts of the two men to pull him into a waiting car.

Wet Weather Delays Gathering Fall Crops

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 16 —(CP)—Wet weather has seriously delayed fall harvesting in Ontario and some farmers have given up altogether, the Ontario Department of Agriculture said in its weekly crop report today.

From all over the province came reports of "plowing operations impossible." Some farmers said they were forced to leave potatoes in the ground to rot and were cutting corn by hand.

Western and Southern Ontario farmers reported silo filling and plowing behind schedule and 15 to 20 per cent of the grain still in stooks. Very little potato picking had been done up to the release of the report, and corn harvesting by hand was going ahead slowly.

Some potatoes were dug in Central Ontario where cold, wet weather has caused a drop in milk production. Little fall wheat has been sown there.

Potatoes still in Eastern Ontario soil were rotting badly, the report said, and wet weather had caused a drop in milk production. Soil conditions made it impossible to harvest red clover for seed.

The Northern Ontario corn crop has been very poor, Manitoulin County farmers terming it "practically a failure." An egg scarcity was reported and milk production was below normal.

NEED TEARS OF BLOOD

Paris, Oct. 16 — (AP) — "They had to stifle his voice," Madame Pierre Laval said yesterday after her husband's execution. "I am not crying," she added. "One cries over little disappointments. This is too big. You would need tears of blood."

More Freedom In Russia Asked For Americans

Washington, Oct. 16 (AP) — New fuel was added today to Congressional fire for more freedom in Russia for Americans.

It was heaped on by two House of Representatives committees just back from abroad.

The two groups urged that relation between the Soviet Union and the United States be put on more of a give-and-take basis, with neither country receiving more than it gives the other.

An unofficial 11-member committee headed by Rep. Victor Wickersham (Dem. Okla.), urged that the United States demand that Americans travelling in Russia be given the same freedom of movement that visiting Russians receive in the United States.

A two-member sub-committee of the House Foreign Affairs Committee — Representatives Frances P. Bolton (Rep. Ohio) and Karl E. Mundt (Rep. S.D.) —suggested that the United tSates accord Russians "as much as they accord us and no more."

The Wickersham group, which visited 32 countries, stressed the necessity of clearing the Russo-American air of "suspicion" in diplomatic talks when Marshal Zhukov makes his proposed visit to the United States.

There also should be more frank discussion of trade policies between the United States and Britain the committee added in a report to the House.

Govt. Expenditures of $4 Billions During Next Year Makes Essential 9th Victory Loan Gets Full Support

H. Richardson, Ottawa, Addresses Salesmen at Batawa Monday Night

Unofficial estimates of total government expenditures for the twelve months starting November 1 are of the order of four billion dollars of which it is expected that about two billions will be obtained through taxation and the remaining two billions through borrowing. The Ninth Victory Loan is designed to meet these requirements, Herbert Richardson, Public Relations Adviser, National War Finance Committee, Ottawa, told a large group of Hastings County salesmen at a "Payroll Savings" dinner held in Batawa, Monday night.

The items included in the estimate are 900 millions for pay, allowances, gratuities, etc., for the armed forces; 900 millions for credits to enable liberated countries to get urgently needed supplies from Canada, cost of transportation back to Canada; cleaning up of outstanding contracts, provision of food, clothing, medical supplies to the forces until they are demobilized and other forms of outlay, while maintenance of occupation forces are expected to add up to another 900 millions.

2,700 Million Needed.

"This", Mr. Richardson said, "makes a total of 2,700 millions under the heading of war and reconstruction outlays."

480 Millions Interest.

Then there are items such as gross interest charges on the public debt, 480 millions; family allowances, 250 millions; payments to provinces under tax agreements, 85 millions and other items amounting to between four and five hundred millions.

In short, are Ninth Loan will take care of, rehabilitation, hospitalization; maintepance of occupation forces; pensions to disabled and dependents; provision of external credits and aid to liberated countries; retirement of war contracts and anti-inflation.

Mr. Richardson pointed out to the salesmen the vast amount of advertising material that is being readied for the loan. Prominent actors and actresses of the stage and screen have offered their services. Newspapers and magazines will carry editorial and picture matter.

Posters, advertisements and other copy will add their efforts to the drive.

Drives Home Points.

Using a mythical baseball figure by the name of McGinty, the speaker in more or less lighter vein drove home his points in a forceful manner.

"McGinty," he said, referring to the Loan slogan of "Sign Your Name to Victory" interpreted it as "When you put your John Henry on a Victory Bond application, you are declaring yourself in to win the peace, to say 'Thanks a Billion' to the boys who did it for us, and to make the Victory ante up to all our expectations."

"According to the baseball parlance of McGinty," Mr. Richardson said, "the ninth inning is about to begin. We've got a great team and we've got stuff on the ball. We've scored every inning so far — eight perfect innings. The game is in the bag. We hardly need to play it out.

"The crowd knows it is almost over and is streaming towards the exits. But are they. There are some waiting with a curious patience to see the ninth inning played out. Who are they? They are not the cheering crowd. Not the easy sports. Those are the birds who are packing the exits.

The Real Fans.

"These are the real fans. The serious ones who paid good prices for their seats. Some gave three, five, six years of young life. Some gave arms, legs, sight. Some gave health, wealth, homes, everything they had. Some paid an even greater price than all the others and then couldn't attend the game. They were called away.

"Then there are others. Strange looking people with pinched grey faces and threadbare clothes. They sit on the bleachers. They really haven't any business in the park at all. They don't know anything about the game, and their idea of a "world series" is pretty weird. They wear odd things like Dutch caps and wooden shoes . . . or no shoes at all. They don't even look like fans. They will never be steady customers. They're hardly worth one pitch across the plate let alone a ball game. But they're staying on. Their eyes glitter as they watch the ball. You'd think they could eat it, almost!

Yes. . . a big part of the crowd is still waiting in the stands. It looks as though we've got to play it out. After all. . .what's a team without fans? Sure. . . it would be nice to hit the showers. But who ever thought of walking out on a crowd like that?

I think McGinty's got something. . . when he says:

"Let's make the Ninth into a whole ball game by itself"; said the speaker in conclusion. "Let's send 'em home raving about it. Let's show the wise guys. . .the easy sports. . . .that they missed the greatest inning of them all."

J. H. Legate was chairman at the banquet and the address of welcome was given by C. K. Herz, Batawa vice president. County Loan Chairman J. J. Trudeau spoke briefly and the vote of thanks was given by J. J. Morch. Miss Elizabeth Porter, vocalist and Douglas Elliott, pianist, provided the musical part of the program. The entire banquet was under the direction of David McDonnell.

CHURCHILL

State Secretary Martin said yesterday in a return tabled in the Commons that because housing accommodation is short in practically all parts of Canada no attempt has been made to discriminate between localities in the issuance of licences for house construction.

Mr. Martin said building materials were being distributed insofar as possible on a basis which would assure fair treatment among urban centres and between urban and rural areas.

Justice Minister St. Laurent disclosed it was not likely that the House would be asked to deal with a St. Lawrence deep waterways agreement this season, but it soon would be asked to ratify an extradition treaty with the United States.

He announced a protocol to the extradition treaty, negotiated some time ago, had been agreed upon. It was designed to protect legitimate Canadian business interests and publishers from extradition for offences against United States securities laws when they are acting in accordance with Canadian laws.

No Modification in Sight

The protocol makes it clear that no person dealing in securities shall be subject to extradition for a securities offence unless the offence involves fraud as defined by the laws of both countries or unless the offence involves wilful violation of the laws of the country asking for an extradition.

No further modification of rental controls is contemplated "at the moment" said Finance Minister Ilsley in a written reply to a question from Don Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton). Mr. Ilsley said the regulations had been modified so that veterans could regain possession of homes they left to enlist.

In the debate on Churchill, Mr. Howe said he believed the suggestion that the port be turned over to a prairie province Board was not practicable. However, if a responsible body was willing to take on the job, he would use his influence in the cabinet to obtain approval of a lease on the port to such a body for $1-a-year.

The outlook for the port was not dark. The government now owned a good many ships suitable for operating in Hudson Bay and it could send them there without insurance. Radar developments would assist in avoiding ice.

Use to Greatest Extent

Mr. Chevrier said ships could only obtain insurance to travel to the port between Aug. 5 and Oct. 15. Another big drawback was that shipping concerns could not obtain any ingoing cargo. If western people could purchase goods that would be shipped into the port more ships would use the facilities.

The government's policy was to use the port to its greatest possible extent.

The Canadian National Railways operated the railway leading to the port as cheaply as it could be operated. However, in only one year — 1942, when airports were being built in Northern Canada—did the port and the railway operate at a profit. The deficits were due to the lack of traffic and it was in the general interest that these deficits not occur. The prairie province governments had never made a joint effort to obtain jurisdiction of the port.

Gordon Isnor (L — Halifax) said he did not believe that any more money should be spent on the development of Churchill, which had not proved profitable. He described the facilities of his home port, which he said was capable of handling heavy traffic the year around.

Kagawa Will Help Lead the Japanese

(By Russell Brine, writing from Tokyo, in Detroit News)

A Japanese Christian has emerged from 20 years of persecution to become one of the key leaders in the beaten Empire's struggle toward democracy and a place in the world's family of nations.

Tokohiko Kagawa is internationally known for his stand against war in a land of militarists. He will launch a series of radio broadcasts to preach "moral regeneration" to Japan's millions, it was reported.

Kagawa was mentioned pointedly by Premier Higashi-Kuni in a letter to the Associated Press as one of the men upon whom he would rely for just such a regeneration in an attempt to reestablish friendship with the United States.

Simultaneously, it was understood that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's foremost advisers also are counting heavily on Kagawa as one if a number of prominent "Patriotic Liberals" through whom the Occupation Army hopes to obtain the impetus for building a Democratic Japan.

One highly placed officer said Kagawa "already is an important and influential man."

In an exclusive interview with me early this month, Kagawa predicted there would be great social, political and economic changes within Japan during the next few years.

He emphasized, however, that reconstruction must be founded upon the "moral rebirth" of the country.

"The Japanese must regain the moral principles of life in order to realize the great promise of the future," Kagawa declared.

"We drift away from proper morality during the war and now we must return to the correct pathway. I have great hopes that we will be able to do this through religion."

Kagawa said he was arrested three times by the police during the Pacific conflict because he was "opposed to war," spent 30 days in jail and most of the rest of the time "laying low."

Kagawa predicted great changes in all phases of life in Japan.

PERMANENT ARMY FORCE TO BE 25,000 STRONG

4-Way Meetings With Mitchell End In No Agreement

Conference Held in Toronto To Settle Ford Strike

Toronto, Oct. 17. (CP)—A conference called by Labor Minister Mitchell in an effort to settle the Ford strike ended after a one-hour session today with no agreement reached.

Another conciliation conference probably will be held later since it was understood that the major reason for ending of the meeting was that Mr. Mitchell must return to Ottawa by plane this afternoon.

There was no immediate statement from participants in the four-way conciliatoin meeting but it was expected that officials of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.) would have a statement later today.

Both Union officials and officials of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., said they appreciated government efforts to conciliate the strike, which began Sept. 12 with a walkout of 10,000 Ford employees at Windsor, Ontario.

The four-way meetings, with Federal, Provincial, Ford Company and Union officials in attendance, began in a conference room at Ontario government buildings here Monday on invitation of Mr. Mitchell who flew to Toronto for the conference.

Four Meetings Held.

A total of four short meetings—one Monday, two Tuesday and one today—were held and after the preliminary meetings delegates said discussions were "satisfactory", and expressed hope an early settlement could be made.

Local 200, the Ford Union, asks a Union Shop and check-off, a 40-hour week and two weeks' holiday with pay.

Wallace R. Campbell, president and Wallace Clark, personnel manager, represented the Ford Company. The U.A.W. Union was represented by George Burt, regional director; T. MacLean, assistant regional director, and Roy England, president of Local 200.

The Ontario government delegation was led by Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell, acting Labor minister; J. F. Marsh, deputy Labor Minister, and Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer.

Coal Miners Return.

About 4,000 coal miners in Alberta and British Columbia went back to work yesterday after their "holiday" in protest against their allotment of rationed meat but an additional 5,000 miners still remain away from their jobs.

Other developments complicated the labor picture.

Last night employees of the Swift Canadian plant in Toronto voted in favor of strike action. Workers in the company's plant at St. Boniface, Man., will vote tomorrow. A ballot will be taken today at the St. Boniface plant of Canada Packers.

About 150 workers at the Canada Packers plant in Vancouver will take a strike vote Friday night and a similar ballot will be conducted among 90 Swift Canadian workers in Vancouver Thursday night.

In New Westminster, B.C., 150 C.I.O. union employees of the Swift Canadian plant will vote tonight on strike action.

Plans for the strike vote went ahead despite announcement yesterday by Labor Minister Mitchell that the packing plants of Canada Packers and Swift Canadian had been taken over by the Dominion government and placed under the overall control of J. G. Taggart. The plants of Burns and Company were placed under government control last Friday to avert a strike.

The United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) has been demanding a master agreement with each of the three big packinghouse companies which would include provisions for a 40-hour week with the same pay as for a 48-hour week.

In the Nova Scotia coal fields, miners studied a national wage board directive on wage increases and pondered a ballot for a referendum on the workers' acceptance or rejection of the report. Should the membership of District 26 of the United Mineworkers of America (C.I.O.) vote against acceptance Oct. 30, 12,000 Maritime coal miners will leave the pits.

24 NAZIS' TRIAL MAY BE OPENED ON THURSDAY

Russian Trial Delegation May be Ready by That Time.

Berlin, Oct. 17 — (Reuters) — Formal opening of the trial of 24 leading Nazis will begin in Berlin Thursday providing the Russian trial delegation is ready by that time.

Members of the British delegation would not commit themselves definitely today that the opening would take place Thursday but said: "The opening has been set for that date and we know no reason why it should not take place."

There has been no difference on major principles between the prosecutors of the four nations —the United States, Britain, France and Russia — so far as they knew, delegation spokesmen said.

Meetings between judges in one group and prosecutors in another are being held behind closed doors here.

Formal opening of the trials, originally set for last Thursday, has been postponed three times in a week over the question of Russian translation of the indictment.

Amnesty Granted Million Japs By Hirohito in Appeal for Unity

By MURLIN SPENCER

Tokyo, Oct. 17 —(AP)— Emperor Hirohito, whose future has been a burning topic of speculation ever since the Allied occupation of Japan, granted amnesty today to nearly 1,000,000 Japanese as an openly avowed move to unite his country "in meeting a great change in history."

Domei agency noted that one effect of the rescript, honoring the day when the first rice crop is offered to the gods, would be to enable as many people as possible to take part in the coming elections.

"We, in meeting a great change in history, are indeed concerned to conquer the difficulties of the times with the country united as one and will trust to the co-operation and assistance of all the people," said the rescript. "Therefore, we have ordered our officials to carry out an amnesty. All our officials and people embody our will."

The rescript, unprecedented in scope, pardoned 320,000 Japanese, reduced the sentence to 37,000 and ordered restoration of civil rights to 600,000.

The Emperor's appeal for unity was made at a time when Japanese Communists, celebrating the release of some of their leaders from prison on orders of Gen. MacArthur, were working openly for an end of Imperialism.

MEMBERSHIP FILE OF NAZI PARTY HELD BY ALLIES

List of 8,000,000 Names Considered One of Important Finds of The War

Berlin, Oct. 17 —(AP)— The Nazi party's master file of personnel records, including membership cards bearing nearly 8,000,000 names has fallen intact into Allied hands.

The prize is considered one of the most important documentary catches of the war. In addition to the membership cards the file contains approximately 2,000,000 names of persons who applied for party membership but were rejected.

Among the membership cards are those belonging to the Ausland Deutsche organization, under which all Nazi-sponsored foreign groups were bunched. Apparently these Auslanders (Outlanders) were considered as good Nazis as those who live in Germany.

The Auslanders were particularly numerous in Argentina.

Allied investigators came upon the first 200,000 cards three months ago and used them as leads in recovering the rest. The Nazis had ordered the records burned, but the orders for some reason never were carried out.

In the files of one rejected applicant living in Germany was a plea addressed to Adolf Hitler on his behalf by Fritz Kuhn, former Bund leader in New York. Kuhn wrote that the rejected man had a brother in New York. Kuhn wrote that the rejected and in view of this asked Hitler to reconsider the case. Hitler's action was not noted.

Warkworth Boy On His Way Home

By STANLEY MONCRIEFF
Canadian Press Staff Writer

San Francisco, Oct. 17 —(CP) — Giving vent to their feelings at arriving back at a North American port, 44 liberated Canadian army prisoners of war, including 12 officers, joined hundreds of other Allied returnees in loud vocal tribute as the United States transport U. S. S. Joseph T. Dyckman docked here yesterday.

From the dock the Canadians were immediately transferred by ferry to Fort McDowell Island and Canadian Army officials here hope to have them heading for British Columbia soon along with a group of 26 who arrived here Monday.

Taken prisoner Dec. 25, 1941, after 16 days of ferocious fighting against tremendous Japanese odds, the men endured cruelty at its worst during nearly four years imprisonment in Japanese camps.

Included in the group were:

Capt. F. J. Deloughery, Pembroke, Ont.

Rfmn. D. D. Dainard. Warkworth, Ont.; Rfmn. H. J. Marsolais. Cornwall, Ont.

Inside Story Behind Abortive Hungarian 'Armistice' Revealed

By ROBERT LLOYD

London, Oct. 17 — (Reuters) — The inner story of Hungary's first unsuccessful attempt to break with Hitler in 1944 by the same 4 parties which now form the backbone of the Hungarian Provisional Government, has been disclosed by the Hungarian press and radio on the anniversary of Admiral Horthy's abortive "armistice" broadcast and his subsequent overthrow by German troops.

According to this account, the "Hungarian front," consisting of the small holders party, Socialists, Communists and National Peasant Party, in September, 1944, sent a memorandum to the Regent, Admiral Horthy, asking him to prepare an armistice by the elimination of Nazi officers from the army and the liberation of political prisoners. Receipt of this memorandum, signed by political leaders who were then forced to live in hiding, was acknowledged but no reply came for some time.

In the middle of September, Voeroes, then Chief of the General Staff, expressed willingness to make contact with the conspirators. At a secret conference they outlined their plans, demanding that the Hungarian army must be turned against the Germans from the moment of the armistice, and that the workers must be armed against the pro-Nazi "Arrow Cross" movement. Voeroes agreed and asked for 3 weeks to make the necessary preparations.

On Oct. 11, Horthy received Tildy and Sazkasits. He told them he had agreed to their demand and taken steps to end the war, which would take effect in a few days.

The Germans, however, became suspicious. On Oct. 12, it was learned that major German tank forces were being concentrated around Budapest, and the German minister in Budapest, Veesenmeyer, began to press for an audience with the Regent within 48 hours.

On Oct. 15 the Regent summoned a Crown Council, obtained approval for the armistice plan, and reappointed the existing government after its formal resignation. Then he broadcast his announcement that he was asking for an armistice.

Sabotage by the pro-German part of the Officers Corps started immediately. The same evening Ferenc Szalsi, Arrow Cross leader, seized power and next morning German troops and "Arrow Cross" men occupied the castle and arrested Horthy.

UNREST SEETHES THROUGHOUT JAVA AS REPLY AWAITED

East Indies Government Willing to Offer Indonesians Self Government

By RALPH MORTON

Batavia, Java, Oct. 17 — (AP) — Political unrest seethed throughout Java today as the Indonesian National Council awaited a reply from the Allied command in the Netherlands East Indies to a set of four major Nationalist demands which council vice president Mohammed Hatton said represented "the only way to bring peace to this troubled land."

(In Amsterdam Dr. H. A. Logemann, Minister of Overseas Territory, said the government was ready to offer Indonesians self government within the Dutch commonwealth and would deal with Indonesian leaders "who merit consideration," but not with Soekarno, President of the "Indonesian Republic.")

The National Council met yesterday in a bid to present itself as a National government. Soekarno was not present. He was touring Western Java to restrain sections of his followers bent on violence. In his absence Hatton promised the 187 council delegates that there would be a national election within six months and that in the interim Soekarno and his cabinet would be assisted by a working committee of the council in representing the people.

The four-point program submitted to Lt.-Gen. A. F. Christison, Allied commander in the Netherlands East Indies, calls for removal of all Japanese, deportation of all Dutch troops and prevention of the arrival of additional Dutch soldiers, a quiescent role for the Netherlands Indies civil administration, the recognition by an impartial United Nations committee of the Indonesian National Council as the de facto government of the country.

This correspondent asked Hatton if he expected "to beat the Dutch by force when you have no guns, tanks or planes," and he replied:

"We shall win through peaceful means. That is why President Soekarno is now touring Java to restrain hotheaded sections who use violent methods. But the Dutch aiming tommyguns at us does not help the situation. In fact it presages trouble. We stand on non-violence."

HOG PRODUCERS DISCUSS NEW MARKETING PLAN

W. E. Tummon of Foxboro, Secretary of Association, Outlines Plans

Toronto, Oct. 17 —(CP)— Approximately 200 delegates attending a special meeting of the Ontario Hog Producers Association yesterday endorsed a proposed hog marketing scheme which Col. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Agriculture Minister, said will mean an annual $3,000,000 increase in income to hog producers.

Producers who will vote on the plan will be registered the week of Nov. 12 and voting will take place up to Dec. 8, it was learned after Col. Kennedy said the probable income increase for producers might reach $6,000,000 a year when proper marketing facilities were created in Britain.

W. E. Tummon of Foxboro, association secretary, said under the marketing scheme Ontario would be divided into seven districts. Each district would elect a representative to the local board and the board, under regulations approved by the Farm Products Control Board, would negotiate prices with producers.

Kenneth Betzner, Waterloo, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said "full support" will be accorded the plan by the federation.

Col. Kennedy said a delegation of Ontario farmers will visit Britain and Denmark next year to study conditions and methods of agriculture. Hog and cheese producers will be represented.

HOUSE DEBATES WORLD SECURITY AT SOME LENGTH

Justice Minister Asks Approval of United Nations Charter at Earliest Time

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 17 —(CP)— Canada's efforts to maintain National and International Security in the future came up for discussion in the Commons yesterday when Defence Minister Abbott disclosed the tentative size of Canada's permanent army and preliminary steps were taken for the adoption of the United Nations charter.

The topics, although to a certain extent corelated, were discussed separately.

The debate on International Security arose on a resolution calling for adoption of the United Nations charter and the statute of the International Court of Justice signed at San Francisco last June. Participating were three formers of the charter. Justice Minister St. Laurent, Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel) and M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader.

Mr. St. Laurent, acting Secretary of State for external affairs, told the House that approval of the United Nations charter was sought at this time because it was hoped a meeting of the Preparatory Commission of the United Nations would be held Nov. 8. Presumably the meeting would be held at London.

(The Preparatory Commission consists of representatives of all the Nations which signed the charter at San Francisco. For some-time an executive committee on which Canada is represented has been meeting in London preparing draft plans for submission to the commission).

Mr. St. Laurent said it was hoped a sufficient number of states would ratify the charter and thus bring it into operation before Nov. 8. It was recently

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, asked "if this important leak of budget information" was being investigated by the government. Mr. Coldwell said the Furriers had apparently been "tipped off."

Mr. St. Laurent said the matter would be dealt with further when Finance Minister Ilsley returned from a Victory Loan speaking tour.

Tourists 'Last Paradise' Lives Up to Reputation for Loafing Japs

By HAL BOYLE

Den Pasar, Bali, Oct. 17—(AP) —"The last Paradise," as the tourist folders used to describe Bali, is an earthly Heaven for Japanese troops having one last gambol in this isolated East Indian sanctuary.

The 3,000 Japanese here have lived the proverbial life of Riley for many months in this corner of the Netherlands East Indies where no serious native unrest has arisen.

From all external evidence, the Balinese apparently accepted the Japanese rule as lackadaisically as it did the European. A stomachful of rice and an occasional dance festival about satisfied them — and if there is a happier race anywhere, I haven't found it.

After spending a few days among this simple native people, one has the uneasy feeling that in their barefooted way they may have developed a system that in many senses is superior to that of the Occident. There is an almost irresistible impulse to drop the white man's burden, don a loin cloth and join the little brown people in the sun.

It is a beautiful place in which to say to hell with it all — with the alarm clocks, telephones, taxes, jury duties and all the other necessities and niceties which hem the western world.

The only thing that kept me from joining was the knowledge that my figure was a bit too plump for public display and I sunburn easily, but for anyone who would like to end his days whittling monkey figures out of lemon wood, or perhaps betting [illegible] few cockfights, this is the best address.

Hopelessly stranded and with nothing to do but wait for the finish, the Japanese here relaxed in comfortable billets and ate a rich diet of meats, fruits and vegetables which they will recall longingly in future years when they are back in their bleak homeland.

Post-War Striking Force of Three Services 55,000

All Troops Overseas Will Be Home by April—Abbott

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 17 —(CP)— With an army strength of between 20,000 and 25,000 men bringing the post-war striking power of the three services to 55,000 men, capital circles speculated today as to the composition of the active army and the numerical strength of the Reserve Army.

These details were not given in Defence Minister Abbott's picture of the army in the Commons yesterday afternoon when he suggested 153,000 of the remaining 175,000 men overseas would be home by March or April. The other 22,000 will serve an indefinite period with the army of occupation.

In this connection it was understood that Mr. Abbott's speech was prepared before the announcement came from London indicating the Queen Elizabeth might make four or five voyages repatriating 15,000 Canadians each trip.

Mr. Abbott listened to sharp criticism of the government's manpower and repatriation program by Maj.-Gen. George Pearkes, Victoria Cross winner who left his Pacific command post to successfully contest the Nanaimo, B. C. riding for the Progressive Conservative party.

Gen. Pearkes, speaking from long experience in recruiting N. R. M. A. men for active service, suggested establishment of a committee representing military, industrial and civilian leaders to study the Canadian Defence situation and try and evolve a plan which might save anxiety in the future.

N. R. M. A. men had a peasant mentality which saw their inborn loyalty to the soil conflict with national interest and national unity. They held the opinion the government should take responsibility for conscription and not leave the onus on them.

Tribute to French-Canadians

In criticizing the government for a "two-army" program of general servicemen and N. R. M. A. men, Gen. Pearkes paid tribute to French Canadian soldiers, saying it was a company which was 50 per cent French that deserved the credit for a distinction he won at Passchendaele in 1917 — presumably his V.C.

Mr. Abbott offered the prospect of good pay and rapid promotion in the peacetime forces. He said the reserve army of six divisions would be given every encouragement in the form of modern equipment and permanent officer and N.C.O. instructors.

There was no indication as to whether the army plans to add to its five regular regiments — Lord Strathcona's Horse, Royal Canadian Dragoons, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Royal 22nd Regiment and Royal Canadian Regiment. These regiments together with anciliiaries such as signals, engineers, service corps and medical units formed the neucleus of the 1st Division. There were only about 5,000 men in the pre-war permanent force.

One speculation was that some of the 1st Division regiments — which went into the famous formation from the pre-war reserve of part-time militia — might be given permanent force status.

This might see such regiments as the Carleton and York, the Seaforth Highlanders and the 48th Highlanders become permanent force.

Perpetuate Names

Mr. Abbott has indicated that regardless of what policy is followed the names of the famous regiments of the Second Great War will be perpetuated — most of them possibly as reserve units.

There were nearly 50,000 men in the old pre-war non-permanent active militia. This number was doubled in the wartime reserve army. But Mr. Abbott gave no hint as to numerical strength of the six division reserve which also would supply emergency coastal defence and anti-aircraft systems. The reserve army, similar to the permanent force, will depend on volunteers and it would not seem logical that the six divisions would be up to full strength — more than 70,000 men.

More likely they will be skeleton organizations of much less than divisional strength but prepared to reach full muster in case of emergency.

Maj.-Gen. E. G. (Bunny) Weeks, former administrator at Canadian military headquarters in London, is on his way home to help organize the post-war army and may be considered its commander. However, it would seem likely that over-all command would be under Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, Chief of the General Staff. He also will be responsible for the direction of the occupation force, whose term of service is two years but whose actual stretch of duty has not been defined.

ALD. H. G. WOODLEY NOT IN THE FIELD FOR MAYORALTY

"Sure, I'm going to run for mayor", smiled Alderman Harold (Twig) Woodley, when approached on the question yesterday.

"But", he added, "it won't be this year. I have been asked, and this is not the old bromide, by many of my friends to run for the office, but pressure of business will not permit".

"No", he said, "not this year. Maybe next, maybe not. At the present we are short of skilled help and I would not have the time to do a satisfactory job as chief magistrate, if I were elected. As it is, I am busy enough doing an alderman's job."

Hon. Stuart S. Garson who was returned as premier of Manitoba with his coalition government.

PROOFREADER DIES

Ottawa, Oct. 17 — (CP)—Ernest Lovat Fraser, 81, proofreader on the staff of the Ottawa Journal for 13 years died at his home here Monday. Before joining the Journal staff he had been employed in a similar capacity with the Government Printing Bureau.

A native of England, he had no relatives in this country.

Commons Argues Over House Rules

Ottawa, Oct. 17 —(CP)— The Commons argued noisily and sometimes angrily yesterday over the matter of oral questioning of the government before the orders of the day are called and Thomas Reid, sharp-tongued Scottish Liberal from New Westminster, charged question asked with being "publicity seekers."

Speaker Gaspard Fauteux ruled that oral questions were allowed as a matter of courtesy and they must be on matters of urgent national importance. However, out of sympathy for new members of the Commons, he had shown forebearance and had done everything he could to allow them the privilege of oral questions.

When Gordon Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) rose to ask whether Canada was providing for a reserve shipping pool, the Speaker asked him to place his question on the order paper.

There was a general murmur of protest from the Conservative benches and approval from the Liberal side.

Gordon Graydon, (PC-Peel), suggested to the Speaker it was "highly inadvisable" to curtail the privileges of the members in respect to oral questioning. "It ought to be a member's established right to examine the government on these questions," he added.

Mr. Mackenzie said the whole matter had received a ruling by Resources Minister Glen when he was Speaker of the House last session. Mr. Glen interjected his ruling had been that oral questions must be confined to matters of immediate public concern.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, said the House rules apparently needed revising because citations could be found to support nearly any argument of House rules.

450 Flying Fortresses Rotting in German Field

By MARSHALL YARROW

Munich, Oct. 17. (Reuters.)—Four hundred and fifty bombers—Flying Fortresses—worth about $148,000,000 are tied down in a field 25 miles south of here, probably never to fly again.

The machines were used by the United States 8th Air Force in the air attacks on Germany and now are laughingly described by troops as the "Occupational Air Force".

I asked a United States Air officer if there was no remedy for this staggering waste. He replied:

"What can you do? They cannot be converted into transport or passenger planes. They are too expensive to operate, they have not the cubic capacity for cargo planes and, anyhow, their weight would be against that. They were built for just one job— to carry a load of bombs, which do not take up much space for their weight, and a small crew, a long way."

Even the engines, apparently, are not worth salvaging. No peacetime air transport line wants to start in business with second-hand engines, no matter how good they once were.

Another officer said that because of the available supply of raw aluminum it would not be profitable to dismantle the bombers for the metal they would yield.

Irma Grese Admits Scourging Prisoners Against Camp Orders

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Lueneberg, Oct. 17 — (AP)—In a voice charged with defiance, blond 22-year-old Irma Grese admitted under cross examination today that she lashed prisoners at the Oswiecim concentration camp with a cellophane-braided whip and clubbed them with a walking stick.

She said she scourged prisoners in spite of camp orders against such methods of handling them.

The hard-visaged young S. S. guard denied under questioning by Prosecutor Col. T. M. Backhouse that she amused herself by sending women to work at a sand pit outside the wire, where they would be shot by guards on the alert for escape attempts. Col. Backhouse suggested she was lying and she snapped:

"I took an oath to tell the truth, and you can think what you like. But I'm not lying. I never was in charge of the working party at the sand pit. I never sent women across the wire."

Extremely nervous under the barbed cross examination, she constantly locked and unlocked her fingers, or tugged at the sleeve of her S.S. tunic.

She also denied she had set trained dogs on the prisoners.

"I suggest you had a dog," the prosecutor said.

"I should know better than you if I had a dog," she retorted.

Later Col. Backhouse accused her of habitually kicking and beating the women prisoners, and of enjoying the practice. The defendant almost rose from her seat and shouted:

"And I say you are badly informed about me and it's a big lie!"

"You heard your sister say yesterday that when you were a little girl you used to run away if anyone wanted to fight you. I suggest you found it great fun to hit someone who couldn't hit back, wasn't it?"

"No."

"Who gave you the idea to have the whip made?"

"Myself."

"You carried a walking stick and whip in camp at Oswiecim and you used both to beat the prisoners. Isn't that right?"

"Yes."

"Were you allowed to beat the prisoners?"

"No."

"So you did it against orders?"

"Yes."

"Did others beat the prisoners?"

"I don't know . . ."

"It was just you who was vicious?"

"Viciousness had nothing to do with it," the defendant said with a shrug.

MOVIE CZAR ARRIVES FOR STRIKE CONFERENCE

Faced with the first tough task of his new job as czar of the motion picture industry, Eric Johnston, head of the Motion Picture Producers' Association, is shown surounded by reporters upon his arrival in Los Angeles, Calif. He told the press that he would go to work on the strike situation immediately and that his actions "would speak louder than words."

Rev. J. W. Houston Pays Tribute To Work of Stretcher Bearers

New Tabernacle Church Clergyman Went Overseas in 1943 With Hospital Unit

There was a twinkle in the Irish eyes of the padre as he admitted a newspaperman to his home. "Sure, come on in", he said, pushing out a hand that had the strong heartiness of the soldier in its clasp.

He is Captain, the Rev. J. W. Houston, of Tabernacle United Church recently returned from overseas where he ministered to the spiritual needs of the second "division artillery".

It's a far cry from dugouts and canned rations to the comfort of his home on Church Street, but Captain Houston, like those other oftimes unsung heroes "of the cloth", who served faithfully and well and gave their best in the hell of war, takes it in his stride.

Captain Houston is a young man, married, with five little Houstons keeping him and Mrs. Houston busy most of the time.

"Were you scared?" he was asked.

He did not hesitate. His answer was simple yet terse.

"All the time", he said.

Attached to 2nd Div.

He went overseas in 1943 with the No. 13 General Hospital, which received some of its unit training in Picton. He stayed for some time in "dear old Sussex by the sea", and then went to the continent where he was attached to the Second Division. He served in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. He was at the Schelde Estuary where he "holed" up with the "pay bloke". "We lived underground and liked it. What else could we do. We ate canned rations and lived, so we couldn't complain".

Captain Houston paid sterling tribute to those unsung heroes of the war the unit stretcher bearers. "I remember one case", he said, "where two of these lads went out after one of their number who had been badly hit, in fact he died later. A shell landed near them as they approached their friend and when I arrived the two boys were badly wounded. They did not care about themselves but wanted their buddy looked after. They didn't know at the time that he had died."

"It was a sad task, he said when asked about communication with the next of kin of the boys that gave their all. "We tried to get in touch with the relatives as soon as possible. And the grimmest thing about this phase of the war was the replies I received from mothers, wives and sweethearts after I had written them regarding their relative's death."

Born in Belfast.

Captain Houston was born in Belfast, and the ordinary layman can tell that at a glance. His "Irish eyes" are always smiling and his breezy amiable manner makes the stranger feel as though he was an old friend. He was educated in Toronto and attended Oakwood High School. He was graduated from Victoria College and was ordained in 1931. He spent some time at Sundridge, and prior to coming to Belleville a short time before he enlisted, was in Copper Cliff for five years.

He is a typical soldier and a soldier's man. "The boys", he said, "liked to see the padre around them and I spent many pleasant hours chatting with them as man to man. They did not fear death, but took the idea of dying in a philosophical manner. Roman Catholic and Protestant alike, they were grand chaps and there was no line of difference between faiths overseas. War is a great leveller and over there we were all soldiers."

Falaise Tough Show.

He was through the hell of Falaise and Caen, but is reticent about talking about it. "It was a tough show," was his only remark. One of his greatest experiences was being present when "Monty" opened up all his artillery (2,000 guns) simultaneously and fired one shell per gun per minute for over five hours. "It was terrific and I never saw such a display of artillery power as I did on that day. Later we saw the effects. There was nothing left."

But the padre did not forget he was a minister. As the newspaperman left, he waved and sang out, "you want to hear a good sermon come on up and see me sometime."

Canadian Army Defeated 59 Hun Divisions in 11 Months

Ottawa, Oct. 17 — (CP)—In the months of almost continuous fighting from D-Day, June 6, 1944, to V-Day, May 8, 1945, the Canadian Army "encountered and defeated no less than 59 German divisions", Defence Minister Abbott said yesterday to the Commons.

He made the statement while giving an operational review of Canadian Army activities from last March until the end of the war in Germany.

Wartime enlistments in the Canadian Army totalled 730,000, Mr. Abbott said, and the greatest strength in Europe had reached 280,000. Casualties in the European zone numbered 76,514, out of a total of 80,530. All told, 370,000 army men had served in the European theatre.

Men and women serving in Canada's three armed forces totalled 1,045,000. In the first Great War about 600,000 served and there were 200,000 casualties.

HOUSE DEBATES

announced by Edward Stettinius, United States representative on the organization, that while 30 nations had adopted approval proceedings so far, only 11 had filed formal instruments of ratification.

In No Way Perfect.

The United Nations charter was in no way perfect. It was the first step towards that co-operation between nations which appeared to be essential to the survival of civilization.

"To build a solid and enduring structure of International Security will be no easy task, but the risks of failure are beyond calculation," said Mr. St. Laurent. The coming of the atomic bomb has opened our eyes to the appalling possibilities which may face the world if the United Nations should fail to achieve international co-operation."

He said that if there was to be an effective United Nations organization the great powers must remain united under the strains and stresses of the post-war period.

"At the same time it is essential to any lasting system of security that the middle and smaller powers should be accorded a voice in the peace settlement proportionate to the contributions which they have made in winning the war and which they are willing and able to make to the problems of peace.

"The people of Canada are firm in their resolve to do whatever lies in their power to ensure that the world will not be engulfed for a third time in a tidal world wave of savagery and despotism . . ."

Not Ideal Document

The United Nations Charter was not an ideal document but a compromise, yet one which represented the aspirations of the common man in all countries for peace.

Points on which Canada would have preferred to have seen different arrangements reached were the veto powers given permanent members of the Security Council and arrangements for amendment of the Charter. He hoped the veto over amendments would not be exercised to give the Charter too rigid a character.

Mr. Graydon said he would support adoption of the Charter and Mr. Coldwell indicated he would do likewise, although he took the floor only a few moments before the adjournment hour and postponed his formal speech until later.

Mr. Graydon described San Francisco as the "table under which the nations of the world may put their feet and talk things over instead of putting rifles on their shoulders and going to war to fight it out."

"San Francisco is a way to peace; but unless the nations of the world have the will to peace the way will avail but little in the solution of our international affairs.

"Nevertheless the San Francisco document is a pretentious and advanced attempt to create the best machinery possible for ensuring permanent peace. It is not up to the nations to use that machinery."

Commends Govt.

Mr. Graydon commended the government's action in sending a non partisan delegation to San Francisco and suggested that Canada's delegation to the peace conference be representative of all parties in the Commons so that "we may have a proper and fully united front in the deliberations that have to do with the peace of the world."

He said that after having been at San Francisco he was convinced more than ever, without reflection on anyone, that the government should appoint a separate minister of external affairs, because of growing international relations.

"It is not enough for this country to have the department of external affairs simply a lean-to to the Prime Minister's House so far as parliamentary institutions are concerned," said Mr. Graydon.

DIED ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Toronto, Oct. 17—(CP)—Struck by a street car in West Toronto last night, Miss Lillian Blackwell, 75, died on the way to hospital. Police said she walked directly into the path of the tram while trying to cross the street. Her death brought to 65 the number of Toronto traffic fatalities so far this year.

Industrial Commission Approves Securing Services of Planning Expert to Make Survey of City

The Belleville Industrial Commission at its last meeting dealt with a number of matters of public interest and of importance to the future development of the city.

It has been realized for some time that there are very few tracts of land of any considerable acreage within the city limits that are sufficiently spacious for the location of a modern industry of any large proportion. The problem of incorporating a very considerable additional acreage from the suburban area was discussed at some length. Mayor Follwell, who is a member of the Commission, expressed the opinion that a city planning expert should be engaged so that future essential expansion of the city might be carried out to the best advantage. Following the discussion it was decided to send a recommendation to the City Council favoring the engagement of a competent city planning expert.

Because of difficulties and misunderstandings about the actual dimensions and the boundaries of the lands that had been designated as industrial sites it was decided to request the Council to have the City Engineer's department make a survey of all such sites within the city that had been previously designated and that these should be forwarded to the City Solicitor to be certified. The hope was expressed that this work should be completed by October 31st instant.

The Commission also went on record as favoring a transfer of the lands immediately to the east of the Stephens-Adamson Company to Major S. C. Hurlburt and Capt. C. M. Partridge of Kingston for the establishment of an industry for the manufacture of cement blocks and cinder blocks.

To Invite Press.

Several of the members were of the opinion that more publicity should be given to the work of the Industrial Commission and it was therefore decided that a reporter should be invited to attend the regular meeting of the Commission and present to the public a more ample account of what was being done.

Mayor Follwell reported that he and Ald. McDougall had made a trip to Kirkland Lake to attend the annual convention of Mayors that was held in that town. The delegates met with the most cordial reception; everything was done for their comfort and entertainment while they were there. Kirkland Lake was a one-industry town. It is entirely dependent upon the mining of gold. This was one of the great gold camps of Northern Ontario but the mining companies were very short of help at the present time and required 5,000 to 6,000 more men to carry on the work properly. The difficulty was, however, that there was no housing accommodation for any more families in the town and it was not possible to provide housing within the near future for any new residents. It is the Mayor's opinion that there will be enormous expansion in various lines in Northern Ontario. There was, for instance, the great tourist industry and there were some of the most beautiful lakes there to be found anywhere in Canada, such as Lake Temagami. An active tourist association was promoting the interest in this movement. Plans were also being made to rebuild the hotel at Moosonee on James Bay. Cobalt was a ghost town but the people there were looking hopefully forward to a revival in activity because of the increased price of silver.

Royally Entertained.

At Kirkland Lake they were entertained at the homes of prominent citizens who undertook to receive small parties of the delegates and give them an evening's entertainment so that they might became better acquainted with the people of the north. The forward-looking public spirit at Kirkland Lake, Timmins and other centres of population in the north was very evident and most enthusiastic and he wished that more of such public spirit could be adopted by the towns and cities in the southern part of the province.

The Chairman of the Commission gave an interesting report upon the condition of industry in Belleville and on the negotiations being carried on with a number of excellent prospects.

The Ontario Government Department of Planning and Development has been sending to the Commission a large number of communications from manufacturers in Great Britain and the United States, the majority of whom are looking for sales and distribution representation in Canada. There are also some manufacturers in both Great Britain and the United States who are looking for industrial corporations in Canada who will undertake to manufacture some of their lines for the Canadian market. These prospects have been listed by the Secretary of the Commission and are being distributed among the manufacturers, sales representatives and distributing houses in Belleville.

New Argentine Cabinet Soon

Buenos Aires, Oct. 17 —(AP)— Attorney-General Juan Alvarez, charged by President Farrell with the task of forming a new Argentine cabinet, held out hope today that the assignment might be completed within 24 hours.

Political observers believed most of the appointments would go to the Conservative party or to Right Wing members of the Radical (Centre) party. Alvarez himself is a member of the Conservative wing of the Radical party.

Two Right Wingers were reported under consideration for the portfolio of foreign ministers —Isidoro Ruiz Moreno and Carlos Saavedra Lamas, who was foreign minister under Conservative President Agustin P. Justo.

There have been reports that Gen. Edouardo Avalos, leader of the Army movement which overthrew the military rule of Col. Juan Peron, has been negotiating with Left Wing Radical Leader Amadeo Sabattini, who has been quoted as saying he could form a cabinet if Alvarez failed.

PAY-OFF NEVER CAME

Toronto, Oct. 17 —(CP)— Asa E. Galloway of Hamilton said in county criminal court yesterday that for an investment of $11,000 he was promised a return of $900,000 as his share in a $12,000,000 estate in the United States. He said he lent a total of $16,000 to Arthur A. Stickle of Toronto and Harold Kates of Cincinnati, who went on trial on charges of obtaining $38,000 by false pretences from six Canadians, but the pay-off for the money never came.

A Thought for the "Belleville"

There is a certain amount of sadness at the thought of those fine small fighting ships, the corvettes, being sold for scrap as several have been in recent weeks. Some of them have gone to a Hamilton firm to be broken up and put to domestic uses to appear as washing machines, perhaps, as well as stoves, furnaces, pipes and what have you.

So many boys from Belleville have sailed on these craft that we have developed a sentimental attachment for them. This feeling is heightened, too, by the fact that the citizens of the city raised several thousands of dollars to add comforts and accessories to the "Belleville" which the city "adopted."

Those who attended the ceremony at Kingston will always remember what a fine sight she was, gleaming in fresh paint and with her pennants flying in the breeze. It was expected the "Belleville" would give a good account of herself in action against the foe but fortunately the war came to an end before she had a chance to prove herself.

Some day we will likely read of what fate is in store for her but no matter how rude her end may be the good ship "Belleville" will always have a place in our hearts and affections.

Lipstick: Useful as Well as Ornamental

It seems that at last lipstick has a utilitarian use as well as purely esthetic. So far its chief use has been to adorn the lips of mothers and their daughters. They seem to think its use adds to their appearance, and perhaps it does. In fact it has got to be that no woman or girl would think of going out on the street without a liberal use of lipstick any more than a business man would go down to his store without his shirt. But this is all beside the point.

Down in New Brunswick, New Jersey, milady's lipstick is credited with indirect assistance in the enforcement of public health regulations. Because of a tendency of the material to adhere to utensils, lipstick made careless washing of drinking glasses in retail establishments obvious, and thus led to increasing cleanliness in the handling of cutlery and chinaware including glassware.

Usually the complaint against lipstick has come from restaurant and hotel men who say it stains their linen which sometimes is difficult to wash out. Possibly that is the kiss-proof type which used to be publicized in certain advertising although we haven't noticed any such appeals to the feminine heart lately. That may be because we do not read the right magazines.

Now the restaurant proprietors have another complaint against the practice, or have they? If it forces their kitchen help to take more care in washing and drying dishes and cutlery they should be delighted. Anyway it is an idea and if it helps to promote cleanliness we're all for it. Perhaps this lipstick practice is a good one after all.

Caps for Milk Bottles

Most of us are familiar or at least have some slight idea of the care that is taken of milk from the time it comes from the cow until it gets into the consumers' hands. And even before the cow is milked she must pass tests for tuberculosis. All these precautions are necessary because milk is a fluid which is easily contaminated through improper handling for the reason it provides an excellent food source for a great many types of bacteria.

With these thoughts in mind it occurs to us that as soon as paper products are more freely available, consideration might be given by local milk dealers to the provision of a more sanitary milk bottle cap. The cap used at present fits tightly enough, but it leaves a depression at the top of the bottle which makes an ideal catch basin for dust.

Under the system of house-to-house distribution it is impossible to avoid picking up a certain amount of dust. All housewives, presumably, wipe the tops of the bottles carefully before use, but, since nothing more than a damp cloth can be used, it is obviously difficult to do a thorough job. What is required is a cap which fits entirely over the top of the bottle effectively barring dust.

Milk is one of our most important foods, and it is important that every precaution be taken to safeguard its quality and purity. We know the milk dealers and producers of this area have done grand work under the manifold difficulties which follow the wake of war and during war itself. It is to be expected that their record will be even more impressive as manpower, mac[illegible]s and supplies, so necessary in their business, become more readily available.

Glowing Paint

Luminous paint on walls, ceiling and floor of an operating room eliminates shadows cast by the surgeon's hand and instruments and reduces danger from the sudden failure of lights during an operation, says Engineer Morozov of the Soviet Scientists Anti-Fascist Committee.

Light appears to pass through the solid walls and ceiling. A mercury vapor lamp with a black reflector activates the luminescent paint, which is made by mixing small quantities of zinc or cadmium sulfide with ordinary pigments. Light is emitted spontaneously for about an hour and a half after exposure to daylight or artificial ultraviolet rays from the mercury lamp.

Walls of a room painted before the war still glow, though the windows were blown out by a bomb-blast in January, 1941, and the paint was subjected to all weather conditions for almost three years.

No Maidens in Bali

(N. Y. Herald Tribune)

American tourists, as well as readers of "The National Geographic Magazine," are well acquainted with the charms of the girls of Bali. All concerned will be pleased to learn that the personable young ladies suffered little during the Japanese occupation of the island — unless marriage is classed as suffering. It appears that all the single Balinese girls of marriageable age were wed to Balinese men as soon as the Japanese arrived. Immediately after the enemy landed (according to the report of the liberated Dutch resident, Carel Boterhoven) the Japanese commander demanded that several hundred unmarried Balinese girls be turned over to his troops.

The Indonesian ruler, Anak Agung, refused to comply and ordered a mass marriage. For some reason, still unexplained, the Japanese were discouraged by this spirit of resistance. They did nothing further about the matter. The only result was that every girl on Bali got a husband. Admirers of the girls are a trifle perturbed about such a state of affairs, saying that on an island famous for beautiful women at least a few should be single. The condition, however, is temporary. Twenty years hence, what with all the recent marriages, there should be far more lovely creatures on Bali than any tourist ever has seen.

Bridge Talk

When the Government was recruiting research workers for the atomic bomb project the records of candidates who were rejected frequently bore the explanatory symbol "BPW," according to Dr. Joseph C. Morris of Tulane University, who helped in the recruiting, says The New York Herald Tribune.

The "BPW" meant "Bridge-Playing Wife." The idea was that a wife might worm the secret of her husband's job from him and then inadvertently let it slip out over the bridge table. Taking no chances, the Government turned down the men with BPW's.

ABOUT CHILDREN

When they feed them first and say:
"Off to bed!" or "out to play!
We have company for tea,
Quiet we should like to be,"
This I think: well dressed and clean,
Little children should be seen.

Children, said some sage absurd,
Should be seen and never heard.
Some old bachelor or maid
(Hope deferred and love delayed)
Dwelling in a thin-walled flat
Must in rage have muttered that.

Yes. Admit it oft I will,
There are times I like them still.
But to keep them out of sight
Never seems to me just right.
Here's exactly what I mean:
Little children should be seen.

Company coming? Bring them in,
Tousled hair and toothless grin.
Youngsters are a source of pride
Not a shame we ought to hide.
Good to us the Lord has been!
Little children should be seen.

OCT. 17th., 1905.

In connection with the consecration and opening of the new St. Michael's Church, which took place on the 15th inst., it is interesting to note that the first altar in a Roman Catholic Church in this city was set up in the year 1827 in a small wooden building about 20 feet by 50 feet, which stood on the south east corner of the same lot upon which the present church stands. The Rev. Father Michael Brennan was the first parish priest and under his loving and fostering care the parish of St. Michael's flourished. In the year 1837 the second church, a stone edifice, was built and in it the congregation of St. Michael's worshipped for about fifty years. Eventually it was found to be too small and also falling into bad state of repair. The building of the beautiful church which was burned last December, was commenced in 1886, the corner stone being laid on August 22nd, and the church was opened on Oct. 7th, 1888.

No More of That Mr. Ilsley

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

When the Federal Liberal Government had a record majority in Parliament—that it, prior to the last general elections—an unfortunate habit developed on the Treasury Benches. Opposition speakers—particularly Dr. Bruce of Toronto—were howled down in a manner that reflected no credit on the Government supporters. Despite the slim majority held by the Liberal Administration in the present House of Commons, the old tendency to override parliamentary decencies is cropping up in the current session. Mr. John Bracken, the Progressive Conservative Leader, has so far been the favored target for unfair treatment.

There was, of course, the Prime Minister's over-zealous effort to crack down on Mr. Bracken the moment the session opened —an incident that ended in an apology by Mr. King. The Prime Minister being overseas, Finance Minister Ilsley is, to the disappointment of many admirers within and without his Party, showing something of the same narrowness in his treatment of the Opposition Leader. Many newspapers have commented on this point, and now Toronto "Saturday Night" — a highly responsible paper which gives general support to the Liberal Government—has added its warning to Mr. Ilsley and his colleagues to refrain from any repetition of the Bracken rebuff. 'Saturday Night" puts the situation fairly in these terms:

"The Government front bench at Ottawa will make a great mistake if they try to administer to Mr. Bracken the same sort of treatment as they have for some time meted out to Dr. Bruce. There has usually been a shadow of justification for them in the Toronto member's case, for he is rather given to ignoring the rules of the House, but even so we do not think that the uproar which has so often attended his attempts to speak has ever done the Government much good in public opinion.

"The disorderly scene in which Mr. Bracken was eliminated from the debate on the motion to go into committee on the war appropriation on Tuesday of last week was the result of Mr. Ilsley's decision to treat as a 'speech' a statement made by the Opposition leader on the previous Friday, and therefore to demand that Mr. Bracken secure unanimous consent if he wished to speak 'again.' The Friday statement consisted of about 150 words, explaining why the Opposition leader was giving the floor to Mr. Green at that moment, and explicitly stating the intention of speaking 'for half an hour or more' later in the debate.

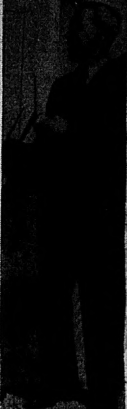
"If Mr. Ilsley was going to claim that this explanation constituted a speech and deprived Mr. Bracken of his right to speak later, he should have raised the point at the time. By acquiescing on the Friday and objecting on the Tuesday he made the Government appear to be showing very slight courtesy to a new member who carries great responsibilities and who was in no sense trying to take an improper advantage. We hope that nothing like this will happen again. Mr. Bracken is an experienced parliamentarian and a thoroughly honest debater, and is not in the least likely to be caught in anything that can legitimately be regarded as a breach of the rules."

Restore Cooking Fats And Cheese Rations After Temporary Cut

London, Oct. 17 — (Reuters) — Food Minister Sir Ben Smith told a press conference here yesterday that reductions in cooking fats and cheese rations will be restored Nov. 11 to "help the people stand up to the cold weather."

Reduced from two ounces weekly to 1, the fats ration will return to two ounces. The weekly cheese allotment will be restored to three ounces after a temporary reduction last April 1 to two ounces.

WILL END EXILE



After 13 years of self imposed exile from Japan, Ikuo Oyama, 65, a research associate at Northwestern University in Chicago, Ill., will return to Japan to help re-educate and liberalize his countrymen. A former member of the Diet, he fled in 1932 when he learned of an assassination plot directed against him. He is pictured at Northwestern. His wife will accompany him to Japan. His son, last heard from in 1941, was with the Japanese diplomatic service at the time.

Revise and Soften Italian Armistice Until Peace Signed

London, Oct. 17 —(CP)— Official British sources said today discussions were under way to revise and soften the Italian armistice as a stop-gap arrangement until the final and formal peace treaty can be drawn.

The next move toward placing Europe on a peacetime basis is up to the Soviet Union, the officials indicated, with both British and American authorities waiting to determine whether Russia will produce a proposal to dissolve the deadlock over treaties.

The Foreign Ministers' conference in London ended two weeks ago in an impasse over treaties for Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary, and whether France and China should take part.

It was learned that the Foreign Ministers' deputies, who remained in London to plan treaties have been unable to carry on further discussion while the gap in the five-power unity remains.

HOG PRODUCERS

Pass Resolution.

The meeting passed a resolution asking the Canadian Federation of Agriculture to arrange a national hog conference shortly to consider common problems such as grain supplies, costs and marketing. The meeting also expressed "grave concern" over disturbed labor-management relations in packing plants, involving possible disruption of livestock processing.

"Therefore we commend the Dominion government in taking action in control of certain plants to ensure continuous operation, and we respectfully urge and plead that all governmental authorities and others concerned in the controversy seriously consider the entire situation from the standpoint that producers are directly affected as well as in the hope that a fair and just settlement may be found," said a resolution.

The meeting moved that the Dominion meat board provide the producer with information concerning a "fair and equitable basic minimum price."

Charles McInnis of Iroquois, association president, told delegates the minimum price for hogs "disappeared without announcement" a year ago and hog producers now must sell in a market which has domestic and export ceilings but no floor.

WEAK NERVES OR DIABETES?

The outpouring of adrenin (hormone of the adrenal glands) into the bloodstream under the influence of the fear-rage-fight-or-flight emotion causes liberation of considerable glycogen (animal starch, stored fuel) from the liver and muscles and quick oxidation or combustion of this fuel for conversion into muscular energy. That is, if there is sufficient muscular exertion or activity to use the energy.

If the conventions of civilization or the rules of propriety prohibit such natural or primitive reaction to emotion, that is, the everyday emotions, vexations, affronts, irritations and annoyances in business, professional, social and domestic life, then the machinery of the body is bound to suffer from excessive wear and tear. There is only one way to protect the body against such damage—keep the belt on the flywheel, keep the clutch engaged, get sufficient exercise, physical work, active play every day.

According to Joslin, recognized authority on the subject, there are 400,000 persons in the United States who have diabetes and 25 per cent of our entire population, that is, approximately thirty-three million persons are "carriers" of the potentiality or tendency to develop diabetes — by inheritance. Indeed Joslin defines diabetes as "an hereditary disease, characterized by an increase of sugar in the blood and the excretion of sugar in the urine." Duffie, in his famous "Book for Us Diabetes," published by Dr. Don H. Duffie, Central Lake, Michigan—I regard it as the best $2 investment a diabetic or a potential diabetic can make—says a diabetic is one who "is starving for sugar while his blood is full of it.... his blood sugar rides 'round and 'round on the delivery wagon instead of being delivered." The diabetic cannot burn the glycogen (blood sugar, glucose, dextrose) when it is liberated from liver and muscles under the influence of emotion. For further details, if you want to know more about diabetes, get Joslin's medical textbook "Treatment of Diabetes" from the public library or study Dr. Duffie's guidebook or send me ten cents in negotiable condition, with stamped self addressed envelope for the Little Lesson "Training for Diabetes."

I strongly suspect—and this is all I have to say about it—that a good many people who gamble recklessly with their health under the erroneous impression that they have "weak nerves"—whatever that may mean—in reality suffer from mild unrecognized diabetes. That's all, I can't tell you anything more about it.

By way of prophylaxis, prevention and even cure of some of the complaints these victims of mild undiagnosed diabetes ascribe to "nerves", I offer this advice: In the great majority of cases the sufferers can work, walk, play it off.

Within reason the effects of insulin, vitamin B, (which I call "poor man's insulin") and physical activity are similar, whether you have diabetes or not. They all tend to increase or improve carbohydrate metabolism, the oxidation of glycogen or blood sugar to yield physical (muscular) energy (the only kind of energy we can measure).

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Morning Nausea

Thanks a million for your suggestion of something sweet late at night and early in the morning to combat the nausea of pregnancy. I have suffered extremely with it in both pregnancies, but this time the second morning after I began following your suggestion I had no nausea and have had none since. (Mrs. L. H. D.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. Optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex, which is advisable for every expectant mother, probably prevents morning sickness and many other unpleasant manifestations. Expectant mothers will find instructions about this and other questions in booklet "Preparing for Maternity"—for copy send ten cents and stamped envelope bearing your address. If you want "The Brady Baby Book" also, inclose ten cents additional.

Bed For Boy

Would box spring and mattress or link spring and hair-felt separate mattress be better for three year old son?—We contemplate buying him a full size bed and using his crib for coming new baby. (D. G.)

Answer—Reasonably firm, not too soft bed is better for most young persons.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Humor is a two-edged sword and a dangerous weapon.

In 1905, just before he retired as dean of the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, Sir William Osler, an eminent British physician, delivered the annual Washington birthday address. In the course of this address, entitled "The Fixed Period," he said:

"I have two great fixed ideas well known to my friends. . . . The first is the comparative uselessness of men above forty years of age . . . My second fixed idea is the uselessness of men above sixty years of age, and the incalculable benefit it would be in commercial, political and in professional life, if as a matter of course, men stopped work at this age. In that charming novel, The Fixed Period, Anthony Trollope discusses the practical advantages in modern life of a return to this ancient usage, and the plot hinges upon the admirable scheme of a college into which at sixty men retired for a year of contemplation before a peaceful departure by chloroform . . . The teacher's life should have three periods, study until 25, investigation until 40, profession until 60, at which age I would have him retired on a double allowance. Whether Anthony Trollope's suggestion of a college and chloroform should be carried out or not I have become a little dubious, as my own time is getting so short."

At the time Dr. Osler was 56.

These whimsical comments brought an avalanche of unfavorable criticism down upon the head of the unsuspecting doctor.

Newspapers ignored the facetious nature of the allusions and attacked the speaker savagely for advocating the chloroforming of all men when they reached a certain age.

Osler Recommends Chloroform at Sixty was proclaimed in headlines.

Editorials branded Dr. Osler as "a typical soulless product of modern science."

It was all taken so seriously by the public that in its issue of March 4, 1904, the Medical Record printed a statement from Dr. Osler denying that he had ever seriously advocated chloroforming men at 60 or any other age.

Make Palestine Bi-radical State Says Speaker at Kiwanis Club

Declaration of Palestine as a bi-racial state with Arab and Jew living in amity in equal numbers might be the antidote to the poison of war, which now threatens to engulf the Middle East, Professor A. E. Prince, professor of history, Queen's University told the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday.

The clash of the rising tide of Arab resentment at the unlimited entry of Jews into Palestine is beginning to be heard around the world. The most tragic idea in the history of Jewry is the setting up of an independent state in Palestine, the speaker declared.

"It is tragic because before the idea of a separate state was born, Jew and Arab, both of the Semitic strain, were close friends."

In view of the Hun atrocities against the Jews in the recent war in Germany, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Palestine was to be made a home for these people. The Arabs charge the Jews want to crowd the country so that they will be a minority.

"If they do bring in this vast amount of Jews, the Arabs have stated they will fight to the death," Professor Prince said.

The Arabs claim they have been in the Holy Land since the seventh century. The Jews claim it is their land and as such they should go back to their rightful home.

The true aspect of the famous Balfour declaration, the speaker pointed out, was that Great Britain favors the establishment of a national home in Palestine, but it did not say a Jewish state. It must be clearly understood that the civil and religious rights of the non-Jewish population must be respected.

Jews in Minority

When he was in Palestine several years ago, Prof. Prince told the clubmen, there were nine Moslems and Christians to each Jew. Then the Jews entered and did tremendous work in cultivating the desert. Modern American equipment such as tractors, etc, was brought in. The Arabs did not want to be driven out but felt with their primitive methods and tools of cultivation they could not compete with the modern methods.

The problem now facing the big powers has aroused feeling throughout the world, was his opinion. The point of view of the Arab will be directly concerned with the Middle East if a national state is set up.

Where to put the Jewish refugees from the war-stricken countries is a tremendous problem. To pile them into Palestine will be sheer tragedy, Prof. Prince stated.

To throw open the gates of Palestine is just the thing for the unhappy people of Jewish faith in Europe, but careful study will have to be made of the whole situation if this occurs to prevent both races being thrown into the maelstrom of war. Seeing the strength of the Jewish position, a clash of the races is difficult to reconcile.

Middle East Important

He reviewed the importance of the Middle East during the first war and the one recently concluded. It stands at the cross roads of the world cutting the vast British and French Empire lifelines.

"The British were responsible for an amazing organization called the Middle East Supply Centre," Prof. Prince said. The Centre organized all the resources after a minute survey of the area, moved supplies and linked together the vast district as never before in the economic progress of the Middle East.

In two wars the Middle East was a vital part of the theatre of operations. The Kaiser cast envious eyes on it in 1914. In the last war Germany sought its control.

Had they struck there in the early stages of the war behind the Italian armies, he could have administered the coup de grace to the Allies there and then.

Conversation With Accused Told By Police Inspector

Cornwall, Oct. 17 —(CP)—Provincial Police Inspector T. W. Cousans, of Perth, Ont., testifying at the murder trial of Clarence Hutt, Tuesday swore that at the scene of the alleged murder of George McFadden, accused told him, "This is the place where I hit McFadden with a flashlight and then threw him over the fence."

Hutt is being tried by a Supreme Court Jury for the murder of McFadden on Aug. 14, 1943.

Inspector Cousans also testified that Hutt had acknowledged that he "might have hit his 67-year-old uncle with a stone. The conversation took place last March 23 following the recovery of McFadden's body from a shallow, muddy grave in Williamsburg Township bushland.

Witness gave a detailed description of the finding of the skeleton of a man and said that after Hutt had directed police to to the grave he had pointed to pieces of cloth and bones protruding from a hole.

Inspector Cousans was cross-examined extensively by Defence Counsel J. S. Latchford concerning the transfer of Hutt from jail in Cornwall to the Brockville jail in Dec. 6, 1944. Hutt at the time was serving a one-year term on a forgery charge arising out of the sale of McFadden's automobile.

It was pointed out that the transfer was effected on authority of the Deputy Commissioner of Ontario Provincial Police.

WANTS STATEMENT

Toronto, Oct. 17 —(CP)—Mayor R. H. Saunders of Toronto said last night that he and Mayor George Inglis of Niagara Falls, Ont., president of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves, will visit Premier Drew of Ontario tomorrow to urge that a "clear-cut statement" be made regarding responsibility of the Federal, Provincial and Municipal governments regarding post-war planning.

Canadian Senate Rejuvenated By New Members

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 17 (CP)—The Canadian Senate, under two new leaders, its blood rejuvenated by a large influx of new members, its wartime fetters gone, has been relecting a resurgent, almost insurgent, mood in debates that have revolved largely around its powers and activities.

With more than occasional references to "the other place" — the House of Commons—it has heard spoken and re-spoken the theme that only in its inability to initiate money bills does it fall short of the powers possessed by the Commons.

Both sides of the Upper House have echoed their independence of the Commons but it has been largely from the preponderance of Liberals—66 compared to 29 Progressive Conservatives and one vacant seat that the most outspoken views have issued.

At the root of the Senate's refractory mood are several factors:—

1. Its obscure role in wartime government has been stripped away by the end of the war.

2. It recognizes and resents criticisms of Senate inertia in comparison with Commons activity.

3. It insists that while it cannot originate money bills it can amend them, lower them, reject them, and it can "recommend" expenditures of money to the government for purposes it considers wise, a provision which makes its one restriction virtually a technicality.

4. Injection of the minds and moods of 18 new members, many of them young men judged on Senate standards.

5. Appointment of two new leaders, Liberal Wishart Robertson, 54, of Halifax, and Progressive Conservative John Haig, 67, of Winnipeg, both champions of Senate rights and responsibilities.

Once termed by Sir John A. MacDonald "the sober second thought in legislation," the Senate is a check, a detached, experienced, supposedly non-partisan body capable, by its very nature, of giving decisions free from the immediate considerations that, it is argued, sway members of the Commons.

This springs from appointment of its members for life, a fact which holds them aloof from the transient issues that manifest themselves in election campaigns or between those campaigns and dictate the course of the elected members of the Commons.

The actual section of the British North America Act which limits the Senate powers reads:

"Bills for appropriating any part of the public revenue or for imposing any tax or impost shall originate in the Commons."

This is the rule that limits the powers of the Senate, Senator Thomas Vien, former Speaker, said recently in terming ultra vires a House of Commons standing order which says that "all aids and supplies granted to His Majesty by the Parliament of Canada are the sole gift of the House of Commons" and that it was "the undoubted right of the (Upper) House to direct, limit and appoint in all such bills the ends purposes, considerations, conditions, limitations and qualifications of such grants, which are not alterable by the Senate."

That order, said Senator A. J. Leger of Moncton, N.B., dates from a British Commons order of 1678, and said he, it has no effect other than "to confuse" those who try to understand the ramifications of Canadian government.

BOY SHOOTS TEACHER

London, Oct. 17 — (Reuters) — A 13-year-old schoolboy was detained by police last night a few hours after he allegedly shot his teacher, 36-year-old Cyril Burton, in a Walthamston school. Mr. Burton, who suffered a wound in the right thigh was reported progressing well after an operation. The boy was being reprimanded when he allegedly produced a revolver and shot the master.

Prime Minister Busy in London

London, Oct. 17— (CP Cable)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King was busy at his correspondence in his hotel suite here today in the course of an informal visit to the United Kingdom which observers have said may have a bearing on forthcoming international conferences.

Canada, like other small powers, has a lively interest in a suggestion supported by Britain and the United States that all countries which contributed to the defeat of Germany be called into conference to write the European peace which failed to materialize from the Council of Foreign Ministers meeting here two weeks ago.

In the course of his conversations here, the Prime Minister has undoubtedly followed the attitude outlined in Ottawa that nations which participated in the war should have a voice in the peace.

Mr. King's stay in England will culminate in a trip to the continent to visit Canadian troops and inspect conditions in war-ravaged countries. The exact date of the Prime Minister's visit to the continent has not yet been revealed.

His visit to date has been confined to informal talks with Dominion representatives, friends and representatives of the British government including Prime Minister Atlee, Foreign Secretary Bevin and Dominion Secretary Viscount Addison.

INVOLVED IN FIGHT

Cornwall, Oct. 17 —(CP)—Clarence Hutt, 33-year-old Williamsburg Township farmhand, charged with the murder of his 55-year-old uncle, George McFadden of Cardinal, Ont., said yesterday that after a drinking spree he and McFadden became involved in a fight on Aug. 14, 1943, the day McFadden was killed.

PLAY SAID REASON

St. Louis, Oct. 17 —(AP)— A make-believe romance in a church play 12 years ago led yesterday to a $75,000 suit for alienation of affections. The plaintiff, George Tsakir, 53-year-old barber, alleged that a friend, William Lamperson, had gradually gained the affections of his wife of 23 years since the couple appeared as sweethearts in the play.

The Kidneys Filter the Blood

Any poisonous waste materials, which the liver has failed to eliminate from the digested food before it is taken up by the blood stream, must be looked after by the kidneys if the blood is to be rid of dangerous poisions.

When the kidneys fail there comes a poisoning of the system with headaches, tired feelings, loss of sleep and such painful ailments as backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago and other ills.

The use of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills is suggested because they help in three ways to get rid of this condition.

(1) By arousing the action of the liver which prevents certain poisons from getting into the blood stream.
(2) By stimulating the activity of the kidneys in their work of filtering poisons from the blood.
(3) By ensuring activity of the bowels in eliminating the poisonous waste materials from the body.

Surely this must be a thorough system of protecting the body against the poisons which result from the digestion of food. Such treatment is required by almost everybody at one time or another.

Using Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills once or twice a week, will help to keep you regular and well and free from unnecessary pains and discomforts. 35 cts., a box.

WALLACE—IRWIN

Allan Mills, (Special.)—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Zion United Church, Petherick's Corners, on Saturday, when Isobel Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Irwin, was united in marriage to Pte. Thomas George Wallace, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wallace, Seymour East, by Rev. J. R. Bick, of Janetville, and Rev. P. J. Lambert, of Campbellford.

The church was tastefully decorated with fern, asters and other flowers.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Complexion Repair

Do you realize that your face is ever in the making? It is true. For better or worse, like matrimony. Left to its own willful inclinations, it is likely to take on accordion pleats with the years. Petted and pampered, it will go along all smiling-sweet, the skin surface will be satin-smooth; you can curl your nose at old Meanie Time.

One way to appreciate these portrait changes is to size up the old girls you know. Some still have young faces. Eyes are bright and twinkling. If lines are present, they are laughing ones that have charm. Other women of lemonated disposition, have sour, sharp looks. Their wrinkles are tabloid-size irrigation ditches. There are frowns between the eyes, furrows from nostrils to lip-ends. How they have lived, what they have done, what they have thought, were factors in the ultimate composition of their portraits.

That's something to think about. If you're only thirty, your are on your way, lady. We can't expect one of that age to visualize herself in life's twilight, but it is well to have a weather eye on the future. We all want, beyond everything else, to stay young and lovely. We can't bear to think of having our petals fall. Well, let's take out insurance. Let's start now! Today! this minute!

Here is a simple formula for preserving youthful appearance; live splendidly and courageously, obey the laws of health, and attend faithfully to your cosmetic duties.

The woman who takes life as it comes, realizing that there's bound to be some bad luck with the good—one can't have everything!—has an advantage over the one who whines, cracks up and goes all to pieces over the smallest disappointment. Worry is beauty enemy number 1, a face-wrecker more terrible than illness, sometimes. Few women have an understanding of the dreadful effects of emotional indulgences. They haven't found out—or been told—that anger, jealousy, fear and other mental horrors can actually affect the organs of the body to such an extent that symptoms of disease appear.

Helen Jameson

We can't expect one of that age to visualize herself in life's twilight.

Mental health is as necessary as physical well-being. Blessed with both, a woman need not worry about birthdays.

With peace within one's soul, the countenance will reflect radiance. If one is excitable and nervous, there is a likelihood that one will develop the habit of making facial gestures that bring one gullies and creases. Lifting the eyebrows etches railroad tracks across the forehead. Pulling down the lip-ends has a destructive effect upon the surrounding tissues, imparts a dour appearance.

Exercise and fresh air help one to retain the appearance of youth. As one gets older, of course, one must slow up. But one mustn't loaf too much. That's fatal.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Don't Trust to Love at First Sight —Better Take Another Look

Loneliness is the worst of matchmakers. This pearl of wisdom is not to be found in any of the books of familiar quotations. It's the reflection of a soldier who tells me his experience.

A little older than some of his buddies, he wasn't exactly engaged but had what is known as an "understanding" with a nice girl in his home town. They considered being married before he was drafted but the girl had obligations to her family and he didn't care about hit-and-run, wartime marriages. So this eminently safe-and-sane young couple separated with tears and promises never to forget.

He was sent to a city near two Army posts, and everyone within a radius of ten miles seemed possessed with the idea of giving the soldiers a good time. At a dance he met a girl who was a revelation to him, wholly different from the girl he left behind who was gentle, domestic and not given to exploiting her own personality.

This new girl who charmed him into forgetfulness was of the Carmen type, a flame-like creature who swept up everyone within her orbit. Goodness knows why she turned the arclight of her fascination on the young man with the quiet girl at home. But either for her own entertainment or out of pure devilitry, she fascinated him, and for him it was a case of love at first sight. He never gave the girl back home a second thought after he met the girl whom we'll call "Carmen." And she got him into plenty of trouble too.

He borrowed money to give her the good times, the presents she demanded as her right. Of course, he asked her to marry him, which seemed funny to her, but she kept him dangling for for her own purposes.

After weeks and months in which he never answered a letter from the girl with whom he had an understanding, he wrote and told her he had fallen in love with someone else—just couldn't help it. It was a case of love at first sight. He knew he was a heel and not worth a second thought of hers, and he hoped she'd meet someone worthy of her.

The boy went on loving Carmen 'til one day she dropped out of sight, and a week later he received her wedding cards. She'd married an Army Captain who was said to have an independent fortune. And when he took his bruised feelings to the home-town girl, she had turned her affections elsewhere.

Christmas Card And Birth-Announcement Combined

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My third baby is to be born around the second or third week in December, and I have been wondering if I could have a printed card made before the arrival of the baby, this card to serve two purposes: (1) to announce the arrival, and (2) to extend our most cordial "Season's Greetings." Although it sounds "out-of-the-ordinary" to me, do you think this would be proper?

Since the baby will arrive so near Christmas-time and I'll have so much to do, what with Christmas shopping and taking care of my two other children, I'm afraid I'll have little time for the task of writing the hundred or more cards we want to send.

I had thought of some such form as this:

"The John Brown family and new arrival (space for the name and date of birth) wish to extend the Season's Greetings."

Or could you suggest something you think more appropriate? And would you please suggest a printer who could do this work?

B. B.

First let me assure you that what you have in mind is very often done....that it, baby's arrival (at any time during the year) is announced by adding the new baby's name on the Christmas cards. However, I believe that you and I might find a better form than the one you have in mind.

My suggestion is that, instead of having just plain cards printed, you buy now the number of cards you wish, and have the store print the names at the end of the Christmas message. And explain that the name-line would have to be spaced so that there will be room for you to write the baby's name.

The name-line might be:

The Browns—John, Mary, Robert, Edith and....

The cards would then be printed well ahead of time; the envelopes addressed and stamped; and perhaps your husband or your sister or a friend would take over the duty of writing in the baby's name. (If you particularly wish to have the birth-date included, this may be written, in parentheses, after or under the baby's name.)

Having Attendants at Wedding Anniversary Celebration

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband and I are celebrating our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on a Sunday afternoon next month. We would like to know if we should have attendants; for example, a bridesmaid and a best man.

2. Also, would it be proper for me to wear an afternoon dress, street-length?

W. A.

1. If you mean....do you?....that you and your husband are planning to have the marriage ceremony repeated, you may, if you wish, each have an attendant, recalling in this way too, the original marriage ceremony.

2. Yes, if you wish to, and if you wish to register informality.

Boys Bring Present to Birthday Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A girl friend of ours is having a Sweet Sixteen party, for boys and girls from about fifteen to seventeen. Is is proper for every boy to bring a present to the hostess? Or should a girl and the boy who is coming with her give a present together?

Two Girls.

To a birthday party, especially to one so important as the Sweet Sixteen party, every guest should bring an individual present to the hostess. Every boy should bring his own present (whether he is invited by the hostess or by the girl with whom he is coming), but this may be a simple, inexpensive one, perhaps just a merry gadget from the five-and-ten, if this is more suitable to his pocketbook. Or he may bring her a box of candy, a corsage, one or two dainty handkerchiefs perhaps with her first name on them, or a book, or a small bottle of perfume.

"MANNER" IN MAKING INTRODUCTIONS

By Mrs. Beeckman

Gracious people always give a certain distinction to every introduction they make, even if the introduction is of what we call the casual type. They are never offhand or brusque or impersonal in their manner of introducing. They pronounce the names clearly, distinctly, and with proper regard for our natural interest in our own names, in having them pronounced correctly. And although the words customarily used in introductions are everyday words and not especially pretty ones...."present", "introduce", "this is", for example....these gracious people give them a charming personality by the pleasant way they say them.

Wild geese are especially numerous in Prince Edward County and quite a number have been shot. Elwood Monroe, West Lake, was one of the luckiest. With his wife, he was standing on the verandah of his home, when six geese landed in the yard about 20 feet distant. Securing his rifle, he was able to shoot four of them, and lack of shells prevented him getting the other two. The birds were large and plump.

The geese are reported in many sections of Prince Edward County, stopping to feed in the grain fields.

Gen. MacArthur Reverses Decision

Tokyo, Oct. 17 — (AP) — An Allied headquarters decision to limit the number of newspaper correspondents in Japan, the Philippines and Korea was reversed today by Gen. MacArthur after it had drawn protests from the Allied press and from the Correspondents' Corps in Tokyo.

In an explanation of the order issued last Friday, Gen. MacArthur's press officer, Brig.-Gen. Legrande Diller, said it was prompted by limited accommodations in Tokyo and being taxed by an inflow of occupation officers.

Provisions of the order remaining in effect include the reversion Oct. 27 of all correspondents to civilian status. Correspondents now wear military uniforms. On that date the United States Army will cease providing transportation without charge from the theatre to the United States or Australia.

30 Nations Sign Food, Agriculture Constitution

By CLYDE R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec, Oct. 17 —(CP)—First of the United Nations co-operative efforts to be initiated—the food and agriculture organization designed to end mal-distribution of food and faulty production methods in backward countries — today entered into its operational functions here.

At a colorful ceremony in the Conference Hotel late yesterday, the delegates from 30 nations signed the FAO constitution, and brought to reality the organization planned at the first United Nations conference held in Hot Springs, Va., early in 1943.

A dozen delegations from other nations sat in while waiting for definite instructions from their governments to sign the constitution and become participating members. Particular interest centered in the Russian delegation which arrived here 25 strong, but without the necessary instructions from the home government to sign the constitution.

At yesterday's opening ceremonies, the delegates were welcomed by Canada's postmaster general, Hon. Ernest Bertrand, who said that work of FAO might well serve to avoid any future wars by ending the fear of want and hunger.

Former Premier J. Mikilojczyk of Poland is expected to arrive today as head of a Polish delegation, and the secretary of the Conference was advised that a Brazilian delegation was on the way with powers to sign the constitution.

Allied Searchers Find Fortunes

By DUANE HENNESSY

Tokyo, Oct. 17 — (AP) — Allied searchers have found fortunes in diamonds, platinum, gold and silver which Japanese admirals and generals had cached in secluded areas — but never were able to remove from the country because the war ended so abruptly.

Allied headquarters disclosed today that one party discovered "a fabulous fortune in diamonds" in a chicken coop atop a mountain 160 miles north of Tokyo. In another instance, a package yielded 8,000 karats of diamonds.

No estimates of the value of the loot have been made.

Eleven crates of platinum were discovered beside the chicken coop. Two Japanese admirals' aides guided searchers to the cache.

Lt.-Col. Emmanuel Franklin, finance officer at Allied headquarters, said:

"We are finding fortunes in caves all the way from 100 to 300 miles from Tokyo.

"I believe Japanese army and navy officials got this gold in China and elsewhere and did not tell the proper government agencies about it."

Bullion has been turned up in homes, colleges, a professor's warehouse and nondescript shacks.

STRIKERS CAUSING UNREST IN ENGLAND

As in Canada, the reduction of hours and the resulting reduction in "take home" pay, has caused strikes and demonstrations throughout England. The working hours of the bomb repair men had been cut from 54 to 44. They went on strike. The casket bears the sign stating "He tried to live on 3 pounds, 18 shillings." This is the equivalent of $16 in American money. The head of the procession, flanked by a bobby, right, is on its way to Whitehall to protest to British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

Millionaire's Son Eyed for Trainer Of Other Fighter

Boston, Oct. 17 — (CP) — Four months ago a big, blond kid was pedalling his bike in the Back Bay, one pant leg rolled up disclosing a well muscled limb and wearing a "T" shirt strained at the seams by a rugged torso.

A fight trainer, giving one of his boys some roadwork, chanced to get a look at the young giant on the bike and gave chase in a cab.

Up until the other day trainer Jackie Martin thought the kid's name was Pete Bond and that he had a good chance to become amateur heavyweight champion of the world — the kid's ambition.

Martin now knows his protege is Peter Fuller, 20-year- old son of Alva T. Fuller, millionaire automobile man and a former Governor of Massachusetts.

Young Fuller first learned to box in the Marine Corps and has no ambitions to be a pro.

Fuller's particular pal is John Pretzie, 24, a Boston kid who served in the air corps and a kid who has his eye on the crown worn by another ex-serviceman—former Sgt. Joseph Louis Barrow.

Pretzie has punched his way to 35 amateur victories, 33 of them by knockouts.

And Johnny Pretzie is the kid who was doing the roadwork when his trainer, Jackie Martin, got a look at the big kid on the bike.

Six Builders of Hockey Chosen For Hall of Fame at Kingston

Of Six, Hewitt, Northey and Robinson Still Are Living

Kingston, Oct. 17. (CP)—Six "Builders of Hockey"—men associated in an official capacity with development of the ice sport in Canada—were honored today with announcement of their selection for membership in the International Hockey Hall of Fame founded here last year.

A special committee authorized by the Hall's board of Governors chose these six men as outstanding in alying the foundation for hockey's growth: John Ross Robertson, Francis Nelson and W. A. (Billy) Hewitt of Toronto; Will Northey and Frank Calder of Montreal; and Claude C. Robinson of Winnipeg.

Of the six, Hewitt, Northey and Robinson still are living.

The announcement said the board of Governors will consider "at a later date" selection for membershi pof former great players now retired from active competition.

Here is a brief review of the contributions made by the men whose selection was announced today:

Robertson: Philanthropist and newspaper publisher (The Toronto Evening Telegram). President of the Ontario Hockey Association from 1899 to 1905 and first Life Member of the O.H.A. donated O.H.A. Senior, Intermediate and Junior trophies.

Nelson: Toronto Sports editor (The Globe) and O.H.A. vice president from 1902 to 1905. Described as 'especially helpful" in an executive capacity in early development of O.H.A.

Hewitt: Connected officially with hockey more than 45 years. Often termed hockey's encyclopedia, secretary of O.H.A. and honorary secretary-treasurer of Canadian Amateur Hockey Association from 1915 to 1919. Dominion registrar and treasurer of O.H.A. from 1922 to 1945.

Northey: Termed one of "most effective officials hockey has known". Prevailed upon Sir Montagu Allan in 1908 to offer Allan Cup for Canadian Senior competition.

Calder: President of the National Hockey League from its formation in 1917 to his death in the Spring of 1943.

Robinson: Helped organize C.A.H.A. in 1914, became first Secretary of Association and was its first life member.

The Board of Governors which authorized the selections comprised as Lester Patrick, New York Rangers; Mervyn Dutton, N.H.L. president; Art Ross, Boston Bruins; Frank Sargent, Port Arthru; W.A. Hewitt; Basil O'Meara, Montreal; J. P. Fitzgerald, Toronto; and A. E. H. Coo, Winnipeg.

HERSHEY BEARS DEFEAT BARONS

By the Canadian Press

Hershey Bears and Cleveland Barons clashed on Baron ice last night to open the 1945-46 American Hockey League schedule. More than 8,000 fans saw Bears take a 4-3 decision.

Rough play was in order throughout the game with officials Burke and Patterson handing out 14 penalties—seven to each team.

Hershey had the game well in hand entering the final frame with a 4-1 lead and staved off a third period Cleveland rally to take the game.

Rookie Stan Robertson made his A. H. L. debut with two goals for Bears and Les Cunningham paced the losers with a pair. Other scorers for Hershey were Cooper and Gooden while Agar bagged the other Cleveland goal.

Before the game Barson were presented the F. G. Oke Trophy for the Western Division title and the Calder Cup, emblematic of the A. H. L. championship.

Hunch Bettors Reap Harvest

Salem, N.H., Oct. 17. (CP)—Classy-eyed dopesters today pondered dismally over the $8,614.40 double price paid yesterday at Rockingham Park on three tickets—at least two of which were held by strictly-from-hunch horse players.

The second biggest daily double payoff in United States horse racing was paid on "Mighty Tough" in the first race which returned $97.80 for a $2 straight ticket and "Detach" in the second which paid $162.60 to win. Only payment ever to exceed the double price on the two winners was $10,772.40 paid by "Joy Bet" and "Merry Caroline" at Washington Park in 1939.

Two men who bought the third of the three lucky tickets declined to reveal their identities or their system, but Martin Rush, 36-year-old Boston Navy Yard worker admitted his money went on the pair because he's about to lose his job.

"It's mighty tough to be detached from a job", he explained.

Jean C. Capopiano of Lawrence, Mass., and his wife bet on the same horses after the little woman looked up from the program and quipped: "It'd be mighty tough if you detached me".

Put away that form. From now on we plunge strictly on the basis of the color of the jockey's silks.

QUEENS MAY BE TEAM TO BEAT FOR SILVERWARE

11 Wartime Holdovers and Pair of Speedy Halves Material on Which to Build

Kingston, Oct. 17 — (CP) — Around 11 wartime holdovers and a pair of speedy halves, Queen's University is building an Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union entry which may recall memories of the tricolor football legend established by Red Batstone and Pep Leadley in the 20s.

Jack Milliken of Regina and Jack Parry of Windsor, Ont., are the ground-eating backfielders and it is Coach Bob Elliott's belief their speed afoot may approach some of the records set up by the famed Leadley-Batstone combination — and incidentally make Queen's a title contender in the abbreviated college schedule which opens Saturday.

Milliken was Kingston's star backfielder on wartime teams which played only exhibition games on home grounds. Parry, out of football since 1942, is remembered as the player Lew Hayman termed potentially a greater performer than Winnipeg's Fritzie Hanson.

Coach Elliott — son of the late Chaucer Elliott who was well known in Kingston sport circles—will fit Milliken and the 23-year-old Parry in a backfield with two Toronto boys, Carl Peat and Billy Hoose, both of whom are also noted for speed and guile.

3 Brother Combinations

Three brother combinations are trying out for places on the club which opens its season by entertaining University of Toronto Saturday. If all succeed, it will establish a Canadian record. Milliken's younger brother Doug is a halfback or flying wing and has shown in practice to indicate he may stick.

Another family combination is that of Bob and Jack Holt, Toronto, a pair of hard-tackling outside wings who may start as regulars. Jack Stevens of London, Ont., has been playing outside wing on the second-string team and his brother, Bob, who played middle for University of Western Ontario, is expected to obtain a starting assignment.

Slightly more than 100 candidates turned out for first trials, but the squad has been pruned to about 40 now.

Holdovers include Milliken, team captain last year and again this season, Herb Lawlor and Bob Fuller, quarterbacks and Jim Southey of Bowmanville, Ont., regular 1944 snapback. Others of the front line still around include Moe Chochinov, Doug MacIntyre, Arch Campbell, Bruce Cronk, Pete King, Don Delahaye and Ken McDonald.

Railbirds say Queen's demonstrate in practices: speed (and to spare), a good forward and lateral passing offence, fair kicking, smart outside wings and a heavy, powerful front line, with good plungers and hard tackling.

Bucko McDonald Will Play Hockey For Hull Volants

By The Canadian Press

The Montreal Hornets of the Big Four Rugby League beat the McGill intercollegiate squad 13-12 last night in a sudden-death game for the Montreal city championship. A crowd of 4,500 saw McGill take a 6-0 lead in the first quarter but the Hornets got a touchdown in the second. In the third Stevenson got another touch for Hornets, and McGill came right back in the final quarter with their second touchdown.

Bucko McDonald, from now on known as Wilfred McDonald, Liberal Member of Parliament for Parry Sound, said at Ottawa last night that he will play for Hull Volants in the Quebec Senior League this season. The 34-year-old former N.H.L. defence star of New York Rangers, Toronto Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, now weighs 226 pounds but he'll take a few off skating in the next few weeks. "I like the game and there's no reason why I shouldn't have some fun this winter — so long as it doesn't interfere with my other duties," said Bucko.

Coach Johnny Metras of Western University said at London last night that three regulars on the western senior football team will miss Saturday's intercollegiate opener against McGill because of injuries. They are Harry Szumlinski, George Curtis and Bill Wardle.

Boston Bruins will have their first test of strength tonight when they take on their farm club, Boston Olympics of the Eastern United States League, in an exhibition game at Quebec City. Delegates to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, in conference here, have been invited to attend.

Cliff Beckett of Sudbury, fighting at 158 pounds, scored a knockout over Warren Jones, 165, in a bout at Buffalo last night. Beckett recovered from a two-count on a low punch to win in 2:02 of the first round of a scheduled six-rounder.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER

BETTER TAKE IT IN

This Joe Jackson, latest rasslin sensation to hit the main stem hereabouts is nobody's fool when it comes to handling a deck of cards. In the dressing room last Wednesday eventide, Joe had his fellow wrigglers in spasms as he manipulated the pasteboards in expert fashion.... He brought the ace of spades from Katan's ear, the Queen of Hearts from Cliff Fox's vest pocket, and the whole deck from behind the ear of the Strangler.... If he manipulates Pat Flanagan the same way tonight at the Arena before a full house (wow) he may see three of a kind before he pairs off for the third fall (Don't shoot brother).. In the semi go La Katan takes on his old enemy "Toar" Morgan, the Lindsay Lion and Aaron Stein tangles with Joe Maich in the curtain raiser. A tidy tidbit, wot?

THE KICK-OFF

The sound of boot against pigskin will be heard on the Albert College gridiron this afternoon as the Collegers and the B.C.I. gridders pry the lid off the junior C.O.S.S.A. series. The game will be well on its way by the time you read this, or quite possibly it will be over. In any event the two squads are the only entries in the junior loop, according to Pete Beach, C.O.S.S.A. prexy. The Trenton kids we are told found themselves in a rather peculiar position. They had not sufficient juniors to round out a team and when they counted senior noses the same condition prevailed. So what to do. They requested permission to fill out the junior squad with seniors, but the powers that be frowned and intimated "No Soap."

Bruce Cronk, son of Dr. G. S. Cronk is playing in the line for the Queen's University Intercollegiate football squad.... In between punts and tackles, Bruce is absorbing a lot of medical knowledge . . . Jim Follwell, former starry backfielder for Argonauts is coaching the Varsity backfield .... Jimmy got home from Iceland some time ago where he led orchestras, organized parties for the troops and gave Icelanders a thrill with his music.. The old maestro, Ken J. Colling, basking in the winter sunshine of Hamilton's icy mountain near the Burlington coral strand, gets a mention in a recent issue of Esquire mag.... Seems as though the former sports expert of these parts pulled a nifty in an Esquire sports poll that caught the eye of the editor.... The question asked was "Should a boy of junior baseball-age sign a professional contract?.... K. J. C.'s quick comeback was "Remember Mel Ott" .... That one may not go over so good with some of the self-styled critics? who think this column should be jammed with the social doings of local "Johnny Jones".... Oshawa Generals are being coached by Chuck Conacher and have eleven imports plus three members of last year's team.... Brother, are they lucky.... The only thing around here that bears the stamp of import is of Scotch or Jamaica origin.... Up in Western Ontario sports of all kinds are on the move, says Ivan Miller of the Ham. Spec.... "Lads being mustered out of the services are bringing back greatly developed abilities and are losing no time plunging into the thick of things. . . "Baseball, football, hockey, basketball, the entire gamut of sports is being boosted rapidly." ....Miller says he sees no reason why organized baseball for one thing, should not return and enjoy exceptional success.... Personally we'd like to get a couple of shots of that sports virus, or Vitamin S and inject it into some of the lackadaisical gents around this town.... With the exception of some baseball and softball with perhaps a spot of hockey it looks as though the sports doldrums in this bailiwick are here for keeps.

THE LEATHER PUSHERS

There'll be some new faces in the ring when Harold Kurtz presents his boxing card at the Hume Arena Friday night .... Frankie Morton, Newfoundland army welterweight title holder will show his wares against Billy Westfall of Trenton, and if advance notices are any criterion, then the main go should catch the fancy of the faithful.... Ronnie Mansfield, clever little fighter crosses leather with Gord Woods, Trenton, in the semi-final and six other bouts promise plenty of action for the fans.... With the weather cooling a bit, the boys will go out there and lay everything on the line to keep the corpuscles at the proper temperature.... Promising, wot?

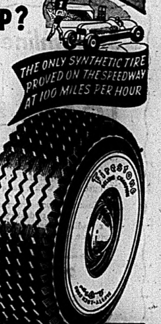
When will I get NEW TIRES?



THE ONLY SYNTHETIC TIRE PROVED ON THE SPEEDWAY AT 100 MILES PER HOUR
Firestone

-and WILL THEY STAND UP?

A definite "yes" is Firestone's answer to the second question. Wilbur Shaw, the famous race driver, proved it when he drove Firestone tires 500 miles at an average speed of 100.34 miles per hour over the Indianapolis Speedway. Not a blowout or skid occurred in this gruelling test—equal to 50,000 miles of ordinary driving —made under supervision of the American Automobile Association in which Firestone tires taken from STOCK were used.

WHEN you can buy new tires depends largely on UNNRA demands and rationing authorities. But you can be sure that once Firestone is given the go-ahead signal our full production will be devoted to your needs. In the meantime, your nearby Firestone Dealer will gladly do everything he can to help you make your tires last. See him today.

Horse Sense Bridge

LESSON NO. 808
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Defenders with experience will underwrite this bit of sense: To make some contracts bite the dust, cooperation is a must.

Look into this deal:

NORTH
♠Q 9 8
♥J 2
♦10 8 4
♣A K 9 8 5

♠6
♥A K 10 8 6 4
♦A 7 5
♣J 6 3

EAST
♠5 4 2
♥9
♦Q J 9 6 2
♣Q 10 4 2

SOUTH
♠A K J 10 7 3
♥Q 7 5 3
♦K 3
♣7

The bidding could go like this:

SOUTH	NORTH
1 S	2 C
2 S	3 S
4 S	Pass

After the opening of one spade, if west sticks in a defensive bid of two hearts, north will step in with three clubs. South then bid three spades and north goes to four spades, reaching the same end.

West leads the king and ace of hearts. If east sluffs a diamond or a club on the second heart round, declarer will make the contract.

Because after that, declarer can trump a third heart and pull opponent trumps. The south hand can then sluff a diamond on the top second club.

East muffs his chance to defeat the contract if he sluffs on the second round of hearts. He should trump his partner's good heart and return the diamond queen through south.

His side will thus win two tricks in each red suit; enough to sink the four spade contract. Trumping your partner's ace is not as silly as it sounds. In a case like this, it's good defence.

Is such an unusual play too remote for east to anticipate? Not where good players cooperate in their defence. Because such players study their chances immediately after the first lead.

East can see at once that his trumps are worthless for trumping a third heart round. If there is any chance to take two more tricks, it must be in diamonds before declarer can get rid of any.

N.H.L. Training Notes

N. H. L. TRAINING—
By the Canadian Press

Jack McGill of Saskatoon, candidate for a netminding berth at the Winnipeg training camp of New York Rangers, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal, his parents made known in Saskatoon yesterday. Jack enlisted in the R. C. A. F. in April, 1943 and was discharged shortly after returning to Canada last June.

Bill Reay unwittingly has become the problem child of Montreal Canadiens. Reay, former playing coach of Quebec Aces in the Quebec Senior League, was set to play for Canadiens after toying with the idea of remaining in Quebec. But there's a joker: Reay was obtained by Montreal from Detroit Red Wings in a deal for Ray Getliffe. After the deal was closed Getliffe decided to quit hockey for a business position, and Red Wings are reluctant to give up Reay without a suitable replacement. Meantime Canadiens say Billy is a vital cog in their 1945-46 plans.

Canadiens switched training headquarters because of a wrestling show at the Montreal Forum. They'll stay in the capital until Saturday.

At Winnipeg Lester Patrick announced that Phil Watson, starry centre who hails from Montreal, has signed a one-year contract, and said that nine more players have come to terms with the club. Ott Heller, 35-year-old veteran defenceman from Kitchener, is among those who have agreed to Rangers offers, and he'll line up for his 16th year of pro hockey this season.

A rookie trio—Joe Klukay, Doug McMurdy and Jack Irvine—burned up the ice yesterday in Toronto Maple Leaf drills at Owen Sound, Ont. Klukay, Sault Ste. Marie and Stratford, Ont., flash, continued the pace he has set since the camp opened last week by firing three goals. McMurdy, formerly with a St. Catharines, Ont., Junior team, and Irvine from Winnipeg Junior ranks had one apiece.

Babe Pratt led the veterans by matching Klukay's goal count.

Of nearly 60 candidates who sought places with Detroit Red Wings, Manager Jack Adams still is carrying 19—eight wingmen, four centres, six defencemen and one netminder. Adams intends to lop off one defenceman and one forward before Detroit's National League opener against Boston Oct. 28.

Youthful Harry Lumley from Owen Sound, is the only goalkeeper being carried.

Toronto, Oct. 17 —(CP)—Hockey's grey fox, Lester Patrick of New York Rangers, doubtless did a couple of cartwheels when word came back that Mac Colville, his right wing ace of former teams, was coming back to Canada from overseas.

Just as excited was Mac's brother, Neil, who last played with him on the Ottawa Commandos army team that won the Allan Cup—and who often has felt that Mac hasn't received enough praise.

Neil and Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick once held a tete-a-tete over 29-year-old Matthew.

"Mac was the workhorse of our line (the two Colvilles and Alex Shibicky)," the elder Colville confided. "'Shibick' and I used to get down there for more goals, and we'd put on a more spectacular display. But you must have a guy like Mac playing his type of game to make that possible."

After one season, no one was happier than Neil when the fans began to shower praise on Mac. "Not because he's my brother," he stammered, "but there are fellows like that with every team. They miss the headlines sometimes, but they make the others look very good."

The two Colvilles—both from Edmonton—and Winnipeg's Shibicky turned pro with Philadelphia Ramblers in the 1935-36 season and formed Rangers' No. 1 line for years before they turned in their hockey sticks for more potent weapons.

It's possible they'll form the N. H. L.'s second "back from the wars" line. The first was Boston's Kraut Line of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Porky Dumart, just re-united at the Bruin training camp in Quebec.

Commander Faced Hard Decision

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Correspondent

With American Forces on Japan, Oct. 17—War forces many hard choices, but none harder than that which faced a young American battalion commander in the French Moroccan landing during his first few hours of combat.

No soldier knew what waited for him as he tumbled down the rope ladder into the bobbing, pitching assault boat just before dawn and headed in for Africa's dark and inhospitable coast under a black sky lit only by rowing French searchlights ashore, crannying into clouds after airplanes that weren't yet there.

The battalion commander was a tall, slim lieutenant colonel with dark eyes and hair cropped close, like his men. It was for him the first of many battles with the Third Infantry Division which carried its blue and white striped shoulder patch through Sicily, Italy, France and Germany before the war's end.

Tough Luck

His combat career began with a bit of tough luck. As the assault boat carrying his jeep neared shore it tilted and rolled and the jeep went down out of sight among the fishes. With it went this correspondent's new portable typewriter. It had been strapped to the rear seat for safekeeping. And it is probably still there at the bottom of the sea.

There was an area of beach to cross, swept by hard-hitting French 75-millimeter guns. For a "token" resistance the Gallic garrisons around Casablanca were certainly burning up a lot of powder. Some of the boys died there on the beach, and we buried them two days later in Fedala Cemetery, and a French woman put a flower on one of the graves.

The battalion had few casualties as it pulled inland away from the shining sand and moved forward under cover. The troops before them were largely Senegalese. They were happy to hand over their guns, for the most part, with wide-gold-toothed grins. We pushed on across fields in which frightened, whinnying horses trampled wildly and cud-chewing camels and their barefooted Arab masters kept on methodically tilling the land. Except for those still bodies back among the beach tides it was all pretty much like a manoeuvre.

Duel With Cruisers

But out on Cape Fedala, the French batteries had opened an ambitious duel with American heavily-gunned cruisers.

I moved on along a gravel rock-strewn road lined with towering royal palm trees, and skulked in a running doughboy crouch from tree to tree. Great chunks of bright jagged steel littered the road, and I saw they were too big to come from any 75-millimeter gun. I picked one up. It was still hot.

In a grove I caught up with the battalion. There were two dead men nearby. The doughboys were herding into groups—a bad sign. The smart ones were digging foxholes. A tremendous crash of sound came from a tree cluster two hundred yards out toward the cape as a shell hit and burst there.

"Spread out" shouted a lieutenant to the huddling men. "Spread out and dig in!"

Another officer kneeled and shouted into his walkie-talkie phone.

"For God's sake tell the navy to lift fire! We can't get in to get those French guns. The navy shells are landing in the area. We've already lost two men."

He waited long moments and his face whitened as the answer came back through the phone from higher headquarters.

Navy Couldn't Stop

"The navy can't disengage," he said turning to other officers. "They say if they lift fire the French batteries will open up on our transports and sink them."

It was true. He could look across the waters and see the lightly-gunned transports. If the cruisers ceased fire the French batteries most certainly would pour shell after shell through transports still heavily loaded with troops, gasoline, ammunition. Each transport was a potential death torch for hundreds of men.

The young commander was caught in the cruelest dilemma of all warfare. He had to sit there helplessly and fail in his mission to destroy the enemy batteries or move his men forward through their own fleet's shells. He didn't hesitate long.

"Let's get going!" he said. And the men fell in with him and the doughboys moved on in wide spaced lines through the pattern of terrible sound and steel. Tanks trundled with them.

They stormed and knocked out what batteries the cruisers hadn't silenced. They sent up the signal flares for "mission accomplished" and naval fire lifted and the transports were safe.

That young battalion commander had some gray in his dark hair when I saw him next—in Sicily—and Morocco seemed years as well as miles away. I wonder if he ever thinks of that forlorn hike across Cape Fedala these bright peaceful days, when soldiers worry more about landing jobs than landing shells.

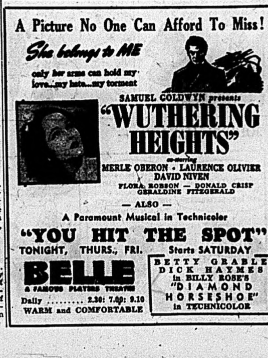
Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 17 —(AP)— The current agreement between the major and minor baseball leagues likely will be extended for another year by means of a mail vote, thus removing most of the reasons for a good scrap when the minors meet at Columbus, O., in December . . . Joe Louis says he'll remove his moustache as soon as he starts serious training. Apparently he doesn't want to beat Billy Conn by a whisker . . . Charley Schuster, manager of Willie Joyce now owns 10 (count 'em) big food markets in Southern California. A few more and he'll be able to manage—and feed—a heavyweight contender . . . The U. S. Lawn Tennis Association has printed its tennis lessons for boys and girls in booklet form, offering a lot of information for a dime.

No Hurt Feelings

Bob Rutkowski, Navy veteran who plays quite a bit of guard for Penn State, is rough enough for anyone on the football field but he virtually oozes good will . . . Against Colgate, Bob found Paul Redfield, 210-pound tackle, something of an obstacle, but he went to work and after a while Redfield was taken out . . . As the Colgate player moved off the field, Rutkowski rushed up and said: "I'm sorry sir, if I seemed to treat you a little roughly. But, gee, you're not an easy guy to take out of the play."



AT THE BELLE — David Niven and Laurence Olivier share romantic honors in the strangest love story ever told, "Wuthering Heights," now at the Belle Theatre, with a Paramount musical in Technicolor, "You Hit the Spot."

By SYB SOSSIN

When the Nazi war criminals are tried at Nuremberg a motion picture screen will face the judges and on it will be shown atrocities as evidence. It is likely that all courtrooms will contain projection equipment within the next few years . . . Bebe Daniels, in Britain for many years, will return to Hollywood as a producer . . . There are about 20 movie theatres in Alaska . . . Last year a horror picture featured a number of scary characters in the same film. Now one is being made that will show Jesse James, the Daltons, Billy the Kid and other bad men together . . . Raymond Massey has just returned from an entertainment tour overseas.

Theatre patronage is beginning to drop and that brings to mind a story. A patron was leaving the theatre when the manager stopped him. "Don't you like the picture?" he asked. The man said yes. "Don't you like the theatre?" the manager pursued. That wasn't it. Other questions brought no answers that revealed dissatisfaction.

"Then why are you leaving?" the manager asked.

"I'm afraid to be alone in the dark," the man answered.

• • •

A film called "The Lost Weekend" is so graphic a story about the effects of alcohol that distillers are worried and looking for means of counteracting its effect on their business. Ray Milland stars in the picture . . . An Atlanta, Georgia, youth, accused of a holdup, claimed that he was elsewhere listening to William Bendix on the radio. The script will be introduced at the trial and the youth given his chance to quote from it . . . End of the war has revealed several types of Hollywood shortages. More chorus girls now answer every call, the closing of war plants having solved that problem. Now shooting on "Sitting Bull," a Technicolor western, will begin. It was called off because of a shortage of Indian braves, most of whom were in the army.

• • •

Joe E. Brown will be back on the stage if he can be coaxed to play Cap'n Andy in the revival of "Show Boat" . . . Egypt returned the custom duties on Madame Curie, which it classified as an educational film . . . The march of British stars to Hollywood may stop if the Government maintains its attitude. It is reluctant to let movie stars move because it desires to build up its own industry . . . Stars will be permitted to make one film a year abroad but not settle . . . Another in the "Flicka" series will be made next spring.

The Dane Clarks have bought three acres of land adjoining the Riviera Country Club in Brentwood, where they will build their dream house as soon as building conditions permit.

Dane is just finishing his latest picture "Her Kind of Man," during which he spent his spare time confering with architects in order to work out his unique construction ideas.

Mrs. Clark was formerly a concert pianist, so her music room will be one of the features of the new home. Dane recently bought her a Steinway concert grand, so all that is left to do, he says, is to build a room around it.

FISHED OUT BONDS

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 17 —(AP)— W. T. Stewart tossed his hook in the Hillsborough river and instead of a fish he pulled out $10,000 in war bonds. The bonds were tied in a bundle and Stewart's hook snagged the wrappings. Authorities said the bonds were part of the loot from a robbery.

Payroll Deductions For Income Tax To Be Made Immediately

Ottawa, Oct. 17 —(CP)— Immediate reduction in payroll deductions for income tax, in accordance with the 16 per cent cut announced in the new budget, will be authorized by an order-in-council to be tabled in the Commons today, Justice Minister St. Laurent announced yesterday in the Commons.

Mr. St. Laurent said it was not proposed to wait for new payroll deduction tables because of the time involved in preparing and printing them. The Minister said the government had received numerous representations that the psychological effect of delaying the reduction until the end of the year was unfavorable.

This policy would not affect the ultimate tax liability but would differ from the plan previously announced by Fraser Elliott, commissioner of income tax, under which instead of taking immediate credit for a 16 per cent reduction taxpayers would take credit in their final 1945 returns for four per cent of the year's tax. Mr. St. Laurent spoke in reply to a question by John Bracken, Progressive Conservative Leader.

Mr. Elliott had said deductions would continue at the present rate until the end of 1945. Mr. Bracken said confusion had arisen since this statement appeared to be in conflict with Finance Minister Ilsley's budget speech which said the deduction would apply as soon as possible.

Damaskinos Will Be Premier

Athens, Oct. 17 —(CP)—A communique announced today that Regent Archbishop Damaskinos would assume provisionally the premiership of Greece following failure of attempts to form a government.

The Populists have refused to participate in any government which includes representatives of the Left Wing, who are demanding postponement of the elections.

Since Premier Petros Voulgaris resigned last week, five attempts to form a cabinet have failed.

Fears were expressed earlier that unless backing was forthcoming for the Archbishop and his moderate forces, Greece was heading for a dictatorship of the Extreme Right.

CHAPTER 17

She listened to Lee now, a little sad for him because of his love for Karen, a little sad for herself for wishing and hoping that he would some day come back to her—not for help, but to her for her love.

The transport plane's red and green lights circled high above the car and she watched them, listened to the steady hum of the motors. It faded behind the mountain side, down and into the Los Angeles airport.

Lee was sitting up, rubbing his hands across his face. She had lighted two cigarets, was holding one for him. He drew deeply on it, watched the puff of smoke merge into the night.

"That wasn't very nice, was it?" he said quietly after several minutes of silent smoking.

"It's all right, Lee. If it made you feel better . . .?"

He shrugged. "I don't know. I feel full of shame and without any pride. She makes you feel that way. I don't think it does any good this way; I don't think that gets rid of her."

He looked at the red tip of his cigaret, flicked ashes out of the car window. "I think you have to cut her out of you with a knife. Maybe getting drunk is better after all."

Elaine said nothing, quietly smoked her cigaret.

"We lost something, Elaine," he said. "Something close that we started out with. I think she made us lose it. I hate her for that."

"You mustn't hate her, Lee."

He shrugged. "I guess not. She only wanted something very badly. Together we were in her way. And we were weak, easy to cut apart."

Elaine had never thought of herself as being weak. But now she could see that Lee was right. She had been weak. She had refused to fight back. She had loved Lee too much, thinking that if she stepped aside it would make him happy, and that had seemed important.

She laughed a little and Lee turned to her. "I was just thinking," she said, "all these years I've done nothing to make it happy for myself, believing that that would make you happy. And now, neither of us have any happiness. We don't have each other any more—and we never will. I wonder how happy Karen is because of what we've done?" The tears rolled unchecked down her cheeks.

Her face was stained and her hair was windblown from the ride back to her apartment. She could understand the expression on Paul's face as he walked out of her apartment house and back to his waiting cab and saw her and Lee get out of the car.

She watched him silently turn from her and climb into his cab, watched it move out into the street's traffic. She followed the tiny dots of the red tail lights until they faded from sight, and her mind raced crazily.

She thought about the Oscar on Paul's desk, about Minnie's cakes, how Lassen's shoulders drooped and his scrambled eggs. She thought of Lee's quiet sobbing and the red roses in her room at the New Hampshire hotel. She thought of horses with green and orange eyes and chocolate pies and busy Los Angeles department stores and crowded elevators and people pushing in and out and rain and snow like powder on overcoats and deep, lingering kisses in a silent room.

And she thought about a rain check that wasn't good any more.

Elaine waited impatiently while Susie snapped the inter-office phone switch down and spoke softly into it. She was not used to waiting for such formal approval before she could enter Paul's office.

There was something alien in Susie's attitude toward her, but she was too tired to care or worry about it. Sleep had not come easily the night before and she knew her face showed the signs of strain and weariness.

Susie listened at the phone, then nodded to Elaine. There was a trembling in her hand when she opened the office door and walked in. She closed the door and stood silently in front of it, her eyes glued on Paul.

It had been over a year since that day at the airport when Paul left for England. It seemed to her only a matter of hours.

He was standing by his desk, stuffing papers into a brief case. He looked up, his face unreadable, silent, a little hard.

"Hello, fullback." She wished she could quiet the trembling that had taken hold of her body.

"Hello, Elaine,' he said matter-of-factly. "Good of you to drop in."

"I'm sorry I wasn't home when you called last night," Elaine began weakly. "Had you just gotten in?"

Paul nodded, snapping the brief case shut. "The cab was going by. Just wanted to say hello."

Elaine felt all her feeling for him tighten in her, make her breathing come hard. "It's been so long, Paul," she whispered.

She did not know whether he didn't hear her or chose to ignore her words. He was picking up the Oscar she had won from the Academy Award board.

"Susie said you left this here Congratulations." He put it back down on the desk, stared at it for a moment.

She had crossed the room, was standing by the desk, gripping its edges. "Paul, Paul look at me.

I've got to rush Elaine They're holding up a conference on my account. I've got to make a report on what I found out in Europe." His eyes shifted uneasily.

Elaine touched his arm. "Listen to me, Paul. You've got to, please."

"What is there to listen to, Elaine? What good will it do?"

"Don't you care any more?"

He shrugged. "I'll never be able to have you completely. There'll always be Lee Collins standing between us, always cutting you apart from me somehow, some way."

"That isn't true, Paul." Her eyes were frantic. "You know I wouldn't come to you this way if it didn't mean everything in the world to me that you understood everything."

Paul picked up a cigaret from a box on the desk, toyed with it. "I think I understand, Elaine. You like me, yes; you love him. You always will. Well, I've got some old fashioned ideas about love and marriage and how it should be for us. Just liking me wouldn't be enough. I've seen too many Hollywood marriages go on the rocks because of what's happening to us. I don't want any part of it."

Elaine stood back a little. The trembling gone from her now.

"The rain check isn't good any more, is it, Paul?"

He shook his head slowly. "No, it isn't, Elaine. I'm sorry."

She leaned back against the desk, accepted his offer of a cigaret. She smoked thoughtfully for a moment, watched him pick up the brief case.

"Well, that's that, fullback."

"As you say—that's that."

"I swallowed a lot of pride to come here."

Paul smiled. "I've done a bit of swallowing myself for the past couple of years."

"I haven't meant to hurt you."

"No, you haven't hurt me. You never really gave yourself to me, so I haven't been hurt that way. It's only that I never cared for the idea of being second fiddle, and now I'm through being one."

His words stung Elaine. "Let's not fight, Paul. Let's not even argue about it any more. I'm sorry I kept you from the conference." She was crossing to the door when Paul stopped her.

"You've wrecked your own dreams and chances for happiness; you've let yourself get hurt a thousand times. I feel that I can't make it all up to you any more. Once I thought I could. But now—well, I'm tired of fighting something that's so deep inside you it will never be cut out."

Elaine leaned against the door, watching him talk, seeing how tired and worn he looked, how old his eyes were, as if he'd lived a million years and seen enough for a million years.

"Something's got to cut it out of me, Paul. I can't keep on this way. I can't let myself lose you because of it. Please help me Paul. Please."

Paul stared at her, his eyes biting through her until she could almost feel pain. "Good bye, Elaine," he said gently . . .

Most of the houses in Brentwood sat far back from the street, with high shrubs offering a sort of protective fence from sightseers. The Branns' home was no exception.

Elaine drove her little car up the long and curving drive and parked it. There were other cars, big, shiney cars parked in front of the house. The Branns were entertaining and Elaine was late, but somehow she didn't care.

It had been months since she'd seen Minnie and Annie; it had seemed that long since she'd seen anyone. On her card table in her apartment was a finished novel. It had the tinges of greatness. Elaine hoped it would be. She needed something to build her pride and confidence up again.

Everyone seemed to be in the huge game room, laughing and singing, when Elaine entered. Minnie saw her and waved, then turned back to the people she was talking to. It had not been like Minnie to greet her so casually. Elaine felt an attitude of indifference toward her from the people in the room.

Lewis Calls Off Soft Coal Strike

Washington, Oct. 17 — (AP) — John L. Lewis today called off the soft coal strikes in the United States effective Monday. A United Mine Workers spokesman said the action was taken "in the public interest."

Mr. Lewis, in a telegram to officers and members of all local unions said that future efforts to "abate this controversy" over recognition of his Foremen's Union "will be resumed at a later, more appropriate date."

The United Mine Workers' chief stated that "all negotiations incident to the controversy affecting clerical, technical and supervisory employees of the industry have been discontinued."

There are approximately 28,000 to 50,000 such workers. Strikes over their recognition as a unit in Lewis' U.M.W. began Sept. 21 and had spread to more than 1,000 mines up to today.

More than half of the 400,000 soft coal miners in the United States were idle when the strikes were called off.

K. C. Adams, spokesman for the United Mine Workers, said "obviously the government has failed to settle the matter," and added that "obviously the action is taken in the public interest."

Government conciliation efforts under guidance of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach collapsed Monday night after eight days of fruitless conferences aimed at settling the strikes.

Wants Freedom Of Press Extended Throughout World

Boston, Oct. 17 (AP)—Calling attention to tendencies toward government control of radio, press and motion pictures, Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, Tuesday, urged the United States public to demand of those in power a guarantee that freedom of the press will be extended throughout the world.

Speaking at the Boston Conference on Distribution, Mr. Cooper said "press freedom everywhere is essential for the future welfare of mankind," and a universal free press "can develop into the world's antidote for the employment of the atomic bomb."

He referred briefly to the recent government anti-trust suit against the AP with the observation that "the cause of truthful international news exchange and the right to print it in every land....greatly transcends anything that can happen to the Associated Press."

In the radio case, he said, "we have freedom of speech into the homes of the land through the medium of radio definitely channeled for regulation by a government commission." Only last week, he said, "the trial of the government suit against eight motion picture distributors began in the federal court in New York."

"No attempt so far has been made by the government through the courts or by the courts to assert editorial powers over the news the Associated Press delivers in spite of its successful legal intervention in its affairs.

"In explanation of its efforts to make the Associate Press service available to anyone who wants it the government distinctly disavowed its intention to gain control of the news report. Nevertheless, it is obvious, as in the case of radio, that the powers now in the hands of the administration are of fundamental and far-reaching importance and that they are definitely not based on any expressed grant by Congress.

"It is for you to find out whether the government is moving to control the avenues to our minds as is the case in other countries. It is for you to reflect upon whether the government is to define what our actions are to be instead of us controlling what the actions of the government are to be.

"All the rights enumerated by the constitution must be fervently defended. But man, being what he is, and his methods of communicating his thoughts one to another being what they are, the very keystone of our liberty is freedom to print...... It is the printed record which implements and secures the other freedoms, namely: Freedom of religion, of speech and assembly."

Mr. Cooper said "the right to know," universally accepted, would promote international understands tolerance and friendship such as exist between the States of the United States.

Point Traverse

Point Traverse, Oct. 17—Catches of lake fish being taken by commercial fishermen are very light, the Ontario Intelligencer is informed. Fishermen are readying their gear for the annual harvest of lake herring and whitefish which takes place next month.

October has been a month of high winds, according to local fishermen, but according to records, October, 1937, was the worst of all for big blows. Out of the 31 days of the month, commercial fishermen made four lifts and were inactive with their work for twenty-two days.

Invitations have been forwarded to some seventy-five service personnel from the township of South Marysburgh, to be guests at a dinner at a welcome service at Milford on Saturday, Oct. 20th.

There will be a parade of service personnel and school children led y Picton and. Sports will be held at the recreation centre during the afternoon.

Hail, which fell over this district for several minutes on Thursday did not cause any harm to the apple crop, growers report.

INDICTMENT AGAINST NAZI WAR CRIMINALS FILED

Diamonds Valued At 30 Millions Found in Bottles

Allies Move to Stamp Out Illicit Narcotic Industry

Tokyo, Oct. 18 — (AP)—Huge, hidden Japanese fortunes in diamonds and precious metals were scooped up today by Allied occupation forces, who moved at the same time to stamp out one of Japan's great sources of wealth—the illicit narcotics industry.

Allied headquarters froze narcotics stocks in Japan and Korea and banned production of narcotics-yielding plants, estimating by that one move to have cut off more than 90 per cent of the world's illicit narcotics traffic.

American troops in a four-day house-to-house search confiscated more than 20 truckloads of hidden Japanese arms and ammunitions.

More than $30,000,000 worth of diamonds — largely government-owned and many obtained through deceit from the Japanese people—were discovered today in cheap thermos bottles in a safety deposit box.

While investigators uncovered the rich find, millions of dollars in gold and silver bullion began moving in United States Army trucks under armed escort from the bomb-battered government mint to the Bank of Japan.

103 Tons Silver Bars

Allied officers found 103 tons of silver bars, which they valued at about $2,000,000, stacked carefully in a farmer's barn near Kasugai, 85 miles from Tokyo. The farmer said the silver was sent to him from Tokyo to save it from loss during Allied bombings.

Another $1,000,000 worth of silver was found a few days previously, cached in an underground room near a machine shop at Haratsuma, about 100 miles from Tokyo.

Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese Christian leader, urged Gen. MacArthur to divert part of the more than $250,000,000 in seized government valuables to import food.

The fortune in diamonds was found in the Mitsui Trust Company vaults, deposited in the name of a Japanese government import and export control agency.

Many of the diamonds had been contributed by civilians who were told they were needed for industrial use.

Moved to Jap Banks

The movement of the gold from the mint is part of a plan to gather all government precious metals in Bank of Japan vaults in Tokyo and Osaka, pending instructions from Washington as to the disposition.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, an advisor to the Throne, told the newspaper Asahi today that Emperor Hirohito is watching with "great concern" the trend of United States public opinion on the question of his possible abdication.

"His Majesty, who accepted the Potsdam Declaration, has a grave responsibility for the faithful execution of the terms of the Declaration," Konoye said, "and considers His Majesty cannot leave the Throne before the obligation is discharged."

HON. A. W. GREENE DIES SUDDENLY AT OTTAWA HOME

Justice Greene Was Presiding at Murder Trial and Case Will be Retried

Toronto, Oct. 18 — (CP)—Hon. Ainslie Wilson Greene, 65, a Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario, died suddenly early today in his apartment.

Native of Ottawa, Mr. Justice Greene received his early education there and was appointed to the Ontario Supreme Court in 1936. He was called to the Bar in 1904.

Mr. Justice Greene was presiding at a murder trial at the time of his death and was to have addressed an Assize court jury here today in the case of a 17-year-old Algonquin Indian, Donald Fox. The death meant that the case will not continue. Fox will be granted a new trial on the charge arising from the death of a restaurant employee after a beating.

Mr. Justice Greene was graduated from University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall here. He practised law in Ottawa before his Supreme Court appointment and was at one time an alderman and later a controller on the Ottawa city council.

Discovery of the death was made by Mrs. Greene, the former Catherine Murray of Ottawa, Mr. Justice Greene apparently died in his sleep.

Last May he succeeded the late Justice W. R. Riddell as Justice of the Court of Appeal. He appeared in ordinary health late Wednesday when he adjourned Assize Court and reserved his charge to the jury until this morning.

At the same trial last Monday Mr. Justice Greene paid tribute to Hon. Hugh E. Rose, Chief Justice of the High Court, on his death last Saturday and said out of consideration for the jury members in the murder trial who would be kept in confinement by an adjournment, he would continue the court sessions.

Condemned Men Bequeath Eyes That Blind Vets May See Again

By JOHN FRYE

Columbus, O., Oct. 18. (AP)—Outside the death house at Ohio Penitentiary two doctors waited for an electrocution to take place. One, an eye specialist, said: "I just got a telephone call from New York—that first boy's eyes were transplanted successfully".

That was encouraging news to Dr. John B. Eckstrom, penitentiary physician, who a year ago conceived the idea of having condemned criminals bequeath their eyes to the blind and especially to soldiers whose eyes had been damaged in battle.

Dr. Eckstrom knew the penitentiary convicts had responded to Red Cross calls for blood donations —giving 7,000 pints in four years of war.

He broached his idea first to Warden Frank D. Henderson, then to Dr. Charles A. Doan, dean of the Ohio State Medical School, who obtained a surgeon to perform the operation, then to a Columbus negro named Elder Johnson. Johnson, recently condemned to die, agreed and signed a paper authorizing removal of his corneas, bequeathing them to the Columbia University Eye Bank and expressing hope that a war veteran would get them.

It was Johnson's corneas the eye doctor meant when he said the first attempt had been successful.

The eye doctor, who keeps his name out of it, waited outside the death house while the second man died in the electric chair. He was Henry William Hagert, 20, convicted of slaying twin boys in a woods near Cleveland.

After Dr. Eckstrom pronounced the youth dead, the eye doctor quickly removed Hagert's corneas, placed them in a container with a special salt solution, and airmailed them to the eye bank in New York.

Four men remain in Ohio's death row, and Dr. Eckstrom said all had agreed to give their eyes. His idea, however, does not end with these four and their inevitable successors.

"I hope to get this to all State hospitals", he explained. "Some of the patients are getting along in years. They know they are going to go some day. It would be a great thing if they would bequeath their eyes too".

The only real limitation on Dr. Eckstrom's idea is the fact that transplanting the cornea is efficacious only where blindness is due to the fact that the recipient's own cornea has become clouded or covered with scar tissue as a result of injury.

The operation would be of no value to persons suffering blindness from other causes, eye specialists explained.

MOTHER DROWNS TWO CHILDREN THEN HANGS SELF

Oshawa Family Wiped Out While Husband Away on Business For Bread Company

Oshawa, Oct. 18 — (CP) — The bodies of Mrs. J. P. Holloway and her two children, aged 2 and 4, were found in their home Wednesday night and police described the triple slaying as murder and suicide.

The two children had been drowned in the bathtub and the mother was hanged. Her body was found in the basement.

The family came to Oshawa from Kingston six months to a year ago. The father was away yesterday on business.

It was reported that police found a note left in the house but they declined to reveal its contents.

Discovery of the bodies was made by Mrs. Holloway's husband, district manager for a bread company, when he returned from work around eight o'clock last night. He first found the body of his wife and a further search revealed the bodies of the children in the bathtub.

Attorney-General Calls Address Revolutionary

Toronto, Oct. 18 — (CP) — Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell of Ontario, Acting Labor Minister, said last night references by J. B. Salsberg, Labor - Progressive member of the Ontario Legislature, on possibility of provincial police being sent to Windsor, Ont. are "typical of those who have a vested interest in causing a breakdown in Canadian society."

Asked to comment on Mr. Salsberg's statement last night at a Labor meeting in Toronto that Mr. Blackwell was preparing to send police to Windsor where 10,000 production workers are on strike at the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., the Attorney-General said: —

"His speech is definitely revolutionary."

"It is usual Communist tactics to seize and magnify and misrepresent difficult situations to bring our institutions into disrepute. It is quite obvious that those of Mr. Salsberg's political persuasion are perfectly happy to create a situation in which law and order fail."

EMPLOYERS MAY MAKE IMMEDIATE TAX REDUCTIONS

Reductions Should Start With Pay Periods Ending After Oct. 14th

Ottawa, Oct. 18 — (CP)—Employers were given authority yesterday by order-in-council to give immediate effect if they wish to the 16-per-cent reduction in personal income tax rates announced in the budget last Friday.

The order-in-council, passed yesterday and tabled in the Commons by Justice Minister St. Laurent, provided that for pay periods ending after Oct. 14 the amount of tax payable "may be" reduced by 16 per cent.

A revenue department official said the use of the words "may be" left it up to employers to decide whether the reduction in income tax deductions from wages should be started immediately or left until the start of next year.

When Finance Minister Ilsley announced the reduction in the budget he said it would be effective Oct. 1.

However, officials said that the fact the order-in-council stipulates that reductions should start with pay periods ending after Oct. 14 means that employees already paid for the period back to Oct. 1 will not benefit until they receive their next pay cheques and then only if their employers decide to make immediate reduction.

The unreduced portion of deductions for the period Oct. 1 to 14 will be adjusted in the next income tax return.

While the 16-per-cent reduction is effective on pay periods following Oct. 14, the actual reduction in income tax liability for the calendar year 1945 will amount to only four per cent because only a 3-month period is covered.

Fire Wipes Cut Six Firms Of N. Sydney, N. S.

North Sydney, N.S., Oct. 18. (CP)—An early morning fire today caused $500,000 damage here and wiped out six business firms in the worst fire in the town's history. No deaths were reported but a fireman was injured when he fell from a ladder during the height of the blaze.

The blaze started late last night in a drugstore. After a stubborn fight it was believed under control. Three hours later it broke out with new intensity in the drugstore and spread rapidly to adjourning buildings.

Heaviest damage was caused at the Rivoli theatre, the only theatre in the town. The building is in ruins this morning and a tractor has pulled down what remained of the front as a safety measure.

Fire Chief William Parsons, former well known Maritime boxing champion, was the lone casualty. He suffered a fractured collar bone when he fell from a ladder.

Most of the stores levelled were stocked with Christmas supplies which added to the heavy loss.

ONTARIO CRIME WAVE LOOT MORE THAN $400,000

Ontario Police Mobilized on All-Out Basis to Hunt "Polka Dot" Gang

Toronto, Oct. 18 — (CP)—Police of Southern Ontario today hunted the "Polka Dot Gang," leading figures in a $400,000 crime wave which flared anew with a daylight bank holdup at pastoral King city. In the wake of yesterday's $2,500 strike at King, 20 miles northwest of Toronto, Ontario police were mobilized on an all-out basis from the Provincial force to the law organizations of the smallest centres.

"It's manhunting time in Ontario," said one law officer.

Assigned to lead the hunt was Deputy Commissioner H. S. McCready of the Ontario Provincial Police. Top quarry was the "Polka Dot Gang" — or gangs — who inherited from the mid-summer partnership of Ulysse Lauzon and Joe Peltier a police rating as Ontario's leading road agents.

But where the original polka-dotters masked their faces with white-dotted red bandannas the overall-clad twosome who staged the King robbery wore blue and white polka dot masks and police termed them "a bunch of rank amateurs trying to muscle in."

The original polka dot gang was recognized at Stratford, Ont., in a $1,200 robbery last Saturday and has been blamed for a $1,000 Sunday safe-blowing at Parkhill.

Police, on the trail of these guntoters, sought to establish their theory that the gang was organized in the backroom hideouts of Toronto's Jarvis Street area under leadership of a soft-voiced, six-foot tommy-gunner in his middle twenties who has made claim to army service.

REDISTRIBUTION BILL MAY COME AT NEXT SESSION

On Basis of '41 Census Both Saskatchewan And Manitoba Would Lose Some Seats

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 18 —(CP)— Redistribution of representation in the Commons, as contentious a domestic issue as any to come before the Commons, will be undertaken by the present parliament, possibly next year, if a fair basis of redistribution can be decided.

Justice Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday that there was not time this session to effect the redistribution, postponed from 1943, but he hoped "that this would be done at the session which it will be necessary to have begin early in 1946.

Debate on the subject was initiated by Frederic Dorion (Ind.-Charlevoix-Saguenay) who urged in a resolution that the redistribution be tackled this session because citizens now were not on the same footing regarding representation in the House.

Mr. St. Laurent said he hoped the government would take the initiative in bringing the matter of redistribution before parliament, but he stressed that responsibility belonged to all members and hoped it would be discharged in a non-partisan manner.

Based on Quebec.

The redistribution system is based on the allocation of 65 members to the Province of Quebec and a number of members to other provinces bearing the same proportion to their population as 65 bears to the population of Quebec. It is qualified by stipulations which limit reductions in the representation from particular provinces.

On the basis of the 1941 census both Saskatchewan and Manitoba would see their representations reduced, with Manitoba losing three of her 17 members and Saskatchewan four of her 21 representatives.

Mr. St. Laurent said that in redistribution parliament should consider the effect of judicial interpretations on the system of representation provided in the constitution with a view to possible changes.

It might be that the House as a whole, when studying the problem, would take responsibility of another postponement if it came to the conclusion that a fair basis of representation could not be decided immediately.

Says Woman Said She Was Stabbed With Ice Pick 3 Weeks Before

Pontiac Mich., Oct. 18. (AP)—Investigation of the mutilation murder of Mrs. Lydia Thompson, 47, of Detroit, centred today on a carpenter's story that the woman was stabbed with an ice pick three weeks before she was slain last Thursday.

Oakland County prosecutor, Donald C. Noggle, said the new evidence was offered by H. W. Baker, of Highland Park, who told authorities he did some carpentry work last month at Mrs. Thompson's summer home.

The carpenter said Mrs. Thompson told him she had been stabbed by a man and Baker quoted her as saying, "Don't be surprised if they find me in the country with an ice pick through me".

Baker gave the name of a man whom Mrs. Thompson named as her assailant, but the prosecutor added that he would not name him because the evidence did not yet seem sufficient basis for a warrant.

Louis V. Thompson, 46, wealthy Detroit auto dealer and estranged husband of the victim, is still in custody, but no charge has been placed against him.

Mrs. Helen Budnik, 38-year-old former secretary of Thompson, was released by police, who said questioning and lie detector tests backed up her declarations of innocence of any knowledge of the slaying.

24 Germans Named Besides Several Groups

Multiplicity of Crimes Charged, Hearings in Nov.

Berlin, Oct. 18. (AP)—A massive book-size indictment charging German war criminals collectively and individually with crimes against humanity was filed today at the first public session of the International War Crimes tribunal.

This historic court session at which the 35,000-word document was formally handed up was held in the severe, high-ceilinged room of the Allied control authority building—the same building where some of the participants in the July, 1944, assassination plot against Hitler were tried.

Under an agreement by the four Allied powers, text of the indictment was embargoed for publication until three p.m. E.S.T., today.

Russian Presides.

In the big, ornate chamber which formerly housed the Berlin Superior Court, history's first International Military Tribunal set to work after a brief opening ceremony conducted in four languages.

Maj.-Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko, chief judge for the Soviet Union, presided. After swearing in members of the tribunal, he announced the court was in session. Then the prosecutors presented the indictment.

Gen. Nikitchenko acknowledged acceptance of the indictment, and made a statement which disclosed that in addition to the 24 major individual defendants, the prosecution would seek to convict six Nazi party and military groups as criminal organizations.

The 24 top-ranking Nazis named in the indictment are charged individually and collectively with a multiplicity of crimes costing millions of lives. Their hearings probably will begin in November, the defendants having been given 30 days in which to prepare their cases.

Deliberations Under Way.

Meanwhile, deliberations already are under way in Berlin among representatives of Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union and France on the disposition of Germans not classed as war criminals but deemed none the less menacing to the future peace of the world.

Among these are high-ranking officers of the general staff corps, including officers in the navy and air force, who have demonstrated they possess dangerous potentialities. All are lumped together in what is called the "elite group".

There are two other groups. One lists persons of dangerous skilled capacities, such as scientists who produced the V-Weapons and those who have received doctorates in chemistry and research. The other embraces those considered more than nominal Nazis, who might be dangerous politically.

Serve Defendants.

Gen. Nikitchenko announced that Britain's Lord Justice Lawrance would preside at the Nuernberg trial and announced that "promptly after the serving of the indictments, the tribunal shall fix and announce the date of the trial." The indictments were to be served today upon the defendants, who are in custody at Nuernberg.

Gen. Nikitchenko said the prosecution would seek to prove these organizations were criminal: The Reich cabinet; the Leadership Corps of the Nazi Party; the Schutzstaffeln (S.S.); the Sicherheits-Dienst (S.D., or secret service); the Sturm Abteiling (S.A., or Storm Troops); the general staff and the high command of the Nazi armed forces.

A spokesman for the United States prosecution said the last named pair — the general staff and high command — would be considered as "one entity, with a choice of representative segment specifically indicted."

Notice will be given under article 9 of the charter, Gen. Nikitchenko said, "that the prosecution intends to ask the tribunal to declare these organizations or groups, of which the defendants or some of them were members, as criminal organizations, and any member of any such group will be entitled to apply to the tribunal for leave to be heard by the tribunal upon the question of the criminal character of such a group or organization."

Severe Austerity.

The setting was one of severe austerity. From the sides of the great white-walled chamber, stone German eagles scowled down on the proceedings.

A formally attired court attendant stood before two oak doors and intoned in four languages:

"Silence!"

The doors opened and the judges marched in, with Gen. Nikitchenko and his alternate, A. F. Bolchkov, leading the procession.

Berlin, Oct. 18 —(AP)— The 24 defendants named in the war crimes indictments handed up here today are:

NUMBER OF TRUCK IS OBTAINED

The observing eyes of a woman prevented a hit-and-run driver from "getting away" from the responsibility of a slight crash on Coleman Street yesterday.

A car was parked on one side of the street and a truck, as it was afterwards revealed, crashed into the vehicle, then sped away without stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage.

A lady passing by, however, quickly got the licence number of the truck, and scribbling it on a piece of paper placed it on the front seat of the automobile. Police are investigating.

Imperial Palace, Excepting Wing, Burned to Ground

Tokyo, Oct. 18. (AP)—Emperor Hirohito's Imperial Palace, with the exception of one wing containing kitchens and banquet halls was burned to the ground during the war, Brig.-Gen. Elliott R. Thorpe, chief counter intelligence officer of Allied headquarters, said today.

But, Gen. Thorpe added after a personal inspection, the palace was burned by sparks from other blazing buildings in Tokyo and not from fire bombing by Allied Superfortresses.

The officer said Hirohito now is living in an area which had been set aside as a memorial to his marriage.

Thorpe made the inspection tour, the first military inspection of the Japanese palace area in history, after a Japanese request has been made for the retention of 4,000 guards for the Imperial households in Tokyo and elsewhere in the country.

Trenton, Oct. 18. —Prominent Trenton citizen and organizer of the famous Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Col. A. E. Bywater, V.D., died Wednesday at his home. He had been ill for some time.

Born at Colborne, Col. Bywater received his education in Trenton, and for many years had been active in the real estate business and was a large property owner.

Prior to the First Great War he was associated with the 49th Hastings Rifles. He went overseas in 1915 with the 39th Battalion, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, holding the rank of lieutenant-Colonel. For a time he was in command of the 32nd Battalion, and was later transferred to the 4th Battalion. Severely wounded at the Battle of the Somme, he was invalided home.

Col. Bywater was a member and past master of Trenton Lodge, A.F. & A.M., an active member of the Presbyterian Church and the Military Institute.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mary Little, and four sisters, Mrs. William Booth, Trenton; Mrs. Amy Tague, Toronto; Mrs. Fred Waldron, Brandon, and Mrs. Sylvia Clendenning, Brighton.

Local Man Held On Wounding Charge

Police state they received a call to the home of the son-in-law, Mr. Willis Jackson, and on arrival found Orr on the pavement waiting to give himself up.

Investigation revealed blood stains in the kitchen where allegedly a fight took place between the two principals. The altercation is said to have arisen over money matters.

Police took Orr in custody and preferred charge of wounding.

Safety Blueprint By H.W. Hamilton Highly Praised

A blueprint for safety of industrial workers drawn by H. W. Hamilton, assistant superintendent of Canada Cement at Point Anne, has received high commendation from officials of the Industrial Prevention Association and has also been widely approved by like councils in the United States.

R. P. Morley, general manager of the provincial Industrial Accident Prevention Association, addressing the Central Ontario branch at Belleville Wednesday evening, stated that the brief drawn by Mr. Hamilton had been sent to safety councils in the United States with a request for additional copies having been received. Mr. Morley described the blueprint as one of the best instituted in some time.

Fifty-one members of the Central Ontario branch, representing 16 plants in seven towns of the district, were present at the meeting which was presided over by George Stanton, general chairman of the Belleville section.

Included on the program was the showing of two films relating to industrial accident prevention. The films shown were "For Safety Sake" and "Sight Security," the latter advocating the use of proper goggles to prevent accidents to eyesight.

Great Stacks of Clothing, Estimated At 27 Tons, Cover Armouries Floor

Jack V. White, chairman of the Belleville National Clothing Committee took a look at towering piles of old clothing and shoes last night in the Armouries, scratched his head and said "We're swamped."

Approximately twenty-seven tons of clothing and shoes lay piled on the Armouries floor, the result of the collection of clothing and foot apparel for the destitute people of Greece, Belgium, Holland and Yugoslavia.

Response Exceeds Expectations.

"This response is beyond our wildest imagination," Mr. White said, between attempts to organize sorting parties from the many women who had volunteered to help.

Eighty men and twenty-five trucks reported at the Armouries shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon and within a few minutes were on their way to their allotted zones.

Despite the fine tooth-combing efforts of the trucks and manpower volunteers, a number of parcels were unfortunately left on verandas and the orderly room of the Armouries was flooded with phone calls late last night and this morning with requests to pick up donations, which had been accidentally left behind.

Mr. White and other officials of the committee were astounded at the response to their appeal.

Trucks Kept Busy.

Trucks loaded to the utmost reported at intermittent periods quickly disposed of their loads and dashed back for more. By late afternoon a steady stream of vehicles were unloading all sorts of clothing at a rate that at times prevented satisfactory handling.

To attempt to describe the thousand and one different articles is beyond the imagination.

Hundreds of pairs of shoes from tiny babies' bootees to the number fourteens of a man were there. Rubbers, fur-lined galoshes, rubber boots, slippers, all sorts and descriptions of footwear were apparent — and all in a good state of repair. The ladies, too, had not forgotten this phase of the donation. Hundreds of pairs of slippers, sturdy oxfords and brogues were tossed into the clothing pot.

In the clothing department, practically every article in this phase of apparel was included in the heavy donations.

Much Fine Clothing.

Suits of men's clothing, a lot of them practically new, odd pairs of pants which looked as though they had just come from the tailor shop, shirts, ties, coats of every description were there. The armed forces, veterans, too, had not forgotten. Several military greatcoats, tunics, worn battle dress and trousers were included. Air force garb, too, was plentiful. Lots of warm underwear was evident.

Children's clothing was one of the heaviest donations. All kinds of little coats, dresses, etc., were piled high on the Armouries floor. Women's hats, coats dressing gowns, mackinaw coats of the lumberjack, raincoats were piled high in awkward but colorful array.

Big Job of Baling.

Mr. White and his helpers toiled far into the night assembling, sorting and packaging the clothing and boots. Men's and women's and children's garments have to be sorted and baled in their respective categories previous to shipment.

This morning the helpers were hard at it again, and it will likely be a day or two before order is made out of the clothing "chaos."

Mr. White wiped a perspiring brow. "I don't know what to say to thank the people of this city for the tremendous donation. It is beyond our greatest expectation, and although we were sure the people of the city would come "through," we had no idea that the contributions would reach such a peak. To the service clubs and others who helped in such a manner, especially the ladies, the committee is extremely grateful. Without their help the unqualified success of the drive would not have been attained."

Grocer, 3 Youths Held Without Bail For Sugar Theft

A Dundas Street grocer and three youths were taken into custody yesterday by Police Inspector Clare Hayes and are being held without bail on charges arising from the theft of sugar from the Hannah Bakery warehouse, Front Street.

Kenneth Bradshaw, Dundas Street business man, is held on charges of receiving, while Douglas Thompson, Clifford Neal, both 18, and a juvenile, are being detained on charges of shopbreaking and theft.

In a statement to the police yesterday the boys admitted contacting Bradshaw and asking him if he would buy sugar from them. It is alleged that he acquiesced and some time later drove his truck to a spot near the Hannah Bakery warehouse where four 100-pound bags of sugar were loaded.

According to the Police Inspector, Bradshaw denied any participation in the affair, and even when faced by the trio of youths was insistent that he was not involved.

One of the boys, it is stated, suddenly cried, "You may as well admit it, Ken. You are hooked like we are."

Investigation of the theft of the sugar revealed that certain tire tracks were visible at the point where the sugar was taken. A nearly new tire with a certain type of tread eventually led to the arrest of those involved.

Police Inspector Hayes, working quietly, effected all the arrests yesterday afternoon.

T. Slush, Tweed, Drowns When Car Rolls Into Ditch

Tweed, (Special)—Pinned underneath a car in three feet of water when the vehicle struck a soft shoulder and rolled over into the ditch between Tweed and Stoco, Mr. Thomas Slush, of Tweed, was drowned shortly before six o'clock Wednesday evening.

Mr. Slush was a passenger in a car owned and driven by Allen H. Wilson of Corbyville. Harry E. Wilson of Belleville, also was a passenger in the car. The three man had been visiting in Stoco, when on the return to Tweed by way of an abandoned railroad highway, the car struck a soft shoulder and rolled into the ditch. There was no traffic at the time, it was stated.

An inquest looking into the death of Mr. Slush has been ordered by Coroner Dr. Dales, of Tweed.

Schools Emptied In Good Time During Fire Drill

Queen Alexandra public school with an enrolment of 520 pupils established the best time in fire drill held in connection with Fire Prevention Week and emptied school in one minute and five seconds, it was stated today by Assistant Fire Chief Gerald Vance.

Two of the city public schools were under the minute mark during the fire drill exercises with King George emptying class rooms in fifty seconds and Queen Victoria in fifty-five seconds. The schools have an enrolment of 347 and 485 pupils respectively.

Queen Mary School with an enrolment of 437 took one minute and ten seconds to clear class rooms while St. Michael's separate school with 500 pupils was emptied in exactly one minute. Belleville Collegiate with 812 students was emptied in one minute and twenty seconds. Seventy-three students in St. Michael's High School cleared the building in exactly 30 seconds.

"The student were very orderly and clearly showed efficient instruction in fire drill," stated Assistant Chief Vance. Any city school which can be cleared of pupils in less than two minutes is considered very good, it was stated.

Garage Operators Discuss Many Subjects of Trade

Secretary Manager of the Ontario Garage Operators' Association, James Reed of Toronto was guest speaker at the regular monthly dinner meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward branch held at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday evening, members hearing first hand the Association's views upon several matters of interest to the trade.

Benefits of the garage apprenticeship system were outlined by Mr. Reed who stated the job of an automobile repair man was every bit as technical and as important as many of the so-called professional trades. According to law, garage apprentices must serve 5 years in the trade before they will be issued a certificate as a first-class mechanic.

The 48-hour week was discussed briefly by the speaker as was the permitted hours of overtime which might be put in by mechanics.

Hours of sale for gasoline service stations was mentioned by Mr. Reed who stated the Association favored an agreement between the various stations concerned rather than a local by-law governing hours which vendors may remain open for business. When deciding upon hours of sale the rights of customers as well as of oil companies must be considered, according to Mr. Reed.

In the absence of President Percy Dulmage, Harry Moorman acted as chairman for the meeting, the program including the showing of special industrial plant films demonstrating employer-employee relations and the bringing about of better shop conditions.

Jamieson Bone Will Be Candidate For Mayoralty

Ex-Mayor Jamieson Bone announced today that he will be a candidate for the office of the mayor of the City of Belleville in the forthcoming civic elections.

The former chief magistrate of the city in an interview today stated that he felt the spirit of progress in this city is fast disappearing. "The city is becoming down at the heel and a good deal of reorganization is needed in civic affairs generally. It's time to quit talking and get some action."

"Before promising any extensive program of public works," Mr. Bone said, "I want to examine the city's finances. It is easy enough to spend money and the first thing we know the rate will be back to where it was, 50 mills."

Trade conditions in Canada, he felt, will be bad due to the lag in production of domestic requirements. "I want to work towards preventing this insofar as Belleville is concerned so there will be work at decent wages for all."

Mr. Bone wants Belleville and district to be as progressive as Western Ontario, and he feels that if a real effort was made on the part of all, this city will be "second to none."

If this city takes full advantage of the St. Lawrence River development, he stated, it could easily become an inland ocean port of some importance if the approach to its eastern channel was deepened.

Mayor of the city in 1938-39 Mr. Bone stated he was largely responsible for the organization of the Chamber of Commerce here in 1920. He had a great deal to do with the discussions that led to the locating in Belleville of such industries as Stephens-Adamson Co., Mead Johnson Co., Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corp., and the American Optical Company.

During the last ten years he has given considerable time to questions affecting the property owner. At present he is the president of the Ontario Property Owners' Association as well as being the head of the Dominion organization of the same name.

"THE SILENT NAVY"

You brag about your glamorous Army
Your glorious Air force too,
Do you ever think of the Navy
And the job they have to do?

No sane man ever sailed the seas
And expected to live it through,
So thank your stars you have fool tars
Who wear the navy blue.

We don't fly over cities
Or march with heavy packs,
But the Navy always takes you there
And the Navy brings you back.

There is never more than a whistle
And we quietly shove out to sea,
To protect your Merchant Navy
From the ruthless enemy.

No frantic crowds to see us off
No commotion in the town
And when we are lost in action
It's just "another" ship gone down

We face the cold Atlantic
The iceberg, snow and sleet,
No matter what the sacrifice
For us there's no retreat.

We are beaten by the angry sea,
Torpedoed by the Huns,
Bombed by the enemy aircraft,
Blasted by their guns.

We are freezing on the upper deck
It's awful hot below,
We are sea-sick, bruised and broken
But the convoy must go through.

We guard your vital food supplies
Your planes, guns and tanks.
For your existence over there
The Merchant boys give thanks.

So give credit to the Army
And your Air Force when it's due
And we'd like you to remember
You have a "NAVY" too.

Strike Threatens To Cut Power Off For Two Million

Detroit, Oct. 18 — (AP) — A strike threatening to cut off electrical power for more than 2,000,000 residents of industrial Lower Michigan began at 8 a.m. today in plants of the Consumers Power Company.

Operators of boilers and turbines of the big Zilwaukee plant near Saginaw, which feeds power into the Saginaw Valley, failed to report at their stations at the regular hour.

The power plant, however, was reported still operating, and C.M. Matson, superintendent, said he expected to continue operations "as best we can" with men still on duty.

Thirteen men are required to operate the boilers and turbines, Matson said. Men due at 8 a. m. shift failed to appear, but operations were continued with "others still holding on."

Maintenance men at Battle Creek walked out at 8 a.m.

State police and state troops had been alerted by Governor Kelly when last minute efforts to avert a walkout apparently failed.

At Muskegon, Harold Wilson, president of the Union Local, announced that electrical power to private homes and industries was cut off at 8 a.m. but that service to hospitals, police and fire departments and other essential users would be continued.

Sound at Heart

The other day an observer in England remarked, "The British came out of the war tired, cross and impoverished."

He was referring to the people of the British Isles.

If he were doing his observing here he might use a current wise crack and say, "The Canadians came out of the war tired, cross, period."

Such an observation might be justified. Located far from the scenes of battle, Canadian homes, factories, public services, remained intact throughout the war. Thus this country was able to satisfy the demands of a war-hungry machine. And in so doing, Canadian citizens earned money on a scale never equalled here before. Right now, in addition to holding several billion dollars worth of Victory Bonds, Canadian citizens have a total in savings banks accounts which is the highest in the history of Canada.

A critic might label us "cross and tired." But if he really knew us, he would not describe us as ungrateful or selfish.

Confirmation of our true national spirit will be forthcoming in the Ninth Victory Loan campaign. To provide for the civil re-establishment of our men who fought and to provide at least a little of the goods which impoverished people across the Atlantic must have to survive, our people will buy bonds as enthusiastically in the ninth campaign as they did in the previous eight Victory Loan campaigns.

In Praise of Troops

Capt. the Rev. J. W. Houston of the Tabernacle United Church, who has returned to his pastorate after years of service in the Canadian army as a padre, brings home a high praise of the spirit of Canadian youth with whom he served. Captain Houston served in France, Belgium,, Holland and Germany and passed through many engagements. In action and in every other phase of military life he saw the young men who upheld the Empire's and Canada's cause. As a padre he had especial opportunity to come to a full appreciation of the mental and moral makeup of these young Canadian soldiers. His report is one of high praise. Their unselfishness stands out clearly. He made particular reference to the men of the stretcher bearer corps and their devotion to their task and of soldierly comradeship.

From every quarter during the war there came and since the war's end there has come deep appreciation of the young men who represented Canada in the greatest of all wars, a war which was a struggle against the incarnate spirit of evil in Nazism.

These young men have come back and will be coming back to their former homes and cities, towns and villages and countryside and will be taking their share in the cause of Canada's future in the era of peace. There are no finer indications of what the future will be than in knowing these men who have served.

Looking Forward to Serve

There is already talk about municipal organizations next year. The time of voting may yet seem afar off but though that is true, the weeks will glide by swiftly and almost before it can be realized nomination day will be at hand with election day just around the corner. Citizens are being suggested as possible candidates for municipal office and if the interest already aroused provides any criterion, there is every assurance that there will be spirited local contests for office.

It is well that these matters are being thought about at this time, that some persons are contemplating offering themselves for office, thereby setting a good example for other citizens who might well offer to devote some of their time and attention to community service.

It is an opportunity of service right at home. The municipal field ought to be of special interest to citizens young as well as older. For the municipal field touches the individual closely, it has to do with education and the younger generation who fill the city's homes, it has to do with the measures of health, it has to concern itself with the growth and expansion of opportunities of work — in short it touches the citizens very closely — in the home in which he lives, the school he sends his children to, the health of the community, the spirit of the citizens and all the things with which the resident is most closely associated. The opportunities are unlimited. Older men can give their experience and younger men their enthusiasm and will to learn. Everyone is interested in what the city council, board of education, parks commission, board of health, chamber of commerce and so many other organizations are interested in.

Then, the years ahead hold great promise. No one would want those promises to fail. There are problems to be faced and there are opportunities to be seized for making the municipality a bigger and better place to live in and a bigger and better part of the larger life of the Province and Dominion. Such a war as has just closed will bring in its wake many problems but as well it brings a great enthusiasm for progress and for service and in this all normal citizens will wish to have a part, whether as members of civic bodies or as citizens in general with the fullest interest of the municipality at heart. The war's end has released or created a spirit of enterprise and enthusiasm which can carry far if supported by the people.

The citizens in general will no doubt under the impulse of the wave of enthusiasm and opportunity for service bestow more appreciation upon those who serve in various capacities. This is the spirit born of the moving events through which the world has just passed and of the zeal of the people for development and progress.

Laval and Quisling

No man is rightly so much despised as the traitor. Pierre Laval of France has just been hurried out of this life for his treachery to the France he should have loved. His life and course of action make sordid reading for he was ever the sly, tricky and treacherous Laval. Though he had had the highest honors in peace time, in war time when France needed the comfort of the help of every one of her citizens, he elected of his own evil will to collaborate with the enemy and thereby endanger the French state and do her grievous harm. His life was sinister and his death a fitting climax to a life worse than useless.

Now under condemnation is another man, Quisling of Norway, doomed to be executed for collaboration with the enemy. His appeal has been denied.

Such men carry to their graves an eternal ignominy that will be attached to their names. After condemnation they both gave proof of their cowardliness.

The security of a state demands the loyality of its citizens. For Laval loyalty and citizenship meant nothing. It was likewise with Quisling. Of their own free will they ranged themselves with the enemy. Loyalty did not exist for them. They chose to deal with the invader, surrendering all the nobility life demands, and in the end go to dishonored graves. Rightly mankind holds in horror such deformed exhibits of life as traitors. About them is something that disgusts because it is as foul as can be. Because it is so obnoxious the traitor is placed in the lowest category of human creatures.

The evil that was in these men's hearts drew them to Hitler's tyranny and in its shadow they were at home, rather than among their own compatriots. Such men are a proof of the evil that was in the Nazi system for they naturally flocked to it because they understood and thrived in such an atmosphere of evil and wrongdoing.

Small Fruit

Small fruits, once regarded as imported luxuries in Southern Alberta, are now bringing farmers on irrigated lands in the Lethbridge territory tens of thousands of dollars annually, The Family Herald and Weekly Star reports. In spite of labor shortage last year, one Barnwell district farmer claimed he harvested and sold $5,000 worth of strawberries from a patch only a little larger than two acres.

HERO-SPEECH

Asked about medals which they display,
Fearing they might not be understood,
This is often what heroes say:
"Just for doing a thing I could!"

"Brave beyond duty," citations run.
Yet, with a smile the boys declare:
"Somebody else the same had done.
I was lucky and happened there!"

None of them strutting or overproud.
None of them boasting as cheapness would.
This they say to the questioning crowd:
"Just for doing the best I could."

There is some opposition to the organizing of another citizen's band in this city. The proposed organization is off to a good start. It is feared, however, that between the two the city will not have one good band as the new band will take some players from the old band.

Russ Ask Too Much; To Give Little

(An Editorial in The Buffalo Courier-Express)

It is remarkable what Russia wants in her post-war negotiations with the Allies who helped her to victory. Russia has turned out to be the biggest "wanter" in the world. Among the things that Russia wants are:

A loan running into billions from the United States.

Control—direct or indirect—of all Eastern Europe.

Removal of British influence from Greece.

Active Russian participation in control of the Mediterranean, which Russia had nothing to do with liberating.

Increased Russian influence in the Pacific.

There are a number of other Russian wants, but these will do for samples. And what is Russia willing to give? Very little, as far as can be judged from the apparent deadlock in the Council of Foreign Ministers in London.

It's all right to be tough in protecting national interests in parleys with other countries. We expect our American representatives to be tough, too. But complete adherence to the "gimme, no-give" school of diplomacy is hardly conductive to the cordiality which should exist among Allies who have won a struggle as bitter as the one just ended.

Co-operation won the war. The fact that co-operation is even more necessary in the maintenance of peace should be as apparent to the Kremlin as it is to the rest of the Allies.

Eckener Stood Firm Against Hitler

(From The Winnipeg Fress Press)

It is heartening to know that one German of world standing stood out against Hitler and the Nazis and still lives. That man is Hugo Eckener. No German pitted himself more defiantly against Hitler and none was more pettily slighted. He knew more than they. He was the economist who became the world's authority on airships, and as a manufacturer of Zeppelins and other aircraft established himself as one of Germany's industrialists. He was known as a German of the Germans who had to be respected because of validity of his accomplishments.

Eckener despised Hitler and scoffed at his works. He kept out of politics, but was twice proposed as candidate for the presidency in Germany. He would not tolerate mixing his life-dreams in lighter-than-air transport with the shoddy politics the Nazis tried to force him to engage in. After he had flown the Hindenburg to South America and was aboard her on her first trip efforts were made to coerce him into openly supporting Hitler is a hundred per cent vote for Hitler in the reichstag election in 1936. Eckener refused. He would not let the Hindenburg take off in a demmonstration flight advertised by the Nazis as Hitler sign of progress.

This scorn for Nazism brought its wrath down on Dr. Eckener. His junior commander, Captain Lehmann, was accorded the honors for the flight of the Hindenburg, and Eckener was relegated in all the German official news to the insignificance of a mere passenger on the flight. His name was never to be mentioned again in the public prints, and does not appear to have been until the war was over.

It is different now. Hugo Eckener returns at the age of 77 years to his first love, to journalism. The French occupation authorities have accepted his offer to publish and edit a newspaper in southwest Germany. The "Sued Kurier" is to be the product of "trustworthy German personalities" who, unlike the Nazis who plagued Hugo Eckener, knew other nations contained men the equal to any in their own, and that other nations could Amass a might of which the Nazis in the incompetence of their conceit could not conceive.

It is a pity for the world, and an eternal pity for the Germans, that Germany's industrialists did not stand firm as he stood, and that Germany's thinkers and scientists did not stand by what they knew to be true as he stood by what he knew of the world and its leaders.

Draught Dodgers

(By ADA DUPRE)

(In Our Dumb Animals)

Camels can go for a long time, if necessary, without slaking thirst, but other creatures must have water regularly and so have developed ingenious methods of getting it even during dry spells.

In one of our good neighbor countries — Venezuela, instinct and tough hoofs take care of the mules whose drinking places have vanished with the sun. Instinct leads the thirty animals to the melo-cactus, a plant which hides behind a forbidding armor of barbed thorns a precious treasure—water. The prickly spikes look vicious, and they are. One of them can inflict a cruel cut, and even cripple a careless animal. The mule is often called clumsy and stupid, but neither of these qualities is apparent as he lifts hoofs and scrapes away the sharp needles so as to safely kick a hole in the stalk and get a drink.

It is, however, the dorads, or mailed catfish of the Orinoco River, who really go out of their way to obtain water. When drought begins to suck the streams dry, these fish actually leave and cross land to other bodies of water. They travel only at night, when the heat of the day has somewhat abated, and, if necessary, they can burrow and exist in the damp mud of a river bank or meadow.

This remarkable ability to live out of water was clarified recently when a fish expert explained that fish die from the exertion of their struggles, and not from suffocation. Apparently the dorads do not struggle, and are thus able to live for a time in the open air.

In Africa there are great colonies of white ants, who simply do as man does when he is after water—they dig wells. One such shaft was studied and found to penetrate sixty-five feet into the earth before water was reached. A labor battalion of the wee insects transported the liquid, drop by tiny drop, to the ant village high above.

The New Dog

There's a new dog lies on the parlour rug where the old dog used to lie,
A dog with a short white curly coat and a brown patch over his eye;
He takes his meals from the old dog's dish, and sleeps on the old dog's chair,
And the rest have forgotten the Aberdeen who for ten long years slept there.

But at night when "the house is fast asleep" sounds a step I used to know,
And the dog that I love comes stealing back from the land where the Good Dogs go;
A dark shape opens the bedroom door, I hear a familiar whine,
There are two black paws on the counterpane and a dog's head close to mine.

There isn't a secret he "keeps from me" of life in the Great Beyond;
There are shining seraphs to take him walks, real bones and a splendid pond;
And the baby angels throw balls for him in the fields where the grass grows sweet,
And he hasn't forgotten a strange brown stone that he used to lay at my feet.

He remembers the deer "in Richmond Park," and the cats he used to chase,
(And yet they can talk of another dog who shall take the old dog's place.)
He tells me he looked for the old green chair where his basket used to be,
But he found an intruder sleeping there so he came to hunt for me.

Oh, the new white dog is a faithful chap, and he earns his daily bread,
And the right to feed from the selfsame dish and sleep on the selfsame bed,
And of course he must be on the parlour rug where the old jock used to lie,
But a black dog visits me every night, pathetically asking why.

MUST RISE TO CHALLENGE

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

HOW IN THE WORLD CAN THE DOCTORS TELL?

Several years ago when I had a little set-to with a metropolitan health commissioner over the question of rabies in man, the commissioner prepared and published in the newspapers a signed statement declaring, among other things, that "fuming nitric acid is the only thing that will destroy the virus."

No one has identified rabies virus—from the great Pasteur down to the Squedunk dog catcher rabies virus, if it exists, has eluded scientific investigators. That being true I ask how in the world can the doctors tell whether pure phenol, fuming nitric acid or any other cauterizing or tissue-destroying substance destroys it? Incidentally, if rabies ever does occur in man (I do not believe it does), when the hypothetical "virus" or "germ" is inoculated by the bite or scratch inflicted by an animal that has rabies, how do the doctors know that cauterizing the wound with fuming nitric acid, pure liquefied phenol ("carboli acid") or other tissue-destroying agent will not supply dead or injured tissue debris for the virus or germ of the disease to grow on?

We know that the least bit of dead or injured tissue left in a wound favors development of lockjaw (tetanus) if the tooth, talon, claw, beak or nail inflicting the wound happened to implant tetanus germs in the wound, just as foreign particles or material of any kind left buried in the flesh—gun powder, wadding, bits of cloth—favor development of tetanus.

Lest the reader misunderstand, here is my own belief about rabies ("hydrophobia"):

1. I believe rabies occurs in domestic and wild animals.

2. I doubt that the disease occurs in man.

3. If I were bitten or otherwise wounded by an animal, fowl or person presumed to have rabies ("hydrophobia") I'd have no Pasteur treatment, because I fear the effects of that more than I fear the possibility of rabies.

4. The treatment I'd want for any such bite or wound, whether the animal, fowl or person inflicting the wound were presumed rabid or not, is simply the proper aseptic surgical treatment a good doctor gives any wound, and an immediate injection of tetanus antitoxin, and a second injection of tetanus antitoxin 5 to 7 days later.

5. It would be a matter of no concern whatever, to me, whether the animal, fowl or person inflicting the wound might escape, be apprehended, be killed, or develop alleged rabies. As long as my wound received proper surgical care and I received the protection against tetanus, I'd forget the incident.

That's all. But please take notice, I tell you what I'd do or want done about it if I were the patient concerned.

In no circumstances will I advise any one what he or she should do about treatment of such bite or wound or the possibility of rabies. The only suggestion I offer in such circumstances is this: Follow your physician's advice.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Insulin Reaction

I do not agree with J. K. M. who said any diabetic of ordinary intelligence should recognize insulin shock in time to stop a car if he happens to be driving. Several times it has hit me so suddenly that I know I could never have kept control of a car if I were driving. Miss F. S.

Answer—It is a question of fact and not of opinion. Fact is that a good many traffic accidents have been caused by insulin reaction—many so recognized. Probably many more have escaped recognition for obvious reasons. No one taking insulin should be permitted to drive a car. Send ten cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "Training for Diabetes".

Gum

Please tell me the advantages and disadvantages of chewing gum. My office companion and myself chew gum constantly. (E. K.)

Answer — Mild jaw exercise serves as feeble sort of vicarious outlet for emotions which would be more healthfully absorbed by fighting or running away, by any form of real general exercise. One reader assures me he sneaks a chew of gum in a conference when important matters are under debate and he can scarcely control himself longer— chewing vigorously for a while he calms down and carries on.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is a roorback lie?

A roorback lie is a fictitious story or forged report circulated about a candidate on the eve of an election when it is too late for him to prove its falsity before the votes are cast.

The roorback lie is so called from a story circulated in 1844 to injure the reputation of James K. Polk, the Democratic candidate for President. Just before the election the Ithaca (N.Y.) Chronicle printed what was alleged to be an extract from "A Tour Through the Western and Southern States in 1836" by Baron Roorback.

The extract contained a description of a camp of slave-drivers on Duck River, and stated that 43 of the unfortunate slaves "had been purchased by the Honorable J. K. Polk, the present Speaker of the House of Representatives, the mark of the branding iron, and the initials of his name, on their shoulder, distinguishing them from the rest."

This pretended extract was reprinted by the Albany (N.Y.) Journal and many other Whig papers.

Later part of the extract was proved to be a forgery, the work of an Ithaca abolitionist named Linn. He took the description of the camp of slave-drivers from George William Featherstonbaugh's "Excursions Through the Slave States," which had just been published. Featherstonbaugh was an English geologist and author who spent many years travelling in North America.

"Duck River" was substituted for "New River," the name of a tributary of the Kanawha, and the statement about the 43 slaves branded with the initials of Polk was forged. There never was any such writer as "Baron Roorback."

"Last minute lie" is another popular name for an untrue story published on the eve of an election when refutation is difficult if not impossible.

POINT TRAVERSE

Freighters Forced To Take Shelter

Point Traverse, Oct. 18 — Sweeping down upon the Great Lakes, winds of gale force have lashed peaceful waters into great seas, retarded shipping service and forced lake freighters to seek shelter off the islands here.

Hoisted storm warnings forced five freighters to lay for many hours off Timber Island, awaiting favorable weather and an abatement of seas before proceeding to their destination.

High winds of this week have given residents a taste of what the big blow of the fall of 1878 was like, when sixty-four sailing vessels sought shelter in the lee waters of South Bay, out of southwest and northwest gales that swept over the Great Lakes waters for five successive days.

Sixty-six years ago this fall, Oct. 31st, 1879, a biting northwest gale was blowing, maybe someone will recall it. A South Bay youth of 22 years, Moses Dulmage, son of Philip Dulmage, was a sailor aboard the schooner Julia. He visited fellow seamen aboard the Olivia that night, departed at 11 p.m., missed his own vessel and was carried upon angry waters with all hope of rescue futile. A tiny yawl cast upon American shores at Stony Point, bore mute evidence of a tragic ending, for securely lashed to the seat was the body of seaman Dulmage.

Cars Damaged In Head-on Crash

Wooler—An accident took place on Monday night on Wooler to Trenton highway, about half a mile south of the village and exactly opposite the residence of Mr. Charlie Sharpe, when two cars crashed together head-on. Mr. Wm. (Bill) Hennessy of Wooler was travelling south and Mr. Jim Jones of Campbellford going toward the village. Poor lights on both cars are reported. On the Jones' car two ladders were tethered on the left side and the front end of these crashed through the glass of Mr. Hennessy's car. No one was hurt but both cars were damaged considerably. The accident was investigated by the local and the provincial police.

REDISTRIBUTION

Wants New Basis

"Whatever the determination is," he said, "I confidently expect that there will be a redistribution which will conform with the constitution either as it is or as it may be made after proper amendment."

Capt. Walter Tucker (L — Rosthern) said he felt that some new basis for representation should be found. Quebec's population was increasing and under the constitution this meant that in provinces where there was not a corresponding increase parliamentary representation had to be reduced.

If four seats were taken away from Saskatchewan the remaining constituencies would be so large that the people in them could not hope to have adequate representation in parliament.

Joseph Bradette (L — Cochrane) suggested redistribution not be undertaken before 1947. That would allow time for post - war population shifts. With development of the mining areas of Northern Quebec it was possible that the province's population might become greater than Ontario's and increase relatively faster than all other provinces.

That might mean, under the present system, a House of 150 to 175 members instead of 245.

Support for quick action on the redistribution came from J. F. Pouliot (Ind. L. — Temiscouata) and P. E. Gagnon (Ind. — Chicoutimi).

Mr. Dorion said Quebec suffered an injustice as long as redistribution was delayed. The people of Quebec were ready to abide by the law, but they asked that the law be respected in the matter of parliamentary representation.

ONTARIO CRIME

The gang, brandishing Commando-type weapons, is credited with at least six hold-ups since early September and Deputy Commissioner McCready told The Canadian Press he believed the gang patterned its methods after movie gangsters and developed its professional touch through one successful foray after another.

"We're doing everything to run down these gangs," said McCready. "I won't go into details, but we're going to keep after them and we will get them."

Only Flying Squad

Chief Constable George Stuart of the York County police advanced the theory the efficient quintet with the red bandannas was only the "flying squad" of a larger gang of safe-crackers.

Stuart is playing a major role in co-ordinating the hunt in the heavily-populated Toronto area.

"Undoubtedly this gang has its own scouts which go out to look over a place where a hold-up is planned," he said. "Then they report to the leader who draws up the plan of attack and when the four men and their leader go out on the job they known just what they're up against. That's probably why they work so smoothly."

AUTUMN'S TRAIN

Autumn's train is passing by
Colors bright to catch the eye—
Golden-rod leads on the way
Flaunting golden flags so gay,
And the sun-flower on a-head
Passing nods a golden head;
In her autumn robe of wine
Sumach looks so fit and fine,
Asters gowned in royal blue
Are the next to come in view;
Hickory in brown arrayed
Joins in autumn's grand parade,
With her scarlet gipsy shawl
Maple towers over all,
And for music! Don't you hear
Crickets with their band of cheer?
And the wind-harp, how it sings
Giving to the spirit wings!

Nice Thick Soup Good for Healthy Young Appetites

Football practice after school, a brisk walk home from work through the October twilight and the family gathers round the supper table with appetites that are ravenous.

These are the evenings when a thick soup of the chowder type with plenty of vegetables hidden in its fragrant depths seems made to order. Servings must be generous of course, for soup like this is a main course, not an appetizer.

If you have an old-fashioned soup tureen hidden away on a top shelf get it down and use it for serving these whole meal soups. Accompany the soup with a big plate of crisp crackers or melba toast, follow up with salad or dessert and even the hollow-legged members of the family will leave the table replete and content.

Here are three recipes from the testing kitchen of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, that have what it takes..fine flavor, ease of preparation and generous quantities.

Vegetable Chowder

1 cup white beans
3 cups cold water
1 cup sliced raw carrots
1 cup diced raw potatoes
1 cup canned peas
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon celery salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk.

Soak beans overnight in cold water. Cook for 1½ hours or until tender. Add vegetables and seasonings. Cook ½ hour; add milk and reheat. Six servings.

Onion Chowder

3 cups sliced onion
2 tablespoons fat
4 cups boiling water
2 cups diced potatoes
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups milk
1 cup grated cheese
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Cook onions in fat for five minutes. Add boiling water, potatoes and salt. Cook until vegetables are tender. Add milk, grated cheese and parsley; and serve at once. Six servings.

Oxtail Chowder

1 cup dried peas
3 cups cold water
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons celery salt
1 lb. oxtails
3 cups canned tomatoes
4 carrots
2 onions
3 potatoes
1 bouillon cube
4 cups boiling water

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Widow Should Keep Her Husband's Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have recently been widowed, and I have had so many discussions with friends about what form of name I should now use that I am coming to you for authoritative advice. Does a widow use her own or her late husband's name? Should her mail be addressed to "Mrs. Thomas Smith" or to "Mrs. Mary Smith?" Should the "Mrs." be prefixed to her name when she signs business letters and also when she signs absence-excuses to her child's teacher? L. S.

A widow should not discard the name her husband gave her. After her husband's death, she sould continue to use (1) Mrs. Thomas Smith, as her formal name, and (2) Mary Brown Smith as her informal name, her signature. Her letters should be addressed to Mrs. Thomas Smith. Never socially should she use the tabu form of "Mrs. Mary Smith", and if her friends mistakenly think that this is the proper form to use when addressing letters to her, she should, graciously but firmly, indicate that this form is not for her, or for them, to use.

All business letters or letters to anyone who must be informed of your formal name, for identification or information (such as your excuse-notes to your child's teacher, or your letter to me) should be signed first with your signature (your informal name) and then, in parentheses, you write your formal name, so that the person to whom you are writing will know the proper form of name to use in the reply, like this:

Yours very truly (for business letters) or

Yours very sincerely (for others)

Mary Brown Smith
(Mrs. Thomas Smith)

The Bride's Attendants Give Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The fiance of my first cousin has just arrived from overseas and they are to be married soon in church. I am to be her maid of honor and my sister is to be one of the bridesmaids. My mother is planning to give the bride-to-be an important and rather expensive gift. My sister and I are wondering if we, as attendants, should give her a separate wedding gift. If so what kind of gift would be appropriate? W. S.

It will be proper for you and your sister to do as you prefer: (1) contribute your individual quotas to the amount your mother is planning to spend, and send this joint gift as your family's gift; (2) give the bride-to-be a gift from you and your sister; or (3) each of you sisters give an individual gift. Any gift for her new home is an appropriate wedding gift.

The Bride's Mother at a Formal Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to have a morning church wedding.....formal, military. Would it be correct for me to wear a gray pencil-stripe suit? I have my heart set on wearing a suit, but, since I am the bride's mother, I wonder if this would be correct? S. S.

Since your daughter's wedding is to be a formal one, you should, to be consistent, wear a dress of formal length...a long dress of dinner-type design, long-sleeved if you wish, of your most becoming color (not too dark a shade), with a hat that harmonizes with your dress, and with other accessories most carefully chosen. Or you may wear an ensemble, long dinner-type dress with matching or contrasting very short jacket or bolero.

BEAUTY.

By HELEN JAMESON

What The Home Shampooer Should Know

The beauty industry is stepping right along. What cannot be accomplished to make the cash customer happy isn't worth mentioning. By means of the electric needle, little fuzzers are removed from women's chins. Hair dyeing has developed to a highly specialized business. The permanent wave goes faster during treatment, undulations last longer, there is no discomfort for the candidate for unnaturally curly hair.

The boss of the beautytorium, if he or she is conscientious, warns employees about two fears; that wounds might be inflicted when rose-tipped fingernails are manicured, that soap might remain in the hair after the shampoo. These errors occur when work is hurried or when operators have not had proper training.

Much shampooing goes on at home these days because of the shortage of operators in pulchritude parlors, difficulty in getting an early appointment. So we desire to tell our paper clientele that shampooing is not the simple task that many women fancy it is. One is dealing with a combination of atmospheric dust and oil exuded by the sebaceous glands, a mixture that clings to hair shafts with tenacity.

Soap should be melted if it ist o be properly distributed

If one goes at the job hit-or-miss fashion, results will be disappointing, the permanent will be weakened.

A thorough shampoo acts as a scalp treatment. A poor one is an abomination.

Start with a scalp friction. Spread out fingers and thumbs, move the flesh about and away from the bones. Brush the hair vigorously, taking a small strand at a time, holding it away from the scalp, sending the brush through it with a rolling motion. Toss the hair forward, brushing from the nape line up over the crown. By doing this, the hair will be less likely to tangle and snarl during the washing.

The brush will remove much of the surface dust. Groom with the comb. Wash the comb carefully. To use a dirty comb on clean hair just doesn't make sense.

Before applying soap, use the bath spray with a strong current of fairly hot water.

Soap should be melted if it is to be properly distributed. Place a small bar of castile soap in a quart mason jar, add one-half teaspoonful of borax, fill with boiling water, let stand three days before using. Don't shake the jar. Use the clear top liquid.

There should be three soapings, as many rinsings. The soap should fluff up like beaten egg white. If it doesn't, the hair will not be clean. Add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar to a quart of water, pour over the head. Have a final rinsing with the spray.

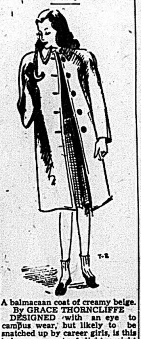
Fashion Flashes

IT'S WONDERFUL to see how the new budget fur coats have come up in the world. Let-out skins, new dyes and beautiful styling with generous cut are some of the delights. Something new is marten-dyed ringtail opossum made up luxuriously with full sleeves and deep cuffs.

SLIM AND LOVELY evening frocks are now in the stores. Royal blue crepe makes a charming dress which boasts a wide belt embroidered in silver and royal blue sequins. Scarf drapery is twisted around the throat and swings loose in a panel in back.

A NEW SHADE of blue, a deep lovely tone rather reminiscent of a blue neon light, is gaining favor. Nice in a simple frock of woolen with silver nailhead trim.

Campus Belle



A balmacaan coat of creamy beige.

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

DESIGNED with an eye to campus wear, but likely to be snatched up by career girls, is this balmacaan coat of light weight woollen in a lovely shade of creamy pale beige. It is made with convertible neckline and raglan shoulders and has a smart single breasted closing with smoky black pearl buttons. It is grand over suits and with skirts and sweaters.

The Marry Go Round

TAKE IT FROM EVE

When Nature wants to turn a girl into a perfectly devoted and contented wife, she first extracts her sense of humor, then softens her tongue, and then anesthetizes her vanity.

Nobody can eat more than a fat woman on a reducing diet when she weakens and gives herself a free rein and a Roman Holiday.

A super-optimist is a man who goes through life without a wife or an umbrella in the cheerful confidence that he can always borrow some other fellow's.

The modern career girl may not have all the domestic virtues of her great-grandmother; but no smart girl of today would marry a man "to reform him" — and make that an excuse to bully him down to the grave, as grandma sometimes did.

Essay on Man

Man is nothing, if not paradoxical! He enthusiastically elects men to make his country's laws —and thereafter hires lawyers at great expense to tell him how to evade them.

He spends half of his life in the pursuit of the kind of girls who are expert at making him squandar his money—and then expects to marry one who will help him save it.

He invents airplanes, so that he can fly among the clouds, and submarines so that he may sail beneath the waters. Yet, he protests bitterly when a cab shortage or a gasoline shortage forces him to walk on the face of the earth where he belongs.

He loves to talk glowingly of "efficiency, promptness and method"—yet he is never ready for breakfast and never remembers where he put his hat.

He employs skilled cooks to tempt his palate with enticing dishes—and then pays skilled doctors and masseurs to cure him of the dyspepsia or the obesity that follows. Yet he loves to boast of his consistency!

BIG FAVORITE with small girls for school wear is the double-breasted shortie coat in navy or red melton worn with an all-round pleated wool tartan skirt and a long-sleeved white shirt-blouse. It's a neat, colorful and definitely attractive outfit.

One Hundred and Seventy Pounds of Fighting Muscote Bay Muskellunge

They may not be smiling as broadly as they might, but if you look closely you will notice that the chests are thrust out quite prominently. And who can blame them, for didn't they haul 170 pounds of maskinonge from the waters of Muscote Bay the other day? The big fellow in the centre (the musky) tipped the scales at 39 pounds while the others ranged between 32 and 18 pounds. The proud gentleman on the left is Mr. Maurice Callaghan who landed the biggest fish, next is his son, Maurice Jr. John Black, Bridge Street butcher, looks quite serious about the whole thing in his business apron while "Mac" McMullen wears a wisp of a smile as the camera snaps him. The gentleman on the extreme right, whose pride shows in his smile, is none other than Hazen Stairs, proprietor of the New Central Barber Shop, Front Street.—Photo by courtesy McCormick's Studio.

Atomic Bomb Development Increases Importance of Soldier On Ground, Gen. Marshall States

Development of the atomic bomb has increased, rather than decreased, the importance of the soldier who fights on the ground, Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army Chief of Staff, told the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee.

Testifying on an appropriation cancellation bill, made public Monday, Gen. Marshall had this to say about the "effect of the atomic bomb on the size of the military establishment:—

Availability of Force

"I would say that it has increased the necessity for greater immediacy in the availability of a force to be used at the outset of an emergency for the reason that we would have to act quickly in order to terminate a destructive attack of atomic nature.

"I might illustrate it this way: If the atomic bomb did away with the necessity for an army, there might be two scientists, one in Germany, we will say, and one in Washington. As each pressed a button, an horrendous explosion would occur in the other fellow's territory. This process would continue, short of a lucky hit on one of the scientists and his button establishment, until somebody got to the source of one of those buttons; this is a striking force.

"It would appear to be all the more necessary to be capable of aggressive offensive action because of the terrific destruction that would be carried out prior to the elimination of the enemy's power to launch such bonds by plane or rocket or other device.

"People overlook the fact, when they are talking about mechanized or technological warfare that more men are required than in the past. They are the men required to produce and to supply, and the fighting troops to put the instrument in the proper place for its employment.... we had to capture an island from which to launch the (atomic) bomb.

Fundamentals of War Unchanged

"The fundamental requirements of conducting successful war have not changed any more than they were altered by the discovery of gunpowder, the submarine, gas, tanks, or planes. The technique changed, but never as much as at first anticipated, and almost invariably with each development the number of men required is increased."

If a war of atomic bombs ever gets started, Gen. Marshall indicated, the United States intends to have a good supply of the devastators on hand. The two big bomb plants were reported producing "right now" and "building up a reserve."

The General told the committee he believes in maintaining a military position strong enough to impress foreign countries "with the readily available military power of America."

"If they know that we are strong, then they will not dare to take liberties," he said. "On the contrary, if they know that we cannot develop our great potential for many months, then terrible things may happen."

Residents to Vote In Lands Wrested From Hun and Jap

Moscow, Oct. 18 (AP)—Residents of portions of East Prussia, wrested from Germany, and the Kuriles and Southern Sakhalin island, taken from Japan, will vote in the Russian general election Feb. 10 and elect deputies to the Supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R.

A special edition of Isvestia disclosed on Monday that Russia is listing these conquests as part of the Soviet Union's electoral setup.

Other territories taken in the war and which will participate in the elections are the new Soviet Republics of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania, all former independent Baltic states; Moldavia, taken from Romania and Karelia, annexed from Finland. Large districts of the Ukraine and White Russia, formerly Eastern Poland, and the Carpatho-Ukraine, which before the war was part of Czechoslovakia, also will vote.

With all these new territories, the February election will be the largest in Soviet history, with 1,287 domestic electoral districts compared to 1,143 in the last election in 1937.

The annexed East Prussia territory includes Koenigsberg, once capital of the Junker's Province, and the cities of Tilsit and Insterburg.

West Lake Farmer Shoots 4 Wild Geese Which Light on Lawn

Picton, Oct. 18 (CP)— Wild geese which halt their southward flight to feed on Prince Edward County grain are more plentiful this season than in years. One of the luckiest farmers was Elwood Monroe of West Lake, who was standing on the verandah of his home when six wild geese swooped down on his lawn. His gun was nearby and he bagged four before he ran out of shells.

Legal Action Will Be Taken

Montreal, Oct. 18 (CP) —Legal action against some 100 Montreal construction builders who allegedly are paying wages to workers in excess of the general ceiling approved by the Prices Board, will be taken within the next few weeks by the building trades joint committee, it was announced Monday. The charges will be laid by the committee on the authority of the National Board.

Frank C. Woodroffe, chief inspector of the committee, said that where legal proceedings are instituted, the contractors concerned will also be reported to income tax authorities, as they allegedly are not reporting the extra pay given workers.

Senate Seeks to Widen Powers of Upper House

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Oct. 18 (CP)—Its frank opinions already on the records of Canada's 20th parliament, the Senate is reported considering the next step to meet demands of members for a greater share in the government of Canada.

Released from the secondary role dictated by the expediencies of wartime rule, it has studded the pages of this first peacetime session with discussions of its powers and activities and with suggestions for improvement.

One that has been put down for further consideration and possible action is that of Senator John Farris of Vancouver, an outstanding lawyer and former Attorney General of British Columbia, that the rules of the Senate be amended to permit cabinet ministers to introduce legislation there.

Much Talent Available

As complement to this, although not on the floor of the House, has arisen the suggestion that the system of parliamentary assistants be extended to the Senate. It stressed that the Senate is filled with former Provincial premiers, former federal and provincial cabinet ministers, and leading figures in the many facts of Canadian life.

The suggestion is that some of these men should be named Senate assistants to cabinet ministers, should acquaint themselves with forthcoming legislation, then pilot it through the Senate first. From there it would go to the Commons.

In this way two current parliamentary problems might be eased:

1. Part of the heavy, lop-sided burden of legislation would be taken off the Commons.

2. The Senate, touchy about its lack of work and about the practice of pushing legislation through to it without time for proper consideration, would find its complaints partially satisfied.

Only One Contact With Cabinet

As it now stands, House Leader Wishart Robertson, as Minister Without Portfolio and the one official contact with the Cabinet, is called upon to introduce in the Senate the legislation that has originated in the numerous departments of government.

Introduction of legislation in the Senate first, far from a new suggestion, is one that is expected to be studied by a Senate Committee due to probe the whole subject of its powers and activities.

Before it now is a motion that a special committee examine the provisions and workings of the Income War Tax Act and the Excess Profits Tax Act, a possible forerunner—if suggestions are met—to similar roles that would draw upon the wide experience and capacities of its members.

Five of Crew Of German U-Boat Tried at Hamburg

Hamburg, Oct. 18—(AP)—Five members of a German submarine crew went on trial before an Allied military court today on changes of killing survivors of a freighter they sank in the South Atlantic in March, 1944.

The defendants include Heinz Ecks, captain of the submarine U-852, a lieutenant and three crewmen. Other members of the crew are scheduled to testify against Ecks, who sank the freighter Peleus and, it is charged, killed seven British, two Greek and two Chinese survivors.

All the defendants pleaded innocent.

The Peleus, a Greek ship chartered by the British Ministry of Transport, was hit by two torpedoes and sank in a few minutes, but the majority of the crew got on rafts or wreckage.

The prosecution charges that the U-boat crew then fired machine-guns, threw grenades at the survivors, killing all except three men, who were picked up after spending 36 days on a raft.

Affidavits from these survivors state that the crew members had no opportunity of saving themselves.

The prosecution contends that the log of the U-852 describes the sinking of a freighter March 13, 1944, in a position similar to that at which the Peleus went down.

NEW WORLDS CHAMP

Montreal, Oct. 18 — (CP) — Bobby Managoff retained the World's Heavyweight Wrestling Crown before an approximate crowd of 15.000 here last night when he felled Felix Miquet, Champion of France, with a series of flying kicks that knocked the brawny parisian unconscious shortly after the second round had started.

Miquet failed to return to the ring and it was learned after the match that he was suffering from concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries.

Married, Arrested Jailed all in Space of 2 Hours

Kansas City, Kans., Oct. 18 — (AP)—William Lon Daniel was married, arrested as he walked down the steps of the church, found guilty of contempt of court and committed to jail yesterday all in the space of two hours.

The bridegroom spent the first night of his honeymoon behind bars because, ruled Judge Clark Turcker, Daniel had failed to comply with an order to pay $25 a month to support his 14-year-old daughter by a previous marriage.

Daniel's only hope of an early return to his bride, the former Mary Norton, was to pay $75, the amount the court said he was in arrears, and to put up a $1,000 bond to guarantee future payment.

The bridegroom's request that the wedding party keep an appointment with a photographer was granted, and the trip to court was delayed while the sheriff's deputies accompanied the group to the studio.

Then the wedding party adjourned to the court room to wait while Daniel was taken into the judge's private office.

When Daniel admitted that the wedding had cost him $20, besides hiring an organist, the judge promptly pronounced him "guilty of contempt of court."

Hon. C.P. McTague Appointed Securities Commissioner

Toronto, Oct. 18 —(CP)— Appointment of Hon. Charles P. McTague as chairman of the 16-year-old Ontario Securities Commission today foreshadowed legislation officially described as designed to guard against fraud in sale of securities, without imposing restraints on "legitimate speculative investment."

In announcing appointment of the 55-year-old, former Ontario Supreme Court justice to fill a position vacant since the death last winter of W. A. Brant, Premier Drew last night also promised proclamation soon of a new securities act—"the best yet drafted." Introduced in the last legislature, the new act would be proclaimed when final details were completed by Mr. McTague and Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell.

The Premier's announcement, asserting the government is determined to ensure "proper" trading practices, recalled verbal exchanges last June between the Premier and United States officials over promotion methods allegedly used by some Canadian Gold Mining Companies.

At that time, Attorney-General Nathaniel Goldstein of New York State was critical of "high-pressure methods" he said were being used to "fatten the pocket-books of promoters." In rebuttal Premier Drew said the Ontario Government believed speculative investment was in Ontario's best interests, and added that the new securities act would become law as soon as possible.

Last night the Premier said the new act was formulated after extended inquiry by a commission under Norman Urquhart of Toronto. It represented the opinions of that commission, the government and organizations interested in securities.

Mr. McTague, former National chairman of the Progressive Conservative Party who held previous wartime jobs as chairman of the National War Labor Board and of the war-contracts depreciation board, was born in Guelph, Ont., and was educated at Guelph, and at the University of Toronto.

Says Australia's Strength Depends On British Empire

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 18 (CP Cable)—Australia is in danger of being ringed by a number of communist republics, Robert Menzies, parliamentary opposition leader and former Australian Prime Minister, told the Liberal party's annual convention here Monday.

Mr. Menzies did not identify the communist republics.

He urged Australians to realize that the strength of the Dominion depended on the unity and strength of the British Empire, the continued existence of which, he said, was vital to the peace and security of the world.

Mr. Menzies said a conference of British countries should be held. At it, Australian's commercial, agricultural, export and import policies should be considered in the light of how Britain was to continue to be a strong centre of a strong empire.

Pearson Elected To Championship

Quebec, Oct. 18 (CP)— L. B. Pearson, Canadian Ambassador to Washington, was elected chairman of the Food and Agriculture Conference at the second plenary meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Pearson was chairman of the interim commission on food sed up at the United National Food Conference in Hot Springs, Va., early in 1943 and directed preparation of the constitution of E.A.O. He has been temporary chairman of the conference here.

United States Secretary for Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, chairman of the nominating committee, paid an unusual tribute to Mr. Pearson when he interrupted the latter's brief acceptance of the honor as an honor to Canada and the interim commission rather than to himself personally.

"I cannot permit the chairman to so lightly pass over the honor that has been paid him," he said. "The committee was unanimous in choosing him and no other name or suggestion entered their minds. In honoring Mr. Pearson the conference is honoring itself."

China and Mexico were elected to name vice-chairmen and a vice-chairman's vacancy was left, presumably to be filled by Russia when and if that country signs the constitution.

As well as being conference chairman Mr. Pearson will be chairman of the general committee.

Russia Signs Credit Agreement With United States

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP) — Russia has signed a credit agreement with the United States for $350,000,000 to $400,000,000 worth of lend-lease goods, delivery of which was halted on V-J Day.

It was learned Wednesday that terms of the contract call for Russia to pay for the goods in 30 years at 2 3-8 per cent interest with the first payment beginning nine years hence.

Similar credit arrangements have been offered to all other former lend-lease recipients to finance purchase of goods on contract when lend lease ended.

British and American officials currently conferring in Washington are expected to reach an agreement on British lend-lease goods within the next two weeks.

Welland, Oct. 18 —(CP)— The fifth game of the Ontario Baseball Association Senior finals will be played at Burgar Park in Welland at 3 p.m., on Saturday, the executive of the Welland Atlas Baseball Club decided here today. If a sixth game is necessary, it will be played in London at a date not announced yet. London leads the best-of-seven series, three games to one.

MEETING TO BE HELD

Kitchener, Oct. 18 — (CP) — Secretary James McLeod of the Ontario Volleyball Association today announced that the association's annual meeting would be held at the Central Y. M. C. A. in Toronto on Saturday, Oct. 20.

HUSBAND SEEKS DIVORCE FROM WIFE HE ADOPTED

Elizabeth, N.J., Oct. 18 (AP)—A 72-year-old awning manufacturer has filed suit for divorce against his second wife, whom he adopted when she was nine years old and married when she was 15.

August N. Laggren, of Plainfield, N. J., charged Mrs. Alice A. Laggren, 35, with desertion and infidelity in a divorce petition entered yesterday.

The couple has two sons, 19 and 16, respectively.

Hoarding, Panic Buying Blamed

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP)—Hoarding and panic buying were blamed Wednesday by major soap manufacturers as the chief causes of the current flake and laundry soap shortage and F. H. Lehberg, Prices Board oils and fats administrator, added the problem is one of consumer co-operation rather than supply.

There have been progressive increases annually in soap production since 1938 Mr. Lehberg said.

NEW YORK GIANTS NOT INTERESTED IN MARTY MARION

Have Fine Shortstop in John Rigney Coming Up From the Navy

By JOE REICHLER

New York, Oct. 18 — (AP) — Unlike most major league club owners who would like to have the services of Marty Marion, termed the "Mr. Shortstop" of baseball, President Horace Stoneham of New York Giants is not interested in the St. Louis Cardinals' star.

"I believe we are going to come up with a shortstop who in a few years will be every bit as good as Marion," Stoneham said. "His name is John Rigney and we obtained him from Oakland of the Pacific Coast League in the deal that sent Dolf Camilli to manage the Oaks in 1944.

"Reports from Hawaii and the Pacific isles where Rigney has participated in the Army Navy exhibitions all agree that Rigney can step into the lineup of almost any big league team right now."

Rigney, 22 years old and bespectacled, spent the last two of his four years in organized baseball, with Oakland. Although not rated an exceedingly strong hitter, he amassed a .288 batting percentage via 184 base hits in his last year before enlisting. The figure was 80 points over his 1941 mark of .208.

It was his fielding style that won praise and led to his purchase by the Giants. Veteran Coast League scouts averred they had not seen anyone field the position with such sureness and grace since Joe Gordon cavorted at short for the Oaks some dozen years ago. In 2 years, Rigney accepted 1,693 chances, about 850 per season. They claimed he owned a stronger throwing arm than either Frankie Crosetti or Oscar Slade, who wowed them with rifle throws some years back.

Stoneham figures that with Johnny Mize at first, Rigney at short, Buddy Kerr at third and Mickey Witek back at second plus a strong outfield headed by manager Mel Ott, Babe Young and Willard Marshall, all the Giants need to be in the running for the 1946 pennant are two top-flight pitchers and a dependable catcher.

JACOBS WON'T LET CONN FIGHT UNTIL MEETING LOUIS

Also Holding "Auction" as to Where $3,000,000 Taffy-Pull Will be Held

By SID FEDER

New York, Oct. 18 — (AP) — Mike Jacobs is a New Jersey tulip grower with an ambidextrous ability as a fight promoter. And today he was busy with both hands.

With one, he was shoving a pen into Billy Conn's famous fist trying to get the Pittsburgh boy to forget his "beefs" and sign on the dotted line for a return go with Joe Louis. With the other, Mike was holding an "auction" over the site of the Louis - Conn bout.

Mike says the $3,000,000 taffy-pull next June will go to the place where "we'll get the most money." But best bet was the tussle wouldn't be at Yankee Stadium here when post-time rolls around.

The only thing standing in the way, according to the knowing was the five per cent "bite" New York State puts on fight movies. Other states, with stiff tariffs, were said to be willing to ease off in order to land the fight. So, it was considered likely New York would throw a big pitch to hang onto it. New York still remembers the howl that went up when the Dempsey - Tunney doings went to Philadelphia. And Mike still has to do business in this village after the Louis-Conn festivities.

As for getting Conn to sign up for the fuss, Mike had a session lined up today with the legal member of Billy's fistic family, as a follow-up to the hour - long party he had with Billy's manager, Johnny Ray, yesterday.

Johnny's chief objection was to the clause that said Conn could not have exhibition or tune - up appearances before the big beak-busting party.

Sports Roundup

(By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.)

New York, Oct. 18. (AP)—Basketball seems to be on its way toward becoming the United States' National game—at least in winter—if the southern colleges only move into the big time. . . New England, mostly a blank on the basketball map up to the last winter, is looking for a big season with Boston College returning to action after a 20-year lapse, Holy Cross definitely on the big time and Rhode Island State moving to the Boston Garden doubleheaders. . . Bill Mokray, Boston basketball boss, hopes to make up for last season's $11,000 loss by putting at least one New England team in every game. . . Harvard and Yale won't be on those bills.

Bob Nose Best.

After Bob Deuber, U. of Penn. back, busted his nose running into teammate Bob Evans in last week's North Carolina game, the coaches fearfully asked Deuber how he felt . . . "Oh, I'm fine," Bob replied. "This has fixed me up just right. I can breathe as well as before I broke my nose the first time".

Sports Before Your Eyes.

When Bob Burke, former University of Washington footballer, fumbled in a big game at Prague, Czechoslovakia, he posted a notice that he would pay every man on the United States 94th Division squad a buck the next time he dropped the ball in a game. Bob even carries a football to chow now to cure the fumbling habit. . . . The American Bowling Congress has granted dates to 3,274 out-of-town teams for the 1946 tourney at Buffalo.

Chips Off The Sports Block

By GEORGE H. CARVER

The piping days of sports peace are rapidly coming into their own. From all parts of the world and Canada and the U. S. A. in particular the old familiar names are creeping back into sport pages. The latest despatch, that will bring memories to the leather-pushing fans is that Billy Conn refused to sign a contract to fight Joe Louis next June. Johnny Ray, the Conn mentor objected to a clause that stipulates that Conn could not engage in tuneup bouts or exhibitions without the exhibitions of Promoter Mike Jacobs . . . Ray stated he wanted Conn to have three preliminary fights. Did somebody say Hitler was dead?

The billing and cooing of the peace doves of sport are heard on all sides . . . Lieut. Syl Apps is rejoining the Maple Leafs hockey squad at Owen Sound, and that might rob Dick Irwin's probable boast that Les Canadiens are the "greatest team of all time" . . . In any event the big Apps will be a welcome addition to Conny Smythe's team, if he can find suitable wings to flank the Oakville flash . . . Schmidt, Bauer and Dumart are rejoining the Boston Bruins as a complete forward line . . . Greenberg is on third . . . Joe Dimaggio is expected to rejoin the Yanks . . . The old familiar names are beginning to be heard and it won't belong before all the gang who joined the greatest teams of all time will be back in familiar environment . . .

Take It Easy, Pop.

If you hear sounds of anguish, agony and pain, interspersed with creaking noises emanating from the YMCA next Monday eventide, don't be alarmed. Murder and mayhem is not permitted in that institution, so don't get panicky and call the arms of the law. It will merely be the opening session of the Business Men's Volleyball League which open at the Y on Monday and will continue every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, until the last tummy is worn down to its proper level.

There will be expert coaches available and all sorts of medical apparatus. There is a talk of a newfangled contraption shaped something like a bicycle pump which guarantees to restore wind to deflated grandpops in thirty seconds flat. It is stated that the course is so good that seamstresses will be on hand to take up the slack in shorts that almost overnight become three sizes too large for the wearers . . . Crutches will be parked at the door and there is special accommodation for wheel chairs . . . Seriously these winter classes have proven popular in the past and no doubt a lot of business men of the city will welcome the inauguration of the 1945-46 classes . . . There are showers, towels etc. but the old boys will have to wait till they get home to sink the alley in the 19th hole . . . Save a vacancy for me, Ed . . .

Away to the Football Wars

Big Vernon Goyer, who tips the scales at 226 pounds leaves for Toronto on Monday where he will join the Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four. Goyer is an inside lineman and should prove a tower of strength to the Queen City pigskinners. Goyer won't be in strange company for at present on the Argos line-up are Levantis, Ascott and Reid, all former playing pals of Goyer with the strong Halifax Navy squad of last year. The youngster who is barely 20 got word from Argonauts' headquarters yesterday to report at the Varsity Stadium next Monday night at 6:45 for practice under the lights. Vernon is no sapling and we imagine when his 226 lbs. of beef hits something — well, it should stay hit.

Splinters

So you think Johnny Bull does not like to bet his tuppence 'apennies on ole Dobbin over 'ome . . . At the running of the famous Cesarawith classic at Newmarket, England, the other day, the 'Arries and 'Arriets, as well as M'lawd and lady, bet approximately four and one-half million dollars on the race . . . Incidentally, the tough 2 1/4 mile handicap race was won by Kerry Piper, a 25 - 1 shot who, carrying 113 pounds beat Lady Crusader by a scant nose . . . Walt Gerow Jr., arrived home from the hockey training wars yesterday for a brief period before going on to Tulsa, Oklahoma, where he will join the Oilers hockey squad of that city under Manager Gus Marker . . . . . Looks as though the Van Horne series as far as Belleville is concerned will get the go-by . . . . . None of the managerial fraternity in the city seem to want to have anything to do with the scheme, saying a team of sufficient quality could not be organized here, lack of equipment, finances etc. ... So it looks like curtains for the idea, unless something of a last-minute nature occurs . . . St. Louis Cardinals, of the National League will operate the Sherbrooke entry in the Canadian - American League next year . . . Representatives of the Cards signed an agreement with the City Council of the eastern city the other day to rent the municipal stadium for two years, with an option for 3 more years . . . Belleville Juniors and Batawa clash in their first game of the City and District Baseball League finals here on Saturday, Secretary Ernie Summers announced today . . . . . The series will be the best two-of-3 for the title . . . Grapevine has it that Frank "Smokey" Smith, sensational Thornbury southpaw who practically won the intermediate "A" baseball title for his team against Batawa this year single-handed, will locate not too many miles from the city next year . . .

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN HARVEY

Toronto, Oct. 18 (CP)— Horse racing seems destined to go big-time next year on Canada's west coast.

No definite plans have been announced, but it can be taken for granted that the purchase of two Vancouver race tracks by United States interests will mean a reorganization of racing in the British Columbia city.

Already there are hints, via Tom (Calgary Albertan) Moore, that Canada's first "tote" board will be installed at an early date.

"Substantial improvements to mutuel rooms, stabling, grandstand and landscaping are being planned," adds Moore.

The company which purchased Lansdowne and Brighouse Park in suburban Vancouver and also bought a downtown Vancouver building for a total of $750,000 is the recently-incorporated British Columbia Turf and Country Club. Executive members include Bing Crosby, movie star Pat O'Brien and Charles Howard of San Francisco, owner of Seabiscuit.

Canadian racing can stand the influence of these sportsmen, apart from the prestige they bring to the conduct of the sport on the coast, it's a safe bet they'll be responsible for progressive management of turf affairs — something often lacking on this side of the international boundary.

Crowds are so easy to attract to horse parks that turf officials often become complacent and permit the quality of sport to deteriorate through inadequate supervision and niggardly financial policies.

What enterprising officials can do for racing has been demonstrated at Dufferin Park in Toronto, once scorned by larger tracks in the area. Behind vigorous management by the Metropolitan Racing Association, Dufferin's half-mile oval became — and still is—one of the most popular in Canada.

The immediate effect of the new Vancouver management probably will be felt soonest on the "leaky roof" Prairie circuit, says Moore.

"Unless the Prairie group of half-mile 'dog' tracks start a program of betterment of racing conditions and purses, they won't have enough horses to stage their meets."

N.H.L. Training Notes

By the Canadian Press

In their first public appearance since returning from the wars, the Kraut Line—Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woodrow (Porky) Dumart—teamed last night in an exhibition game as Boston Bruins defeated their farm team, Boston Olympics, 7-3. Naturally, the threesome who were linemates and buddies with Boston teams from 1938 to 1942 scored the first goal on a play between Bauer and Schmidt. Terry Reardon and Babs Babendo were scoring stars for the Bruins with two goals each, while Babendo also counted an assist. Bill Cowley, smooth-passing centre of the Bruins, was back in his usual form and served up assists on three plays.

"What are we going to do with Syl Apps?"

That question sounds silly on the surface of things but it is credited to so astute a hockey authority as Maj. Conny Smthye, who is superintending a surplus of talent at the Toronto Maple Leaf training camp in Owen Sound, Ont.

The whisper is out that Apps, when and if he gets back from the army, may be fitted into a left wing berth to make room for star centres like Billy Taylor, Gus Bodnar, Pete Langelle and Ted Kennedy. Apps, one of hockey's great individualists, played the left boards in his college days.

Herbie Cain, one-time "trigger man" for pass Master Bill Cowley with Boston Bruins, may be traded to Montreal Canadiens in exchange for two unspecified Montreal players. At least, that's the current word at the Boston camp in Quebec.

At practice sessions at Winnipeg yesterday New York Rangers began to show some semblance of the team that should represent the gothamites in N. H. L. competition this season.

Coach Frank Boucher said last night he has chosen the players to dress for tonight's engagement with Chicago Black Hawks.

Lineups for their first exhibition appearance seem to have a distinct western flavor with 11 of the 18 choices hailing from homes in Western Canada. Forwards include Ab Demarco, North Bay.

Checks were heavy and tempers became frayed yesterday as Toronto Maple Leafs "poured it on" in two vigorous drills at Owen Sound for their National Hockey League opener at home Oct. 27 against Boston Bruins. No quarter was asked and none given. Lorne Carr suffered a cut below his lower lip which required three stitches and goalie Gordie Bell strained a tendon in his right leg. Horace (Bud) Lamarche replaced Bell.

Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, with Coach Johnny Gottselig at the helm, broke training camp at Regina yesterday and prepared to leave for Winnipeg, where they will meet New York Rangers in exhibition games today and Saturday before opening the N. H. L. schedule at Boston against Bruins Oct. 24.

Officials of Detroit Red Wings are a bit perturbed about club strength "down the middle." Joe Carveth, rookie Jim Conacher, Murray Armstrong and veteran Syd Howe are current candidates for centre posts, but owner James Norris says things would be vastly different if Wings had reliable Sid Abel. Captain of Detroit's 1943 Stanley Cup team, Abel now is in England with the R. C. A. F.

Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers, says there is reason to believe Mac Colville will be able to join Rangers within 30 days—either through a discharge from the army in which Colville is a private, or through six-month leave of absence. Colville passed through Winnipeg yesterday on a troop train bound for Edmonton.

LESSON NO. 809

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

Whenever declarer is out on a limb, it doesn't take much to put him in Dutch. Of plays that defenders employ against him, a clever unblock can hand him a sock.

See what happens in this deal:

South became declarer at a three no-trump contract after his side bid hearts, diamonds, and clubs. West led a spade, the only unbid suit.

East took the first two spade tricks and forced south to win the third spade with the ace. To make the contract, declarer must try to establish dummy diamonds by losing one trick in it.

His hope is that the weak spade opponent will win the second diamond round. So he took a trick with diamond ace and led the small south diamond toward dummy.

If west played the queen on the second diamond round, declarer intended to let that trick go. After that, dummy would be entered with the heart ace to take remaining diamonds.

But west was too quick on the trigger. He realized the need for east to get the lead in order to take more spade tricks. So, on the diamond ace, west promptly dropped the queen and got out of the way.

Then, when declarer led the small diamond from south, declarer's plan was spoiled. Diamonds must be abandoned, or east is in. You must have sense for good defence.

The wisdom of such an unblocking play is not always apparent in time. But in this case, a look at the dummy gave west his clue to what may be expected of him.

He could see that his queen would be picked up on the second round of diamonds. So, there was really nothing to gain by holding onto it. The problem was only in realizing that soon enough.

Defenders are alert to do declarer dirt.

10 Minor Leagues Prepare to Resume Play Next Season

(By The Canadian Press)

With 10 minor leagues already returned to the active list and 10 more preparing to resume operations next Spring, organized baseball looks for the greatest expansion since the booming days of the 1920s. One determining factor has been the record attendance at major league and World Series games but another development has been the return of many servicemen to the diamond and there may be embarrassing situations for club owners when all players return to the active rosters.

The National Association of minor league recently revealed that 3,784 players were on the National Defence Service list while another 874 had voluntarily retired for war-plant jobs. One American Association Club will have more than 100 players for its 1946 team.

Beau Jack, the Georgia bootblack, yesterday challenged the winner of the rubber fight at New York Nov. 9 between Johnny Greco of Montreal and Tony Janiro of Akron. The challenge go has been tentatively set for Dec. 14 at Madison Square Garden.

Philadelphia Phillies gave first-baseman Jimmy Foxx and Catcher Gus Mancuso their unconditional release, which they had requested. The Veteran Foxx is entering private business in Boston.

Before 50,000 spectators in Hindenburg stadium at Hannover, Germany, yesterday, a combined soccer team representing the British military forces defeated Glasgow Rangers, Scottish champions, 6-1.

Charlie (Casey) Stengel, old-time player and former major-league manager, isn't doing top badly for himself. Yesterday he signed a $12,000 contract to manage the Oakland team of the Pacific Coast League in 1946.

According to pro golfers association statistics released yesterday at Chicago, Byron Nelson of Toledo has collected $62,000 in prize money since the winter tournaments started a year ago and has figured as a cash winner in the 101 competitions in which he has been a starter.

Harrow Defeats Thornbury 6-4 To Win Title

Thornbury, Oct. 18. (CP) — Harrow yesterday won the Ontario Baseball Association intermediate B title by defeating Thornbury 6-4 in the second game of a home-and-home series. Harrow won the first game 2-1.

About 1,500 fans saw both teams fall apart at the seams. Fifteen misplays were committed afield, nine by Thornbury, and only one run was earned.

Harrow practically sealed the verdict in the second inning by scoring four runs after the first three batters reached first base safely through errors and a fielder's choice. Two stole home and two more crossed the plate on successive hits.

Chase started for Harrow but was taken out in the seventh after Thornbury loaded the bases. Gordon Wright relieved him and retired the side after two runs scored.

Leslie Smith pitched for the losers, striking out 11 batters to boost his total for the last five games to 89.
